OFFICIAL MANUAL
STATE of MISSOURI

ROBIN CARNAHAN
SECRETARY of STATE

Ryan Hobart, Editor

Authority for publication: Compilation and distribution of the Missouri Manual is under the direction of the secretary of state authorized in the following manner: Revised Statutes of Missouri, 2000, Section 11.020.

11.020. State Manual—contents—electronic distribution.—The secretary of state shall biennially, as soon as practicable after the organization of each general assembly, prepare and electronically publish the Missouri manual, to contain historical, official, political, statistical and other information in regard to the national and state governments, such as is found in the manuals of 1907 and 1908. The manual shall be accessible via the official website of the secretary of state.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE
JEFFERSON CITY 65101

Dear Fellow Missourians,

I am pleased to present you with the 2011–2012 Official Manual of the State of Missouri. For the first time, this year's "Blue Book" will be available solely online in an electronic format. This change complies with the Missouri Legislature's decision to discontinue publication of a hardcover version of the Blue Book.

In preparing this "electronic Blue Book," we not only provide Missourians with the same valuable information about our local, state and federal governments that they have come to expect, but we do so in an easy to use, printer-friendly format that can be easily downloaded onto any computer. In addition, just as we have done in the past, this electronic Blue Book includes historical essays and pictures that help preserve our state's heritage and remind us of our shared history.

One thing I'm always struck by when reading about events in Missouri history is how our state and our people have, over and over again, been tested…and persevered in the most trying times. Rebuilding communities after the brutal clashes of the Civil War, fighting to hold on to the family farm during the great depression — time and again, Missourians find ways to endure and grow stronger.

Over the past year, we have seen that same spirit of resilience across the state. During the summer of 2011, parts of the City of Joplin were struck by one of the most devastating tornados in American history. St. Louis County also sustained serious tornado damage, and northwest and southeast Missouri experienced pervasive flooding. Almost every Missourian knows someone who suffered through these hardships. But it is the reaction of our people in the face of adversity that really shows what Missourians are made of…because within hours our people pitched in to help. They helped by volunteering, collecting donations of food, clothing and housing, and contributed countless other selfless acts to lend a hand to a neighbor in need.

One image that particularly stands out is that of a Joplin police officer carrying a young girl out of the tornado wreckage. When asked by the Joplin Globe about what was going through his mind, the officer said, "You just do what you know has to be done."

Just doing what has to be done…those words of perseverance are worth remembering as we all look for ways to continue rebuilding our communities and helping our neighbors in need.

Very truly yours,

Robin Carnahan

The Great Missouri Treasure Hunt

From June to October 2011, the Missouri State Archives held its largest outreach program ever, a contest to find Missouri's greatest historical treasures. The Great Missouri Treasure Hunt was designed to not only promote the collections of the Archives, but the rich resources found in historical records repositories statewide and even in the attics of everyday Missourians. The contest invited participants to submit stories, photographs, videos, and document scans sharing what they discovered about their own family or community through the state's historical records.

Contest entries were accepted in three categories: Family History, Missouri History and Civil War History, in recognition of the war's sesquicentennial. Any photographs submitted were also eligible for selection as the "Best Photograph," and any discovery that was personally significant was considered a treasure. For example, some contestants discovered death certificates that revealed a missing link in their family tree. Others utilized Union provost marshal records to learn how the Civil War impacted their community. One participant was able to verify the circumstances of an ancestor's untimely death after he had tried to remain neutral during the Civil War but was unable to do so. Another located the school where a female slave from which she had descended received an education contrary to state law.

Many Missourians entered personal family documents, such as old photographs, maps, or letters that had been passed down from generation to generation. One family heirloom was a letter from President Abraham Lincoln to Missouri Governor Thomas Clement Fletcher, dated February 20, 1865, discussing the violent divisions in Missouri and the state's guerrilla warfare. Another Missouri treasure passed down through a family was the pen used by the last lieutenant governor of Upper Louisiana to sign the document transferring the land from Spain to France and then to the United States in the Louisiana Purchase.

Finalists were selected from the wealth of entries by a committee of staff members, but the public was the final judge. Individuals from across the nation and four other countries voted online for their favorites. In the end, four Missourians walked away with a veritable treasure trove of prizes donated by history-minded businesses and non-profit organizations. Some of the prizes included a hotel stay near the Family History Library in Salt Lake City, a family portrait session using Civil War-era tintype photography, numerous books on Missouri history, digitization of old home movies, and records preservation supplies. In addition, all of their stories are being included in this edition of the State of Missouri's Official Manual for all readers to enjoy. Hopefully, Missourians will read about the winners and their discoveries and become inspired to make some discoveries of their own.

St. Louis Riverfront Maps

Jan Wenk
Crestwood, Missouri

I found my "treasure" at the Missouri History Museum. It was a display, consisting of three black and white pictorial maps, depicting the St. Louis riverfront with a full line-up of steamboats at the riverbank. I examined the details of the pictorial, hoping to someday identify a steamboat on which my steamboat engineer ancestor had been employed. In September 2010, I discovered an article in the New York Times entitled, "The Loss of the Ocean Spray." My great-great-grandfather's uncle, Stephen Spargo, was mentioned in the article; the accident occurred north of the St. Louis riverfront.

The Missouri Daily Democrat and Missouri Republican newspapers reported two weeks' worth of daily articles about the steamboat accident. The accident was a major disaster, destroying three steamboats and causing the loss of 23 lives. The accident began about five miles north of the St. Louis Riverfront, between Bissell's Point and Sawyers Bend. The Ocean Spray was built in 1857. On Thursday, April 22, 1858, the Ocean Spray and the Hannibal City departed the port of St. Louis shortly after 4:00 p.m. intending to race one another up the Mississippi to Alton. This had generated a great deal of excitement among the passengers of the two boats. A barrel of turpentine spilled on the Ocean Spray, near the furnaces, and ignited. The Ocean Spray, engulfed in flames, turned toward the shoreline to enable passengers to escape. The side-wheel continued to turn, pivoting the Ocean Spray toward the docked Keokuk, and igniting it. Later that night, hot timbers from the burned steamboats drifted downriver to St. Louis and lodged next to the Star of the West, which also caught fire and was destroyed.

The magnitude of the accident, extensive newspaper accounts and the high loss of life resulted in both an investigation and charges of manslaughter filed against the officers of the Ocean Spray. Captain Waldo Marsh was held to bail for the sum of $4,000, and the engineer and mate in the sum of $2,000 each. My great-great grandfather, William J. Spargo, had his steamboat engineer's license revoked, following the investigation. Two court cases were heard in the Federal Courts in St. Louis and another case was heard in the District Court of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. The Court Record Book states: U.S. District Attorney declined to prosecute the defendant Captain Waldo Marsh further (dated April 29, 1859); sentenced Daniel Davis, the Mate, to one year hard labor at the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City, Mo., (dated May 4, 1859); and found William Spargo indebted to the court for $250.

I had finally found the name of a steamboat on which my great-great grandfather was employed as the Second Engineer. I also found the large pictorial map titled, "Bird's Eye view of St. Louis Mo, (1858)" reproduced in the book, Cities of the Mississippi, Nineteenth-Century Images of Urban Development, with one of the steamboats identified as the Ocean Spray.

Grandpa's Farmall F-20 Tractor

Barbara Placht
New Haven, Missouri

My grandpa, George Brinkmann, purchased a Farmall F-20 tractor in July of 1937 to replace his team of mules on the family farm in rural Franklin County. By 1938, he had constructed a mechanical dozer attachment for this tractor, using Model T truck parts. He used it to build terraces and help with the conservation of farm ground after the effects of the Dust Bowl of 1935. Word of his ingenuity spread quickly, and the tractor not only helped other farmers in the local area, it was featured in the 1974 Missouri Conservation magazine and the 1975 Missourian Gazette newspaper. My brother, Rich Brinkmann, knew the history behind grandpa's tractor, as it lay partially buried on the family farm. He saw a photograph of Grandpa and the tractor on display at the Missouri State Capitol when he was on a school field trip back in grade school.

Many years later, he asked permission from our uncle, Jim Brinkmann, to see if he could restore this part of our family history. Rich dug the tractor out of the ground, weeds, and trees that had grown up through it. He incorporated the help of other family members and painstakingly resurrected the tractor. Along this journey, family members found original owner's manuals, a warranty card that was completely filled out but never sent in, instruction manuals, and photos of this historic tractor and other farm implements that still remain by its side. In less than a year's time, the tractor went from an immobile pile of rusted metal in December of 2008 to a fully functioning piece of farm equipment. It was displayed in the Washington Town and Country Fair parade in 2010, and became the feature tractor at the 49th Annual Rosebud Thresher's Show in 2011.

The tractor brought out an immense amount of family pride, as many members walked alongside the tractor in the parade and showed their support for my brother's efforts with T-shirts that proudly claimed that the tractor was "In Our Blood Since 1937."

IMPORTANT

The owner will aid in rendering prompt and efficient service, by a careful observance of the following:

1—When ordering parts, give the Tractor Serial Number.

2—Write the part number wanted exactly as shown in parts list.

3—All orders should be sent to the Dealer or the Branch House in charge of territory.

4—Give definite shipping instructions. When ordering by telegraph, prepay, and give correct address.

So that you may have it before you, write both the Tractor and Engine Serial numbers here:

Tractor Serial No. FA91443

Engine No FA91443
(Stamped on side of engine crankcase)

Civil War History

Union Army Private Fredrick Buehrle

Jefferson City, Missouri

In the old City Cemetery in Jefferson City, on the high ground, rests Missouri's first ex-Confederate Governor, John Sappington Marmaduke. He was a Confederate Major General and son of Governor Miles Marmaduke. He was from one of Missouri's finest families. Far down the hill from where the governor's pink granite obelisk stands, is the grave of a Union Army private named Fredrick Buehrle. He was my great-grand uncle. In Jefferson City history these men share one thing in common. They had the largest military funerals in the city's history. Thus, a common foot soldier was remembered with the same dignity as the socially elite leader of the state.

I learned about this ancestor's great civil war adventure in 1996 when he was featured in an old cemetery tour and brochure. He was a German emigrant who became a naturalized citizen here in 1859. In the spring of 1861 he got on the steamboat Thomas E. Todd and enlisted in St. Louis in the Fifth Missouri Volunteer Infantry. He would march to the battles of Carthage and Wilson's Creek with Franz Sigel. His enlistment was for three months. He was wounded at Wilson's Creek, but survived, lived a long life and died in 1915. Governor Marmaduke died in office in December 1887, so one can understand how his military funeral was the largest in Jefferson City's history.

However, how can one explain that the second largest military funeral in Jefferson City held in honor a veteran of the Civil War was for the Union Army private, Fredrick Buehrle? After the Civil War "Colonel Buehrle" (honorary title) was well known as a door opener for the Missouri House of Representatives and articles on his life and war experiences appeared in local paper and the Kansas City Star and St. Louis Globe-Democrat. He and my great-grandfather, Wendell, also fired the ceremonial cannon salutes at the Missouri State Capitol on patriotic occasions. And finally, he died as the result of getting wet while marching in the parade at the Grand Army of the Republic convention in Kansas City on March 15, 1915.

His funeral was well attended by GAR members and friends from all over the state. They marched right down High Street and a photographer captured the moment. Did Buehrle and Marmaduke meet on the field of battle at Wilson's Creek? No, Marmaduke went east to Richmond, Virginia in 1861. After the Battle of Boonville Marmaduke became dissatisfied with the leadership of General Sterling Price and sought the advice of Confederate President Jefferson Davis, a fellow West Point graduate. But, they both were wounded in intensely fought battles: Marmaduke at Shiloh in Tennessee; Buehrle at Wilson's Creek in Missouri. So, the Civil War treasures I share with you today are two old photographs and this story that remembers a bit of family history from our Civil War past in Jefferson City, Missouri.

The Nichols House

Kimberly Ponder
Columbia, Missouri

An historic snapshot of a turn of the century home in Ashland, Missouri helped Kimberly Ponder (Columbia, Missouri) claim the title of winner of Best Photograph. Historic accounts note that the once proud home served as a hotel and a boarding house for young teachers in the community. One of the rooms in the home was even used to manufacture brooms. The house has long since been demolished, but the photograph captures the simple rural elegance of the stately home, complete with a grass-roofed outbuilding used for drying tobacco, a reminder of the area's once most lucrative cash crop.

Symbols of the State of Missouri

The Great Seal of Missouri

The Great Seal was designed by Judge Robert William Wells and adopted by the Missouri General Assembly on January 11, 1822. The center of the state seal is composed of two parts. On the right is the United States coat-of-arms containing the bald eagle. In its claws are arrows and olive branches, signifying that the power of war and peace lies with the U.S. federal government. On the left side of the shield, the state side, are a grizzly bear and a silver crescent moon. The crescent symbolizes Missouri at the time of the state seal's creation, a state of small population and wealth which would increase like the new or crescent moon; it also symbolizes the "second son," meaning Missouri was the second state formed out of the Louisiana Territory.

This shield is encircled by a belt inscribed with the motto, "United we stand, divided we fall," which indicates Missouri's advantage as a member of the United States. The two grizzlies on either side of the shield symbolize the state's strength and its citizens' bravery. The bears stand atop a scroll bearing the state motto, "Salus Populi Suprema Lex Esto," which means, "The welfare of the people shall be the supreme law." Below this scroll are the Roman numerals for 1820, the year Missouri began its functions as a state.

The helmet above the shield represents state sovereignty, and the large star atop the helmet surrounded by 23 smaller stars signifies Missouri's status as the 24th state. The cloud around the large star indicates the problems Missouri had in becoming a state. The whole state seal is enclosed by a scroll bearing the words, "The Great Seal of the State of Missouri." (RSMo 10.060)

The State Flag

Nearly 100 years after achieving statehood, Missouri adopted an official flag on March 22, 1913. The flag was designed by the late Mrs. Marie Elizabeth Watkins Oliver, wife of former State Senator R.B. Oliver. The flag consists of three horizontal stripes of red, white and blue. These represent valor, purity, vigilance and justice. In the center white stripe is the Missouri coat-of-arms, circled by a blue band containing 24 stars, denoting that Missouri was the 24th state. The Oliver flag embraced national pride, and at the same time expressed characteristics of Missouri and Missourians.

The three large stripes were symbolic of the people of the state—the blue stripe represented vigilance, permanency, and justice, the red represented valor, and the white stripe symbolized purity. The Missouri coat-of-arms appeared in the center of the flag, signifying both Missouri's independence as a state, and its place as a part of the whole United States. Having the coat-of-arms in the center of the national colors represents Missouri, as it is—the geographical center of the nation. By mingling the state coat-of-arms with the national colors of red, white, and blue, the flag signified the harmony existing between the two. Twenty-four stars surrounded the coat-of-arms, representative of Missouri's position as the 24th state admitted to the Union. (RSMo 10.020)

Missouri Day

On March 22, 1915, the 48th General Assembly set aside the first Monday in October each year as "Missouri Day," due to the efforts of Mrs. Anna Brosius Korn, a native Missourian. In 1969, the 75th General Assembly changed the date to the third Wednesday in October. Missouri Day is a time for schools to honor the state and for the people of the state to celebrate the achievements of all Missourians. (RSMo 9.040)

The State Floral Emblem

On March 16, 1923, a bill was signed naming the white hawthorn blossom the official state floral emblem of Missouri. Known as the "red haw" or "white haw," the hawthorn (Crataegus) is a member of the great rose family, which resembles the apple group. The hawthorn blossoms have greenish-yellow centers and form in white clusters. More than 75 species of the hawthorn grow in Missouri, particularly in the Ozarks. (RSMo 10.030)

The State Bird

On March 30, 1927, the native bluebird (Sialia Sialis) became the official state bird of Missouri. The bluebird, considered a symbol of happiness, is usually 6½ to 7 inches long. While its upper parts are covered with light blue plumage, its breast is cinnamon red, turning rust-colored in the fall. The bluebird is common in Missouri from early spring until late November. (RSMo 10.010)

The State Tree

On June 20, 1955, the flowering dogwood (Cornus Florida L.) became Missouri's official tree. The tree is small in size, rarely growing over 40 feet in height or 18 inches in diameter. The dogwood sprouts tiny greenish-yellow flowers in clusters, with each flower surrounded by four white petals. The paried, oval leaves are olive green above and covered with silvery hairs underneath. In the fall, the upper part of the leaves turn scarlet or orange and bright red fruits grow on the tree. (RSMo 10.040)

The State Song

The "Missouri Waltz" became the state song under an act adopted by the General Assembly on June 30, 1949. The song came from a melody by John V. Eppel and was arranged by Frederic Knight Logan, using lyrics written by J.R. Shannon. First published in 1914, the song did not sell well and was considered a failure. By 1939, the song had gained popularity and six million copies had been sold. Sales increased substantially after Missourian Harry S Truman became president. (RSMo 10.050)

The State Mineral

On July 21, 1967, the mineral galena was adopted as the official mineral of Missouri. Galena is the major source of lead ore, and the recognition of this mineral by the state legislature was to emphasize Missouri's status as the nation's top producer of lead. Galena is dark gray in color and breaks into small cubes. Mining of galena has flourished in the Joplin-Granby area of southwest Missouri, and rich deposits have been located in such places as Crawford, Washington, Iron and Reynolds counties. (RSMo 10.047)

The State Rock

Mozarkite was adopted as the official state rock on July 21, 1967, by the 74th General Assembly. An attractive rock, mozarkite appears in a variety of colors, most predominantly green, red or purple. The rock's beauty is enhanced by cutting and polishing into ornamental shapes for jewelry. Mozarkite is most commonly found in Benton County. (RSMo 10.045)

The State Insect

On July 3, 1985, the honeybee was designated as Missouri's state insect. The honeybee, (Apis Mellifera) yellow or orange and black in color, is a social insect which collects nectar and pollen from flower blossoms in order to produce honey. The honeybee is common to Missouri and is cultivated by beekeepers for honey production. (RSMo 10.070)

The State Musical Instrument

The fiddle became the state's official musical instrument on July 17, 1987. Brought to Missouri in the late 1700s by fur traders and settlers, the fiddle quickly became popular. The instrument was adaptable to many forms of music, could be played without extensive formal training and was light and easy to carry. For generations, the local fiddle player was the sole source of entertainment in many communities and held a position of great respect in the region. (RSMo 10.080)

The State Fossil

The crinoid became the state's official fossil on June 16, 1989, after a group of Lee's Summit school students worked through the legislative process to promote it as a state symbol. The crinoid (Delocrinus missouriensis) is a mineralization of an animal which, because of its plant-like appearance, was called the "sea lily." Related to the starfish, the crinoid which covered Missouri lived in the ocean more than 250 million years ago. (RSMo 10.090)

The State Tree Nut

The nut produced by the black walnut tree (Juglans Nigra), known as the eastern black walnut, became the state tree nut on July 9, 1990. The nut has a variety of uses. The meat is used in ice cream, baked goods and candies. The shell provides the soft grit abrasive used in metal cleaning and polishing, and oil well drilling. It is also used in paint products and as a filler in dynamite. (RSMo 10.100)

The State Animal

On May 31, 1995, the Missouri mule was designated as the official state animal. The mule is a hybrid, the offspring of a mare (female horse) and a jack (male donkey). After its introduction to the state in the 1820s, the mule quickly became popular with farmers and settlers because of its hardy nature. Missouri mules pulled pioneer wagons to the Wild West during the 19th century and played a crucial role in moving troops and supplies in World Wars I and II. For decades, Missouri was the nation's premier mule producer. (RSMo 10.110)

The State American Folk Dance

The square dance was adopted as Missouri's official American folk dance on May 31, 1995. Square dances are derived from folk and courtship dances brought to the United States by European immigrants. Lively music and callers are hallmarks of square dancing. The caller directs the dancers by singing the names of figures and steps to be performed. (RSMo 10.120)

The State Aquatic Animal

The paddlefish (Polyodon Spathula) became Missouri's official aquatic animal on May 23, 1997. Only three rivers in Missouri support substantial populations of the paddlefish: the Mississippi, Missouri and the Osage. They are also present in some of the state's larger lakes. The paddlefish is primitive, with a cartilage skeleton, rather than bone.They commonly exceed five feet in length and weights of 60 pounds; 20-year olds are common, and some live 30 years or more. (RSMo 10.130)

The State Fish

On May 23, 1997, the channel catfish became the official fish of Missouri. The channel catfish (Ictalurus Punctatus) is slender, with a deeply forked tail. Young have spots that disappear with age. The catfish does not rely on sight to find its food; instead, it uses cat-like whiskers to assist in the hunt. The channel cat is the most abundant large catfish in Missouri streams. Its diet includes animal and plant material. Adults are normally 12 to 32 inches long and weigh from a half-pound to 15 pounds. (RSMo 10.135)

The State Horse

On June 4, 2002, the Missouri fox trotting horse became Missouri's official state horse. Missouri fox trotters were developed in the rugged Ozark hills of Missouri during the early 19th century. Bloodlines can be traced from early settlers to Missouri from the neighboring states of Kentucky, Illinois, Tennessee and Arkansas. The distinguishing characteristic of the fox trotter is its rhythmic gait, in which the horse walks with the front feet and trots with the hind feet. This gait gives the rider a smooth gentle ride. (RSMo 10.140)

The State Grape

On July 11, 2003, the Norton/Cynthiana grape (Vitis Aestivalis) was adopted as the official state grape. This adaptable, self-pollinating variety has been cultivated since the 1830s and is likely North America's oldest grape variety still commercially grown. Norton/Cynthiana has long been prized by Missouri vintners for its hardy growth habit and intense flavor characteristics, which produce lush, dry premium red wines of world-class quality and distinction. (RSMo 10.160)

The Purple Martin Capital

The City of Adrian, located in Bates County, was declared the purple martin capital of the state of Missouri on August 28, 2003. Purple martins are largely dependent on humans to build and maintain their housing and are happy in large bird houses or in gourds. These creatures are partial to living near water, in open parts of a yard, or along rural roadsides. Purple martins are popular among bird lovers because of their melodic singing and aerial feats. (RSMo 10.141)

The State Dinosaur

Hypsibema missouriense is a type of dinosaur called a Hadrosaur or "duck billed" dinosaur. It was a herbivore with jaws that contained over 1,000 teeth. Hypsibema had evolved specialized teeth to handle the tough, fibrous vegetation of the time. Hypsibema lived in Missouri during the Late Cretaceous Period. Hypsibema was first discovered in 1942 by Dan Stewart, near the town of Glen Allen, MO, and became the state's offical dinosaur on July 9, 2004. (RSMo 10.095)

The State Amphibian

On June 5, 2005, the American Bullfrog (Rana catesbeiana) became the official state amphibian. The bullfrog is the largest frog native to Missouri and is found in every county. Most Missourians are familiar with the deep, resonant "jug-of-rum" call, which is typically heard on warm, rainy nights between mid-May and early July. The idea for the bullfrog designation came from a fourth grade class at Chinn Elementary School in Kansas City. (RSMo 10.170)

The State Game Bird

The bobwhite quail (Colinus virginianus), also known as the northern bobwhite, became the official state game bird on July 13, 2007. The northern bobwhite is found throughout Missouri in a variety of habitats. In the fall and winter, northern bobwhites form loose social groups better known as a covey. A covey will generally contain ten to twelve quail, but can have as many as twenty or thirty birds. The familiar two- or three-note "bobwhite" whistle is made by males in the spring and summer to attract females. (RSMo 10.012).

The State Invertebrate

On June 21, 2007, the crayfish (also known as crawfish and crawdad) became the official state invertebrate. Crayfish are an important food source for Missouri fishes. Missouri supports more than 30 species of crayfish (including seven species that occur nowhere else in the world). Crayfish are found in every county of the state and contribute to our unique biodiversity and conservation heritage. The nomination of crayfish for state invertebrate came from Mrs. Janna Elfrink's elementary school class in Reeds Spring, Missouri. (RSMo 10.125)

The State Reptile

On June 21, 2007, the three-toed box turtle (Terrapene carolina triunguis) became the official state reptile. Most Missourians are familiar with this land-dwelling turtle. Three-toed box turtles, as their name implies, typically have three hind toes. The hinged bottom shell allows the turtle to retreat inside as if enclosed in a box. Males have red eyes and females have brown eyes. (RSMo 10.175).

The State Grass

Big bluestem (Andropogon gerardii) was designated as Missouri's stategrass on June 11, 2007 as a result of efforts by the Fourth Grade class at Truman Elementary School in Rolla. Big bluestem is native to Missouri and occurs throughout the state, with the exception of a few southeastern-most counties. It is a major component of Missouri's tallgrass prairies where it impressed the first explorers by sometimes growing tall enough to hide a person on horseback. The name bluestem comes from the bluish-green color of the leaves and stems that turn an attractive reddish-copper color in autumn. (RSMo 10.150).

The State Dessert

The ice cream cone became the state of Missouri's official dessert on August 28, 2008. The 1904 World's Fair in St Louis was the birthplace of the treat and has become a staple at many community events across the state, such as the State Fair. The University of Missouri–Columbia has played a large role in the development of ice cream products for over a century. Missouri presently ranks tenth in ice cream production. (RSMo 10.180).

Jeremiah W. (Jay) Nixon

Governor

Elected November 4, 2008
Term expires January 2013

JAY NIXON (Democrat) is serving his first term as governor of Missouri. Garnering the highest margin of victory for a non-incumbent governor in 44 years, Nixon was overwhelmingly elected by Missourians as their 55th governor to create jobs and move the state forward.

Governor Nixon has put forward an agenda to make government more efficient, effective and responsive to the needs of Missouri families. He is committed to fighting every day to create jobs in Missouri, holding the line on taxes and placing a college education within reach for more Missouri students.

As he did in the state Senate and during four terms as attorney general, Governor Nixon is reaching across the aisle to put Missouri families first. He successfully worked with the legislature to pass several jobs initiatives to put Missourians back to work, including a bill to bring next-generation automotive production to Missouri. Nixon's call to reform Missouri's drunk-driving laws resulted in changes to keep repeat offenders off the road.

Governor Nixon has led the fight for families with children with special needs, including the successful push to require insurance companies to cover proven treatments for autism disorders, as well as the creation of Partnership for Hope, which is helping provide community-based services to those with developmental disabilities.

Governor Nixon, the vice-chair of the National Governors Association's Economic Development and Commerce Committee, has made a strong public education system one of his chief priorities, with Missouri's public elementary and secondary schools receiving a record amount of funding. In addition, he reached historic agreements to freeze tuition rates at Missouri's public colleges and universities for two years in a row. The legislature also passed Nixon's Caring for Missourians and Training for Tomorrow initiatives that are enabling Missouri's colleges to produce thousands more graduates each year in high-demand fields, such as health care.

Governor Nixon was praised for his strong leadership on the natural disasters that hit Missouri in 2011, as he moved quickly to mobilize and maximize the state resources needed to protect lives and property and to help those Missourians affected recover and rebuild.

He has been a strong supporter of the Missouri National Guard and Missourians serving in the military, creating the Show-Me Heroes program to promote hiring of veterans. A member of the President's Council of Governors, Governor Nixon has made multiple trips to Iraq and Afghanistan to visit with troops and be briefed on military operations.

During his first two years in office, Nixon visited each of Missouri's 85 state parks and historic sites to help promote these treasured resources as recreational destinations, with a goal of reaching 20 million visitors by 2020. The governor also began the State Parks Youth Corps to beautify the parks and put young people to work. An avid hunter and fisherman, both Governor Nixon and the first lady have led a campaign to encourage young Missourians to spend more time outdoors.

Prior to becoming governor, Jay Nixon was elected to a record four terms as Missouri's attorney general. His settlements with the insurance industry and hospitals led to the formation of two of the largest health care foundations in state history. One of Nixon's most successful programs, Missouri's popular No-Call List, has become a model for states across the nation to stop telemarketing calls.

A native of De Soto, Nixon was raised in a family of public servants. His mother, the late Betty Nixon, was a teacher and served as president of the local school board. His father, Jerry Nixon, was mayor of De Soto and a judge for the community.

Growing up in a home with these strong examples, Nixon learned at a young age that faith and family come first—and giving back to the community comes next. That philosophy has guided him throughout his career in public service.

After earning his undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Missouri, Nixon returned to De Soto to practice as an attorney. In 1986, he was elected to the Missouri Senate, where he would represent the people of Jefferson County for six years.

Governor Nixon and his wife, Georganne Wheeler Nixon, have two sons, Jeremiah and Willson. They belong to the First United Methodist Church in Jefferson City.

Qualifications

The chief executive officer of the state of Missouri must be at least 30 years old, a U.S. citizen for at least 15 years and a resident of Missouri for at least 10 years before being elected governor.

The governor is elected to a four-year term during the same year as a presidential election and may seek re-election to a second four-year term. No person may hold the office for more than two terms.

Responsibilities

The governor appoints the members of all boards and commissions, all department heads in state government and fills all vacancies in public offices unless otherwise provided by law. The board members of Missouri's state universities and colleges are appointed by the governor. The governor also selects the members of the Supreme and Appellate Courts of Missouri from names submitted by the State Judicial Commission. The governor appoints members to the state's six urban election boards, two police boards and the Board of Probation and Parole. Most appointments require the advice and consent of the Senate.

The governor addresses the General Assembly on the state of government and recommends changes or other actions to be taken. A budget is submitted by the governor to the General Assembly within 30 days after the assembly convenes. The budget contains the governor's estimates of available state revenues and an itemized plan for proposed expenditures.

All bills passed by both houses of the legislature are submitted to the governor for consideration. The governor must return the legislation to the house of its inception within 15 days after receiving it. The governor may either approve a bill, making it law, or return it to the legislature with objections. When the legislature is adjourned, the governor has 45 days in which to consider a bill.

The governor may object to one or more items or portions of items of an appropriations bill while approving other items or portions of the appropriations bill. Upon signing the appropriations bill, appended to it is a statement of the items or portions of items to which there are objections and such items or portions will not take effect. The governor may control the rate of expenditure in other areas whenever the actual revenues are less than the revenue estimates upon which the appropriations were based.

Additional Duties and Powers

The governor performs many other duties assigned by constitution, statute or custom. For example, the governor issues writs of election to fill vacancies in either house of the General Assembly. The governor also has the power to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons, but this does not include the power to parole.

In addition to other duties, the governor is a member of a number of boards and commissions, such as the Board of Public Buildings and the State Board of Fund Commissioners.

Moreover, the governor is the conservator of peace throughout Missouri and is commander-in-chief of the state's militia. The militia may be called out to execute laws, suppress threats of danger to the state and prevent and repel invasion.

The governor has the authority to remit fines and forfeitures when it is believed that an injustice was done or great hardship was suffered by the defendant.

Missouri's First Lady

Like the governor, First Lady Georganne Wheeler Nixon earned her undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Missouri–Columbia. Her support of Governor Nixon's call for strong public education in Missouri comes naturally: her father, the late Hubert Wheeler, served as Missouri's first commissioner of education; her mother and grandmother were both teachers; and Mrs. Nixon herself has taught in the public schools.

Mrs. Nixon is an outdoor enthusiast who has helped lead the Children in Nature Challenge, an initiative launched by the governor and the first lady to encourage families to enjoy Missouri's outdoors as part of an active lifestyle. Mrs. Nixon also has actively promoted the state's 85 parks and historic sites as vacation destinations and as a way to learn more about Missouri.

An avid supporter of the arts and literature, the first lady often goes to schools and libraries to read to children as a way of encouraging literacy for both children and adults. Mrs. Nixon also serves as honorary chair for Missouri Citizens for the Arts and presents the Missouri Art Education Association awards to young artists whose artworks are selected to be on display at the Capitol and in the Missouri Governor's Mansion.

Missouri Governor's Mansion

The Missouri Governor's Mansion serves as the official residence of Governor Jay Nixon, First Lady Georganne Nixon, and their sons, Jeremiah and Willson. The first family extends an invitation to all Missourians to tour "the people's house," which each year hosts approximately 60,000 visitors.

First occupied by Governor G. Gratz Brown and his family in 1872, this stately three-story brick building is one of the oldest and most beautifully restored governors' homes in the United States. Built and finished in the Renaissance Revival style, the entry consists of an imposing portico with four dignified pink granite columns. A Victorian atmosphere greets visitors as they enter the great hall with its 17-foot ceilings, a rare free-flowing staircase of solid walnut and one of the best collections of period furnishings in the country. Missouri first ladies' portraits are featured throughout the mansion, along with loaned works of art created by the world-famous Missouri artist George Caleb Bingham. Designed by George Ingham Barnett of St. Louis, the mansion is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Since moving to the mansion, the Nixons have added a vegetable and herb garden. Food from the garden is used in meals served at the mansion, and Mrs. Nixon enjoys encouraging schoolchildren to start their own gardens. The Missouri Botanical Gardens and Powell Gardens provided assistance in planning the garden at the mansion.

[1]At the time of the elections of McNair, Bates and Williams, and of the first election of Miller in 1825, there were no organized political parties in Missouri. Individual popularity prevailed. All called themselves Jeffersonian Republicans, or what now are called Democrats.

[2]Marmaduke was elected Lt. Governor in 1840. Upon the death of Governor Thomas Reynolds in February 1844, Marmaduke became governor. He served the remainder of that year, because John Cummins Edwards was elected.

[3]Soon after Polk was inaugurated, the Legislature convened and elected him by 101 votes to be a U.S. Senator. He resigned to take that office in February 1857. His occupancy of the governor's office was shorter than any other governor of Missouri.

[4]Jackson was Lt. Governor under Polk and became acting governor after Polk resigned in February 1857. He served until October of that year when Robert Stewart took office. Stewart was elected at a special election in August 1857.

[5]Gamble was elected provisional governor by the Missouri State Convention on July 31, 1861. The office had been declared vacated after Governor Claiborne Fox Jackson joined the Confederacy.

[6]Unionist. [7]Radical. [8]Liberal.

[10]Some held multiple terms as governor. In consideration of space, some are listed here only once.

Lieutenant Governor

Elected November 2, 2004
Term expires January 2013

PETER D. KINDER (Republican) was elected Missouri's 46th lieutenant governor on November 2, 2004. On November 4, 2008, he was re-elected to a second term, carrying 102 of Missouri's 114 counties.

As lieutenant governor, Kinder has championed issues affecting Missouri's seniors and veterans. He also is leading a lawsuit by Missouri citizens against the nation's healthcare law. On August 4, 2010, by a nearly 3-to-1 margin, Missouri voters passed Proposition C, rejecting the federal law's mandate to purchase health insurance. Kinder's lawsuit seeks to have the individual mandate declared unconstitutional.

Prior to his election as Lieutenant Governor, Kinder served for 12 years in the Missouri Senate, representing the counties of Bollinger, Cape Girardeau, Madison, Mississippi, Perry and Scott. In 2001, Republicans gained a majority in the Senate. As a result, Kinder's colleagues elected him President Pro Tem, the Senate's top elected official. He was the first Republican to hold that position in 53 years.

As lieutenant governor, Kinder is the official Senior Advocate for Missouri, and during his Senate service he was known for his work on behalf of the state's senior residents. He sponsored and passed the Elderly Protection Act of 2003, which increased the penalties for elder abuse crimes. With his leadership, Missouri crafted the Missouri Senior Rx plan, providing prescription drug coverage for the poorest seniors. In 2006, Lt. Governor Kinder was instrumental in passing the Assisted Living Bill, a top priority for many senior advocacy groups. This legislation gives seniors more options and choice in the type of long-term care facility they want to call home.

Kinder has led the fight on issues affecting Missouri's veterans. In 2005, he proposed and helped to pass the Missouri Military Family Relief Fund, which benefits family members of the Missouri National Guard and Reserve personnel who have been called to active duty.

Kinder coordinated the Missouri Mentor Initiative, a program that encourages state employees to mentor children by receiving up to 40 hours a year in paid time off to volunteer. He also ensured funding for the Amachi Program that assists Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Missouri to mentor children whose parents are incarcerated in Missouri prisons.

The lieutenant governor is a member of several boards and commissions including the Missouri Development Finance Board, the Missouri Housing Development Commission, the Board of Public Buildings and the Missouri Tourism Commission.

Born and raised in Cape Girardeau, Kinder attended Cape Girardeau Public Schools and continued his education at Southeast Missouri State University and the University of Missouri–Columbia. He graduated from St. Mary's University School of Law in San Antonio, Texas, in 1979, and was admitted to the Missouri Bar in 1980.

From 1981 to 1983, Kinder was a member of U.S. Rep. Bill Emerson's Washington, D.C. staff and then worked as an attorney and real estate representative for Drury Industries. In 1987, he became associate publisher of the Southeast Missourian newspaper in Cape Girardeau.

Kinder is a member of the United Methodist Church, Beta Theta Pi social fraternity, Missouri Farm Bureau, Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club. He is active in many civic causes, including extensive work with United Way, the Nature Conservancy, the American Cancer Society and Boy Scouts of America.

Kinder has been honored by various groups including: Missouri Right to Life Defender of Life; National Rifle Association; University of Missouri, Presidential Citation Award; National Scouting Association Distinguished Eagle Scout Award; St. Louis Children's Hospital, SSM Cardinal Glennon Hospital, and Children's Mercy of K.C.; March of Dimes; Southeast Missouri State University Alumni Association Distinguished Service Award; St. Louis Business Journal Legislative Award; Support Your Troops Committee Award; Missouri Farm Bureau Outstanding Service to Agriculture; St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association Lewis and Clark Statesman Award for Outstanding Leadership; Missouri Restaurant Association Distinguished Service; Associated Industries of Missouri Voice of Missouri Business; Southeast Missouri Alliance for Disability Independence; SSM Cardinal Glennon Hospital Child Advocate Award; National Federation of Independent Businesses Guardian of Small Business; Missouri State Medical Association; and Missouri Chamber of Commerce and Industry Spirit of Enterprise.

Qualifications

Missouri's lieutenant governor must be at least 30 years old, a U.S. citizen for at least 15 years and a resident of Missouri for at least 10 years before being elected to the office. The lieutenant governor is elected for a four-year term and is subject to re-election.

Duties

The lieutenant governor is the only statewide elected official that is part of both the executive and legislative branches of state government. Under the constitution, the lieutenant governor is ex officio president of the Missouri Senate. The lieutenant governor is elected independently from the governor, and each can be members of different political parties. Upon the governor's death, conviction, impeachment, resignation, absence from the state or other disabilities, the lieutenant governor shall act as governor. By law, the lieutenant governor is a member of the Board of Public Buildings, Board of Fund Commissioners, Missouri Development Finance Board, Missouri Community Service Commission, Missouri Housing Development Commission and the Tourism Commission. The lieutenant governor is an adviser to the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education on early childhood education and the Parents-as-Teachers program and the state's official advocate for senior citizens.

Roles of the Office

In recent years, the lieutenant governor has embraced more responsibilities, especially relating to seniors, veterans, tourism and service. These modern developments have made the lieutenant governor more visible and accessible to Missourians. The many boards and commissions on which the lieutenant governor serves provide numerous opportunities to help Missouri citizens. These boards and commissions cover a wide variety of functions for Missouri's diverse population.

By statute, the lieutenant governor is the official Senior Advocate for the state of Missouri. This office investigates problems and issues on behalf of senior citizens. The lieutenant governor's office works very closely with the Department of Health and Senior Services to ensure the safety and well-being of Missouri's senior citizens. The lieutenant governor helps manage the Missouri Rx Prescription Drug Program. More information may be found at www.morx.mo.gov.

Our military veterans exemplify the meaning of service. They have answered the call of duty, boldly facing death, injury and uncertainty. Their sacrifice should never be forgotten. The lieutenant governor is proud to advocate for issues vital to our Missouri veterans.

Lieutenant Governor Kinder actively promotes the Missouri Military Family Relief Fund, a state-administered fund assisting families of the Missouri National Guard and reservists who have been deployed for the global war on terrorism. Those interested in donating should contact the Missouri Veterans Commission at (573) 522-4220 or make an income tax check-off donation when filing a state income tax return.

As a member of the Missouri Tourism Commission, the lieutenant governor helps market Missouri to the rest of the world. Out-of-state visitors bring new revenue to Missouri businesses, and new tax dollars to Missouri. Centrally located in the United States and bordering eight other states, Missouri hosts tens of millions of visitors each year. The Tourism Commission plans campaigns to show our visitors all that we have to offer.

Lieutenant Governor Kinder led the effort to bring the Tour of Missouri, an international professional bicycle race, to Missouri in 2007. Before funding was pulled in 2010, the competition was one of the top five professional cycling events outside of Europe, drawing spectators from across the U.S. and the globe.

As part of the Missouri Community Service Commission, the lieutenant governor is honored to continue a legacy of service to citizens across Missouri. This commission nurtures volunteerism by encouraging an atmosphere that enables citizen service to prosper. By partnering with national service programs, the commission promotes volunteer opportunities to interested citizens. Each year, the Community Service Commission recognizes award winners who have demonstrated exemplary service.

Lieutenant Governor Kinder also sponsors the Senior Service Award to promote and highlight the positive accomplishments senior citizens selflessly provide their communities. Bi-annual winners are recognized from every region of the state. More information may be found at www.ltgov.mo.gov.

The lieutenant governor also serves on the Missouri Housing Development Commission. As such, the lieutenant governor has the opportunity to help ensure quality affordable housing for Missourians, regardless of income. Other boards and commissions on which the lieutenant governor serves include: Board of Fund Commissioners; Board of Public Buildings; Missouri Development Finance Board; Second State Capitol Commission; and theSpecial Health, Psychological and Social Needs of Minority Older Individuals Commission. He is also an adviser to the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education on early childhood education.

This compilation of the lieutenant governor's responsibilities demonstrates how this office can assist all Missourians. Citizens are urged to contact the lieutenant governor's office regarding issues that affect seniors by calling (800) 699-2377, or through the web site at www.ltgov.mo.gov.

Missouri State Capitol

State government in Missouri is centered in the state's beautiful, domed Capitol, dominating the bluffs of the Missouri River in Jefferson City.

The dome, rising 238 feet above ground level and topped by a bronze statue of Ceres, goddess of agriculture, is the first view of Jefferson City for travelers arriving from the north. The structure is Jefferson City's leading tourist attraction and is a mecca for school groups who arrive by busloads, particularly during General Assembly sessions when they fill the galleries to watch the Senate and House of Representatives in action.

In addition to housing the two legislative bodies, the Capitol provides office space for the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, state auditor and some administrative agencies. The structure is also notable for its architectural features, including its eight 48-foot columns on the south portico and six 48-foot columns on the north side; its 30-foot-wide grand stairway and its bronze front doors, each 13-by-18 feet, among the largest cast since the Roman era.

The Capitol's first floor features the State Museum. Outstanding paintings, pediments and friezes decorate the Capitol interior. Of historical significance is a series of Thomas Hart Benton murals in the House Lounge.

Statuary is a prominent feature of the Capitol grounds. Heroic bronze figures depicting Missouri's two great rivers, the Mississippi and Missouri, and a 13-foot statue of Thomas Jefferson dominate the south entrance. A bronze relief depicting the signing of the Louisiana Purchase by Livingston, Monroe and Marbois and the Fountain of the Centaurs are the most outstanding features on the north grounds.

The present Capitol, completed in 1917 and dedicated in 1924, is the fourth Capitol in Jefferson City. Before the seat of government was moved to Jefferson City, the functions of Missouri territorial government were based in the Mansion House, a hotel in St. Louis, and later at the Missouri Hotel, also in St. Louis. The upper story of a mercantile store in St. Charles was designated as temporary capital of the state in 1821 and remained the seat of government until 1826 when Jefferson City became the permanent capital city. The first Capitol in Jefferson City was located on land now occupied by the Governor's Mansion. It burned in 1837, apparently after some hot coals fell out of one of its fireplaces. A second structure, completed in 1840 and expanded in 1887–88 burned when the dome was struck by lightning on February 5, 1911. A temporary Capitol made of lathe and stucco was erected in an area to the east of the present building and was used from 1912 to 1917.

The present Capitol was constructed for $4,215,000, including site and furnishings. It is five stories high, 437 feet long, 300 feet wide in the center and 200 feet wide in the wings. The dome is 238 feet high and the height of the wings is 88 feet. It includes over 650,000 square feet of floor space.

Robin Carnahan

Secretary of State

Elected November 2, 2004
Term expires January 2013

ROBIN CARNAHAN (Democrat) was sworn in as Missouri's 38th Secretary of State in January 2005. Since taking office, Secretary Carnahan has focused on providing excellent customer service, protecting investors, cutting red tape and costs for Missouri businesses and ensuring the integrity and fairness of our elections.

Carnahan was quickly recognized as one of the most effective public servants in Missouri and our nation. In 2005, the nonpartisan think tank The Aspen Institute identified Carnahan as a "rising star" in American politics for her ability to work across party lines and deliver results.

As secretary of state, Carnahan works tirelessly to crackdown on financial scams and protect Missourians from fraud. In 2009, she championed the bipartisan Senior Investor Protection Act, which is recognized as one of the toughest investor protection laws in the nation and improves opportunities for seniors to recover lost savings. Carnahan also launched the Missouri Investor Protection Center and expanded educational efforts to help Missourians learn how to protect themselves from financial fraud. And her efforts have paid off. Since taking office, Secretary Carnahan has helped tens of thousands of investors recover over $10 billion, earning her recognition as a national leader in securities law enforcement.

Through expanded use of technology, Secretary Carnahan has dramatically increased efficiency and cut red tape and costs for Missouri's small businesses. Since taking office, these innovations have saved Missouri businesses more than $10 million and countless tax dollars. Carnahan's Red Tape Reduction Act, which passed with bipartisan support in 2009, cuts government paperwork in half and reduces costs for thousands of Missouri businesses. And Carnahan led the effort to develop the Missouri Business Portal, which provides an online one-stop-shop for those looking to do business in Missouri.

Secretary Carnahan believes good customer service means making information more accessible to Missourians. As the guardian of Missouri's State Archives, she has not only ensured the preservation of historical documents and treasures, but also expanded access to those records by making tens of thousands of records available online for the first time. These pioneering efforts have earned praise from historians and genealogists worldwide.

In 2008, Carnahan unveiled the Missouri Digital Heritage website, which digitally links historical information and resources from the Missouri State Archives, the State Library and local organizations together for the first time. Since its launch, Missouri Digital Heritage has been named one of the 101 best websites for genealogy by Family Tree Magazine and has been visited over 70 million times.

As the state's chief elections official, Secretary Carnahan is dedicated to ensuring integrity and fairness in Missouri elections. Since taking office, she has partnered with local election officials to clean up Missouri's voter rolls by establishing the state's first statewide voter registration list and improved election day operations by recruiting and training additional poll workers.

Since 2007, Missourians who need protection from domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking have had access to the Safe at Home address confidentiality program designed by Secretary Carnahan to help prevent future attacks. To date, Safe at Home has helped protect more than 700 women, men and children in the state of Missouri.

Secretary Carnahan grew up in Rolla, Missouri, and is a member of the Baptist Church. After graduating from Rolla High School, she continued her studies at William Jewell College and at the University of Southampton and earned a bachelor's degree in economics, graduating magna cum laude. Carnahan went on to earn her law degree from the University of Virginia and then returned to Missouri to practice business law with the St. Louis law firm of Thompson & Mitchell.

In 1990, Carnahan went to work with the National Democratic Institute in Central and Eastern Europe, where she worked to promote democracy and fair elections. Carnahan also served at the Export-Import Bank of the United States, where she explored innovative ways to help American companies increase their sales of goods and services abroad.

Today, in addition to carrying out her duties as secretary of state, Carnahan continues to manage her family's 900-acre Angus cattle farm near Rolla. Her husband, Juan Carlos Antolinez, develops and maintains business computer systems.

Carnahan's family has a proud history of devotion to public service. Her father, Mel Carnahan, served as Missouri's governor, and her mother, Jean Carnahan, was the first woman to serve Missouri in the U.S. Senate. Her grandfather, A.S.J. Carnahan, a congressman from south-central Missouri for 14 years, was appointed by President John F. Kennedy to be U.S. Ambassador to Sierra Leone.

The secretary of state's office serves Missourians in a number of diverse and important ways. The major divisions within the secretary of state's office are: Business Services, Elections, Securities, State Library, Records Services and Administrative Rules.

At Secretary Robin Carnahan's direction, the office has focused on providing outstanding service to its broad scope of customers and making information more accessible to all Missourians. In the Business Services Division, Carnahan has cut red tape for small businesses and streamlined operations with her office. Through the Securities Division, she has protected consumers by cracking down on firms that defraud investors and educating Missourians about responsible investing. As Missouri's chief elections official, Carnahan has worked to ensure fair, accessible and transparent elections for Missouri voters.

In addition, the office is responsible for compiling, storing and publishing a variety of documents. As the keeper of the Great Seal of the State of Missouri, the secretary of state is also responsible for authenticating official acts of the governor. The office also includes the following divisions: Information Technology, Communications and Publications, Fiscal and Facilities and Human Resources.

Business Services Division

www.sos.mo.gov/business/

The Business Services Division has three sections: Commissions, Corporations and Uniform Commercial Code. The division oversees regional offices for business filings in St. Louis, Kansas City and Springfield and the Safe at Home address confidentiality program. The Business Services Division is committed to providing excellent customer service to all its customers.

Commissions

The commissions section commissions notaries public, maintains the official bonds of over 75,000 Missouri notaries, and is responsible for certifying notaries for foreign documents, elected officials and the State Registrar of Vital Statistics.

The commissions section authenticates official acts of the governor. The Great Seal of the State of Missouri is affixed to more than 35,000 documents annually, including all commissions of state and county elected officials; appointments made by the governor; and proclamations, executive orders, extraditions, commutations of sentence and restoration of citizenship issued by the governor. The commissions section maintains bonds and oaths of office for state officials as required by law and is responsible for the official signature, facsimile signature filings, resident agent filings and trademark and service mark filings.

Corporations

The secretary of state is responsible for the registration of all Missouri and out-of-state businesses doing business in Missouri. Businesses file various documents required by law: creation documents, annual reports, amendments, mergers, consolidations, dissolutions, terminations, withdrawals and conversions. There are approximately 713,000 active businesses registered in Missouri.

Each corporation must register with the corporations section the names of its officers and directors. Approximately 80 percent of these registrations are filed online for a reduced fee by using the secretary of state's website, saving businesses millions of dollars each year.

Limited liability company (LLC) filings are increasing, with more than 35,000 new LLCs being filed in Fiscal Year 2011. Most businesses are required to file a fictitious name registration with the secretary of state's office. More than 38,500 new fictitious name registrations were processed in Fiscal Year 2011, and 75 percent of these filings were completed online.

Additional online services include: organizing a limited liability company, obtaining and verifying a certificate of good standing, printing copies of filed documents, obtaining forms for filing a new business entity and accessing the business entity database to search for a business or corporation. The Small Business Advocacy Center (www.sos.mo.gov/business/sbac/) and the Missouri Business Portal (www.business.mo.gov) continue to help Missouri businesses navigate state government and help their businesses grow.

Uniform Commercial Code

The secretary of state's office is the centralized office for perfecting personal property liens and other creditor interests under the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC). These liens are perfected by filing a financing statement in the accepted national format indicating the debtor name and address and the secured party name and address along with a description of the collateral. Once a lien or other interest is filed and perfected, the public is considered "on notice" regarding those liens. These financing statements are effective for five years; they may be continued for an additional five-year term by filing a continuation statement within six months prior to expiration. Ninety percent of the UCC filings with the secretary of state are now completed online. UCC online filings, forms and the fee schedule for filing are available at www.sos.mo.gov/ucc.

Safe at Home Address Confidentiality Program

The Safe at Home address confidentiality program was created in 2007 to help protect survivors of domestic violence, rape, sexual assault or stalking through the use of a designated address. Through the Safe at Home program, survivors and their minor children may use a substitute mailing address through the secretary of state's office for all their first class, legal and certified mail. The program allows survivors to use a substitute address on their government records and public filings to keep their address confidential and out of the hands of potential abusers.

For more than 80 years, the secretary of state has been responsible for ensuring compliance with state securities laws through activities of the Securities Division. This responsibility includes enforcement of the law when violations occur and the registration of securities, broker-dealers, agents, investment advisers and investment adviser representatives. State securities laws are intended to protect investors from unsuitable investment recommendations, dishonest or unethical practices and fraudulent investment schemes. The secretary of state appoints the securities commissioner, who administers these laws and oversees the Securities Division.

The enforcement section of the Securities Division receives and investigates complaints from Missouri investors. A toll-free Investor Protection Hotline (800) 721-7996 is maintained so investors can report complaints or make inquiries about firms or professionals in the securities business. Each year the office fields hundreds of investor complaints that result in the initiation of hundreds of investigations, many of which result in cease and desist orders, licensing revocations, civil penalties, criminal prosecutions or investor restitution. The attorneys and investigators in the enforcement section typically collect millions of dollars in penalties, payments and restitution each year and are leaders in national enforcement actions and task forces.

The registration section regulates the registration of individuals, firms and securities. The audit unit of the registration section performs routine and for-cause inspections and pre-registration exams of the offices of broker-dealers and investment advisers to ensure compliance with the Missouri securities laws.

As of summer 2011, there were 128,402 agents, 1,743 broker-dealers, 9,034 investment adviser representatives and 1,543 investment advisers registered in Missouri. Prior to granting each registration, an application review process is conducted to determine if applicants are sufficiently qualified to participate in the securities business. The registration section also reviews proposed securities offerings to ensure that Missouri approved offerings are "fair, just and equitable." The staff receives filings of federal covered securities and reviews requests for exemption from the registration provisions, provides interpretative opinions of the securities laws and assists Missouri issuers seeking to raise funds with securities law compliance. In the 2011 fiscal year, the registration section staff received filings or exemption notices for over 2,800 securities offerings and collected over $10 million in revenues for the state of Missouri.

The Securities Division also oversees the Missouri Investor Protection Center, which creates and promotes investor education initiatives designed to educate and assist both current and future investors. The center also includes a website and a Senior Investor Protection Unit to help educate and protect Missouri's older investors.

Elections Division

The Office of Secretary of State oversees all statewide elections for both candidates and issues. Candidates for the six constitutional state offices, U.S. Congress, the General Assembly and various circuit judges file for election with the secretary of state's office. Statewide ballots for primary, general, and certain special elections are also prepared by the secretary of state, and certified copies of those ballots are sent to local election officials. It is the responsibility of the office to canvass, certify and publish election results.

Missouri has more than 4 million registered voters. In the 2010 November general election, 1.9 million voters went to the polls.

In Missouri, elections are run at the local level by local election authorities (county clerks or election boards). In addition to assisting Missouri's 116 local election authorities with their duties in administering elections, the secretary of state promulgates rules governing elections and electronic voting systems. The secretary of state is required to publish the Missouri Election Laws for use by county clerks and election boards. Additionally, the office produces various election materials, including instructions for poll workers, calendars of annual election deadlines, a website, training videos and a manual for election authorities. The Elections Division cooperates with other officials, schools and civic organizations to provide materials to support voter registration, responsibility and education and oversees the "Democracy is on the line. Be a Poll Worker." statewide poll worker recruitment initiative. In the fall of 2008, the secretary of state unveiled the Missouri Voting Rights Center and launched the www.GoVoteMissouri.com website, which provides important information to voters registered in Missouri. In April 2009, the office released Voters First 2008: An Examination of Missouri's 2008 State and Federal Elections, which identified issues and proposed improvements in Missouri's election administration.

The secretary of state also certifies statewide ballot measures that are proposed by the General Assembly or through the initiative and referendum petition process, including the oversight of signature verification. Before an initiative petition can be circulated, the petition and a summary statement must be approved by the secretary of state and the attorney general, and the state auditor adds a fiscal impact statement. For an initiative changing state law to be placed on the ballot, signatures must be obtained from registered voters equal to five percent of the total votes cast in the last gubernatorial election in six of Missouri's nine congressional districts. For an initiative changing the state constitution to be placed on the ballot, signatures are needed from registered voters equal to eight percent of the votes cast in the last gubernatorial election in six of the state's nine congressional districts. The full texts of ballot issues are published in newspapers around the state and printed for display at polling places. The elections division also oversees the signature verification process for the formation of new political parties and the nomination of independent candidates for offices that file with the secretary of state. In 2008, 25 initiative petitions were approved for circulation. Five were returned with signatures for approval and were ultimately certified for the November 2008 ballot.

The secretary of state is responsible for coordinating Missouri's compliance with federal election law, including the Help America Vote Act of 2002 (HAVA), which requires increased training for election officials, poll workers and voters; at least one voting system per polling place that is accessible for voters with disabilities; and a statewide voter registration list. The creation of an interactive statewide voter registration list database has improved the ability of local election officials to manage their voter registration records and keep Missouri's voter list up to date and accurate.

The responsibilities of the Missouri State Library are to provide library and reference services to Missouri state government, provide library services to the blind and visually impaired and promote the development and improvement of library services throughout the state.

Library Development

The library development section supports libraries through consulting, administration of grant programs, continuing education and statewide programs. The consultant staff works with librarians and library governing boards to improve the quality of library service for all Missouri citizens. Through research, publications and personal contacts, consultants provide assistance on general library issues and needs, promote the organization and development of library services, manage statewide projects and maintain statistics on public library services in the state.

The state library administers several programs to provide funds and services for libraries. State-funded programs include state aid for public libraries, both per capita funds and equalization payments to libraries. Public library costs for materials are supported through funds appropriated from the income tax on earnings of out-of-state athletes and entertainers. State funds also support summer reading programs in public libraries. The State Library coordinates the funding for the Remote Electronic Access to Libraries (REAL) Program, which provides Internet access for public libraries through MOREnet and database content for public, K-12 and academic libraries. The federal Library Services and Technology Act provides funding for grants to libraries and statewide projects, including training, technology infrastructure and development of library service for underserved populations, such as seniors and persons with disabilities. The state LIbrary also partners with several private sponsors to administer projects and grants to support library services.

Ongoing projects include digitization of primary resource material for the Missouri Digital Heritage Initiative, development of literacy programs in libraries and coordination of literacy efforts with other state agencies and the statewide literacy center, and continuing education for library staff.

As one of 50 state affiliates with the National Center for the Book in the Library of Congress, the Missouri Center for the Book promotes the state's book culture and library heritage.

The state library also serves as the lead agency for the State Census Data Center program, a cooperative venture with the U.S. Census Bureau.

Secretary's Council on Library Development

The Secretary's Council on Library Development advises the Secretary of State and the State Librarian on matters that relate to the state's libraries and library service to Missouri citizens. Current Council members are listed at www.sos.mo.gov/library/council/sosc.asp.

Reference Services

The reference services section delivers library services to meet the informational and research needs of state government. This objective is achieved through current awareness services, library materials collections in multiple formats, electronic publications and online databases provided to the state employees. Reference services offers training sessions to state employees on online databases.

Keeping Up, a daily newspaper clipping summary of news about the activities and operation of state government, is distributed electronically to the legislature and state agencies. An online version is available to the public. Table of contents service allows state employees to receive full text articles from current periodicals that assist in the performance of their duties.

To support the research work done for state government, the state library maintains a materials collection of books, magazine and newspaper subscriptions and microform holdings of government documents, journals and newspapers. Through the state library's membership, state employees have access to MOBIUS, the statewide union catalog of academic libraries. In addition, reference services subscribes to numerous online databases geared to the needs of state government. Most of these databases are provided to state employees at their desktop.

The state library is a congressionally designated selective depository for U.S. government publications. The library is statutorily responsible for collecting state government publications and providing access to them for the citizens of Missouri. This is now done through a trusted, electronic repository making the full text of the publications available via the Internet.

While the state library's research services and other service initiatives are directed to the legislature and employees of state government agencies, the materials collection is open for use by the general public.

Wolfner Talking Book and Braille Library serves as the public library for Missourians unable to use standard print because of a visual or physical disability. The library loans a half million books and magazines in Braille, recorded audio, and large print from its collection of more than 300,000 volumes. The library also provides access to locally recorded Missouri titles and to over 25,000 titles via the national Braille and Audio Reading Download (BARD) site. Audio players are also loaned to users of the recorded materials. More than 8,500 individuals and 1,700 institutions, including nursing homes, schools, hospitals and hospices use the library. Wolfner also provides reference and information services, children's programming, interlibrary loan, a newsletter, catalogs and bibliographies and descriptive DVDs and videos. Access to the collection is available online.

Wolfner services are available to qualified Missourians at no charge. Applications for service are available directly from Wolfner, local Missouri public libraries or on the secretary of state's website. Wolfner is Missouri's regional library in the national network of libraries serving individuals who are blind and disabled, in cooperation with the National Library Service of the Library of Congress.

The Wolfner Talking Book and Braille Library has a rich history of library service, predating the Missouri State Library and the Library of Congress network. Loaning Braille books to a multistate region in 1924, Wolfner became one of the first 18 regional libraries for the blind designated by the Library of Congress. Named in memory of noted ophthalmologist Henry L. Wolfner and originally administered by the St. Louis Public Library, Wolfner became part of the Missouri State Library in 1977 and physically moved to Jefferson City in 1985.

The Records Services Division has three sections: Missouri State Archives, Local Records Preservation Program and Records Management. It is responsible for managing the current and historical records of the state to ensure those records are preserved and accessible to Missouri citizens. It is also responsible for assisting local governments in records preservation and management.

Missouri State Archives

The Missouri State Archives is the official repository for government records of enduring value. Its mission is to foster an appreciation of Missouri history by preserving and making available the state's permanent records to its citizens and their government.

Records in the archives' holdings date from 1770 to the present. They include executive, legislative and judicial records; records of state departments and agencies; Missouri's history under French and Spanish colonial and U.S. territorial rule; military records from the War of 1812 through World War II; the region's role in the 19th century fur trade and America's westward expansion; trademarks and business records; and women's and African-American history.

Holdings currently total more than 338 million pages of paper, 500,000 photographs, 199,000 reels of microfilm and 270,000 microfiche. The Missouri State Archives is one of the most accessed state repositories in the nation and has been formally acknowledged by historical and genealogical organizations for its service to researchers. While thousands visit or write to the archives each year, the majority turn to the Internet as their preferred research medium. In FY11, the Archives received almost 71 million searches of its website. Over the past few years, the Missouri State Archives has become involved in a number of important initiatives. The African-American History Initiative is designed to stimulate interest in African-American history through educational projects and the promotion of a broad awareness of the holdings of the archives. The Missouri State Archives has also played a leading role in the Civil War Sesquicentennial Commission and the Missouri Digital Heritage website, an online portal where institutions from across the state can place their historical resources.

The nationally recognized St. Louis Circuit Court Historical Records Project is just one of many court projects currently being conducted across Missouri. The archives preserves on microfilm the probate and circuit court records of Missouri's local courts. To date, the archives has been involved in 613 preservation projects in every county in the state. There are currently 27 such projects. The Missouri State Archives also partners with the Supreme Court of Missouri Historical Society, which funds two internships and a fellowship for the Archives to preserve and make available the records of the state's highest court.

The archives is devoted to educating the public about materials in the archives' holdings. It provides programs for schools and civic groups, sponsors traveling exhibits, offers tours, and supports and maintains a regular calendar of monthly educational programs. Archives Alive! brings history to life for thousands of Missouri fourth- and fifth-grade students each spring through live interactive performances. The "Friends of the Missouri State Archives," which promotes and supports the archives, has underwritten many of the costs associated with these outreach activities. The archives also hosts student interns and practicum students from Missouri colleges and universities, creates historical exhibits, offers a public speakers series, sponsors regional National History Day activities and provides tours and talks for school and civic organizations.

Volunteers are an important resource of the Missouri State Archives. In Jefferson City, they provide invaluable assistance to the staff, helping with reference services and acting as guides. Across Missouri, volunteers help process county and court records and special collections. More novel is the archives innovative e-volunteer program in which volunteers can provide indexing and transcription services from their home computers. Completed transcriptions are posted online providing greater access to collections. Access to the archives is provided through the Alex M. Petrovic Reading Room. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday and 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Thursday. Saturday hours are from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Missouri Historical Records Advisory Board

The Missouri Historical Records Advisory Board was created by statute in 1989 and assigned to the Office of the Secretary of State. The board is the central advisory body for historical records planning within the state. In addition, the board serves as the state affiliate of the National Historical Publications and Records Commission, the grant-awarding arm of the National Archives and Records Administration and is responsible for reviewing grant proposals to that program from Missouri applicants, as well as applications to the Local Records Preservation Grant Program.

Local Records Preservation Program

The Missouri State Archives' Local Records Preservation Program is an effort to improve long-term local public record management by advising, educating and encouraging the custodians of those records in the use of sound records management and archival practices. Archivists provide their expertise to local government officials on the retention of records. A part-time local records and analyst program began in 1986. In 1989, legislation converted this to a full-time program. Through the local records program, documents of great historical value have been identified and preserved and the State Archives reference collections have been dramatically enhanced. Because of this program, all records are more accessible to the public. They are properly organized, and in many instances, space in public buildings is freed up for purposes other than storage.

More than 3,500 governmental entities can receive assistance managing records. There are nine field archivists located around Missouri. Local officials in every county of the state have been assisted.

Records conservation staff provides an advisory service to local government offices on all aspects of record care and preservation, as well as advice on disaster recovery.

A local records board reviews and makes decisions on retention schedules for records of local governments.

Records Management Division

Telephone: (573) 751-3319 / FAX: (573) 526-5327

The mission of the Records Management Division is to provide state agencies with the necessary instruments to effectively and efficiently manage information and records, in order to promote the efficiency and continuity of government, document the rights of Missouri citizens, and preserve Missouri's heritage. To achieve this mission, the division is divided into three sections: Records Management Services, the State Records Center, and Imaging Services.

Sound records management programs consist of a planned and coordinated set of policies, procedures and activities to manage recorded information in all media. Records Management Services assists state government agencies in identifying and effectively managing their official records. Records analysts consult with agency officials to develop retention schedules that list the agency's records and specify the retention period and the ultimate disposition of inactive records. Analysts advise agencies on cost and technical matters related to microfilm, digital imaging and low-cost storage of inactive and semi-active records.

The State Records Center provides state agencies with a storage solution for inactive records. Inactive records are those with limited use that do not warrant retention in expensive agency office or storage space. Records center services include pick-up, delivery, reference pulls and re-filing, and destruction of agency records. All records remain in the legal custody of the transferring agency and access to stored documents is restricted to the agency's authorized personnel. The transferring of inactive files to the records center allows agencies to free up office space and equipment, saving Missouri taxpayers millions of dollars of costs over the life of the records. State agencies are not charged for these services. As of June 2011, 316,317 cubic feet of records were stored in the State Records Center's two facilities.

Imaging Services provides micrographic and digital imaging services to state agencies and local governments. Agencies can reduce the volume of, improve access to, and ensure archival preservation for their long-term and significant records by utilizing these services. Micrographics services include microfilming, processing, quality control and duplication. Digital imaging services include image production from microfilm or original documents. The unit provides secure protection for original microfilm within a climate-controlled vault

State Records Commission

Section 109.250, RSMo, established the State Records Commission. The commission's task is to guide the records management program in the determination of retention periods for all records in the executive branch of state government. Currently, more than 800 state agencies, commissions, bureaus and boards operate under approved record retention schedules. Additionally, the commission reviews, approves and recommends guidelines for the management of electronic records generated by the state of Missouri.

Since 1976, the Administrative Rules Division has been charged by the Revised Statutes of Missouri with setting uniform standards, procedures and guidelines for the preparation and publishing of rules in the Missouri Register and the Missouri Code of State Regulations. The Administrative Rules Division initially publishes rulemakings proposed by state agencies in the Missouri Register. The rulemakings are published in the Missouri Register to provide public notice and to allow agencies to receive comments and to revise the proposed rulemakings based on the comments. Agencies then file the final version of the rulemakings, the orders of rulemaking, with the division for final publication in the Missouri Register and subsequently in the Missouri Code of State Regulations. The division provides a user's guide for the proper preparation and filing of agency rules entitled Rulemaking 1-2-3, Drafting and Style Manual, that is available online on the secretary of state's website at www.sos.mo.gov/adrules or in hard copy.

The Administrative Rules Division also publishes emergency rules in the Missouri Register. An agency may file an emergency rule if the agency finds an immediate danger to the public health, safety or welfare or if the emergency rule is necessary to preserve a compelling governmental interest that requires an early effective date, prior to that allowed by the traditional rulemaking process. An emergency rule is only in effect for a limited period of time and normally has a corresponding proposed rulemaking that allows for public notice and comment. Once an emergency rule is approved and processed, it may be viewed on the secretary of state's website at www.sos.mo.gov/adrules under the Emergency Rules section until it is published in the Missouri Register.

The Missouri Register is published twice a month and updates to the 15-volume Missouri Code of State Regulations are published once a month. Both the Missouri Register and Missouri Code of State Regulations are available on the secretary of state's website. Additionally, Missourians who are interested in particular rules may sign up on the secretary of state's website for email notification of rule filings by rule number or subject matter.

Thomas A. Schweich

State Auditor

Elected November 2, 2010
Term expires January 2015

TOM SCHWEICH (Republican) was sworn in as Missouri's 36th state auditor in January 2011. Auditor Schweich is a fifth-generation Missourian and a graduate of St. Louis County Public Schools, Yale and Harvard Law School. Tom and his wife, Kathy, have two children, Emilie and Thomas Jr.

One of Auditor Schweich's priorities is making information about government spending readily accessible to Missouri taxpayers, and he has implemented several initiatives to that end. In his first months in office, Auditor Schweich instituted a plain-language Citizens Summary and a grading system to assist in the interpretation of audit findings. Schweich also focused on ensuring governmental entities are held accountable for the efficient use of public funds. Soon after taking office, he created a rapid response program to respond quickly to serious allegations of waste, fraud or abuse and a follow-up process to ensure that recommendations for improvement made in the audits are implemented, and he continues to advocate identifying the best practices in government and applying those principles across agencies as appropriate.

Auditor Schweich has had a distinguished career, during which he has gained extensive experience in conducting investigations and rooting out corruption in the private and public sectors. Schweich began his professional career at the law firm of Bryan Cave LLP, where he practiced law for over 20 years, focusing on government contracts, corporate internal investigations and audits, litigation and commercial disputes.

In 1999 and 2000, Schweich was appointed chief of staff for the Danforth Special Counsel investigation into the conduct of the U.S. government in connection with the 1993 siege of the Branch Davidian compound at Waco, Texas. Schweich then served as chief of staff to three United States Ambassadors to the United Nations. There, he helped uncover the Oil for Food Scandal and helped root out corruption at the United Nations.

Later, he served as Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary of State and Acting Assistant Secretary of State at the Bureau for International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs in the State Department (INL). At INL, Auditor Schweich oversaw the activities of 4,000 people in over 40 countries with an annual budget of $2.5 billion. He helped design and implement programs devoted to police training, justice sector building, counternarcotics, counterterrorism, anti-money laundering, border security and anticorruption. In his capacity as a senior U.S. international law enforcement official, Schweich led diplomatic missions to approximately 30 countries, including Pakistan, Nigeria, Botswana, Kenya, South Africa, Russia, Colombia, Guatemala, Poland, France, Germany, Hungary, Japan, Mexico and Canada.

From 2007–2008, Auditor Schweich served as the US Coordinator for Counternarcotics and Justice Reform in Afghanistan. In March 2007, President Bush accorded Schweich the personal rank of Ambassador. In Afghanistan, Schweich's work helped curtail the opium production across the country and rebuild the country's legal infrastructure and law enforcement bodies.

Auditor Schweich is the author of three books: Protect Yourself from Business Lawsuits (and Lawyers Like Me) (Simon & Schuster 1998), Crashproof Your Life (McGraw-Hill 2002) and Staying Power (McGraw-Hill 2003). He also recorded the popular audio CD series on personal finance, Protect Your Wealth, published by Nightingale-Conant in 2004. He has written numerous articles and opinion pieces on foreign policy, politics and the economy that have appeared in The New York Times, The Washington Post, USA Today, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Canada's Globe and Mail and other publications from Germany to Japan. He has been interviewed by hundreds of media outlets around the world from CNN to BBC, and was a regular contributor to KSDK-TV (NBC) in St. Louis on foreign policy issues.

Duties

The state auditor's office is Missouri's independent watchdog agency, charged with conducting audits of approximately 200 state agencies and programs, including boards, commissions, elected officials and the General Sssembly. The state auditor is also responsible for auditing the state's 45 judicial circuits (including approximately 400 municipal divisions), 89 of the state's 114 counties and the state's expenditure of federal awards. The state auditor may audit school districts. Upon receipt of a petition by local voters, the state auditor also audits other political subdivisions. Approximately 20 petition audits of local government entities are performed each year.

In addition to fulfilling the primary auditing duties of the office, the state auditor reviews all property tax rates set by local political subdivisions and drafts fiscal notes and fiscal note summaries for initiative petitions. The state auditor also examines and registers general obligation bonds issued by political subdivisions of the state to ensure that each bond complies with state law.

The powers of the state auditor are constitutional, derived from Article IV, Section 13 of the Missouri Constitution. Most legal duties are detailed in Chapter 29 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri.

Audits

Audits are performed to determine if tax dollars are being spent efficiently, economically and legally and to determine how well governmental agencies and elected officials are protecting taxpayers' dollars from fraud, waste and abuse. All audits are conducted in an impartial, nonpartisan manner and in accordance with government auditing standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

The state auditor's office performs financial and performance audits, which also include review of management practices. Financial records of auditees are examined to determine how the auditee accounted for funds under its control. The state auditor's office reviews the auditee's systems and controls to ensure taxpayer dollars are protected against fraud, waste and abuse. The auditee's compliance with constitutional provisions, laws, legislative appropriation levels and administrative rules is also reviewed. Management practices are reviewed for efficiency and accountability.

Completed financial audits contain a formal opinion from the state auditor regarding the fair presentation of financial statements. A management advisory report listing any management weaknesses discovered during the audit is also included. Findings and recommendations in the management advisory report are reviewed with the auditee at an exit conference prior to the release of the audit so the responses from the auditee may be included in the final report.

Rapid Response and Audit Follow-Up

In early 2011, Auditor Schweich unveiled a rapid response program and an audit follow-up initiative aimed at increasing accountability in state government for the taxpayers of Missouri. The rapid response program, dubbed the Auditor's Swift Assessment Program (ASAP), focuses on serious allegations of fraud, waste or abuse, while the follow-up program, the Auditor's Follow-up Team to Effect Recommendations (AFTER), ensures audit recommendations are implemented in a timely manner.

The rapid response and follow-up functions are performed by audit staff with the guidance of the office's chief litigation counsel. The state auditor may activate the rapid response team, ASAP, when there is substantial, credible evidence of fraud; violations of state or federal law, rule or regulation; significant misappropriation, mismanagement, or waste of public resources; significant risk of loss of confidence of the people in their government due to fiscal abuse or mismanagement; and the need for immediate action to preserve relevant evidence and/or prevent continued harm. The rapid response team quickly secures any evidence, assesses the situation and determines whether a full audit and/or referral to another agency is warranted.

The audit follow-up program, AFTER, monitors the implementation of audit recommendations. The state auditor's office works with audited entities to establish a reasonable timeline for the implementation of audit recommendations, with a particular focus on those findings requiring immediate management attention. AFTER is responsible for following-up with audited entities to ensure implementation commitments are kept. The state auditor's office publishes an annual status report to track the implementation of audit recommendations.

Audit Publications

All audit reports issued by the state auditor are public documents. Reports are available on the state auditor's website and distributed electronically to the public and members of the media. Citizens may sign up for email alerts when audit reports are issued by visiting the state auditor's website at www.auditor.mo.gov. Citizens may request paper copies of any audit report by writing to PO Box 869, Jefferson City, MO 65102 or by calling (800) 347-8597.

Public Information and Outreach

The state auditor announces the commencement of each new audit and regularly requests information from citizens, legislators and government employees to assist in identifying problems. Citizens are urged to contact the state auditor if they have information they believe would be useful while performing these audits. All sources of information are kept confidential.

Auditor Schweich is dedicated to helping government officials identify best practices and make lasting improvements for the taxpayers of Missouri. The state auditor, audit directors and audit managers frequently speak to groups and organizations on proper controls and procedures and the importance of compliance and transparency in state government.

Citizens can contact the state auditor's office by calling the toll-free hotline at (800) 347-8597 or by emailing moaudit@auditor.mo.gov.

Clint Zweifel

State Treasurer

Elected November 4, 2008
Term expires January 2013

CLINT ZWEIFEL (Democrat) was sworn in as Missouri's 45th state Treasurer on Jan. 12, 2009, becoming Missouri's youngest state treasurer in more than a century. He was elected Nov. 4, 2008, by more than 92,000 votes.

Zweifel's strategic priorities include economic investment and putting Missourians back to work, increasing access to high-quality affordable higher education and running an efficient and accountable office.

Since taking office, Treasurer Zweifel has focused on creating and retaining Missouri jobs by championing his 2009 jobs and economic development legislative package, which passed the legislature unanimously. The law has helped thousands of Missouri small businesses and farms by making low-interest loans available through the Missouri Linked Deposit Program. Additionally, new investments policies made possible by the 2009 law are providing taxpayers a fair return on state investments for the first time in more than half a century.

Treasurer Zweifel continues to push for increased access to affordable, quality higher education through MOST, Missouri's 529 College Savings Plan, which he leads. Under his leadership, use of MOST 529 has grown to an all-time high. In February 2011, Treasurer Zweifel announced his administration had lowered management fees of MOST 529 by 44 percent—saving Missourians $18.5 million. In addition to lowering fees, he secured a $500,000 financial assistance package to reward Missourians saving for college.

As Missouri's Chief Financial Officer, Treasurer Zweifel is responsible for management of the state's investments. He oversees $23 billion in annual state revenues, directs banking services and oversees Missouri's $3.6 billion investment portfolio. His flawless management of the state's revenues and investments is critical to the state maintaining its AAA bond rating.

Safeguarding and returning $600 million in unclaimed property turned over by banks, businesses, insurance companies and government agencies is the responsibility and priority of Treasurer Zweifel. He has set records for unclaimed property returns each year in office, while cutting spending and maintaining service and quality. Wait times have been cut in half because he started a 100 percent paperless claim process and an email notification system.

To protect veterans and their families, Treasurer Zweifel developed and passed the Veterans Medal Bill in 2010. The law makes it illegal for unclaimed military medals held as unclaimed property to ever be auctioned by Treasurer Zweifel or any future state treasurer. Additionally, the law allows Treasurer Zweifel to work with veteran's organizations and local museums to increase awareness of the unclaimed military medals and return them.

Between May 2009 and May 2010, Treasurer Zweifel chaired the state's housing commission. In that time he oversaw a $630 million investment in housing that created 2,600 jobs and housing for 10,000 Missourians that will last for 30 years. He continues to work toward providing quality affordable housing for all Missourians by strategically tackling homelessness in Missouri. In May 2010, he unveiled a plan to dedicate 33 percent of all state housing resources to the creation of housing specifically for those with mental illness. This plan has created 191 units of specialized housing to meet the needs of Missouri's veterans, moms, dads, sons and daughters.

A transparent and accountable administration is one of Treasurer Zweifel's core principles. While chair of the state's housing agency he implemented live webcasting of meetings and has been a watchdog for transparency on the state's pension fund. He strives to make as many records as possible from his administration available online.

Prior to serving as State Treasurer, Zweifel represented the 78th District in the Missouri House of Representatives for six years. His district covered parts of northwest St. Louis County, including parts of Bridgeton, Florissant and Hazelwood.

Born Nov. 3, 1973, in St. Louis, Treasurer Zweifel grew up in nearby Florissant. His dad is a retired union carpenter and his mom is a retired hairdresser. He graduated from Hazelwood West High School in 1992. Treasurer Zweifel was the first member of his family to attend college. He graduated from the University of Missouri–St. Louis with a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science in 1996 and a Master of Business Administration in 2001.

Treasurer Zweifel resides in Columbia with his wife, Janice, and their two wonderful girls, Selma and Ellie.

Duties

State Treasurer Clint Zweifel is Missouri's chief financial officer, making all investments for the state of Missouri. He manages its $23 billion in annual state revenues, its banking services and its $4 billion investment portfolio. Treasurer Zweifel safeguards more than $600 million in unclaimed property, manages a $720 million low-interest loan program and leads the state's 529 college savings plan. He also serves on boards of a number of public entities. He is one of six statewide elected officials and serves a term of four years. A person may only serve as state treasurer for two terms.

Saving for Missouri's Future: Banking and Investments

As Missouri's chief financial officer, Treasurer Zweifel's management of state revenue and investments is critical to maintaining the state's AAA bond rating. While not an official bank, he must authorize payments and balance accounts. To protect taxpayers' money, Treasurer Zweifel maintains a separate accounting system to provide a check and balance on the state accounting system and distributes investment earnings to the proper funds. Treasurer Zweifel contracts with Missouri banks to process state receipts and disbursements, handle money and security transfers, report on the state's accounts, balances and payment activities and provide related banking services. Bidding for state banking services contracts is open to all Missouri banks.

Treasurer Zweifel determines the amount of state funds not needed for current operating expenses and invests those funds in interest-bearing time deposits in Missouri banks, U.S. Treasury and federal agency securities, repurchase agreements, banker's acceptances and top-rated commercial paper. Safety is Treasurer Zweifel's number one priority in the investment of the public's funds. Treasurer Zweifel has an average of $4 billion invested daily. Thanks to his legislative package passed in 2009, taxpayers are earning a fair return on in-state investments for the first time in half a century. In fact, in the first year they earned more than $1.7 million in interest thanks to the new law.

Loans for Missouri Farmers and Small Business Owners: Missouri Linked Deposit Program

The Missouri Linked Deposit Program provides low-interest loans to small businesses and farms through partnerships with qualified Missouri lenders. Loan savings is usually 30 percent to the borrower. There is a $720 million statutory cap for the program. The loans can be used by small businesses with less than 100 employees, agricultural operations, beginning farmers, businesses that are adding jobs, entities making alternative energy investments, multi-family housing developments and local governments making community improvements.

This program was expanded by Treasurer Zweifel through his 2009 jobs and economic development legislative package. The legislation enhanced program eligibility to incentivize job creation, job retention and community reinvestment. Since taking office in 2009, Treasurer Zweifel has approved more than $735 million in loans impacting 12,000 jobs and farmers. Of that, $127 million in loans were approved that would not have been allowed before Treasurer Zweifel developed and worked to pass his 2009 jobs and economic development package that allows more farmers and business to qualify for loans.

In May 2011, Treasurer Zweifel implemented the Harmed-Area Emergency Loan Priority system, or HELP. HELP provides 24-hour loan approval for counties dealing with disasters. In the first three months, nearly $30 million in loans were approved impacting 1,000 jobs in areas affected by natural disasters.

Financial institutions and borrowers should visit www.treasurer.mo.gov to learn more about the program. Borrowers can find a list with more than 130 participating lenders and 350 branches throughout Missouri. The application process has been streamlined and takes about one week to complete.

Returning Missourians' Money: Unclaimed Property

Treasurer Zweifel is responsible for Unclaimed Property: Missouri's Largest Lost and Found. State law requires financial institutions, insurance companies, public agencies and other business entities to turn over assets that belong to a customer, client, employee or other owner if there have been no documented transactions or contact with the owner for five or more years. Treasurer Zweifel operates an aggressive program to return unclaimed assets to the original owners or their legal heirs. He set unclaimed property records during fiscal year 2011 by returning more than $36 million to 120,000 account owners.

Most unclaimed property consists of cash from bank accounts, stocks, bonds and contents of safe deposit boxes that have been abandoned. It also can include uncollected insurance policy proceeds, government refunds, utility deposits and wages from past jobs. Unclaimed property does not include real property such as land, houses, cars or boats.

Treasurer Zweifel is dedicated to protecting the military medals and honors turned over to his office in safe deposit boxes. When Treasurer Zweifel took office, he found that unclaimed military medals were being sold as part of the statutorily required unclaimed property auctions. He immediately put a stop to this practice and set to work on legislation that would ensure that no future Treasurer could sell medals either. In June of 2010, the Veteran's Medal Bill was signed into law after passing through the House and Senate unanimously.

In June 2011, Treasurer Zweifel placed the first Unclaimed Property military medals on display as part of a partnership with the Missouri State Museum made possible by the Veterans Medal Bill. The Distinguished Service Cross and French Cross of War earned by a World War I doctor represent the hundreds of service men and women that have sacrificed for the state of Missouri and our country. Treasurer Zweifel continues to work with veterans' organizations and museums to locate and preserve the medals and honors that remain in his care.

Treasurer Zweifel is currently holding more than $600 million in unclaimed property in more than 3.5 million owner accounts. All unclaimed property is held in trust forever and may be claimed at any time. To recover unclaimed property, claimants must be either the original owner of the property or a legal heir. Treasurer Zweifel provides all services free of charge. Individuals can check to see if Treasurer Zweifel is holding unclaimed property that may belong to them, sign-up for email notifications and file paperless claims at www.showmemoney.com.

Access to an Affordable College Education: MOST–Missouri's 529 College Savings Plan

Treasurer Zweifel chairs the Missouri Higher Education Savings Program Board, which oversees MOST–Missouri's 529 College Savings Plan. Developed in 1999, MOST 529 encourages Missouri families to save for higher education, while taking advantage of significant federal and state tax benefits. Accounts can be opened through the do-it-yourself direct-sold MOST 529 Plan or through the advisor-sold MOST 529 Plan with as little as $25 or $15 through payroll deduction. Contributions of up to $8,000 ($16,000 for married couples) annually can be deducted from Missouri income taxes, and all earnings are free of federal and state income taxes. Funds from MOST 529 accounts can be used to pay for all eligible educational expenses at virtually any two-year or four-year college or university, vocational, technical or professional school anywhere in the country. As of July 2011, MOST 529 has more than $1.7 billion in assets, with more than 129,000 account owners, each an all-time high.

To open a direct-sold MOST 529, call toll free: 1-888-414-MOST, or visit www.missourimost.org. To open a MOST 529 advisor-sold account, contact your financial advisor, call 1-800-617-5097 or visit www.most529advisor.com.

Representing Taxpayers: Boards and Commissions

Treasurer Zweifel serves on the governing boards of four large public entities: the Missouri Housing Development Commission, which assists in the creation of affordable housing for Missourians; the Missouri State Employees' Retirement System, which manages retirement funds for more than 56,000 state employees and retirees; the Board of Fund Commissioners, which issues, redeems and cancels state general obligation bonds and other debt; and the Missouri Higher Education Savings Program Board, which oversees MOST–Missouri's 529 College Savings Plan. Treasurer Zweifel also serves on the Missouri Cultural Trust Board.

Open and Accountable Government

Treasurer Zweifel is committed to a transparent and accountable administration. He maintains an open government portal at www.treasurer.mo.gov/opengovernment.aspx. Citizens may access investment returns, office policies, meeting minutes and other public information through this portal. Sunshine requests may also be filed electronically via the site.

Chris Koster

Attorney General

Elected November 4, 2008
Term expires January 2013

CHRIS KOSTER (Democrat) was sworn in as the 41st attorney general for Missouri on January 12, 2009. Since becoming attorney general, Koster has focused efforts on detecting and prosecuting Medicaid fraud, cracking down on fraudulent auto service contract businesses, using Missouri's legal authority to protect our water resources, educating young people about Internet safety and making local public officials aware of their obligations under Missouri's open records laws.

Through the office's Consumer Division, Koster is working to focus efforts on the biggest threats to consumers. Early in his term, as the state and nation were deep in a housing-foreclosure crisis, the attorney general demanded a "zero tolerance" campaign against businesses that promised foreclosure relief without delivering services, as well as against businesses that used deceptive practices to entice consumers to refinance. The attorney general also is aggressively targeting businesses that violate Missouri's no-call list, pursuing substantial penalties against them.

The attorney general also has established a permanent unit in his office to focus on shutting down and prosecuting substandard dog breeders to improve Missouri's reputation and the treatment of dogs in the state.

Before his election as attorney general, Koster represented the 31st district in the Missouri Senate from 2004 to 2008, which covers Cass, Johnson, Bates and Vernon counties.

During his time in the General Assembly, Koster played key roles in the debates over stem cell research, tort reform and the elimination of Medicaid fraud. Additionally, in 2006, Koster successfully carried legislation in the Senate to dramatically overhaul Missouri's eminent domain laws.

Prior to his election to the Missouri Senate in 2004, Koster served as prosecuting attorney of Cass County for 10 years. He was first elected prosecutor in 1994 and was subsequently re-elected in 1998 and 2002 by wide margins. As prosecutor, Koster supervised a staff of 20 individuals dedicated to enforcing Missouri's criminal laws in Cass County. Additionally, his office served as the civil counsel for all non-criminal matters before the county government.

During his tenure, Koster supervised litigation in approximately 20,000 cases. He led investigations into many of Kansas City's most notorious criminal cases, including the investigation and prosecution of serial killer John E. Robinson. He has developed extensive trial experience and has argued and won cases before the Missouri Supreme Court. He played a leading role in the construction of the Cass County Justice Center, which opened in 2002 in Harrisonville.

Koster is active in his community. He has served on the Missouri Sentencing Advisory Commission and our state's Bioterrorism Task Force. Additionally, Koster has served as a director of the Missouri Association of Prosecuting Attorneys, a member of the U.S. Attorney's Anti-Terrorism Task Force and director of the Hope Haven Women's Shelter. In 2002, Ingram's Magazine named Koster "one of Kansas City's most influential citizens under 40 years old." In 2004, the Kansas City Business Journal named Koster to its list of Kansas City's best attorneys. On multiple occasions, he has been included among Missouri's most influential lawyers by Missouri Lawyers Weekly.

Prior to becoming prosecuting attorney, Koster practiced law with the Kansas City law firm of Blackwell Sanders from 1993 to 1994. He also served as a Missouri Assistant Attorney General from 1991 to 1993.

Koster was born and raised in St. Louis. After graduating from St. Louis University High School in 1982, he received a liberal arts degree from the University of Missouri–Columbia in 1987 and his law degree from University of Missouri–Columbia School of Law in 1991. Additionally, Koster earned a Masters in Business Administration from Washington University in St. Louis in 2002.

The attorney general is the attorney for the state, representing the legal interests of Missouri and its state agencies.

As the state's chief legal officer, the attorney general must prosecute or defend all appeals to which the state is a party, including every felony criminal case appealed to the Missouri Supreme Court and Courts of Appeal. The attorney general also is required to institute, in the name and on behalf of the state, all civil suits and other proceedings that are necessary to protect the state's rights, interests or claims. The attorney general may appear, interplead, answer or defend any proceedings that involve the state's interests or appear on behalf of the state in declaratory judgment proceedings when the constitutionality of a statute is challenged.

The attorney general also renders official opinions to the executive and legislative branch and the county prosecuting attorneys on questions of law relating to their duties. The attorney general may institute quo warranto proceedings against anyone unlawfully holding office or move to oust any public official for malfeasance in office.

The attorney general's office was created in 1806 when Missouri was part of the Louisiana Territory. Missouri's first Constitution in 1820 provided for an appointed attorney general, but since the 1865 Constitution, the attorney general has been elected.

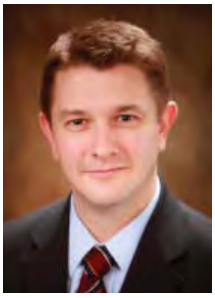
By law, the attorney general is a member of the Board of Fund Commissioners, the Board of Public Buildings, the Governor's Committee on Interstate Cooperation, the Missouri Highway Reciprocity Commission and the Missouri Housing Development Commission.

To fulfill these and other responsibilities, the attorney general's office is organized into eight divisions.

Agriculture and Environment Division

The Agriculture and Environment Division aggressively protects Missouri's natural resources and agricultural productivity. The division's attorneys take legal action to stop pollution, seek monetary fines and penalties and, in the most serious cases, to criminally prosecute those who violate Missouri's environmental laws.

The division works to protect and enhance agriculture and the quality of life for rural Missourians by enforcing Missouri's agricultural laws and advocating responsible public policy. The attorney general protects the state's interests in the Missouri River and other valuable resources, including state parks and waterways such as the Meramec and White River basin.



Division attorneys represent the Department of Natural Resources and its constituent boards and commissions, as well as the Department of Agriculture, in hundreds of active enforcement cases and administrative appeals. The division also cooperates with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Department of Justice and the U.S. Attorney's Office to enforce state and federal environmental laws.

Consumer Protection Division

The attorney general has the responsibility of protecting the public's interests in an open and honest marketplace. The Consumer Protection Division enforces Missouri's Consumer Protection Act and antitrust laws and has the responsibility of representing the commissioner of securities of the secretary of state's office. Missouri's consumer protection statutes prohibit deception, fraud, unfair practices and misrepresentation or concealment of material facts in the sale or advertisement of goods or services. These laws authorize the attorney general to take action against such fraud and ensure that consumers' rights are protected.

The division also has an active consumer education program. Consumers can file complaints or obtain information by calling the Attorney General's Consumer Hotline at (800) 392-8222 or online at www.ago.mo.gov. The division receives more than 90,000 consumer complaints and inquiries each year.

Under Missouri Antitrust Law, the attorney general has the authority to represent the state or any of its political subdivisions, public agencies, school districts or municipalities in actions to prohibit monopolies and trade restraints. The attorney general also may act under federal antitrust statutes to bring civil actions in the name of the state and on behalf of Missouri residents to recover damages for injuries caused by certain antitrust violations.

The attorney general is the state's chief prosecutor for securities fraud, and may initiate legal actions for civil injunctive relief, penalties and restitution under the Missouri Merchandising Practices Law. Attorneys in this division also protect Missourians by enforcing compliance with state laws by trusts, foundations and nonprofit corporations.

The No Call program to reduce unwanted telemarketing calls also is under the Consumer Protection Division. Missourians may register for No Call by calling 1-866-BUZZOFF (866-289-9633) or online at www.ago.mo.gov.

Criminal Division

The attorney general represents the state in every felony case appealed to the Supreme Court of Missouri and Missouri Court of Appeals. Each year, attorneys in the Criminal Division brief and argue more than 700 cases in the Missouri Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of our state. Division attorneys also assist local and state authorities with extraditions to and from Missouri of those charged in criminal cases.

Financial Services Division

The Financial Services Division protects Missourians by recouping money owed to the state or state agencies, including providing collection services to several divisions of the attorney general's office and more than 40 other state agencies. Division attorneys also take legal action to establish, maintain and modify child support obligations and work to recover money owed by inmates to reimburse the state for the cost of their care.

Governmental Affairs Division

The Governmental Affairs Division protects the safety and well-being of Missourians by ensuring that regulated professionals adhere to state laws and disciplinary rules, by enforcing state ethics and campaign finance laws and by enforcing penalties against nursing homes for violating standards of care and removing caregivers who abuse or neglect vulnerable citizens. They also help mentally ill and physically challenged Missourians obtain guardians to help obtain care.

The division provides legal representation to state officers, including the secretary of state, treasurer and auditor, as well as several state agencies, including the departments of Health and Senior Services, Mental Health, and Social Services; the Missouri Ethics Commission; the Health Facilities Review Committee; and more than 30 professional licensing boards. Division attorneys also defend constitutional challenges to state laws and ballot issues. Division attorneys enforce the provisions of the tobacco Master Settlement Agreement, which has brought in more than $1.5 billion to the state as of April 2009. Attorneys in the division also address questions from the public, from government officials and from the media about Missouri's open meetings and records law, commonly known as the Sunshine Law.

Labor Division

The Labor Division provides general counsel and litigation services for the Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations and its officers and agencies. The division also represents the state in crime victims' claims and workers' compensation cases of state employees, including claims involving the Second Injury Fund.

Litigation Division

Litigation division attorneys handle major and complex litigation for Missouri, providing legal defense to state officials, state agencies and their employees. Cases in the division include damage claims, contract actions, class-action lawsuits, employment issues, constitutional challenges, suits seeking injunctive relief and other types of civil litigation.

The division defends the state in lawsuits brought by inmates of Missouri's correctional facilities. Division attorneys also defend constitutional challenges to state laws and ballot issues. Attorneys in the litigation division defend lawsuits filed against the police boards and the police officers of the cities of St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo.

The division also represents the Missouri Commission on Human Rights in cases before the Administrative Hearing Commission and in all subsequent court actions. The division enforces the Missouri Human Rights Act and takes action on behalf of Missouri citizens in discrimination cases. The division enforces state interests regarding the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Federal Fair Housing Act.

Finally, the division protects and enforces workers' rights in Missouri under the prevailing wage and minimum wage laws, and Missouri's unauthorized workers law.

Public Safety Division

The Public Safety Division is involved in a wide range of criminal prosecutions at the trial level. The division's special prosecution unit prosecutes or assists in the prosecution of cases throughout Missouri, many of them homicide cases. In 2010, division attorneys had more than 483 active special prosecutions throughout the state's 114 counties and the City of St. Louis. The unit also specializes in handling criminal cases involving the manufacture, sale or possession of methamphetamine.

The workers' compensation fraud unit prosecutes fraud or misconduct involving workers' compensation, and the Medicaid fraud control unit prosecutes cases involving fraud of the state Medicaid program by health professionals, and prosecutes abuse or neglect of Medicaid recipients by caregivers.

The division's high technology and computer crime unit assists local law enforcement with investigations and prosecutions of computer and Internet crime cases. The sexually violent predator unit seeks the civil commitment of sexual predators who suffer from a mental abnormality making them more likely than not to commit additional predatory acts of sexual violence.

Attorneys in the division also serve as legal counsel for the Department of Public Safety, the Missouri State Highway Patrol, the Missouri State Water Patrol and other state law enforcement agencies, and represent those agencies in all civil litigation to which they are a party. Division attorneys also defend the state in all habeas corpus actions filed by prison inmates in state and federal courts. Each year they litigate some 500 federal habeas corpus actions in the federal district courts, the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals, and the U.S. Supreme Court.

[1]Welch was appointed attorney general by provisional Governor Gamble when Knott refused to take a loyalty oath.

[2]Crittenden was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Aikman Welsh, who died in office. Crittenden only served until the end of that year.

[3]Baker ran and was elected as a Liberal Republican.

[5]Some held multiple terms as attorney general. In consideration of space, some are listed here only once.

Note: Like other state offices, except governor and lieutenant governor, the attorney general's office was filled by appointment from 1820-1852. The offices then became elective for four-year terms. They changed to two-year elective terms in 1868, and changed back to four-year elective terms in 1875.

Federal Government

Joseph A. Riley (far right) proudly pumps gas at the Standard Oil filling station located at the intersection of Skinker and Clayton in St. Louis in 1927. At the time the photo was taken, the neon sign seen in the background was the largest in the world, measuring 40 feet in diameter. The sign was brightly lit by over 5,600 bulbs and 2,900 feet of neon tubes. (photo courtesy of Jane Reilly Purcell)

The president and the vice president of the United States are elected every four years by a majority of votes cast in the electoral college. These votes are cast by delegates from each state who vote in accordance, traditionally, with the majority of the state's voters. States have as many electoral college votes as they have congressional delegates. Beginning in 2012, Missouri will have 10 electoral college votes—one for each of the eight U.S. Congress districts and two for the state's two seats in the U.S. Senate.

The president is the chief executive of the United States, with powers to command the armed forces, control foreign policy, grant reprieves and pardons, make certain appointments, execute all laws passed by Congress and present the administration's budget. The president earns $400,000 annually, with an allowance for expenses.

The vice president is selected by members of each national political committee and runs on the same ticket for the same term as the president. The vice president assumes the presidency if the president dies or resigns from the office, is incapacitated to the extent that he or she cannot exercise presidential duties for an extended period or is impeached. The vice president presides over the functions of the U.S. Senate and acts as emissary of the president. The vice president earns $227,300 annually, plus an allowance for expenses.

The tradition of the Cabinet dates back to the beginnings of the Presidency itself. Established in Article II, Section 2, of the Constitution, the Cabinet's role is to advise the president on any subject he may require relating to the duties of each member's respective office. It is made up of 15 cabinet members (or secretaries) who have the responsibility to operate each department. Secretaries are appointed by the president and serve at his or her pleasure. Cabinet secretaries earn $199,700 annually.

United States Capitol

Legislative Branch

www.house.gov / www.senate.gov

The U.S. Constitution provides for two legislative houses, known as the Congress. The Senate is composed of 100 members; two senators are elected from each state. The House of Representatives is composed of 435 members; the number of representatives is determined based on the population of each state. Beginning in 2012, Missouri will be allotted eight U.S. Representative seats.

Senators must be at least 30 years of age and be residents of the United States for at least nine years. They also must reside in the state they are elected to represent. Senators serve terms of six years, with one-third of the Senate membership elected every two years. Senators earn $174,000 annually, plus expenses.

Representatives must be at least 25 years of age and must have been residents of the United States for at least seven years. They also must reside in the state they represent. Representatives serve two-year terms and earn $174,000 annually, plus expenses.

Congress is in session for two years, beginning on January 3 of each year unless another date is specified. The presiding officer of the Senate is the vice president of the United States. The Senate also elects a president pro tem of the Senate to serve in the absence of the vice president. The president pro tem also represents the party in power and earns $193,400. The presiding officer of the House is called the speaker. The speaker traditionally represents the party in majority and earns $223,500.

Judicial Branch

The U.S. Supreme Court heads the nation's judicial branch of government. The Supreme Court is composed of nine justices, appointed for life. Supreme Court justices may only be removed by impeachment and trial by Congress. Justices receive $213,900 annually while the chief justice, who leads the court, earns $223,500.

The Supreme Court concerns itself with national issues or matters concerning the constitutionality of certain laws or findings. Decisions of the court are binding and overrule any other court decision.

Other Federal Courts

Immediately below the Supreme Court are the U.S. Courts of Appeals and the U.S. District Courts. The Courts of Appeals operate in 11 regions and the District of Columbia. Missouri is served by the Eighth Circuit. Appeals Court judges earn $184,500 annually.

There are 94 U.S. District Court districts with federal jurisdiction. Two of these are located in Missouri: the Eastern Missouri District and the Western Missouri District. Eastern District courts are located in St. Louis, Hannibal and Cape Girardeau, and the Western District courts are in Kansas City, St. Joseph, Springfield, Jefferson City and Joplin. Federal charges stemming from both civil and criminal suits generally begin in U.S. District Court. Judges in these courts earn $174,000 annually.

Barack H. Obama

United States President

Elected November 4, 2008
Term expires January 2013

BARACK H. OBAMA (Democrat) is the 44th President of the United States.

His story is the American story—values from the heartland, a middle-class upbringing in a strong family, hard work and education as the means of getting ahead and the conviction that a life so blessed should be lived in service to others.

With a father from Kenya and a mother from Kansas, President Obama was born in Hawaii on August 4, 1961. He was raised with help from his grandfather, who served in Patton's army, and his grandmother, who worked her way up from the secretarial pool to middle management at a bank.

After working his way through college with the help of scholarships and student loans, President Obama moved to Chicago, where he worked with a group of churches to help rebuild communities devastated by the closure of local steel plants.

He went on to attend law school where he became the first African-American president of the Harvard Law Review. Upon graduation, he returned to Chicago to help lead a voter registration drive, teach constitutional law at the University of Chicago and remain active in his community.

President Obama's years of public service are based around his unwavering belief in the ability to unite people around a politics of purpose. In the Illinois State Senate, he passed the first major ethics reform in 25 years, cut taxes for working families and expanded health care for children and their parents. As a United States Senator, he reached across the aisle to pass groundbreaking lobbying reform, lock up the world's most dangerous weapons and bring transparency to government by putting federal spending online.

He was elected the 44th President of the United States on November 4, 2008, and sworn in on January 20, 2009. He and his wife Michelle are the proud parents of two daughters, Malia, 12, and Sasha, 9.

First Lady Michelle Obama

When people ask First Lady Michelle Obama to describe herself, she does not hesitate to say that first and foremost she is Malia and Sasha's mom

A product of Chicago public schools, Mrs. Obama studied sociology and African-American studies at Princeton University. After graduating from Harvard Law School in 1988, she joined the Chicago law firm Sidley & Austin where she later met the man who would become the love of her life.

After a few years, Mrs. Obama decided her true calling was working with people to serve their communities and their neighbors. She served as assistant commissioner of planning and development in Chicago's City Hall before becoming the founding executive director of the Chicago chapter of Public Allies, an AmeriCorps program that prepares youth for public service. As First Lady, Mrs. Obama looks forward to continuing her work on the issues close to her heart—supporting military families, helping working women balance career and family, encouraging national service, promoting the arts and arts education and fostering healthy eating and healthy living for children and families across the country.

First Lady Michelle Obama

Joseph R. Biden Jr.

United States Vice President

Elected November 4, 2008
Term expires January 2013

JOSEPH ROBINETTE BIDEN JR. was born November 20, 1942, in Scranton, Pennsylvania, the first of four siblings. In 1953, the Biden family moved from Pennsylvania to Claymont, Delaware. He graduated from the University of Delaware and Syracuse Law School and served on the New Castle County Council. Then, at age 29, he became one of the youngest people ever elected to the United States Senate.

Just weeks after the election, tragedy struck the Biden family, when Biden's wife, Neilia, and their 1-year-old daughter, Naomi, were killed and their two young sons critically injured in an auto accident. Vice President Biden was sworn in to the U.S. Senate at his sons' hospital bedside and began commuting to Washington every day by train, a practice he maintained throughout his career in the Senate.

In 1977, Vice President Biden married Jill Jacobs. Jill Biden, who holds a Ph.D. in Education, has been an educator for over two decades and currently teaches at a DC-area community college. The vice president has three children: Beau, Hunter and Ashley. Beau serves as Delaware's Attorney General and recently returned home from Iraq where he served as a captain in the 261st Signal Brigade of the Delaware National Guard. Ashley is a social worker and Hunter is an attorney. Vice President Biden has five grandchildren: Naomi, Finnegan, Roberta Mabel (Maisy), Natalie and Robert Hunter.

As a Senator from Delaware for 36 years, Senator Biden established himself as a leader on some of our nation's most important domestic and international challenges. As chairman or ranking member of the Senate Judiciary Committee for 17 years, then-Senator Biden was widely recognized for his work on criminal justice issues including the landmark 1994 Crime Bill and the Violence Against Women Act. As chairman or ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee since 1997, then-Senator Biden played a pivotal role in shaping U.S. foreign policy. He has been at the forefront of issues and legislation related to terrorism, weapons of mass destruction, post-Cold War Europe, the Middle East and Southwest Asia.

Now, as the 47th Vice President of the United States, Joe Biden has continued his leadership on important issues facing the nation. The vice president was tasked with implementing the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, helping to rebuild our economy and lay the foundation for a sustainable economic future. He is also the chair of the administration's Middle Class Task Force, a major White House initiative targeted at raising the living standards of middle-class families in America. In addition, he is providing sustained, high-level focus for the administration on Iraq policy and has traveled to the country multiple times since being elected as vice president. Vice President Biden continues to draw on his vast foreign policy experience, advising the president on a multitude of international issues and representing our country to many regions of the world, including travel to Germany, Belgium, Chile, Costa Rica, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Serbia, Kosovo, Lebanon, Georgia, Ukraine, Iraq, Poland, Romania, the Czech Republic, Israel, the Palestinian Territories, Jordan, Spain, Egypt, Kenya, South Africa, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Finland, Russia and Moldova.

CLAIRE McCASKILL (Democrat) is a 4th-generation Missourian who has spent her entire life in the show-me state. Born in Rolla and raised in Lebanon and Columbia, Claire has never forgotten her roots. Claire's first home was Houston, Missouri, where her father William worked at the McCaskill feed mill. Later, the family moved to Lebanon, hometown of Claire's mother Betty Anne where her mother's family ran the corner drugstore in town.

After another move, Claire attended Hickman High School in Columbia while her father served as a state insurance commissioner and her mother became Columbia's first woman city council member. At Hickman High School, Claire graduated near the top of her class and was deeply involved in student activities, while also working in a fabric store as she sewed many of her own clothes.

The day after graduation, Claire left town for a job busing tables at Lodge of the Four Seasons at Lake of the Ozarks. Waitressing for six years helped Claire work her way through college and law school at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

Claire clerked for the Missouri Court of Appeals in Kansas City and got a job as an assistant prosecutor in Kansas City where she was a felony trial prosecutor handling sex crimes and homicides and specializing in arson cases. In 1982, McCaskill won a seat in the state Legislature. She juggled the responsibilities of both mother and legislator and was the first woman to ever give birth while she was an active member of the Missouri Legislature.

Claire broke new ground again in 1993 when she became the first female Jackson County Prosecutor, which included Kansas City. This was the largest prosecutor's office in the state, and she began many new programs, including a domestic violence unit and one of the nation's first drug courts. She held this position until she was sworn in as Missouri auditor in 1999.

As state auditor, Claire has been credited for revolutionizing the office and making it into a true watchdog for taxpayers and citizens. In 2004, Claire took on her own party establishment and became the first person to ever defeat a sitting Missouri governor in a primary election.

In November 2006, Claire became the first woman elected to the United States Senate from Missouri, vowing to bring Harry Truman's no-nonsense style of accountability back to Washington. It only seemed fitting that her place in the Senate chamber is a desk shared by none other than Senator Truman himself.

Claire sits on four Senate committees, including Armed Services, Commerce, Homeland Security and Government Affairs (HSGAC) and Aging. Claire is chair of the HSGAC Subcommittee on Contracting Oversight and hopes to root out government waste. Additionally, Claire chairs the Armed Services Subcommittee on Readiness and Management Support.

After a busy week in Washington, Claire returns home to St. Louis to a full house. After seven years as a single mom, Claire married Joseph Shepard, a St. Louis businessman, in April 2002. They each brought children to the marriage, which created a blended family that includes seven children: Benjamin, Carl, Marilyn, Michael, Austin, Maddie and Lily. Claire's 82-year-old mother Betty Anne lives with the family and continues to join her on trips around Missouri.

ROY BLUNT (Republican) was elected by the people of Missouri to the United States Senate in 2010, building on a background as a public servant, university president and teacher.

Blunt is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee; the Senate Commerce, Science and Transportation Committee; the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence; and the Senate Rules Committee. He serves as the ranking Republican on the Appropriations Subcommittee on Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration and Related Agencies. Blunt is also the ranking Republican on the Commerce Subcommittee on Competitiveness, Innovation and Export Promotion.

From 1996–2008, the people of southwest Missouri overwhelmingly elected Blunt seven times to the U.S. House of Representatives. Blunt was elected by his colleagues to serve as House majority whip and Republican wWhip three times, and he became the majority whip earlier in his career than any member of Congress in eight decades. As whip, the second highest Republican in the House, he led a team of deputies and assistants that columnist Robert Novak described as “the most efficient party whip operation in congressional history.” Senator Blunt is now a member of the Senate Republican Whip Team.

Before serving in Congress, Blunt was a history teacher, Greene County Clerk and chief election official, and in 1984 became the first Republican elected as Missouri’s Secretary of State in more than 50 years. Blunt, who holds a Master’s degree in history from Missouri State University, served four years as the president of his alma mater, Southwest Baptist University in Bolivar, Missouri.

Blunt is a member of the Smithsonian Council for American Art and is a State Historical Society of Missouri trustee.

The senator is married to Abigail Blunt. Blunt has four children: Matt Blunt, Missouri’s 54th Governor; Amy Blunt, an attorney in Kansas City; Andy Blunt, an attorney in Jefferson City; and Charlie Blunt. Blunt has six grandchildren: Davis Mosby, Ben Blunt, Branch Blunt, Eva Mosby, Allyson Blunt and Brooks Blunt.

[20]Jerry Litton died and E. Thomas Coleman was elected November 2, 1976, to complete the unexpired term. He was also elected to a full term beginning January 3, 1977.

[21]Jo Ann Emerson was elected to two terms in the 1996 general election. She ran as a Republican in the special election to serve out the remainder of the term in the seat held by her late husband, U.S. Rep. Bill Emerson, who died in June 1996. With not enough time for her name to be added to the ballot for the next full term in Congress, Jo Ann Emerson ran for the upcoming term as an Independent. She won both elections and began her congressional service during the 104th Congress, representing Missouri's eighth district starting in November 1996.

Historical Note: The election of early Missouri delegates was by general statewide ticket. In 1847, the state was divided into five congressional districts from which representatives were elected. In 1863, the districts were expanded to number nine, and 10 years later in 1873, Missouri was redistricted to allow for 13 congressional districts. By acts approved in 1882 and 1885, Missouri was allowed one additional district and in 1893, the congressional districts numbered 15. Missouri was allowed 16 districts in 1901; these were in place until 1933. In that year, the state was allotted 13 representatives, while the legislature redistricted the state. Those 13 representatives were elected at large (indicated by an asterisk (*) in the listing). The state has been redistricted at various times over the last 40 years, moving from 11 districts in the 1950s, to 10 districts in the 1960s, to the current number of nine congressional districts in the 1980s. Because of the redistricting, it may be necessary to check the Revised Statutes of Missouri to determine which Missouri counties were represented by a district during a particular year. Redistricting changes generally occur in the years following the taking of the federal census.

The Missouri General Assembly

Legislative power in Missouri is vested by Section 1, Article III of the 1945 Constitution in the General Assembly, composed of the Senate and the House of Representatives. Their website is www.moga.mo.gov.

The Senate consists of 34 members elected for four-year terms. Senators from odd-numbered districts are elected in presidential election years. Senators from even-numbered districts are chosen in the midterm elections. Each senator must be at least 30 years of age, a qualified voter of the state for three years and of the district he or she represents for one year. The lieutenant governor is president and presiding officer of the Senate. In the absence of the lieutenant governor, the president pro tem, elected by the Senate members, presides.

The House of Representatives consists of 163 members, elected at each general election for a two-year term. A representative must be at least 24 years of age, a qualified voter of the state for two years and of the district he or she represents for one year. The House is presided over by the speaker, chosen by the members, and in the absence of the speaker by the speaker pro tem.

Reapportionment of both houses of the Missouri General Assembly following each decennial U.S. census is provided for by the Missouri Constitution.

Senators and representatives receive a salary of $39,515 per year, a weekly allowance for miles traveled going to and returning from their place of meeting and expenses for each day the General Assembly is in session.

Time of Meeting

The General Assembly convenes annually on the first Wednesday after the first Monday of January. Adjournment is midnight on May 30, with no consideration of bills after 6 p.m. on the first Friday after the second Monday in May. The General Assembly reconvenes on the first Wednesday following the second Monday in September for a period not to exceed 10 calendar days to consider vetoed bills.

A special session of the General Assembly may be called by petition of the General Assembly. If three-fourths of the members of the Senate and three-fourths of the members of the House sign the petition calling for a special session, the president pro tem of the Senate and the speaker of the House shall, by joint proclamation, convene the General Assembly in special session. The petition and proclamation must specifically state the subjects to be considered during the special session, and the signed petition must be filed with the secretary of state.

The General Assembly shall automatically stand adjourned sine die at 6 p.m. on the 30th calendar day after the convening of the special session unless it has adjourned sine die before the 30th day. No appropriation bill shall be considered in the special session if the General Assembly has not passed the operating budget in compliance with Article III, Section 25 of the Missouri Constitution.

The governor may convene the General Assembly in extraordinary session for a maximum of 60 calendar days at any time. Only subjects recommended by the governor in his or her call or a special message may be considered.

Organization of the General Assembly

Following the general election in November of even numbered years, the majority and minority members of each house caucus separately nominate candidates for the offices to be elected by each body and organize their parties for the coming session. Nominees of the majority party and minority party are elected. Each party names its floor leader, assistant floor leader, caucus chair and secretary.

Both houses of the General Assembly convene at noon on the opening day of the session. The Senate is called to order by the lieutenant governor. Temporary officers are named and the roll of new and incumbent senators is read. Newly elected senators are then sworn in, usually by a judge of the Supreme Court. The president pro tem and other permanent officers are then elected and take an oath of office administered by the president of the Senate.

The House of Representatives is called to order by the secretary of state and the oath is administered to all members. After the swearing-in ceremony, a roll call is taken and a temporary speaker is named. He or she presides for the nomination and election of permanent officers. Temporary rules, usually the rules in force for the preceding session, are adopted.

After each house notifies the other that it is duly organized, a House Resolution is adopted, inviting the Senate to a joint meeting to receive the governor's message. Under the Constitution, the governor, at the beginning of each session, delivers a message concerning state government with any recommendations he or she wishes to make for the enactment of legislation. This message is commonly referred to as the State of the State Address.

Each house determines its own rules, and procedures and rules may not be dispensed with, except by unanimous consent or concurrence by a constitutional majority. Both the Senate and House are required to keep a daily journal of their proceedings. At the end of the session, the journals are bound by the House and Senate. The secretary of state's office maintains microform copies of the journals.

Term Limits

In November 1992, the voters approved an amendment to the Missouri Constitution to limit for the first time the amount of total service in the House and Senate to eight years in each. Total legislative service was limited to sixteen years. In November 2002 voters approved an additional amendment to allow members elected through a special election, after the effective date, to serve the partial term and two full terms for the Senate and four full terms for the House, through a general election.

How Bills Become Laws

General Provisions

Bills may originate in either house and are designated as Senate Bills or House Bills, depending on the house in which they originate. No bill (except general appropriations bills) may contain more than one subject, which is to be expressed clearly in its title. No bill can be amended in its passage through either house so as to change its original purpose. No bill can be introduced in either house after the 60th legislative day of a session unless consented to by a majority of the elected members of each house. No appropriation bill shall be taken up for consideration after 6 p.m. on the first Friday following the first Monday in May of each year.

Introduction of a Bill

Missouri law provides for pre-introduction of bills beginning December 1 preceding the opening of the assembly session and continuing up to, but not including, the first day of session. Bills filed during the pre-introduction period are automatically introduced and read the first time on the opening day of session.

Bills also may be introduced by any senator or representative during session. Bills may be written by the legislator or by the staff of the Committee on Legislative Research at the request of a senator or representative. When introduced, a bill is assigned a number and read for the first time by its title. It then goes on the calendar for second reading and assignment to committee by the speaker of the House or the president pro tem of the Senate.

A public hearing before the committee to which a bill is assigned is the next step in the legislative process. Except in the case of unusually controversial, complex or lengthy bills, the bill is presented by its sponsor, and both proponents and opponents are heard in a single hearing. When hearings are concluded, the committee meets to vote and makes its recommendations. The committee may (1) report the bill with the recommendation that it "do pass;" (2) recommend passage with committee amendments, which are attached to the bill; (3) return the bill without recommendation; (4) substitute in lieu of the original bill a new bill to be known as a committee substitute; (5) report the bill with a recommendation that it "do not pass;" or (6) make no report at all.

Perfection of a Bill

If a bill is reported favorably out of committee or a substitute is recommended, it may be placed on the "perfection calendar." When it is brought up for consideration, it is debated on the floor of the originating house. If a substitute is recommended by the committee or if committee amendments are attached to the bill, they are first presented, debated and voted upon. At this point, further amendments can be proposed by other members. When all amendments and substitutes have been considered, a motion is made to declare the bill perfected. Perfection is voted on by a voice vote or, on the request of five members, by roll call. If a majority of members vote to perfect, the bill is reprinted in its original or amended form.

Final Passage of a Bill

After perfection and reprinting, the bill goes on the calendar for third reading and final passage. When the bill is reached in the order of business, any member may speak for or against its passage, but no further amendments can be offered. At the conclusion of debate, a recorded vote is taken. Approval of a constitutional majority of the elected members (18 in the Senate and 82 in the House) is required for final passage.

Passage of the bill is then reported to the other chamber where it is read a second time, referred to committee for hearing, reported by committee, read a third time and offered for final approval. If further amendments or substitutes are approved, these are reported to the originating house with a request that the changes be approved. If the originating house does not approve, a conference may be requested and members from each house are designated as a conference committee. Upon agreement by the conference committee (usually a compromise of differences), each reports to its own house on the committee's recommendation. The originating house acts first on the conference committee version of the bill. If it is approved it goes to the other house; upon approval there, the bill is declared "truly agreed to and finally passed." If either house rejects the conference committee report, it may be returned to the same or a newly appointed committee for further conferences.

Upon final passage, a bill is ordered enrolled, printed in its final form, and the bills are closely compared and proofed for errors.

Signing of the Bill

Bills truly agreed to and finally passed in their printed form are then signed in open session by the House speaker and Senate president or president pro tem. At the time of signing, any member may file written objections, which are sent with the bill to the governor.

Governor's Part in Lawmaking

The governor has 15 days to act on a bill if it is sent to him during the legislative session and 45 days if the Legislature has adjourned or has recessed for a 30-day period.

If he or she signs a bill, it is returned to its house of origin with a message of approval, then delivered to the Office of Secretary of State. The bill is delivered directly to the Office of Secretary of State if the Legislature is not in session.

If the governor vetoes a bill, it is returned to the house of origin with his or her objections. A two-thirds vote by members of both houses is required to override a governor's veto.

If any bill is not returned by the governor within the time limits prescribed by Article III, Section 31 of the Missouri Constitution, it will become law in the same manner as if the governor had signed it.

Effective Date of Laws

The 1945 constitution provides that no law passed by the General Assembly shall take effect until 90 days after the end of the session in which it was enacted, except an appropriation act or in case of an emergency, which must be expressed in the preamble or in the body of the act. Some bills specify the exact date when they are to take effect.

Duties of the Secretary of State

The secretary of state preserves and the state archives binds and maintains the finally printed and signed copy of the law. The laws are published annually by the Committee on Legislative Research in a volume titled Laws of Missouri.

The general statute laws are revised, digested and promulgated by the revisor of statutes, in the Office of the Committee on Legislative Research. These are known as the Revised Statutes of Missouri. The Committee on Legislative Research also publishes annual supplements to the statutes to include changes in laws since the last revision.

Joint Committee on Administrative Rules

Jefferson City 65101
Telephone: (573) 522-7980
www.senate.mo.gov/jcar

The Joint Committee on Administrative Rules (JCAR) was created in 1975 and is a permanent joint committee of the General Assembly as provided in Chapter 536, RSMo. The Committee is composed of five members of the Senate and five members of the House. In order to provide continuity in the operation of the committee, the statute authorizing the committee provides the appointment of each member shall continue during his or her term of office as a member of the General Assembly.

The Senate members are appointed by the president pro tem of the Senate, while the representatives are appointed by the House speaker. No more than three members from each chamber may be of the same political party.

Under state law, the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules is to continuously monitor and review both proposed and existing rules promulgated by the various executive branch departments and divisions of state government. Citizens or interested organizations that have concerns about rules issued by state agencies can contact the committee with their concerns. In its review, the committee is authorized to hold public hearings and review rules in question. Actions taken by the committee on rules and regulations of state agencies must be ratified by the full General Assembly through a concurrent resolution, which then must be signed by the governor. The goal of the Committee on Administrative Rules is to ensure a state agency does not exceed its statutory authority and that the agencies effectively accomplish their missions as mandated by the statutes.

The members of the committee are: Senators: Ridgeway, Goodman, Schmitt, Callahan, Justus. Representatives: Barnes, Carter, Richardson, Talboy, Smith (150th).

Joint Committee on Capital Improvements and Leases Oversight

www.senate.mo.gov/05info/comm/statutory/jcci.htm

The Joint Committee on Capital Improvements and Leases Oversight is a statutory committee. The duties of the committee are set forth in sections 21.530–21.537, RSMo. The committee is composed of ten members of the General Assembly; five members from the Senate Appropriations Committee and five members from the House of Representatives Budget Committee.

The committee reviews all information concerning capital improvement budgets and appropriations and monitors all leases and proposed leases to determine if the projects are in compliance with the intent of the General Assembly.

The members of the committee are: Senators: Curls, Green, Lembke, Pearce, Schaefer. Representatives: Parkinson, Kelly (24th), Silvey, Stream.

Joint Committee on Corrections

www.senate.mo.gov/07info/comm/statutory/jccr.htm

The Joint Committee on Corrections is a permanent, statutory committee of the General Assembly. It is composed of six members of the House of Representatives, appointed by the speaker, and six members of the Senate, appointed by the president pro tem. The duties of the committee are set forth in Section 21.455, RSMo.

The members of the committee are: Senators: Chappelle-Nadal, Curls, Kehoe, Lager, Wasson, Wright-Jones. Representatives: Black, Brown (50th), Largent, McGhee, Nasheed, Scharnhorst.

Joint Committee on Education

Room 502, State Capitol
Jefferson City 65101
www.senate.mo.gov/07info/comm/statutory/jced.htm

The Joint Committee on Education was created in 2004 and is a statutory committee of the General Assembly. It is composed of seven members of the Senate and seven members of the House. The committee meets to review and monitor the progress of education in the state's public schools, receive reports from the commissioner of education concerning the public schools, conduct a study and analysis of the public school system, make recommendations to the general assembly for legislative action and conduct an in-depth study concerning all issues relating to the equity and adequacy of the distribution of state school aid, teachers' salaries, funding for school buildings and overall funding levels for schools and any other education funding-related issues the committee deems relevant. Duties of the committee are set forth in Section 160.254, RSMo.

The members of the committee are: Senators: Chappelle-Nadal, Cunningham, Keaveny, Nieves, Pearce, Rupp, Schaefer. Representatives: Anders, Aull, Dieckhaus, Holsman, Lair, Schad, Thomson.

Joint Committee on Gaming and Wagering

www.senate.mo.gov/07info/comm/statutory/jcgw.htm

The Joint Committee on Gaming and Wagering was created as a permanent committee of the General Assembly in 1988. It is composed of five members of the Senate and five members of the House. The committee is responsible for, but not limited to, legislative review of all state authorized gaming and wagering activities including proposed constitutional and statutory changes or other pertinent information that may affect the integrity of these activities. The committee is authorized to meet and act year round, employ the necessary personnel within the limits of appropriations and to report its findings annually to the General Assembly. Duties of the committee are set forth in Section 313.001, RSMo.

The members of the committee are: Senators: Callahan, Crowell, Dempsey, Green, Rupp. Representatives: Holsman, Jones (117th), Kratky, Torpey, Zerr.

Joint Committee on Government Accountability

www.senate.mo.gov/07info/comm/statutory/jcga.htm

The Joint Committee on Government Accountability was created in 2004 by HB 1599. It is composed of seven members each of the House and the Senate. The bill requires continuing studies and analysis of state government; the determination of the appropriate methods to obtain relevant data at least biennially from each state entity in regard to its function, duties, and performance; and recommendations on any needed changes to statutory law, rules or policies.

The members of the committee are: Senators: Callahan, Green, Kraus, Lembke, Purgason, Schaefer. Representatives: Casey, McNary, Pollock, Quinn, Rizzo, Silvey

The Joint Committee on Missouri's Promise

The Joint Committee on Missouri's Promise is a statutory committee created in 2010 as part of HB 1965. It is composed of five members of the Missouri Senate and five members of the Missouri House of Representatives.

The Committee is charged with the following:

1. Examining issues that will impact the future of the state and its citizens;

2. developing long-term strategies and plans for increasing the economic prosperity of the state and citizens; improving the health status of our citizens; an education system that prepares students to be successful, productive and prepared for global competition; and investing and maintaining a modern infrastructure and transportation system;

3. developing long-term plans for meeting the goals of economic prosperity, improved health status, an improved education system and a modern infrastructure and transportation system; and

4. implementing budget forecasting for the upcoming ten years in order to plan for the long-term financial soundness of the state.

The members of the committee are: senators Pearce, Dempsey, Schmitt, Justus and Keaveny. Representatives: Day, McNary and Riddle.

Joint Committee on MO HealthNet

www.senate.mo.gov/09info/comm/statutory/jcmh.htm

The Joint Committee on MO HealthNet was created in 2007 and is a statutory joint committee under section 208.952, RSMo. Missouri's Medicaid program was renamed "MO HealthNet" and various new provisions pertaining to the program were adopted in that same year. The committee has been charged with the study of the resources needed to continue and improve the MO HealthNet program over time.

The committee consists of ten members of the General Assembly, five from the Senate and five from House of Representatives, with no more than three members of each house from the same party. In addition, the committee shall consist of members from the appropriate budget and appropriations committees assigned to MO HealthNet and health related matters.

The committee is tasked with making recommendations in a report to the general assembly by January 1 each year on anticipated growth in the MO HealthNet program, needed improvements, anticipated appropriations, and suggested strategies on ways to structure the state budget in order to satisfy the future needs of the program.

The members of the committee are: Senators: Justus, Ridgeway, Curls, Schaefer, Schmitt. Representatives: Kelly (24th), Sater.

The Committee on Legislative Research is a permanent joint committee as provided by Section 35 of Article III of the Missouri Constitution.

The committee is composed of 20 members of the General Assembly, with 10 members appointed by the leaders of each chamber. No major party may have more than six members appointed as members from either chamber.

The committee is directed by statute to provide a variety of services for the General Assembly and its members. The committee's offices and staff are divided into three divisions, a research division, an oversight division and the Legislative Budget Office. The committee itself is not a policy making group and formulates no legislative program. Its staff renders only such technical and professional assistance as may be requested by the General Assembly or any of its members, or as required by statute.

The Research Division provides bill drafting assistance, prepares concurrent and courtesy resolutions, operates a legislative reference library and publishes the Revised Statutes of Missouri and subsequent supplements, and Session Laws of Missouri.

Bills are drawn at the request of any member of the General Assembly but the fact that a bill has been drafted by a member of the staff does not carry with it the endorsement of the Committee on Legislative Research. All bill requests are treated confidentially by the bill drafter and without comment or criticism of the subject matter.

One need of state government is a modern legislative reference library. The library maintained by the Committee on Legislative Research continuously acquires books, pamphlets, periodicals and reports, and the staff works closely with the staff of the Missouri State Library and the Supreme Court Library.

Through its acquisitions, exchanges and loans with other libraries, the legislative library provides much of the material requested by members of the General Assembly for the analysis of public questions and provides a research tool for bill drafting and research services.

Courtesy resolutions continue to be of great importance to members of the General Assembly. More than 600 per month are prepared by the resolution-writers for a variety of observances.

The Oversight Division is supervised by a subcommittee of the Committee on Legislative Research. The Oversight Division is responsible for preparing fiscal notes on all bills pending before the General Assembly with the exception of appropriation bills. Fiscal notes must state the cost of the proposed legislation to the state for the next two fiscal years, whether the proposal would establish a program or agency that would duplicate an existing program or agency, whether the provisions of the proposal were federally mandated, whether the proposal would have significant direct fiscal impact upon any political subdivision of the state, whether any new physical facilities would be required and whether an impact to small businesses would be expected. The division prepares approximately 3,000 fiscal notes during a regular legislative session.

The Oversight Division is authorized to perform management and program evaluations of state agencies and is assigned work pursuant to a duly adopted concurrent resolution of the General Assembly or a resolution adopted by the Committee on Legislative Research. The division conducts the evaluations in accordance with government auditing standards set forth by the U.S. Government Accountability Office. The management and program evaluations of the division provide the General Assembly with important information regarding the status of programs they have created and the expenditure of funds they have authorized.

The members of the committee are: Senators: Crowell, Goodman, Green, Justus, Keaveny, Lager, Parson, Munzlinger, Schaefer, Wright-Jones. Representatives: Flanigan, Fallert, Jones (89th), Kelly (24th), Parkinson, Sifton, Smith (150th), Stream, Silvey.

Joint Committee on Public Employees Retirement

www.jcper.org

The Joint Committee on Public Employees Retirement (JCPER) was created in 1983 and is a permanent joint committee as provided in Chapter 21, RSMo.

The committee is composed of 12 members of the General Assembly; six appointed from the House of Representatives by the speaker and six appointed from the Senate by the president pro tem. No political party may be represented on the committee by more than three members from the Senate nor by more than three members from the House of Representatives.

The Joint Committee on Public Employees Retirement is directed by statute to:

1. Make a continuing study and analysis of all state and local government retirement systems;

2. devise a standard reporting system to obtain data on each public employee retirement system that will provide information on each system's financial and actuarial status at least biennially;

3. determine from its study and analysis the need for changes in statutory law; and

4. make any other recommendations to the General Assembly necessary to provide adequate retirement benefits to state and local government employees within the ability of taxpayers to support their future costs.

The committee is required to meet at least quarterly and may subpoena witnesses or records and may take testimony under oath in matters pertaining to public employee retirement.

The members of the committee are: Senators: Chappelle-Nadal, Crowell, Green, Keaveny, Lamping, Rupp. Representatives: Franz, Anders, Atkins, Brown, Pierson, Wieland.

Joint Committee on Tax Policy

Room 235C, State Capitol
Jefferson City 65101
Telephone: (573) 522-7995
www.senate.mo.gov/taxpolicy/

The Joint Committee on Tax Policy is a statutory committee of the General Assembly. It is composed of five members of the Senate and five members of the House of Representatives. It is the duty of the committee to:

1. Make a continuing study and analysis of the current and proposed tax policy of this state;

2. make a continuing study and review of the department of revenue, the department of economic development, the state tax commission, and any other state agency, commission, or state executive office responsible for the administration of tax policies;

3. study the effects of the coupling or decoupling with the federal income tax code as it relates to the state income tax;

4. make recommendations, as and when the committee deems fit, to the General Assembly for legislative action or to report findings and to the departments, commissions, and offices for administrative or procedural changes;

5. study the effects of a sales tax holiday; and

6. examine and assess the public benefit of any tax credit program that is the subject of an audit by the state auditor.

The members of the committee are: Senators Bray, Griesheimer, Lager, Vogel and Wright-Jones. Representatives: Calloway, Schoeller, Smith (14), Sutherland and Talboy.

Joint Committee on Terrorism, Bioterrorism and Homeland Security

Missouri's Judicial System

From its inception in 1820, Missouri state government constitutionally has been divided into three separate branches—legislative, executive and judicial. The judicial branch's function is not to make the laws of the state or to administer them but to adjudicate the controversies that arise between persons and parties, to determine fairly and justly the guilt or innocence of persons charged with criminal offenses and to interpret the laws of the state as enacted by the legislature and carried out by the executive branch.

The roots of Missouri's judicial branch reach back to the days when Missouri was a part of the Missouri Territory controlled by the French and Spanish. When Missouri officially was organized as a territory in 1812, the judicial power was vested in a superior court, inferior courts and justices of the peace. The Constitution of 1820, the state's first constitution, placed the judicial power in a Supreme Court, chancery courts (later abolished by the General Assembly) and circuit and other courts to be established by the legislature.

Today, Missouri has a three-tier court system. Article V of the constitution, as amended by Missouri voters in 1976, vests the judicial power in a Supreme Court, the state's highest court, with statewide jurisdiction; in a court of appeals consisting of districts established by the General Assembly; and in a system of circuit courts that have original jurisdiction over all cases and matters, civil and criminal.

Effective January 2, 1979, the circuit court system absorbed all former courts of limited jurisdiction and became the state's single trial court. Cases once heard in magistrate and probate courts, in the St. Louis Court of Criminal Corrections, in the Hannibal and Cape Girardeau Courts of Common Pleas and in municipal and other local courts now are heard in appropriate divisions of the circuit courts.

All the judges of these former courts have become either circuit, associate circuit or municipal judges. They may hear and determine different classes of cases within their respective circuits. A presiding judge, elected by the other judges in the circuit, has general administrative authority over all judicial personnel in the circuit. He or she may assign other judges throughout the circuit to relieve caseload and administrative backlogs. The Supreme Court and court of appeals have general superintending control over all courts and tribunals within their jurisdictions. Original remedial writs may be issued and determined at each level of the court system. Decisions of the Supreme Court are controlling in all other state courts.

Selection of Judges

In the first 30 years of Missouri's statehood, the judges of the supreme, circuit and chancery courts were appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. After much public discussion, the constitution was amended in 1850 to provide for the popular election of judges, and this system remains in effect for most Missouri courts today. In most circuits, the judges are elected by the voters in partisan elections.

In 1940, Missouri voters amended the constitution by adopting the "Nonpartisan Selection of Judges Court Plan," which was placed on the ballot by initiative petition and which provides for the nonpartisan (non-political) appointment of certain judges, rather than having them popularly elected.

The constitution, as amended further in 1976, provides that the Nonpartisan Court Plan applies in the Supreme Court, the court of appeals and the circuit courts within the city of St. Louis and Jackson County. In addition, voters in Clay, Greene, Platte and St. Louis counties have elected to institute the plan, and the Kansas City charter extends a nonpartisan selection plan to Kansas City municipal court judges. While all other judges are elected in partisan elections, other judicial circuits may adopt the plan on approval by a majority of the voters in the circuit.

Under the Missouri Plan, as it often is called nationally, a vacancy on a court to which the plan applies is filled through a nonpartisan judicial commission of lay persons and lawyers. The commission selects three persons from those who apply, based on merit. The governor then appoints one of the three. A judge appointed in this way must stand for retention in office at the first general election occurring after the judge has been in office for 12 months. The judge's name is placed on a separate judicial ballot, without political party designation, and the voters must vote either for or against retention in office. The judge's name again is placed on the ballot for a retention vote at certain intervals if the judge wishes to serve subsequent terms. The Missouri Plan has served as a national model for the selection of judges and has been adopted by a number of other states.

Every supreme, appellate, circuit and associate circuit court judge must be licensed to practice law in Missouri. By constitutional amendment and statute, all judges must retire by age 70.

History and Organization

The Supreme Court has been the state's highest court since 1820, when the first Missouri Constitution was adopted. The earliest court, consisting of only three members, was required to hold sessions in four different judicial circuits in the state. At various times, the court sat in Boonville, Cape Girardeau, Fayette, Hannibal, Jackson, Lexington, St. Charles, St. Louis and other cities.

The size of the Supreme Court was increased to five judges in 1872 and to its present size—seven judges—in 1890. Because of the court's increasing caseload, commissioners were appointed for a brief period in the 1880s. In 1911, the Legislature authorized the court to appoint four commissioners, and in 1927, the number was changed to six. The commissioners were required to possess the same qualifications as judges of the Supreme Court. They received the same compensation and were appointed for four-year terms. The commissioners heard cases along with the judges, and their written opinions, if approved by the court, were issued as opinions of the court.

Under terms of the 1970 constitutional amendment of article V, the offices of the commissioners ceased to exist when the individuals holding the offices retired, resigned, died or were removed from office.

In 1890, the Supreme Court was divided into two divisions to permit it to handle and decide more cases in a shorter time. Under the present constitution, the court may sit en banc (all seven judges together) or in as many divisions as the court determines are needed. Today, all cases are assigned to and decided by the court en banc.

Supreme Court Jurisdiction

Originally, the Supreme Court had only the traditional powers to decide cases on appeal from the lower courts (either the circuit courts or the court of appeals) and to issue and determine original remedial writs, such as those in habeas corpus, mandamus and prohibition. The Constitution of 1945 also authorized the court to establish rules for practice and procedure in the courts and to make temporary transfers of judicial personnel from court to court. Maintaining and updating the rules is a continuous process requiring substantial time. Each year, the Supreme Court, through its Office of State Courts Administrator, transfers several hundred court personnel on a temporary basis to assist other courts. This usually is done when a judge has been disqualified by the parties in a case or when a judge's docket has become overly crowded and the judge cannot handle all the cases expeditiously.

The constitutional amendments of 1976 and 1982 defined the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court more narrowly than in the past, resulting in its receiving fewer cases on appeal and directing more appeals to the court of appeals. Now the Supreme Court has exclusive appellate jurisdiction in all cases involving: the validity of a treaty or statute of the United States or of a statute or provision of the Missouri Constitution, the construction of the state's revenue laws, the title to any state office and the death penalty.

Cases do not have to fall within this area of exclusive jurisdiction, however, to reach the Supreme Court. The court may order cases transferred to it from the court of appeals if the cases involve questions of general interest or importance, if the court believes the existing law should be re-examined or for other reasons provided by rule of the court. The court of appeals also may order a case transferred to the Supreme Court either by order of the court of appeals itself or by the dissent of a court of appeals judge, if that judge certifies the court of appeals opinion is contrary to previous decisions of the Supreme Court or of other districts of the court of appeals.

In addition to its decision-making powers, the Supreme Court supervises all lower courts in the state. It is assisted in this task by its Office of State Courts Administrator, established in 1970. The Supreme Court also licenses all lawyers practicing in Missouri and disciplines those found guilty of violating the legal rules of professional conduct.

Qualifications and Terms

Supreme Court judges must be at least 30 years of age, U.S. citizens for 15 years and qualified Missouri voters for nine years. Supreme Court judges are retained for 12-year terms. They earn $137,034 annually. Compensation is determined by statute (section 476.405, RSMo).

Chief Justice

The seven judges of the Supreme Court select one of their members to be chief justice and preside over the court. The chief justice also handles many of the administrative details for the court. The present practice of the court is to rotate the position of chief justice every two years. The chief justice earns $139,534 annually. Compensation is determined by statute (section 476.405, RSMo).

The court hears oral arguments each month from September through May. Court sessions are open to the public, and oral arguments are broadcast live and are archived through the court's website, www.courts.mo.gov.

Supreme Court Building

The Supreme Court Building, a three-story, red brick structure of French Renaissance architecture, was completed in 1907 and stands opposite the Capitol Building. By statute, it houses the attorney general's offices as well as those of the Supreme Court. The building's main features are a massive marble staircase in the lobby and the two-story high library. The building has been refurbished extensively and modernized with the use of monies appropriated by the General Assembly.

Clerk's Office

The clerk of the Supreme Court is responsible for a wide range of duties, including the supervision of the internal administrative function of the court itself as well as the planning and administrative direction of the Judicial Conference of Missouri, the organization comprising all of the state judges.

Supreme Court Function

The court's day-to-day administrative duties include handling all inquiries and procedural requests from attorneys throughout the state, arranging the docketing (scheduling) of cases, maintaining files in each case before the court, receiving and disposing of fees related to those cases and printing and distributing opinions of the court. In all of these matters, the clerk reports directly to the chief justice.

Missouri Bar Responsibilities

www.mobar.org

The clerk of the Supreme Court has a number of additional duties relating to The Missouri Bar and supervising the admission of new attorneys.

Among the records required to be maintained by the clerk are the official and permanent roll of attorneys for the state of Missouri. The clerk's office also prepares, on request, certificates evidencing admission to The Missouri Bar. By Supreme Court rule, the clerk is treasurer of the state board of law examiners, which conducts bar examinations twice yearly. The clerk also supervises the court's semiannual enrollment ceremonies and prepares all attorney licenses.

By Supreme Court rule, the clerk is ex officio treasurer of both The Missouri Bar and the advisory committee and is responsible for collecting the annual attorney enrollment fee and distributing Missouri Bar membership cards to all attorneys licensed to practice in Missouri. He or she is responsible for maintaining the official records of The Missouri Bar and the bar fund and for preparing annual financial reports for publication in the Journal of The Missouri Bar. The clerk is also responsible for conducting annual elections for The Missouri Bar Board of Governors.

Security Administration

The Supreme Court's marshal is under the clerk's supervision. The marshal is responsible for the security of the building and its judges and employees. The marshal also acts as bailiff when the court is in session. In addition, the marshal is responsible for all homeland security matters as they affect the Supreme Court.

Supreme Court Library

www.courts.mo.gov

The Supreme Court Library, which is on the second floor of the Supreme Court Building, contains more than 110,000 volumes. These include decisions of state and federal courts as well as state and federal administrative agencies, Missouri approved jury instructions, state and federal statutes, legal periodicals and treatises. In addition, the library contains computer research services for the use of court personnel.

The library's main responsibility is to meet the research needs of the Supreme Court, the attorney general's office, the General Assembly and the state's executive department agencies, but it also provides resources to members of the bench and bar and the general public. It is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday throughout the year, excluding state holidays.

The office of Supreme Court Publications offers two monthly publications to lawyers and the public on a subscription basis. The Opinion Summary provides a brief digest of decisions from the Supreme Court, court of appeals and administrative hearing commission. It also provides summaries of opinion letters issued by the attorney general. The Pending Issues Digest provides a summary of all legal arguments raised in legal briefs filed in Missouri's appellate courts. Each publication includes a subject, statute, rule and case number index.

The publications office also publishes the Missouri Approved Instructions—Criminal and Missouri Approved Charges—Criminal.

To subscribe to any of these publications, which are also available online, visit the publications portion of the courts' website at www.courts.mo.gov.

Richard B. Teitelman

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court

RICHARD B. TEITELMAN opened a solo law practice after graduating from law school. In 1975, he joined Legal Services of Eastern Missouri, serving for 23 years — 18 of those as executive director and general counsel.

Judge Teitelman served on the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, from 1998 to 2002, when he was appointed to the Supreme Court of Missouri, becoming the first legally blind and the first Jewish member of the Court. He was retained in the 2004 general election. He was elected chief justice for a two-year term beginning July 1, 2011. He is the presiding officer of the Executive Council of the Judicial Conference of Missouri.

In his pursuit of equality and access to justice for all, Judge Teitelman is currently a member of the African-American/Jewish Task Force. He has served on the board of the American Jewish Congress. George W. Draper III

Judge of the Supreme Court

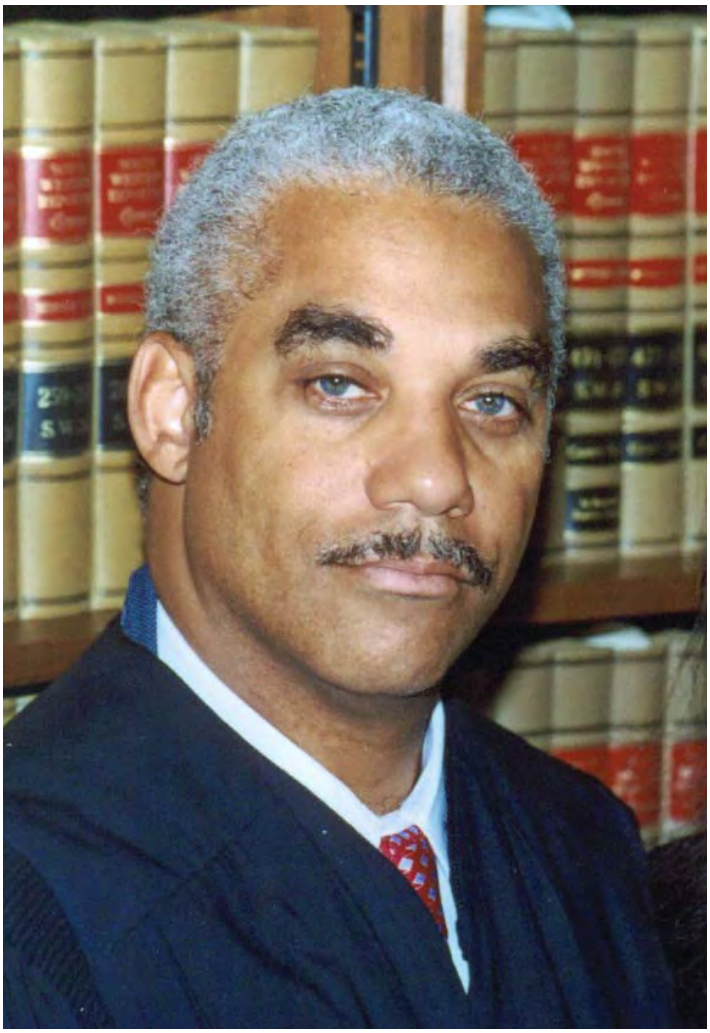
GEORGE W. DRAPER III was born August 5, 1953, in St. Louis. He attended Hamilton Elementary School and All Saints Episcopal church in north St. Louis City until his family moved to Silver Spring, Md., in 1964. In 1977, he graduated from Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga., with a bachelor's degree in psychology. After earning his law degree in 1981 from Howard University School of Law in Washington, D.C., he served as a law clerk to Judge Shellie Bowers in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia.



Draper worked for the circuit attorney of the city of St. Louis as assistant prosecuting attorney from 1984 to 1994. There he was promoted to team leader and first assistant, and he handled numerous felony prosecutions.

In 1994, Draper was appointed associate circuit judge in St. Louis County. While serving on this court, Draper presided over 60 to 200 cases each week and was assigned specially to 12 jury trials. In 1998, he was elevated to circuit judge in St. Louis County. He presided over the civil, criminal, family court and juvenile division throughout his time as a trial judge.

In 2000, Draper was appointed to the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, and served as that court's first African-American chief judge from July 2004 to June 2005. While on that court, he also served by special assignment on the Appellate Apportionment Commission, a constitutional commission created to resolve redistricting disputes and on the court's rules, security and facilities committees. His October 2011 appointment to the Supreme Court of Missouri makes Draper one of the few judges to have served at every level of Missouri's current court system.

When not on the bench, Draper counsels students interested in legal careers and has served as a mentor to attorneys deferred from practicing. He also has volunteered with the INROADS program, which prepares underserved youth for business and community leadership positions.

Draper is a member of the Mound City Bar Association, the Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis, the Lawyer's Association of St. Louis, the National Bar Association and the Missouri Asian Bar Association. He is an inaugural member of the Gallery of St. Louis Legal Pioneers within the Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis. He is a member and vice president of the board of Covenant Community Church in north St. Louis County. He also is a member of the Prince Hall Free and Accepted Masons.

As an advocate for continuing legal education, Draper has organized and presented numerous programs. He also has served as a panelist on the Mound City Bar Association's program "Mistakes to Avoid" and at the judicial forum hosted by the Missouri Association of Trial Attorneys.

In addition to his service to the court, Draper has taught trial advocacy as an adjunct professor at Saint Louis University School of Law from 1996 to the present.

Draper's wife, Judy Preddy Draper, is an associate circuit judge in St. Louis County and previously served as general counsel for the Missouri Department of Corrections. They have a daughter, Chelsea, who graduated from Amherst College in Amherst, Mass., and is presently a student at Washington University School of Law in St. Louis.

Zel M. Fischer

Judge Russell also volunteers as a truancy court judge at Lewis and Clark Middle School in Jefferson City. She was active in many organizations in Hannibal and Kirkwood prior to her move to Jefferson City.

Judge Russell is easily approachable and devotes much time to mentoring young people. In addition to lecturing to many attorney organizations and continuing education programs, she spends many hours demystifying the court system by speaking to community groups and students.

Judge Russell and her husband, Jim, live in Jefferson City. She was appointed to the Supreme Court in 2004 and was retained by the voters in November 2006 for a 12-year term, expiring on December 31, 2018.

Laura Denvir Stith

Judge of the Supreme Court

LAURA DENVIR STITH was born in St. Louis on October 30, 1953. She was raised in St. Louis and graduated with honors from the John Burroughs School, 1971. She received a National Merit Scholarship to attend Tufts University in Boston, Mass. While there, she was an Iglauer Fellowship Intern in Washington, D.C., for Sen. Thomas Eagleton, 1973. She studied at the University of Madrid through a program administered by the Institute of European Studies. In 1975, she graduated magna cum laude from Tufts, receiving her B.A. in political science and social psychology. She then attended the Georgetown University Law Center, distinguishing herself as an editor of the Law and Policy in International Business Journal. Judge Stith graduated magna cum laude from Georgetown in 1978.

Following her graduation from law school, Judge Stith served for one year as a law clerk to the Hon. Robert E. Seiler of the Missouri Supreme Court. In 1979, she moved to Kansas City and practiced law with the firm of Shook, Hardy & Bacon, becoming a partner of the firm in 1984 and later co-founding the firm's appellate practice group.

In the fall of 1994, Gov. Mel Carnahan appointed Judge Stith to the Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District. She was retained in the November 1996 general election. During her time on the court of appeals, Judge Stith authored over 400 opinions in cases involving nearly every area of state law.

Gov. Bob Holden appointed Judge Stith to the Supreme Court of Missouri effective March 7, 2001, and she was retained in the November 2002 general election. She is the second woman in Missouri history to serve on the state's Supreme Court. She served as chief justice of the court from July 1, 2007, through June 30, 2009.

Judge Stith has been involved in many organizations in the legal community. She has served as chair of the Gender and Justice Joint Committee of The Missouri Bar and the Missouri Supreme Court. She was a founding director of Lawyers Encouraging Academic Performance (LEAP), an inter-bar lawyers' public service organization. She has served as president and member of the board of directors of the Assoc. for Women Lawyers (AWL) of Greater Kansas City, chair and vice-chair of the Mo. Bar Civil Practice and Procedure Committee, chair of the Appellate Practice Committee and vice-chair of the Tort Law Committee of the Kansas City Metropolitan Bar Assoc. (KCMBA) and is a member of the American Bar Assoc. (ABA).

Judge Stith has served as a speaker on appellate practice at the annual conventions of the ABA, Missouri Bar, Missouri Assoc. of Trial Attorneys (MATA) and Missouri Organization of Defense Lawyers (MODL). She has also served as a speaker or moderator on civil procedure and evidence at The Missouri Bar, KCMBA, AWL, and Univ. of Mo.–Kansas City Continuing Legal Education (CLE) programs and as a speaker on gender bias at the Missouri New Judges School. She has authored many publications, including Stith, A Contrast of State and Federal Court Authority to Grant Habeas Relief, 38 Val. U .L. Rev. 421 (Spring 2004); Stith and Root, *The Missouri Nonpartisan Court Plan: The Least Political Method of Selecting High Quality Judges, 74 Mo. L. Missouri Court of Appeals

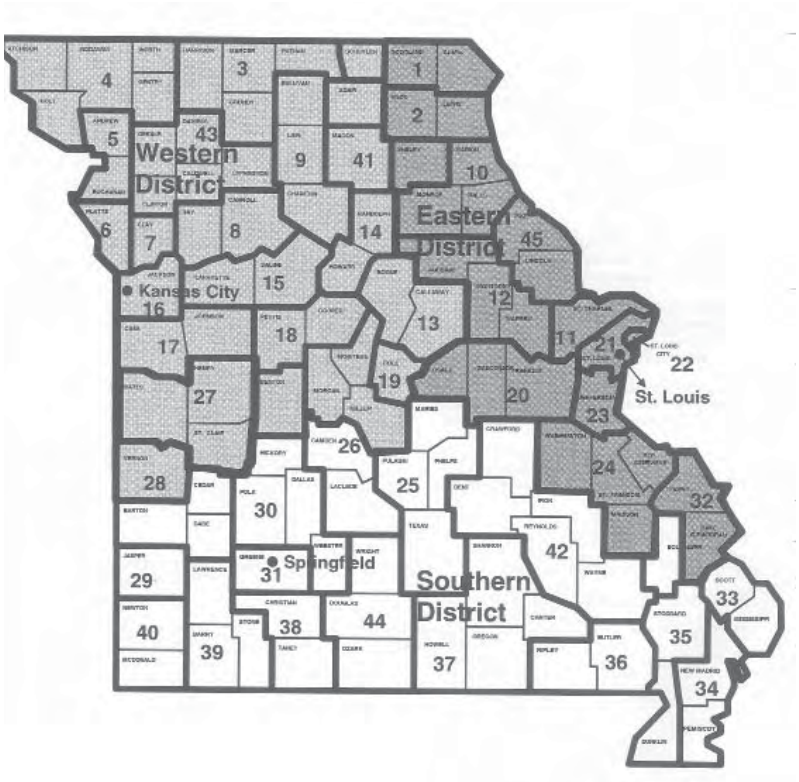
The Constitution of 1865 provided for Missouri's first general intermediate courts, known as district courts. There were district courts in Cape Girardeau, Jefferson City, Macon, St. Charles, St. Joseph and Springfield. Each district was composed of three circuits. Appeals were taken from the circuit court to the district court and then to the Supreme Court. The district courts, however, were abolished in 1870 by a constitutional amendment.

Alarmed at the congested docket of the Supreme Court, the St. Louis Bar Association urged the 1875 Constitutional Convention to provide for another appellate court. As a result, the convention created the St. Louis Court of Appeals, consisting of three judges that heard appeals from Lincoln, St. Charles, St. Louis and Warren counties. Its territorial jurisdiction was expanded to include several more counties in 1884.

Another constitutional amendment in 1884 established the Kansas City Court of Appeals and authorized creation of another appellate court, when necessary, by the General Assembly.

The Springfield Court of Appeals was organized in 1909. Missouri's current appellate structure—a single Court of Appeals consisting of three geographic districts—was established by a 1970 constitutional amendment.

The Eastern District of the Court of Appeals sits in St. Louis and consists of 14 judges. Eleven judges preside over the Western District in Kansas City, and seven judges sit on the Southern District bench, meeting either in Springfield or Poplar Bluff. Trained law clerks, who are licensed attorneys, assist each appellate judge with legal research.



The Court of Appeals may issue and determine original remedial writs and has general appellate jurisdiction in all cases not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. Cases not within the Supreme Court's exclusive jurisdiction, however, may be transferred from the Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court when it is determined that a case involves a split among the districts of the Court of Appeals or an important issue that should be decided by the state's highest court.

A chief judge is elected for the Eastern and Southern districts of the Court of Appeals by the judges in the districts and serves for such time as the districts determine. Traditionally, the chief judge in the Eastern District serves for one year, while the chief judge in the Southern District serves for two years. In the Western District, the chief judge serves a two-year term by rotation according to seniority.

The districts are authorized to sit in divisions of three judges if they choose, which all three districts have elected to do.

Courts of Appeals judges must be at least 30 years of age, residents of their district, U.S. citizens for 15 years and qualified Missouri voters for nine years before their selection. Appeals judges serve 12-year terms. They earn $128,207 annually. Compensation is determined by statute (section 476.405, RSMo).

MISSOURI'S 45 JUDICIAL CIRCUITS

Missouri Circuit Courts

Missouri's first two circuit courts were established in 1815. The 1820 Constitution provided for the creation of four circuits, each containing from four to eight counties. The number of circuits has increased over the years; today, 45 circuits operate in Missouri.

The first circuit judges were appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The life term of the judges and their method of appointment proved unpopular, however; in 1850, the constitution was amended to provide for popular election. Most circuit judges are elected today, though judges in six circuits — Clay, Greene, Jackson, Platte and St. Louis counties and the city of St. Louis — are selected under provisions of the Nonpartisan Court Plan.

Constitutional amendments approved by Missouri voters in 1976 provide that the circuit courts shall be courts of original civil and criminal jurisdiction. All trials start at this level. Former courts of limited jurisdiction became divisions of the circuit court effective January 2, 1979.

Within the divisions of the circuit court, there are three levels of jurisdiction: circuit, associate and municipal. Circuit judges may act within all circuit jurisdictions.

The number of circuit judges is determined by the General Assembly. The constitution requires at least one circuit judge in each of Missouri's 45 judicial circuits.

Associate circuit judges may hear matters pending in the circuit court or assigned by the Supreme Court. Associate circuit judges hear all cases pursuant to Chapter 517, RSMo, and have concurrent jurisdiction over all cases pending in the circuit court.

The constitution requires at least one resident associate circuit judge in each county. The statutes authorize additional associate circuit judges depending on county populations. Presently, 193 associate circuit judges are required by statute.

Municipalities with 400,000 or more people must establish a municipal division over which a municipal judge presides. Communities of fewer than 400,000 people may establish municipal divisions to hear ordinance violations, or the municipality may request that these matters be heard in the associate division of the circuit court. Municipal judges are paid locally.

By statute, each circuit judge appoints a court reporter, and the court in each circuit appoints a juvenile officer. A circuit clerk in each county is selected according to law, and salaries are set by statute.

Circuit court judges must be at least 30 years old, residents of their circuit, U.S. citizens for 10 years and Missouri voters for three years. Circuit judges serve six-year terms. Associate circuit judges must be at least 25 years old, Missouri voters and residents of the counties they serve. Associate circuit judges serve four-year terms.

Circuit court judges each earn $120,484 annually; associate circuit court judges earn $109,366. Compensation is determined by statute (section 476.405, RSMo).

The Fine Collection Center

The Supreme Court of Missouri established the Fine Collection Center pursuant to section 476.385, RSMo. The center is a central bureau authorized by statute to process certain traffic, conservation and watercraft violations for the courts. The center began operation July 1, 1999, and by January 1, 2012, all courts will participate in the center's program.

Offenders who receive citations eligible to be processed by the center have the option of pleading guilty by paying their fine and costs directly to the center or by pleading not guilty and having their citations sent to the county or circuit prosecutor. When the offender pleads guilty and pays the fine and costs, the center issues a record of conviction and sends it to the Missouri Department of Revenue and the Missouri State Highway Patrol. All fines and costs are distributed to the local jurisdiction and the appropriate state agencies.

Policy and oversight of the center is provided by a committee consisting of at least seven associate circuit judges appointed by the Supreme Court of Missouri. The committee establishes and maintains the uniform fine schedule in use by the center.

Commission on Retirement, Removal and Discipline

The Commission on Retirement, Removal and Discipline of judges was created by a constitutional amendment in 1970. It began operating January 1, 1972, and is governed by Supreme Court Rule 12.

The commission is responsible for receiving and investigating all requests and suggestions for the retirement of judges because of disability and all complaints concerning the alleged misconduct of judges and members of judicial commissions. It is composed of six members who serve six-year terms. Two non-lawyers are appointed by the governor, two lawyers are appointed by the Missouri Bar's governing body, one court of appeals judge is selected by court of appeals judges and one circuit judge is selected by the state's circuit judges.

The members as of January 1, 2012, were: Chairman David L. Dowd, circuit judge, 22nd Judicial Circuit (City of St. Louis); Joseph M. Ellis, appellate judge, Court of Appeals, Western District; Arthur S. Margulis, attorney, St. Louis County; Barry Aycock, lay member, Parma; Adrienne B. Morgan, lay member, Chesterfield; and Skip Walther, attorney, Columbia.

On receiving a complaint against a judge or member of a judicial commission, the commission conducts an investigation. If at least four members of the commission find there is probable cause to believe the person may be guilty of misconduct, incompetency or other action constituting grounds for discipline as listed in Rule 12.08, a formal hearing is conducted. If at least four members find the person investigated should be disciplined, a report containing findings of fact and conclusions of law is made to the Supreme Court with recommendations for discipline (removal from office, suspension or reprimand). The court then makes a final ruling based on the commission's record and transcript.

A similar procedure is followed in cases involving retirements because of disability.

To protect the public from persons unqualified or unauthorized to practice law, the Supreme Court of Missouri has established an attorney discipline system. The Supreme Court appoints a chief disciplinary counsel to investigate allegations of professional misconduct, incompetence and incapacity of lawyers. The Court also has established an Advisory Committee, which oversees the disciplinary hearings process. Complaints filed against attorneys are reviewed by the Office of Chief Disciplinary Counsel. Regional disciplinary committees located in Kansas City, Springfield and St. Louis—composed of at least four lawyers and two lay persons, also may investigate complaints referred to them by the chief disciplinary counsel or the Advisory Committee.

If the chief disciplinary counsel or a majority of a regional disciplinary committee finds that there is probable cause to believe that a lawyer is guilty of professional misconduct, they may issue a written admonition to the attorney or file an information making specific allegations of the lawyer's violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct. The lawyer may request a hearing to be held before a disciplinary hearing panel composed of two lawyers and one lay person, all of whom are appointed as disciplinary hearing officers by the Supreme Court. If the disciplinary hearing panel finds, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the lawyer is guilty of misconduct, it makes findings of fact, conclusions of law and recommendations for discipline, which then are filed in the Supreme Court. It is the Supreme Court's responsibility to impose any warranted discipline. If a lawyer who has been suspended or disbarred later seeks reinstatement, the chief disciplinary counsel investigates the application. The chief disciplinary counsel also investigates the unauthorized practice of law and takes appropriate action to stop such practices. The chief disciplinary counsel is Alan Pratzel.

In addition to providing oversight of the disciplinary hearing process, the Advisory Committee reviews complaint files that have been closed after investigation, at the request of the complainant. It also may issue formal ethics opinions, interpreting Supreme Court Rules 4, 5 and 6. Members of the Advisory Committee, appointed by the Supreme Court are: Jennifer Gille Bacon, Kansas City, chair; Doreen D. Dodson, St. Louis, vice-chair; Susan Appelquist, Springfield; Richard E. Banks, St. Louis; John Briscoe, New London; Al Brooks, Kansas City; Sidney Dulle, Jefferson City; Hon. John C. Holstein, Springfield; David P. Macoubrie, Chillicothe; Christina R. Neff, Jefferson City; Richard N. Priest, St. Louis; and Dorothy White-Coleman, St. Louis.

The legal ethics counsel, who serves as counsel to the Advisory Committee, may give nonbinding informal advisory opinions, interpreting Supreme Court Rules 4, 5 and 6, to members of the Bar. The legal ethics counsel is Sara Rittman.

The Supreme Court of Missouri regulates admission to the bar. The State Board of Law Examiners is authorized by Supreme Court Rule 8 to conduct the bar examination and to determine the character and fitness and eligibility of applicants for admission to the Missouri Bar. Application forms and information about the bar examination, the character and fitness process, and the requirements for admission are available on the Web at www.mble.org. In addition, pass/fail statistics for the bar examination are published on the Web site.

The State Board of Law Examiners is comprised of six members who are lawyers appointed by the Supreme Court of Missouri to serve a nine-year term. The current members of the board are: Jeffrey P. Hine, President, Cape Girardeau; Patricia Sexton, Vice President, Kansas City; Clifford S. Brown, Springfield; James G. Nowogrocki, St. Louis; Karen M. Jordan, St. Louis; and Sandra L. Schermerhorn, Kansas City.

The Missouri Bar is the official organization of all Missouri lawyers and judges. Established by rule of the Supreme Court of Missouri in 1944, it is the successor of the original Missouri Bar Association, a voluntary organization of lawyers founded in 1880.

Membership in the Missouri Bar is required of every lawyer who practices in Missouri and of every judge of a state court. To qualify for membership, a person must have completed an approved law school leading to a juris doctor degree. Those seeking membership in the Missouri Bar also must pass a comprehensive bar examination and character and fitness investigation and make application for admission to the bar with the Supreme Court of Missouri.

Committees

There are numerous standing committees of the Missouri Bar plus a number of special project committees. Committees of the Missouri Bar meet at least twice each year to discuss particular areas of the law and, in some cases, draft potential legislation in those areas. Committee members, as well as officers and other members of The Missouri Bar, are available to testify before the General Assembly in support of those bills. In addition, the bar's Board of Governors often votes to support or oppose other bills pending before the legislature and the bar's legislative services are directed accordingly. Because of its status as a mandatory organization for those practicing law in Missouri, the bar's legislative efforts are confined to bills affecting the administration of justice.

Education

The Missouri Bar's Continuing Legal Education Department (MoBarCLE) has taken the lead in keeping bar members informed of the latest developments in the law. Each year, the CLE Department organizes and presents a number of programs—live, videotaped, webinars and by telephone—to keep lawyers abreast of changes in state and federal laws. These sessions are regularly accompanied by detailed course materials designed to supplement the programs themselves. In addition, the department's renowned deskbook series (the "black books"), supplements and Guidebooks provide attorneys with valuable reference materials they can make use of in their own law libraries.

Publications/Public Information

The Journal of the Missouri Bar, offering valuable perspectives on the law from its lawyer-authors, is published six times per year as the official publication of the legal profession in Missouri. Also available to members are the Legislative Digest, published during and after each year's session of the General Assembly; Precedent, a quarterly publication featuring practice-oriented articles and columns; and The Courts Bulletin, a monthly update on recent court decisions in pertinent areas of the law.

For more than 50 years, The Missouri Bar has conducted a broad program of public information and education. Thousands of informative pamphlets and other educational materials about the law are distributed annually, including materials from an extensive law-related education audio-visual lending library. Copies of the bar's brochures are also available on the Internet at www.mobar.org. The growth of the bar's public information programs has been aided by cooperative ventures with the Extension Division of the University of Missouri, the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, the Missouri Press Association, the Missouri Broadcasters Association, various state colleges, and other groups and associations.

Other Activities

Other prominent programs and services offered by The Missouri Bar include: a Client Security Fund that considers partial financial reimbursement to eligible clients who have been harmed by the unethical conduct of a lawyer; a Lawyer Referral Service that links attorneys with Missourians in need of legal assistance; a Lawyers Assistance Program that offers help to lawyers hindered by impairment issues; a complaint resolution program that offers an alternative to the formal lawyer disciplinary system for matters considered to be less serious in nature; a fee-dispute resolution program that works to resolve disputes between a lawyer and a client over fees charged for services; and many more.

Through the years, the Missouri Bar has gained recognition on the national and international level. It has been cited many times by the American Bar Association as the outstanding bar organization in the nation. Its programs have won Freedom Foundation awards, the American Bar Association Award of Merit and the American Judicature Society's Justice Award. Similarly, staff members and officers serve on many important national committees and work with various national groups on problems of national scope.

Judicial Conference of Missouri

Jefferson City 65102
Telephone: (573) 751-4144

In 1943, the General Assembly established the Judicial Conference of Missouri, which is composed of all state judges. The conference is charged by statute (section 476.350, RSMo) with studying the organization and administration of the state's judicial system, compiling data about the work of various courts and making biennial reports to the General Assembly, including any recommendations the conference may have for improving the laws. Since 1974, the chief justice of the Supreme Court, who is the conference's presiding officer, has presented an annual State of the Judiciary address to a joint session of the General Assembly, reviewing the problems, needs and goals of the judicial branch.

The statute also requires the conference to hold an annual meeting to be attended by all judges. At this meeting, the judges discuss the problems of court administration and invite experts in various fields to speak about matters of particular concern.

The clerk of the Supreme Court provides administrative and staff assistance and also serves as secretary to the executive council and the conference.

Nonpartisan Judicial Nominating Commissions

Under provisions of article V of the Missouri Constitution, any vacancy occurring in the office of judge of the Supreme Court, the court of appeals or the circuit courts within St. Louis City or Jackson County is filled through the "Nonpartisan Selection of Judges Court Plan," adopted through initiative petition at the November 1940 general election, which provides for the governor to appoint one of three qualified persons nominated by a nonpartisan judicial commission. This method of selecting judges was adopted by the voters of the 21st Judicial Circuit (St. Louis County) in 1970; by the voters of the Sixth Judicial Circuit (Platte County) and the Seventh Judicial Circuit (Clay County) in 1973; and by the voters of the 31st Judicial Circuit (Greene County) in November 2008.

Under the Missouri Plan, as it often is called nationally, a vacancy on a court to which the plan applies is filled in the following way. A nonpartisan judicial commission of lay persons, lawyers and a judge selects three persons from those who apply, based on merit. The governor appoints one of the three. A judge appointed in this way must stand for retention in office at the first general election occurring after the judge has been in office for 12 months. The judge's name is placed on a separate judicial ballot, without political party designation, and the voters must vote either for or against retention in office. The judge's name again is placed on the ballot for a retention vote at certain intervals if the judge wishes to serve subsequent terms. The Missouri Plan has served as a national model for the selection of judges and has been adopted by a number of other states.

Appellate Judicial Commission

Nominations for judges of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals are made by a seven-member Appellate Judicial Commission. It consists of a judge of the Supreme Court selected by the members of the Court and two resident citizens from each of the three court of appeals districts. One lawyer is elected from each district by members of the Missouri Bar residing in that district, and one non-lawyer is appointed from each district by the governor. The judge member serves a two-year term, while the other members serve staggered terms of six years each.

Members: Richard B. Teitelman, Chief Justice, Supreme Court of Missouri, chair.

From the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District: Thomas M. Burke, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2017; Donald L. Ross, lay member, term expires December 31, 2012.

From the Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District: J.R. Hobbs, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2015; Jill Shurin, lay member, term expires December 31, 2010.

Circuit Judicial Commissions

Nominations for judges of circuit courts are made by a five-member circuit judicial commission consisting of the chief judge of the district of the Court of Appeals in which the circuit or the major portion of its population lies, two lawyers elected by other members of The Missouri Bar residing in the circuit and two non-lawyer residents of the circuit appointed by the governor.

Sixth Circuit (Platte County) Judicial Commission: Chair: Lisa White Hardwick, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District, term expires June 30, 2012. Members: David Barth, Parkville, lay member, term expires December 31, 2012; Scott L. Campbell, Platte City, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2013; Keith Hicklin, Platte, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2017; Judy P. Stokes, lay member, term expires December 31, 2013.

Seventh Circuit (Clay County) Judicial Commission: Chair: Lisa White Hardwick, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District, term expires June 30, 2012. Members: Melissa (Lisa) Essig, Kearney, lay member, term expires December 31, 2012; Dr. Lancer G. Gates, Kansas City, lay member, term expires December 31, 2013; Michael S. Shipley, Liberty, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2013; James H. Thompson Jr., Kansas City, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2017.

Sixteenth Circuit (Jackson County) Judicial Commission: Chair: Lisa White Hardwick, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District, term expires June 30, 2012. Members: Scott Bethune, Kansas City, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2015; James C. Morrow, Kansas City, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2017; Byron G. Thompson, Kansas City, lay member, term expires December 31, 2012; Rev. Eric D. Williams, Kansas City, lay member, term expires December 31, 2016.

Twenty-first Circuit (St. Louis County) Judicial Commission: Chair: Kurt S. Odenwald, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, term expires June 30, 2012. Members: Robert P. Dudley, Eureka, lay member, term expires December 31, 2012; Matthew Rossiter, St. Louis, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2017; Anthony Witherspoon, Florissant, lay member, term expires December 31, 2016; Richard Wuestling IV, St. Louis, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2015.

Twenty-second Circuit (St. Louis) Judicial Commission: Chair: Kurt S. Odenwald, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, term expires June 30, 2012. Members: June Bosley Dabney-Gray, St. Louis, lay member, term expires December 31, 2010; Michael Calvin, St. Louis, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2017; Stephen F. Doss, St. Louis, lay member, term expires December 31, 2012; Steven L. Groves, St. Louis, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2015.

Thirty-first Circuit (Greene County) Judicial Commission: Chair: Don E. Burrell Jr., chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Southern District, term expires June 30, 2013. Members: Andy Bennett, Springfield, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2017; Linda F. Fowler, Springfield, lay member, term expires December 31, 2014; Sally Hargis, Springfield, lay member, term expires December 31, 2012; Clif Smart, Springfield, lawyer member, term expires December 31, 2013.

The Office of State Public Defender is created by Section 600.019.1., RSMo as an independent department within the judicial branch of state government.

The Missouri State Public Defender System (MSPD) is the state agency created to fulfill the state's constitutional obligation to ensure that all persons facing criminal prosecution in its courts have the assistance of counsel in their defense. MSPD's lawyers provide legal representation to persons who are charged with or challenging convictions for state criminal offenses but do not have the means available to hire defense counsel.

Public Defender Commission

State law (Chapter 600, RSMo) provides for a seven-member Public Defender Commission to oversee the State Public Defender System. The members of the commission are appointed by the governor with consent of the Senate and serve without compensation for six-year terms. Four members must be lawyers, and no more than four members may be of the same political party.

MSPD is a statewide department primarily comprised of three legal service divisions: the Trial Division, the Capital Division, and the Appellate/Post-Conviction Division. Attorneys in district offices within each division provide direct representation to indigent clients.

Trial Division

The Trial Division employs close to 300 full-time attorneys as well as investigators, paralegals and legal assistants. Trial Division attorneys represent both adult and juvenile indigent clients charged with crimes at the state trial court level throughout Missouri.

The Commitment Defense Unit represents indigent people throughout the State of Missouri against whom the government has initiated civil commitment proceedings based on the allegation that the citizen is a "sexually violent predator" (SVP). The unit was created in 1999 in response to Missouri's sexually violent predator legislation. This legislation enables the state to incarcerate individuals after they have completed their sentences for eligible sex offenses, and allows for indefinite civil commitment upon a jury finding that an individual meets the legislative criteria of a SVP.

Capital Division

The Capital Division of MSPD was established in 1989 to handle the complex litigation involved when the state seeks the death penalty. The purpose of this division is to provide the highest-quality representation to individuals against whom the state of Missouri is seeking the death penalty in the State Trial Court, the State Supreme Court, and the United States Supreme Court.

The division employs experienced attorneys who excel as litigators to handle the initial trial of the case. The division also employs experienced attorneys with exceptional appellate advocacy skills to handle the direct appeal of cases following a trial and sentence of death.

There are three Capital Division district offices within the state, located in St. Louis, Kansas City and Columbia. Trial attorneys in the division have the opportunity to try cases in both the urban and rural areas of Missouri.

Division of Appellate/Post-Conviction Relief

This division ensures that the constitutional rights of citizens are preserved and protected, and that the trial or guilty-plea process was fair and legal. In essence, the division monitors and provides quality-control for the criminal judicial process.

There are six district offices in this division. The offices are located in St. Louis, Kansas City and Columbia in close proximity to most of Missouri's appellate courts.

Attorneys in this division provide representation to indigent citizens who have been convicted of felony offenses, after either a trial or a guilty plea. These attorneys handle direct appeals from non-capital felony convictions, post-conviction trial court challenges and appeals from post-conviction proceedings. The post-conviction practice includes providing aggressive representation to death-row clients at the trial-court level, and in the Supreme Courts of Missouri and the United States.

Executive Departments

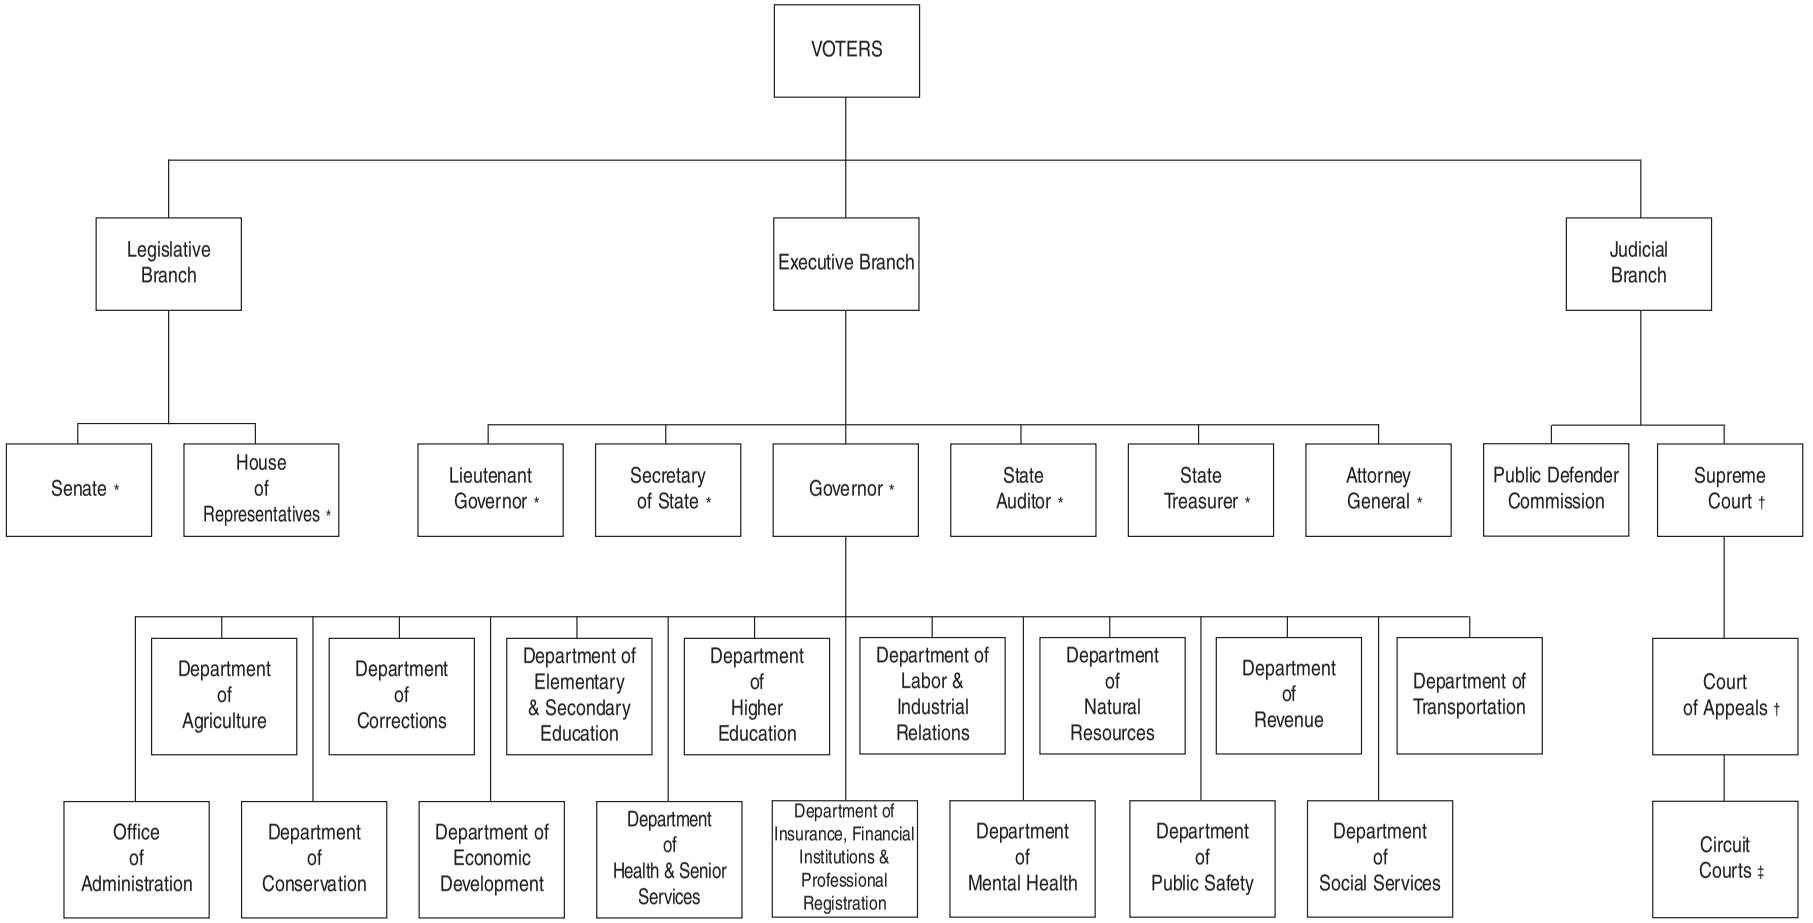
Government exists to serve, and a broad network of government organizations has been created to accomplish the purpose. The Missouri Constitution (Article II, Section 1) states: "The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive and judicial." This section also prohibits persons within each branch from exercising powers of the other branches. From these three branches spring the variety of organizations which deliver services of state government.

The many different names used by these groups—departments, divisions, agencies, boards, commissions, bureaus, units, sections, programs and others—can make it difficult to determine which area of government is responsible for certain services, and sorting out responsibilities or relationships within the governmental framework.

It is through the executive branch that the greatest proportion of state services are delivered. The Constitution (Article IV, Section 12) and the Reorganization Act of 1974 have established a number of "executive departments" to deal with specific areas of interest. A chart showing the present state departments is shown on the following page.

The Missouri Constitution provides for 16 specific departments: the Office of Administration and the departments of Agriculture, Conservation, Corrections, Economic Development, Elementary and Secondary Education, Health and Senior Services, Higher Education, Insurance, Financial Institutions and Professional Registration, Labor and Industrial Relations, Mental Health, Natural Resources, Public Safety, Revenue, Social Services and Transportation.

Within each executive department exists a variety of offices of varying size and scope which deal with specific services. Traditionally, "divisions" are the next-largest organizations within departments and function to bring together smaller-sized groups, such as "bureaus," "sections" or "units." Divisions may be governed by a "board" or "commission" composed of members who are either appointed by the governor, made members by law or appointed by a department official. State agencies may administer certain sections of state law as defined by the Revised Statutes of Missouri, may develop their own rules and regulations as promulgated in the Missouri Register and Code of State Regulations or may institute programs and policies which address the needs of their areas of service.



Generally speaking, the legislative and judicial branches rely on committees or other small, appointed groups to perform research, develop policy, provide advocacy services or handle administrative duties. In these two branches services are delivered through the offices of the elected officials themselves and not by related agencies.

The Missouri Constitution

Since achieving statehood and joining the union on August 10, 1821, Missouri has operated under four Constitutions. The first was adopted in 1820 and was presented to Congress before Missouri was allowed to enter the union of states. The state's second Constitution, born in the bitterness and strife of the Civil War, was drafted and adopted in 1865. It was replaced by a third Constitution only ten years later, in 1875. Missourians approved their current Constitution in 1945, and it has been amended a number of times in order to meet the changing needs of our state and its people.

The Constitution of the State of Missouri is published by the Office of Secretary of State pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Missouri (RSMo 2.110). Copies of the Missouri Constitution, which also includes the text of the U.S. Constitution, are available without charge by contacting:

The Office of Administration is the state's service and administrative control agency. Created by the General Assembly on January 15, 1973, it combines and coordinates the central management functions of state government. Its responsibilities were clarified and amended by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

The chief administrative officer is the Commissioner of Administration, who is appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. The commissioner appoints the deputy commissioner, assistant commissioner, chief counsel and the directors of the divisions who report directly to him. The divisions are: Accounting; Budget and Planning; Facilities Management, Design and Construction; General Services; Information Technology Services; Personnel; and Purchasing and Materials Management.

The Office of Equal Opportunity (OEO) is a program within the Office of Administration. The OEO assists and monitors state agencies in promoting and ensuring equal opportunity within state government through employment, provision of services and operation of facilities. The director of OEO reports to the Assistant Commissioner of Administration.

The Division of Budget and Planning (B&P) analyzes budget policy issues and provides information to the commissioner, the governor's office, the general assembly, Missouri's congressional delegation and state, local and federal agencies. The division prepares the budget instructions, reviews agency budget requests, prepares the annual executive budget, analyzes economic and demographic conditions, forecasts state revenues and conducts technical policy and program analyses. To assist in state government management, the division controls appropriation allotments, manages the automated state budget system, prepares legislative fiscal notes, reviews legislation, tracks agency performance measures, analyzes and develops policy options and reviews federal issues and their impact on Missouri. The division coordinates preparations for, and assistance during, elected official transitions. The division compiles population estimates and projections, provides technical assistance during decennial reapportionment and is Missouri's liaison to the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

The Division of Facilities Management, Design and Construction (FMDC) operates, maintains and manages state-owned office buildings and other structures at the seat of government and other locations within the state. FMDC oversees leased property for agencies statewide and is also responsible for design, construction, renovation and repair of state facilities. Review of all requests for appropriations for capital improvements also falls under the responsibilities of FMDC.

The division's Administrative/Legal Unit consists of the following sections: Legal, Contracts, Fiscal/Accounting and Employee Relations. This unit has oversight of the division's overall administrative and fiscal issues. The Real Estate Services fiscal section is also a part of this unit. This unit provides budgeting and payment processing for an approximate $150 million annual budget for state-owned and leased facilities.

The division's Operations/Planning Unit maintains state-owned buildings and grounds for agencies that are tenants in state-owned office buildings as well as buildings for the Department of Corrections, Elementary and Secondary Education, Mental Health, Youth Services and the Missouri Highway Patrol. The division manages 22 structures in the capitol complex comprising approximately 1.75 million square feet of usable space, including the State Capitol and the executive mansion. In addition, the unit operates state office buildings in St. Joseph, Kansas City, Springfield and St. Louis. These facilities contain approximately 535,000 square feet of usable office space. Institutional operations include providing maintenance management services for correctional, mental health, highway patrol, youth services and state school facilities. These services include providing the maintenance management staff and the authorization and administration of maintenance funding. This division is responsible for the maintenance of approximately 16 million square feet of institutional buildings.

In addition, this unit is responsible for the oversight of maintenance and repair as well as new construction projects at state facilities (excluding Higher Education, Conservation and Missouri Department of Transportation projects). The unit develops, contracts, reviews and has oversight of plans and specifications for statewide construction, selects architectural/engineering consultants and oversees expenditures of capital improvement appropriations statewide. The unit also has oversight of the state's ID Badge Security System.

The division's Energy Unit is responsible for monitoring energy consumption in state-owned buildings and continues to develop and implement programs to help departments comply with the Governor's Executive Order 09-18, mandating a reduction of energy consumption in state-owned buildings. This unit also assists the State Emergency Management Agency (SEMA) in providing emergency services during disaster relief efforts.

The division's Real Estate Services Unit coordinates real estate transactions on behalf of the state to include conveyance of state-owned property, purchase of property and granting easements. The unit also oversees leases within state-owned and leased space for state agencies throughout Missouri. The real estate services unit oversees approximately 500 separate contracts, providing 3.3 million square feet of leased space, for approximately 14,000 tenants.

The Division of General Services (GS) provides essential support services to state departments and to the Office of Administration.

The Risk Management section administers the Legal Expense Fund and workers' compensation programs covering state employees, purchases insurance when required and assesses exposure to loss.

The Missouri Public Entity Risk Management Fund (MOPERM) is a shared-risk pool offering liability and property coverages for Missouri public entities.

The State Printing Center provides agencies with a full range of printing and quick copy services.

Central Mail Services provides consolidated mail processing and interagency mail delivery for most state agencies in the Jefferson City area.

The Vehicle Maintenance unit operates a central maintenance facility to provide mechanical repairs and body shop services for state vehicles.

The Fleet Management Program establishes statewide policies governing state vehicle operations and serves as a resource for fleet management issues.

The mission of the Information Technology Services Division (ITSD) is to provide technology and communication services and solutions to the state's departments and agencies so they can efficiently and effectively serve the citizens of Missouri.

Under the leadership of the Chief Information Officer, ITSD offers centralized staff and resources in a single unified entity, and supports 14 executive branch departments. The new organizational model allows for enterprise standards and guidance in the common areas of security, networking, data management, server administration, end user support, technical architecture, and application management while maintaining a department focused perspective on service delivery.

Working in tandem with other state agencies through the Information Technology Advisory Board and other committees, ITSD aims to deliver reliable and accessible IT systems and services in an environment striving for optimization, collaboration, productivity and cost savings.

The Division of Personnel is responsible for the state's human resource management system and the Uniform Classification and Pay System, as established in the State Personnel Law (Chapter 36, RSMo).

The Missouri Merit System is based on the principles of merit and fitness as determined by competitive examinations for employment, as well as objective and consistent human resource management policies and procedures. The system also grants employees the ability to appeal disciplinary actions. Approximately 32,400 state employees in six state departments and sections of three other departments comprise the Missouri Merit System.

The Uniform Classification and Pay (UCP) system is designed to promote equity in pay among state employees in most executive branch agencies and to provide coordinated compensation policies. The UCP system covers approximately 35,000 employees of merit system agencies and employees from several other departments. The Division of Personnel is also responsible for the oversight of the statewide performance appraisal system.

The Division of Personnel is composed of three sections:

Employee Services reviews applications for employment; ensures employees are assigned to appropriate job classes; develops and administers position classifications for agencies covered by the UCP; and develops, updates and administers merit system examinations.

Pay, Leave and Reporting provides information on the UCP system pay plan; interprets policies on pay, leave and hours of work; provides workforce reports and assistance with the SAM II HR/Payroll System; maintains lists of individuals from whom agencies can select for Merit System jobs; ensures personnel transactions are in compliance with state personnel law; coordinates labor relations activities statewide, and administers the Productivity, Excellence and Results for Missouri (PERforM) State Employee Online Appraisal System.

The Center for Management and Professional Development develops and delivers management and supervisory training programs, as well as administers statewide recognition programs. This section also coordinates the WeSave Employee Discount Program.

The Division of Purchasing and Materials Management (PMM) is responsible for the procurement of all state-required supplies, materials, equipment and professional or general services. Certain agencies (e.g. MoDOT) are considered exempt in some areas. The division executes procurement functions in accordance with applicable statutes by maximizing competition in the procurement process, conducting evaluations and negotiations as appropriate, and awarding contracts to the "lowest and best" bidders.

The materials management section, the State Agency for Surplus Property (SASP), is responsible for transfers and disposal of state surplus property to obtain the maximum return on investment. SASP acquires property declared excess by federal government agencies to distribute to eligible Missouri entities. SASP is also responsible for the statewide in-house recycling program.

The Office of Equal Opportuntiy (OEO) assists and monitors state agencies in promoting and ensuring equal opportunity within state government through employment, provision of services and operation of facilities. OEO is currently drafting a new executive order, but under current Executive Order 05-03, OEO is responsible for assisting state agencies in promoting contracting and procurement opportunities for minority- and women-owned businesses. In addition, OEO continues to monitor the implementation of state employment practices to ensure that Missouri has a diversified and well-balanced state workforce. The OEO director reports to the Assistant Commissioner of Administration.

The Administrative Hearing Commission (AHC) is a neutral, independent administrative tribunal that decides disputes involving state agencies and another party, usually a private person or corporation. The AHC typically decides the cases after a trial-type hearing. It hears evidence and arguments from the state agency and from the other party. Any party, including the state agency, may seek review of the AHC decision from the judicial branch.

The statutes authorize jurisdiction for the AHC to resolve disputes over decisions of more than 100 state agencies. Chief among them are the director of the Department of Revenue's tax decisions, professional licensing decisions of many boards of the Department of Insurance, Financial Institutions and Professional Registration and other departments, the Department of Social Services' decisions on payments to Medicaid service providers and the Missouri Health Facilities Committee's decisions on certificates of need. The statutes commit other specific matters to AHC also. AHC resolves about 2,800 cases per year.

AHC currently consists of four commissioners, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate, who serve six-year terms.

Board of Fund Commissioners

The Board of Fund Commissioners issues, redeems and cancels state general obligation bonds and performs other administrative activities related to state general obligation debt as assigned by law.

The board is composed of the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, state auditor, state treasurer and commissioner of administration. The governor is president of the board, and the state treasurer is secretary. An executive secretary performs staff functions for the board.

Board of Public Buildings

The Board of Public Buildings (BPB) is composed of the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general. The governor serves as the chair, and the lieutenant governor is the secretary. The speaker of the House of Representatives and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate serve as ex officio members of the BPB but do not have the power to vote.

Missouri law provides that the BPB has general supervision and charge of state facilities at the seat of government. The BPB also has the authority to issue revenue bonds for the construction of state office buildings and certain other facilities.

The board works with the Division of Facilities Management, Design and Construction and the Division of Accounting in carrying out its responsibilities.

Board of Unemployment Fund Financing

The Board of Unemployment Fund Financing is composed of the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, director of the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations and the commissioner of administration. The governor serves as chair, the lieutenant governor serves as vice chair and the commissioner of administration serves as secretary. Staff support is provided by the Division of Accounting.

The board is authorized to issue debt or credit instruments to provide funds for the payment of unemployment benefits or maintaining an adequate fund balance in the unemployment fund, and as an alternative to borrowing or obtaining advances from the federal unemployment trust fund or for refinancing these loans or advances.

State Capitol, Rm. 125

In 1994, Missouri voters approved the creation of the Missouri Citizens' Commission on Compensation for Elected Officials. This commission was established to ensure that the power to control the rate of compensation of elected officials of this state is retained and exercised by tax-paying citizens of the state.

Beginning in 1996 and every two years thereafter, the commission will review the relationship of compensation to the duties of all elected state officials. The commission's recommendation of a salary schedule shall become effective unless disapproved by the General Assembly. The 22-member commission serves four-year terms.

The Governor's Council on Disability (GCD) serves as the voice and advocate in state policy making for 949,000 Missourians with disabilities. GCD educates people with disabilities about their rights and responsibilities; increases employment opportunities for job seekers with disabilities; and expands access to equal and full participation for all individuals with disabilities in their communities at the local, state and federal levels. GCD provides youth leadership programming for young people with disabilities.

In 1947, President Harry S. Truman issued an executive order establishing the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. This federal agency was created to assist disabled World War II veterans with re-entry into the civilian workforce. Following President Truman's lead, Missouri established the Governor's Committee in 1949 after it became obvious that a local network was needed to disseminate information about work-related problems facing people with disabilities.

The mission of GCD has naturally evolved from strictly promoting employment to addressing all of the barriers to employment and full participation in community life. To more accurately reflect the mission, the 1994 General Assembly renamed this agency the Governor's Council on Disability. GCD was transferred by executive order in 2004 from the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations (DOLIR) to the Office of Administration (OA) to better meet its mission.

The GCD consists of 21 council members, including the chair and one member from each state congressional district, as well as the executive director. The majority of GCD is comprised of people with disabilities representing various disability groups. Family members of people with disabilities, persons who represent other disability-related groups and other advocates fill the remaining positions.

The governor appoints the chair with the advice and consent of the Senate. The governor also appoints the 20 members-at-large. GCD meets at least quarterly to act as an advisory body to its staff and to discuss and suggest ways to address current issues affecting persons with disabilities in Missouri.

In the administration of its duties, GCD also offers assistance to help the various departments, divisions and branches of government to comply with all laws regarding persons with disabilities. To further that goal, the director of each state department designates at least one employee to act as a liaison with the council. The assistance offered includes educational programming and consultation on the rights of persons with disabilities.

Missouri Minority Business Advocacy Commission

Telephone: (573) 751-1851 / FAX: (573) 751-1212

The Missouri Minority Business Advocacy Commission (MBAC) identifies and assesses the needs of minority businesses throughout the state; initiates aggressive programs to assist minority businesses in obtaining state and federal procurement; makes recommendations regarding state policies, programs and procedures; and provides a focal point to assist and counsel minority small businesses in their dealing with federal, state and local governments. MMBAC also initiates and encourages minority business education programs; analyzes current legislation and regulations as they affect minority businesses; and receives complaints and recommendations concerning policies and activities of federal, state and local governmental agencies that affect minority small businesses. The purpose of MMBAC is to increase economic opportunity for minority businesses so that we can improve the overall climate of the state of Missouri; and to develop and establish the inclusionary process for state departments so that they can meet or exceed the goals and objectives of the legislation and executive order designed to increase minority participation in state procurement.

The Health and Educational Facilities Authority of the State of Missouri was created in 1975 by an act of the Missouri General Assembly. It is empowered to make loans to qualified health or educational institutions and to refund outstanding obligations, mortgages or advances previously issued, made or given for the cost of such facilities and to do all things necessary to carry out the purposes of the act. The authority consists of seven members appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Each member must be a resident of the state and no more than four members may be of the same political party.

The mission of the authority is to provide access to the capital markets in an effort to lower the cost of health and educational services in Missouri by providing high quality, readily available, low cost financing alternatives for Missouri public and private, non-profit health and educational institutions.

This bipartisan authority consists of five commissioners who are qualified voters of the state of Missouri and residents of Jackson County. The Jackson County Legislature submits a list of candidates to the governor to replace members of the authority whose terms have expired. The governor then appoints the succeeding members from that list of candidates. The commissioners serve staggered terms of five years and hold office until a successor has been appointed and qualified. No more than three members may be of the same political party. The authority is empowered to issue bonds.

The Jackson County Sports Complex Authority is authorized under the constitution and laws of the State of Missouri to plan, construct, operate and maintain a sports stadium fieldhouse, indoor and outdoor recreational facilities center, playing fields, parking facilities and other concessions within Jackson County; to negotiate and perform its obligations as landlord under lease agreements with the Kansas City Royals Baseball Corporation and the Kansas City Chiefs Football Club, Inc.; to oversee the maintenance and operation of the Harry S. Truman Sports Complex in a fiscally responsible manner, which will allow it to maintain its stature as a premier sports facility in the nation; to administer funds received from the State of Missouri, Jackson County, and the City of Kansas City, Missouri, or any other sources which are to be used for furtherance of its statutory duties; to develop a land use plan for potential development of the sports complex and to recommend to the county appropriate long-term leasing arrangements for the sports complex facilities; and to work with other political subdivisions, agencies and commissions for the furtherance of all types of sports, either professional or amateur, commercial or private, within Jackson County.

The commission elects a biennial chair and is assigned to the office of administration for budgeting purposes only.

The MEC receives and reviews complaints alleging violations of the conflict of interest and lobbying statutes and the campaign finance disclosure statute. After investigation of these complaints, the commission refers the complaints to the appropriate prosecuting authority or disciplinary authority along with recommendations for sanctions. The commission may also initiate judicial proceedings on its own.

The MEC reviews and audits reports required by the campaign finance disclosure law, the financial interest disclosure laws and the lobbying registration and reporting laws. The MEC acts as the public repository for such reports. The MEC provides information and assistance to lobbyists, elected and appointed officials, employees of the state and political subdivisions and the general public.

Missouri State Penitentiary Redevelopment Commission

Truman State Office Bldg., Rm. 730
Telephone: (573) 751-4174

The Missouri State Penitentiary Redevelopment Commission was established in 2000, by authority of House Bill 621 of the 91st General Assembly.

The commission is composed of 10 members. Three commissioners, no more than two of whom shall belong to the same political party, are residents of Jefferson City and are appointed by the mayor, with the advice and consent of the governing body of that city; three commissioners, no more than two of whom shall belong to the same political party, are residents of Cole County but not of Jefferson City and are appointed by the county commission; and four commissioners, no more than three of whom shall belong to the same political party, none of whom shall be residents of Cole County or of Jefferson City, are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. The governor appoints one of the commissioners who is not a resident of Cole County or Jefferson City as chair of the commission. No elected official of the state of Missouri or of any city or county in this state is appointed to the commission.

The director of the Division of Facilities Management, Design and Construction provides staff support for this commission. The commission may also employ staff or secure the services of consultants through contract for the purpose of conducting the business of the commission.

The purpose of the commission is to redevelop the real property which encompassed the grounds of the Missouri State Penitentiary for more than 150 years, so as to maintain its historic value for present and future generations of Missourians, and to provide new uses for the property which will benefit the citizens of the city of Jefferson, the county of Cole and the state of Missouri as a whole.

To accomplish its purpose, the commission may perform the following functions:

- Acquire and hold title to the property historically utilized as the Missouri State Penitentiary;
- To acquire by gift or bequest from public or private sources property adjacent to the Penitentiary property and necessary or appropriate to the successful redevelopment;
- To lease or sell real property to developers who will utilize the property consistently with the master plan for the property;
- To hire employees necessary to perform the commission's work;
- To enter into contracts with private or governmental entities in connection with the acquisition by gift or bequest and in connection with the planning, construction, financing, leasing, subleasing, operation and maintenance of any real property or facility and for any other lawful purpose;
- To sue and be sued;
- To receive any rentals, or proceeds from the sale of real estate, contributions or moneys provided by any governmental entity and to apply for grants and other funding;
- To disburse funds for its lawful activities and fix salaries and wages of its employees;
- To borrow money for the acquisition, construction, equipping, operation, maintenance repair, remediation or improvement of any facility or real property to which the commission holds title and for any other property purpose and to issue negotiable notes, bonds and other instruments in writing as evidence of sums borrowed;
- To perform all other necessary and incidental functions, and to exercise such additional powers as shall be conferred by the general assembly;
- To purchase insurance, including self-insurance, of any property or operations of the commission or its members, director, officers and employees, against any risk or hazard, and to indemnify its members, agents, independent contractors, directors, officers and employees against any risk or hazard.

Promoting and Protecting Missouri Agriculture

Established in 1933 by the General Assembly, the Department of Agriculture promotes and protects Missouri's multi-billion dollar agriculture and agribusiness industry. The department also enforces state laws that regulate and market the agricultural industry.

The department's divisions include Agriculture Business Development, Animal Health, Grain Inspection and Warehousing, Plant Industries and Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection. The department also houses the Missouri Agricultural and Small Business Development Authority, the Missouri State Fair, State Milk Board and the Missouri Wine and Grape Board.

Office of the Director

The Missouri Department of Agriculture is managed by a director who is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The director determines department policy, oversees the department's five divisions and serves as a liaison to the governor, state legislators, the agriculture community and the public.

The director is a standing member of the State Milk Board, the State Fair Commission, the Missouri Soil and Water Districts Commission, the Missouri Development Finance Board, the Missouri Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund and the Missouri Agricultural and Small Business Development Authority.

Agriculture Business Development Division

The Agriculture Business Development Division creates opportunities for success for Missouri's farmers and agribusinesses. Division staff help facilitate growth in Missouri's agriculture-based businesses by providing business counseling, information and training on a sector-by-sector basis.

Areas of specialization include capitalization, business planning, marketing, industry development, product and brand development and organizational structures. The division also helps facilitate growth in Missouri's agriculture-based industries by working with key players, such as universities, associations, private sector partners and federal and state agencies to aid in the growth of each sector.

AgriMissouri

AgriMissouri is a branded program designed to grow the demand for agricultural products raised and processed in Missouri. The program represents farmers, agribusinesses and farmers' markets statewide and plays a key role in increasing consumer recognition of Missouri's agricultural products through retail, restaurant and foodservice channels.

Agriculture Marketing Program

The Agriculture Marketing Program focuses on both domestic and international marketing. Department specialists work with specific industry representatives or groups to establish marketing opportunities and promote Missouri commodities here and abroad.

Through one-on-one assistance for producers interested in producing, marketing or processing their commodities in new ways, the marketing personnel enhance farm profitability in Missouri through innovations in technology and marketing and promotions of value-added agriculture.

The division's international marketing specialists work worldwide to sell Missouri agricultural products. The program works with the Department of Economic Development's offices throughout the world. In addition, the program manages an agricultural trade office in Taipei, Taiwan.

Farmers' Markets/Specialty Crops

Consumers demand high quality and fresh products at Missouri's more than 200 farmers' markets. To increase awareness for Missouri markets, this program works one-on-one with farmers' markets to ensure safe and abundant fresh products. Farmers marketing fresh products today require knowledge about food safety and distribution regulation, freshness preservation, marketing and production cycles. This program assists both markets and growers in statewide marketing and promotional efforts to increase the consumption of specialty crops.

Market News

Market News provides an unbiased, reliable, accurate and timely source for livestock and grain market news to remain competitive and assist them in making wise and profitable marketing decisions. It also guides producers in production planning and provides a more even playing field in the marketplace. Market News staff report prices from 33 livestock auctions and 28 grain markets in Missouri. Daily market figures are published online and through the Weekly Market Summary.

Outreach

The Market Outreach Program works to position the department as a state and national leader in providing information and outreach to both agriculture and non-agriculture audiences. The program works to increase consumer's knowledge of the economic, historic and social value of agriculture. Outreach staff work with Missouri youth, encouraging them to pursue agricultural degrees and careers through the Missouri Agribusiness Academy, the Missouri Livestock Grading and Judging Contest, Building Our American Communities grants and educational scholarships. In addition, the outreach program serves as a liaison with Missouri agricultural commodity associations, publishes current commodity group contact information, coordinates commodity merchandising council elections and prepares official proclamations.

Animal Health Division

The Division of Animal Health, under the direction of the state veterinarian, promotes and protects Missouri's diverse and dynamic livestock industry. The assistance and oversight provided by the division's programs ensures greater market access for Missouri's livestock and companion animal industries.

Animal agriculture accounts for about one-half of Missouri's annual agriculture cash receipts. The division administers laws and programs designed to control and eradicate livestock disease and to maintain and enhance the integrity of the state's animal industries. This includes both mandatory and voluntary regulatory programs for beef and dairy cattle, horses, swine, poultry, sheep, goats and exotic and companion animals.

The state's progress in national disease control and eradication is due to the cooperative efforts of livestock producers, markets, practicing veterinarians, other agencies and division staff. Through these cooperative efforts, Missouri has achieved Bovine Tuberculosis and Brucellosis Free status, Swine Pseudorabies stage V status and Avian Pullorum-Typhoid Clean status. In addition, the division operates two state-of-the-art diagnostic laboratories, located in Jefferson City and Springfield.

Agri-Security

The Animal Health Division works to safeguard the livestock industry and the public against the threat of bioterrorist attacks. In addition, the division informs cattle producers of quality assurance targeting breeding and cow herd management, increases awareness and understanding of environmental issues affecting production agriculture and presents marketing and food safety programs to small poultry producers and inspects Missouri meat processors to supplement existing USDA inspections.

Animal Care Program

Missouri is one of very few states that regulates companion animals. The Animal Care Facilities Act (ACFA) and the Canine Cruelty Prevention Act (CCPA) became law to ensure dogs and cats, specifically those under the care of breeders, dealers, animal shelters, rescue operations and municipal pounds, receive adequate health care, shelter and proper socialization. The ACFA law, designed to benefit both the animals and the pet industry, requires any animal shelters, pounds or dog pounds, boarding kennels, commercial kennels, contract kennels, pet shops, exhibition facilities, dealers and commercial breeders to be licensed and inspected annually.

Branding Cattle

Branding is one of the oldest and best ways to permanently identify livestock. It serves as an excellent safeguard against livestock theft, loss or dispute. Legislation passed in 1971 made the Department of Agriculture responsible for registering livestock brands. Brands must be recorded as required by Missouri's Marks and Brands of Animals Law to prove ownership and be considered legal evidence in a court of law.

Grain Inspection and Warehousing Division

The Grain Inspection and Warehousing Division is composed of two programs that administer the Missouri Grain Warehouse Law, the Missouri Grain Dealer Law and the United States Grain Standards Act. These laws promote and protect commerce in the interest of grain producers, merchandisers, warehousemen, processors and consumers. They also promote a uniform, official inspection system for the orderly marketing of grain. This division also collects and disburses funds for nine commodity merchandising programs.

Grain Inspection Services Program

The Grain Inspection Services Program is designated to officially inspect, grade and weigh all grains that have standards established under the United States Grain Standards. The program provides four primary services:

- official sampling to take a representative sample of grain from a particular lot;
- official inspection to determine and certify the type, class, quality or condition of grain;
- weighing certification to supervise the loading, unloading and weighing containers of grain; and
- chemical analysis to determine the protein or oil content of grain and to determine the existence of mycotoxins in grain.

Services are provided at inspection offices in Kansas City, Vandalia, Marshall, New Madrid and St. Joseph. The program is self-supporting and operates entirely on fees charged for inspection services performed.

Grain Regulatory Services Program

The Grain Regulatory Services Program protects the public interest by auditing grain warehouses and grain dealers to determine grain obligations and financial solvency. The program enforces the Missouri Grain Warehouse Law, the Missouri Grain Dealer Law and the United States Grain Standards Act so producers are assured of storing or merchandising their grain with licensed, bonded, reputable and financially stable grain businesses. The program annually licenses approximately 200 warehouses and 400 grain dealers and conducts more than 900 audits and investigations.

Plant Industries Division

The Plant Industries Division comprises four bureaus, which together administer state and federal laws. These laws facilitate agricultural production and marketing and provide consumer and environmental protection for Missouri citizens by regulating animal feeds and seeds, providing necessary certifications for interstate and international shipment of agricultural and forest products, ensuring plant pest protection for crops and forests, inspecting for conformance to USDA grades for fresh fruits and vegetables and regulating the use of pesticides.

Bureau of Feed, Seed and Treated Timber

The bureau administers the Missouri Commercial Feed Law and the Missouri Seed Law. The feed law regulates the manufacture, distribution and labeling of commercial feed products to ensure that livestock producers and pet owners receive the feed product guaranteed. In partnership with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, the bureau provides inspection reports and regulation involved with preventing Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy (BSE) and also provides labeling assistance and investigates complaints related to animal feed.

The bureau regulates seed products through inspecting, sampling, testing and labeling and are reviewed to ensure the product meets the label guarantees and cooperates with the USDA seed regulatory and testing branch in regulating the interstate movement of seed.

The bureau is responsible for the licensure of all treated timber producers and dealers doing business within the state of Missouri and is also responsible for regulations governing the quality and distribution of treated wood products.

Laboratories are maintained for analytical support to the seed, treated timber and commercial feed and other programs.

Bureau of Pesticide Control

The bureau administers laws for registration, distribution and use of pesticides. All pesticides sold and used in Missouri are regulated by the Missouri Pesticide Registration Act. Bureau personnel inspect pesticides for proper labeling and registration and investigate misuse. The Missouri Pesticide Use Act allows the bureau to certify commercial, noncommercial and private applicators and public operators. The act also provides for licensing pesticide dealers and pesticide technicians.

Bureau of Plant Pest Control

The bureau administers laws to control the introduction and spread of insects and disease pests of plants, and administers the Missouri Plant Law, which mandates controlling harmful insect pests and plant pathogens through early detection surveys, quarantines, nursery and greenhouse inspections and certification. The law also enables interstate and international shipments of Missouri plants and plant products. The bureau also works to diminish the threat of exotic, invasive plant pest through outreach and education efforts.

As a service to Missouri beekeepers, the bureau works under the Missouri Apiculture Law to inspect and certify honeybee colonies. These procedures are required for interstate shipment of honeybees.

Bureau of Integrated Pest Management

The Integrated Pest Management (IPM) Bureau includes the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Inspection, Noxious Weed and IPM in Missouri Schools programs.

IPM strategies anticipate pest problems and prevent them from reaching economically damaging levels. The goal of the IPM program is to assist producers in reducing their dependence on pesticides through pest identification and surveys, increasing adoption of improved cultural management practices and strategic control methods when practical and overseeing the use of biological control agents. The program administers the statutes involving the control of noxious weeds as well as the appointment of Johnson Grass Control Board members in their respective counties. The bureau provides oversight of grant funded programs including IPM in Missouri Schools, Pesticide-Sensitive Crops Registry and US Forest Service pest surveys.

The Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Inspection Program assures buyers and sellers of this highly perishable product that commodities are graded and packed to conform to established U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) standards. Shipping point inspections at the point of origin determine the quality and grade of Missouri-grown produce. Terminal market inspections confirm quality and grade of produce received by Missouri wholesale purchasers for distribution to retail outlets. Both types of inspections are provided upon request and at the expense of growers, shippers or wholesale purchasers. The program is a state/USDA Agricultural Marketing Service cooperative effort.

RON HAYS
Director, Weights,
Measures and Consumer
Protection Division

Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection Division

As the chief consumer protection agency in the state, the Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection Division maintains surveillance of commercial weighing and measuring devices. The division promotes uniformity in laws, regulations and standards to achieve equity between buyers and sellers. Sales of products and services impacted by weights and measure laws represent over 50 percent of U.S. gross national product totaling over $4.5 trillion.

The Missouri Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection programs are operated in accordance with the National Institute of Standards and Technology. The division is also a member of the National Conference on Weights and Measures, ASTM International and the National Fire Protection Association.

Device and Commodity Inspection Program

As required by Missouri statutes, device and commodity field personnel inspect large and small scales, grain hopper scales, taxicab meters, odometers, timing devices, fabric measuring devices, grain moisture measuring devices, milk for quantity determination, prepackaged merchandise and method of sale of commodities. The program enforces the Missouri Egg Law and the Missouri Unfair Milk Sales Practices Law.

Petroleum/Propane/Anhydrous Ammonia Program

The program combines a variety of services. Under the program, petroleum dispensers, petroleum terminal meters and metered fuel delivery trucks are tested for accuracy. Service station pumps are also inspected for accuracy and safety. Metered propane delivery trucks are checked, and the storage and handling of anhydrous ammonia are monitored.

Metrology Program

The metrology program conducts tests, calibrates and certifies field standards for state agencies and private institutions. The state metrologist is the official keeper of Missouri's primary standards of mass, volume and length.

Fuel Quality Program

Fuel samples are collected by field personnel and submitted for testing. The petroleum laboratory analyzes gasoline, kerosene, heating oils and diesel fuel to ensure they meet state quality and safety standards.

Established in 1899, the Missouri State Fair is one of the oldest in the nation. The fairgrounds, which cover 396 acres in Sedalia (Pettis County), are open year-round providing facilities for horse and livestock shows, art and craft festivals, camping, rallies and other events. During the annual fair held in August, visitors enjoy educational and recreational activities, a carnival midway and musical entertainment.

The Missouri State Fair continues to be the state's largest agricultural and tourism event, with exhibits showcasing livestock, row crops, horticulture and floriculture. The State Fair plays an important role in shaping Missouri agriculture, contributing to the state's economy and educating the public about the importance and necessity of agriculture. It features agribusiness exhibits and displays of Missouri-produced commodities.

The State Fair Commission, whose members are appointed by the governor, oversees the fair's operations.

Missouri Wine & Grape Board

The Missouri Wine and Grape Board is responsible for researching, developing and promoting Missouri grapes, juices and wine. The board is funded by tax on all wine sold in Missouri.

Missouri wineries continue to refine their grape growing and winemaking skills to offer distinctive, quality wines. The Wine and Grape Board sponsors research and advisory programs at the Institute for Continental Climate Viticulture & Enology (ICCVE) center.

Missouri has more than 1,600 acres of grapes. Missouri wineries produce more than 950,000 gallons of wine with an overall economic impact of $1.6 billion. Many of the state's 100 plus wineries consistently take top honors in prestigious domestic and international competitions.

State Milk Board

The State Milk Board consists of 12 members, ten of whom are nominated by the director of agriculture, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The two remaining members of the board are from the state Department of Health and Senior Services and the Department of Agriculture.

Four of the appointed members of the board must be Grade A dairy farmers representing recognized producer organizations. Four appointees are active members of local health departments in the state. The two remaining appointees represent processor and consumer interests. No more than six of the 12 board members can be from the same political party.

The board administers milk inspection in relation to Grade A milk and milk supplies to ensure uniformity of procedures and interpretation of milk inspection regulations. The Grade A or fluid milk activities of the state are supported by revenue from inspection fees.

The manufacturing grade dairy program enforces sanitation and quality standards for manufactured dairy products and provides market testing of all milk at the first point of sale. Milk procurers, manufacturing plants, field superintendents, testers, graders, samplers and bulk milk truck operators are licensed by the State Milk Board.

Department of Conservation

2901 W. Truman Blvd., Jefferson City 65109
www.mdc.mo.gov

The Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC), authorized in 1937 by an initiative process and statewide vote to amend the Missouri Constitution, was created by public demand for better management of the state's fish, forest, and wildlife resources. The department is headed by the Conservation Commission, whose four members, no more than two of whom may belong to the same political party, are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. They serve with no compensation for staggered six-year terms.

The department's principal sources of revenue are receipts from the sale of hunting and fishing permits and the one-eighth of one percent conservation sales tax. The conservation sales tax was approved as a constitutional amendment through a citizen initiative process and statewide vote in 1976. Funds are also received, primarily on a matching basis, from federal aid provisions of the Wildlife Restoration, Sport Fish Restoration and Cooperative Forestry Assistance Acts. The department receives no state general revenue funds.

The department's mission is to protect and manage the fish, forest, and wildlife resources of the state; to serve the public and facilitate their participation in resource management activities; and to provide opportunity for all citizens to use, enjoy, and learn about fish, forest and wildlife resources. The mission is accomplished using a set of belief statements which include: excellent public service is what we will provide; all citizens are important and we value their trust and their point of view; Missourians are our partners to achieve conservation success; employees are the department's most important resource; and fairness, objectivity, sound science, integrity and accountability will guide our actions.

Director's Office

The Conservation Commission appoints the department director who, along with two deputy directors, directs programs and activities through the divisions of administrative services, design and development, fisheries, forestry, human resources, outreach and education, private land services, protection, resource science and wildlife. In addition to division assignments, the deputy directors provide leadership for projects and initiatives assigned by the director, federal aid coordination, partnerships and a policy coordination unit, which provides intra- and inter-agency coordination in the areas of environmental and resource management policy, river basin coordination, multi-resource issues, strategic coordination and public involvement. The director also supervises the general counsel, internal auditor and an assistant to the director for governmental relations.

General Counsel

The general counsel is appointed by the director of the Department of Conservation, with the consent of the Conservation Commission, to provide legal advice and representation to the commission and the department. The Office of General Counsel handles litigation, works with prosecutors and staff to enforce statutes and regulations, provides legal advice and opinions, drafts and reviews documents, oversees real estate transactions and reviews administrative regulations.

Internal Auditor

The internal auditor assists the commission and director by independently analyzing department operations, policies, procedures, records and compliance with laws and regulations to ensure effectiveness and accountability. The internal audit function also serves the Department of Conservation as custodian of records and hearing officer for revocation of hunting and fishing privileges.

Regional Offices

The department has two administrative units and eight regions. The Missouri River Unit includes the Central, Kansas City, Northeast, and Northwest regions. The Ozark Unit includes Ozark, St. Louis, Southeast, and Southwest regions. A regional service center in each region, in addition to other offices, nature centers, staffed shooting ranges, and interpretive centers, provides close-to-home opportunities for Missourians to participate in conservation programs and services. Regional offices are located in Columbia, Lee's Summit, St. Joseph, Kirksville, West Plains, St. Charles, Cape Girardeau, and Springfield.

Administrative Services Division

The administrative services division provides administrative support through two sections responsible for information technology and financial services and five units responsible for fleet services, flight services, general services, permit services and purchasing.

The information technology section provides strategic direction for the department's information technology assets. It is responsible for managing, maintaining and supporting the use of those assets, which includes all computer hardware and software systems, telephone systems two-way radio and other telecommunications systems, and the coordination of those systems with other state agencies. It is also responsible for developing technology solutions to meet business needs.

The financial services section administers all financial activities of the department. It maintains liaison with the State treasurer, state auditor, Office of Administration, and Department of Revenue. It is responsible for revenue collection, accounts payable, accounting, budget and payroll. Revenue from the conservation sales tax, hunting and fishing permits, federal reimbursement, timber sales, publications and surplus property is received and deposited in the state treasury for department programs.

The other units are responsible for: management, operation and purchasing of the department's fleet; management of aircraft operations; inventory control; repair and disposition of vehicles, marine and other mechanical equipment; operation of a distribution center and warehouse for publications, products and media loan services; operation of printing, mailing and sign production services; the distribution of hunting and fishing permits statewide for sale to the public; and purchasing services.

Design and Development Division

The design and development division provides engineering, architecture, land surveying, construction, quality control and facility maintenance services to develop, maintain and manage the department's infrastructure and to implement and administer capital improvement projects.

Infrastructure and capital improvement projects include boat accesses, docks, roads, parking areas, office and storage buildings, fish hatcheries, fishing lakes and ponds, nature centers, shooting ranges, trails, wetlands and other projects. The division provides engineering and architectural designs that apply sound engineering principles to the design of conservation projects and public use facilities that are in harmony with the environment and to enhance the enjoyment of Missouri's natural resources. The division provides land surveying; ongoing renovation, repair and maintenance; and facility maintenance, including grounds maintenance, grading of parking areas and entry roads, cleaning boat ramps and maintenance of privies, boat docks and other infrastructure.

The division also administers the department's County Aid Road Trust Fund (CART) program that assists county and other governmental units with road maintenance to ensure public access is available to department areas.

Fisheries Division

The fisheries division provides fisheries and aquatic resource expertise and management efforts. Responsibilities include four warm water and five cold water hatcheries; administering a Stream Unit program which includes over 3,600 active "Stream Team" citizen groups; monitoring and maintaining the quality of Missouri's aquatic resources; managing public fisheries resources for quality fishing; providing technical stream and lake management advice to private landowners and other public agencies; and providing and assisting with public information and education programs.

The four warm water hatcheries rear and coordinate the stocking of about eight million fish in public waters, suitable private lakes and waters used for special fishing events and aquatic resources education. Methods are also developed for rearing of endangered species. The five cold water hatcheries (Bennett Spring, Maramec Spring, Montauk, Roaring River, and Shepherd of the Hills) rear and coordinate the stocking of about two million trout in public waters.

The division directs and administers fisheries programs, develops and refines regulations, works on the acquisition and development of public fishing and boat access areas, administers the Community Assistance Program and Corporate and Agency Partnership Program, administers Federal Aid grants, coordinates angler recognition programs, develops and revises technical and popular written materials and distributes a weekly fishing report during the fishing season.

Missouri has about 1,163,000 surface acres of water comprised of nearly 900 public lakes, 486 miles of the Mississippi River and 553 miles of the Missouri River, almost 16,000 miles of other permanent streams, over 39,000 miles of intermittent streams and about 500,000 private lakes. These waters support rich and diverse aquatic communities that are used, enjoyed and appreciated by millions of people each year. Fishing is one of the most popular and economically important uses of these waters. Each year, 1.1 million anglers in Missouri generate more than $2.1 billion of economic impact in the state.

Forestry Division

The forestry division provides management and protection of the state's forest resources to have healthy and sustainable forest and woodland communities on both public and private land. Forestry programs assist forest landowners and forest industries with practices designed to: ensure healthy and sustainable forests; ensure the proper management and sustainability of public forest lands; control and reduce impacts from major infestations of forest insects and diseases; work with communities to develop sustainable community forestry programs; and improve rural fire protection throughout the state.

Each year, technical assistance is provided by the division to private woodland owners. These services are available statewide and include tree selection and planting advice, forest management plans and recommendations, forest products utilization and marketing assistance and wildlife management recommendations. The forest health protection program ensures the continuing health of the forest resources through survey and detection, pest and control evaluations and public information. The division also provides training for loggers to encourage the sustainable harvest of Missouri's forests.

The division manages over 600,000 acres. Forest management benefits include biodiversity, watershed protection, wildlife habitat, forest products and recreational opportunities. To encourage forest and wildlife plantings, four to six million seedlings of 70 different tree and shrub species are produced at the George O. White State Forest Nursery each year to fill requests from Missourians. Every fourth grade student in the state receives an Arbor Day seedling produced at the nursery.

The division provides assistance to communities through the Tree Resource Improvement and Management (T.R.I.M.) program, which provides funds to implement community forestry programs, including tree establishment, maintenance and care. Special consideration has been given to communities that have sustained significant damage from natural disasters and invasive pests.

In addition, the division assists over 800 volunteer rural fire departments annually to suppress approximately 3,000 wildfires, which burn 60,000 acres of forest and grassland. Technical assistance, training and federal excess equipment are available at no cost to cooperating rural fire departments. Grants, in part supported by the U.S. Forest Service (USFS), are available to rural fire departments on a competitive basis. A rural forest fire equipment center is located in Lebanon. The center acquires and distributes federal excess property to rural fire departments for use in fire suppression activities. "Operation Forest Arson" is a program to combat the high number of arson-caused wildfires. This program is combined with the Smokey Bear wildfire prevention campaign to educate school children.

In Missouri, there are about 14.6 million acres of forests, or 33 percent of the land area. Approximately 75 percent of the forested land is the oak-hickory type, five percent is shortleaf pine and oak-pine types and the remainder is in cedar and bottomland hardwoods. Over 80 percent of forests are privately owned by about 200,000 individual owners. Missouri's forests support a large forest products industry with about 1,000 manufacturing plants producing lumber, railroad ties, cooperage, cedar and walnut items (including gunstocks and veneer), charcoal and other products. Missouri leads the nation in the production of charcoal, cooperage barrels, cedar novelties, gunstocks, walnut bowls and walnut nutmeats. The economic impact of the forest industry and wood products in Missouri is $5.7 billion annually.

Human Resources Division

The human resources division provides services that help the department attract and retain a diverse and dynamic workforce, including recruitment and selection; administering salary and fringe benefits programs; overseeing a comprehensive group life, medical, accidental death and dismemberment and dependent life insurance program; maintaining official employee documents and records through a human resources information system; and managing a safety program, including worker's compensation. The division also monitors compliance with employment practices relating to affirmative action, American's with Disabilities Act (ADA) and drug testing; provides employee training and development programs; administers employee assistance and wellness activities; and assists with disciplinary and grievance processes. A workforce council implements programs to increase the department's efforts to experience the benefits of a diverse workforce.

Outreach and Education Division

The outreach and education division helps Missourians learn to conserve and enjoy Missouri's fish, forest and wildlife resources through focused education, interpretation and outreach efforts. The division develops, coordinates and implements education curriculum, materials and programs; public relations, news and marketing; hunter education; print, image and digital media; exhibits; nature and interpretive centers; shooting ranges; hands-on and indirect learning opportunities; and volunteer programs.

The Missouri Conservationist magazine is published monthly and is free to adult Missourians. The magazine has been published since 1938. The monthly circulation is about 500,000. A children's magazine, Xplor, is published every other month. The division coordinates the department webpage information, www.missouriconservation.org, which includes an online Conservation Atlas with maps and information about department areas. Other information includes tips for getting outdoors, hunting and fishing reports, conservation videos, the Missouri Conservationist magazine and news online, a calendar of events, links to special programs such as "Grow Native!" and "No MOre Trash!" and the ability to purchase hunting and fishing permits online. Through many free publications, Missourians can also learn about subjects as diverse as how to fish, hunting regulations or animal identification. A Natural Events Calendar, books and DVDs are available at nature centers, through a catalog or online.

There are nature and education centers in Blue Springs, Jefferson City, Kirkwood, Springfield, Cape Girardeau, and Winona and visitor centers in Taney, St. Charles, and St. Louis counties that offer unique nature exploration programs. The Discovery Center, located in the heart of Kansas City, features workshops offering hands-on instruction to school groups and individuals in a building that highlights energy-efficient design.

The division develops and makes available conservation education programs, including "Discover Nature–Schools," which helps students get outside to experience hands-on learning in nature close to home. Instructional units are provided at no cost, that meet testing needs and are combined with grants for field trips and instructional materials to complement the national "No Child Left Inside" effort. Additional units provide focused conservation information for other grade levels. The division delivers conservation education to public, private and parochial schools and colleges, as well as youth leaders and community leaders.

Opportunities for citizen involvement include "Missouri Master Naturalists," which is a community-based, adult natural resource education and volunteer program sponsored by the Department of Conservation, the University of Missouri Extension program, and the University of Missouri College of Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources.

The division also teaches Missourians outdoor skills to enjoy the outdoors safely and responsibly. Outdoor skills specialists work to give Missourians of all ages direct experience in nature-based activities such as fishing, hunting and archery. The "Missouri National Archery in the Schools Program (MoNASP)" is supported by the department with the help of the Missouri Conservation Federation to bring archery to schools statewide. Other programs called "Discover Nature–Families" and "Discover Nature–Women" help Missourians learn a variety of skills to enjoy the outdoors. The division coordinates a team of volunteers to provide hunter education training, which is mandatory for all persons born on or after January 1, 1967, as a prerequisite to the purchase of firearms hunting permits. About 28,000 students receive training each year.

Shooting ranges administered by the division provide hunters a safe place to practice and develop outdoor skills. Five staffed shooting range and outdoor education centers, almost 60 unstaffed firearm ranges and 30 archery-only ranges have been created to provide Missourians with opportunities to practice firearm and archery skills. Programs offered at the staffed ranges help educate new hunters.

Private Land Services Division

The private land services division helps Missouri landowners achieve their land use objectives in ways that enhance fish, forest and wildlife conservation. Private landowners own about 93 percent of the land in Missouri. The division promotes the wise use of fish, forests, wildlife and natural communities through voluntary participation, information, financial assistance and partnerships.

The health of Missouri's fish, forest and wildlife resources depends on the stewardship of Missouri landowners. The division provides technical assistance and tailors management recommendations to the goals of the landowner and site-specific natural resource needs. Assistance is provided to communities, including urban developers, homeowners, city and county planners and others to address natural resource protection and management in developed areas, as well as in areas under development. Wildlife damage control biologists provide assistance to landowners experiencing damage to their property caused by wildlife including beaver, coyote, otter, Canada geese, deer and others. Wetland biologists provide specialized technical assistance to landowners to restore and manage wetlands. Area biologists work to assist with fish, forest and wildlife aspects of federal farm and conservation programs.

The division develops partnerships with state and federal agencies, commodity groups, agribusinesses, and conservation organizations. Partnerships with the Natural Resources Conservation Service and Farm Service Agency integrate fish, forest and wildlife considerations into implementation of Farm Bill programs. To complement funding available through federal programs, the department offers cost-share to landowners for implementation of select natural resource management practices.

Protection Division

The protection division is responsible for enforcement of the Wildlife Code of Missouri and related statutes on both private and public lands. Uniformed Conservation Agents are assigned to each county in Missouri and represent the department in a wide variety of programs.

Agents are licensed as peace officers to enforce all state laws on lands owned, managed or leased by the department. Agents are also commissioned by the U.S. Department of the Interior to enforce federal fish and wildlife laws. Agents administer the hunter education program in their local area. Agents provide conservation information and education through newspaper articles, adult and youth meetings, exhibits, clinics, radio and television programs and other media. The division helps to provide basic information on fish, forest and wildlife management, assists with landowner assistance programs and conducts surveys and special field studies.

MIKE HUBBARD

LARRY YAMNITZ
Protection Division Chief

MIKE KRUSE
Resource Science Division Chief

Agents are the primary contact for landowners with poaching or trespassing problems and are often contacted about nuisance wildlife issues.

The division works with the Conservation Federation of Missouri to administer the Operation Game Thief, Operation Forest Arson and Share the Harvest programs. "Operation Game Thief" provides an avenue for concerned citizens to report poaching through a centralized toll-free hotline: 1-800-392-1111. Rewards for information leading to the arrest of violators are available. Since the inception of this program in 1982, over 5,400 arrests have been made with information supplied by concerned citizens. This program has been shown to be an effective means of public awareness and involvement in protecting the natural resources of Missouri.

Resource Science Division

The resource science division provides the science-based information needed to conserve, appreciate and effectively manage the living natural resources of Missouri. The division is organized around systems and functions rather than traditional disciplines and delivers management assistance through a series of field stations. The systems include terrestrial systems, aquatic and wetland systems, science technology and policy support, geographic information systems, environmental health and the Heritage Program. Field stations include a grasslands systems field station in Clinton, a forest systems field station in West Plains, a big rivers and wetlands systems field station in Jackson, an agricultural systems field station in Kirksville and the Missouri River field station in Chillicothe. A Resource Science Center is located in Columbia.

The terrestrial systems work includes evaluating plant and animal habitat relationships, monitoring population status and developing harvest and species management recommendations for statewide populations of deer, furbearers, turkey and migratory birds. Specialized projects monitor wildlife and plant diversity, population changes and forest silviculture.

Aquatic and wetland systems work includes evaluating fisheries, wetland and waterfowl management, fish communities, watersheds, stream systems, interactions among predators and prey and species of concern.

Science technology and policy support work includes post-season harvest hunter and angler surveys, attitude surveys, and public-use surveys to understand the opinions and attitudes of Missourians. This information, combined with biological information and natural resource economics data, informs management decisions. The GIS program uses geospatial technology and products to support natural resource decisions, archive the processes, evaluate results, and train users. Biometricians ensure statistically sound study designs and the use of appropriate statistical techniques to analyze and interpret complex natural resource questions.

Environmental health work includes evaluating aquatic biodiversity, such as mussel conservation and genetics research, water quality and provides responsive service to the department, the public, and other agencies and entities. Issues involving pollution, fish kills, and contaminants are coordinated with other agencies.

The Heritage Program provides expertise for management and research on high priority taxa and maintains the Heritage Database. The Natural Heritage program tracks the status and location of 1,116 species of conservation concern and natural communities, with ongoing documentation and mapping. These data are used in the department and by federal and state agencies for recovery efforts, environmental reviews and management efforts.

Wildlife Division

The wildlife division is responsible for the management of Missouri's wildlife resources and the landscapes on which wildlife depend. The division manages over 525,000 acres which is about one-half of department lands. The division provides technical advice on resource management to other agencies, organizations, industries and private landowners. The division also provides urban wildlife assistance to communities.

The division administers the department's endangered species, invasive species, natural community management, Natural Areas, Missouri Comprehensive Wildlife Conservation Strategy, Missouri Bird Conservation Initiative and national Northern Bobwhite Quail Initiative programs. The division develops regulations for the management of wildlife and assists with research and monitoring to adjust regulations and to improve conservation practices and public outdoor recreation opportunities.

Conservation management of public lands provides environmental benefits for all citizens by maintaining the ecological health of our forests, prairies, glades, wetlands and streams. Healthy ecosystems are necessary to produce healthy and sustainable fish, forest and wildlife resources. They also contribute to high water quality, groundwater recharge, air quality, soil erosion control, and watershed protection.

DEECEE DARROW
Wilflife Division Chief

Public land management by the division includes public recreation opportunities and wildlife benefits. The division maintains 39 public shooting ranges and over 284 miles of trails and administers numerous managed hunts, including special opportunities for youth and disabled hunters. There are also managed hunts for doves, deer, turkey and waterfowl. In Missouri, over 600,000 individuals hunt and 2.2 million view wildlife. These activities have an economic impact in the state of $3.6 billion.

Director

DAVID ROST
Deputy Director

The Department of Corrections is an agency dedicated to public safety through the successful management and supervision of offenders on probation, in prison and on parole. The department's responsibility is to administer the sentence set by the court in ways that promote public safety at the lowest cost to taxpayers. Offenders assigned to the department are successfully managed by ensuring they are supervised at the correct custody or supervision level. A cadre of over 11,000 well-trained correctional professionals committed to the vision, mission, values and professional principles of the department; assess each offender's criminal history, evaluate community and institutional conduct and enforce court orders and department rules. This mixture of ongoing assessment, classification, referral to supervision strategies and assignment to basic habilitation interventions are several of the key methods used to promote sober, responsible, productive and law-abiding behavior. When offenders are held accountable for their behavior and responsible for their actions, the public's safety is enhanced.

In all, the department is responsible for the care, custody and supervision of approximately 104,562 adult offenders in Missouri. On December 31, 2010, there were 30,623 offenders confined in Missouri's 20 correctional facilities, and the department was supervising 18,982 parolees and 54,957 probationers across the state. In addition to the correctional facilities, the department operates two community release centers and seven community supervision centers.

There are four divisions within the department. The management of felons and selected misdemeanants committed by the court are divided between the Division of Probation and Parole and the Division of Adult Institutions. The Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services provides program services to felons assigned to probation, parole or prison. All staff-related activities and special program services are provided through the Division of Human Services.

The department utilizes strategic planning to promote continuous improvement and excellent customer service at all levels of the organization. This commitment to continuous improvement ensures that offenders under the supervision of the Department of Corrections are assigned to the correct custody classification and receive those services that reduce criminal behavior and promote the longest lasting public safety through a measurable reduction in recidivism and revocation.

The strength of the Department of Corrections is found in the women and men who serve around the clock to ensure that offenders are supervised at the most appropriate level with the greatest care for public safety. To assist our staff in their challenging work, the department has developed policies and procedures based on statutes, case law and the best practices in the field.

Sometimes overlooked are the line staff and supervisors dedicated to providing quality correctional supervision to offenders. Working together, these units of probation and parole officers, correctional officers, clerical staff, cooks, substance abuse counselors, caseworkers, maintenance workers, teachers, treatment staff and others blend into a team that holds offenders accountable for their behavior and responsible for their actions. Through a combination of supervision strategies and classification criteria, offenders are supervised in ways that address public safety concerns while meeting the needs of the offender.

Supervision levels in the community range from intensive to minimum supervision of offenders to community corrections programs such as electronic monitoring and residential facilities. Community supervision centers provide additional supervision and treatment for at-risk offenders. In the prisons there are five custody levels that range from minimum (C-1) to maximum (C-5). Using objective criteria to establish supervision and custody levels ensures offenders with corresponding need and disposition are supervised and confined safely and securely with appropriate programming.

The employees of the Missouri Department of Corrections are among the finest in the field of corrections. They are active in their local communities both in developing professional relationships with citizen groups and maintaining their role as citizens building strong communities. The department takes its responsibilities seriously and is committed to making Missouri a safe and secure place for its citizens and visitors.

Offender Management

Risk management is the process of classifying offenders according to the risk they currently present to the public so as to assign them to the institutional custody or community supervision level that best monitors their conduct. Department staff assess, evaluate and intervene as necessary to ensure offenders are managed in ways that best promote public safety in accordance with the sentence of the court.

Risk management is accomplished in a variety of ways. Sentencing assessment reports assist the court in determining sentencing options. Individualized institutional treatment programs for substance abusers, sex offenders and others who experience mental health or other special problems provide offenders with the necessary skills for successful reintegration into society. Supervision strategies such as intensive specialized programming, electronic monitoring, community supervision centers, day reporting centers and residential facilities provide offenders with a structured environment for increased supervision. Restorative Justice programming in institutions and field offices allow offenders an opportunity to repair the harm their crimes have caused individual victims and their communities. The institutional classification system ensures felons in prison are confined at custody levels that maintain facility security and public safety.

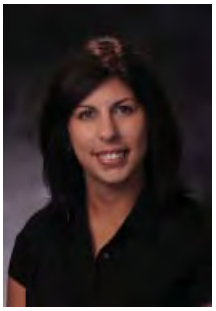
Office of the Director

The director of the Missouri Department of Corrections is charged with shaping legislation, formulating policies and procedures and keeping the public informed in order to effectively and efficiently guide and implement objectives and goals that increase the public's safety. Included in the Office of the Director are units that participate in these endeavors, notably Victim Services, Inspector General, Legal Services, Budget and Research, Reentry and Women Offender Programs, Emergency Preparedness/Workplace Violence, Legislative/Constituent Services and Public Information.

Budget, Research and Evaluation

The Budget Unit is responsible for developing, preparing and presenting the department's annual budget request. Budget staff coordinate with the department's operating divisions to determine the resources required to implement agency programs and strategies. The unit then develops funding requests that accurately reflect the department's strategic planning goals and objectives. Through analysis of research data on program outcomes and population trends, the unit provides guidance on ways to use department resources more effectively and efficiently. The Budget Unit presents the budget request to the Governor's Office and then works closely with the General Assembly to provide information during the appropriations process. This unit also coordinates fiscal note responses for the department.

The Federal Grants Unit is responsible for obtaining, monitoring, managing and disbursing all federal funds obtained through grants to the department. This section pays all bills and salaries for federal programs in which the department participates. The Federal Grants section prepares financial and progress reports for all department grants.



The Research and Evaluation Unit is responsible for providing research data and analysis to support the entire Department of Corrections. The unit tracks population growth of all offenders and maintains statistical data required for the evaluation of department programs and trends. The unit provides research information required to support the strategic planning process and all departmental decision-making. The unit also provides research and survey data to agencies within and outside state government and reviews outside research requests.

Reentry, Restorative Justice and Women Offender Programs

Missouri was chosen as one of the first two states to implement a model created by the National Institute of Corrections called the Transition from Prison to Community Initiative (TPCI). This initiative was the impetus for the development of the Missouri Reentry Process (MRP) which is a system of resources, programs and partnerships designed to decrease offender risk and enhance offender and self sufficiency to improve public safety. The Reentry Unit manages a number of programs and initiatives related to the MRP and provides offender reentry assistance and direction to divisions within the Department of Corrections, partnering agencies and the community. The purpose of this assistance is to empower professionals and community members to better assist the offender population with their reintegration to the community. The Women Offender Program was established to ensure accountability, reliability and continuous improvement in meeting the department's commitment to provide gender responsive resources and interventions to women incarcerated or under probation or parole supervision. The Department of Corrections understands the value of partnership and works closely with the state level MRP Steering Team, the 44 local MRP Steering Teams and various other state and community agencies, organizations and faith-based groups.

The Reentry Unit also provides oversight and support to the Department of Corrections' Restorative Justice efforts. Through restorative justice initiatives, offenders assist victims and victimized communities as part of their sentence to prison. Restorative Justice holds the offender accountable and provides a means for them to repay their debt to the victim and the community. These initiatives also provide the offender an opportunity to leave the system with an improved attitude and sense of belonging as well as strengthened social bonds that serve as the foundation of our communities. Through the efforts of offender volunteers, not-for-profit agencies and victims statewide received reparative products and services. Examples include donation of quilts, fruits and vegetables harvested from inmate gardens, wooden toys, refurbished bicycles, etc. to organizations such as the Salvation Army, children's hospitals, senior citizen homes, schools, KidSmart, Newborns in Need, Head Start, Boys and Girls Club, Veterans Administration Hospitals, homeless shelters and many more. In addition, many offenders attend Impact of Crime on Victims classes (ICVC), which help offenders develop a sensitivity and respect toward victims that helps prevent further victimization.

Inspector General

The Office of Inspector General is charged with objectively examining department operations through the Investigations Unit and the Intelligence Unit. The Investigations Unit is the investigative arm of the department and conducts investigations in response to reports of suspected violations of policy and procedure, statute, and events which may endanger the safety and security of offenders, staff, facilities, employees or the public. The Intelligence Unit is responsible for developing and filtering intelligence information. The Office of Inspector General is also charged with oversight of the Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) standards for the department to ensure compliance and training needs are met.

Emergency Preparedness / Workplace Violence

This section is responsible for writing, reviewing and revising departmental policies and procedures related to emergency preparedness, disaster planning and response. This includes the oversight of department emergency preparedness with mitigation planning, monitoring training programs and evaluating emergency exercises at worksites to prepare all staff to respond to emergencies efficiently and effectively.

This section also serves as the liaison to the State Emergency Management Agency (SEMA), which includes response to SEMA when an emergency dictates an activation. Participation in SEMA sponsored committees and training sessions representing the Department of Corrections and participation in statewide emergency exercises is expected as well.

Coordinating the Department Workplace Violence Program, including development/review of department procedures for program management and Peer Action Care Teams (PACT) is also handled by this section. Developing/revising and coordinating training for PACT members (peer responders); mobilizing PACT when appropriate; receiving/responding to calls regarding workplace violence/critical incidents; assisting with Employee Assistance Program (EAP) referrals; and critical incident stress debriefing at worksites are additional responsibilities.

Legislative/Constituent Services, Public Information and Victim Services

These three sections of the Office of the Director provide and coordinate information to specific audiences concerning the department and its divisions.

The Legislative/Constituent Services Office processes offender-related inquiries from legislative offices, offender families and the public. Through a customer-focused approach, the office provides information about specific offenders and education about the department's policies, procedures and practices. This office also responds to inquiries from legislators and other interested parties about the department's operations and the potential impact of proposed legislation.

The Department's Public Information Office responds to inquiries from the news media and the general public. The office responds to dozens of media calls and inquiries each week. The office also produces department publications and videos. It promotes activities and handles updates to the department web site. The unit develops organizational plans to improve internal communication and has implemented a media outreach plan for interviews designed to promote department programs and activities.

The department's Office of Victim Services (OVS) was established to ensure core services and accurate and timely information are provided to Missouri's crime victims. The OVS provides notification of changes in an offender's status to victims of crime in accordance with 595.209, RSMo. The OVS enhances accessibility to department operations including parole hearings, victim impact statements for the Parole Board's consideration and reasonable protection from offenders or others acting on behalf of the offender. The OVS provides services including notification, crisis intervention, support and referrals to approximately 16,000 victims of crime. Upon the request of the victim OVS staff will provide accompaniment to parole hearings and provide support to families of homicide victims during an execution.

Division of Human Services

The Division of Human Services consists of Human Resource Management, Training and Employee Development, Employee Health/Wellness/Safety, Religious/Spiritual Services, Volunteer/Intern Programs, Planning, Fiscal Management, and General Services. This division provides support to the other divisions of the department. A professionally trained workforce, where safety and wellness is practiced as a part of the job, is essential to carrying out the vision, mission, values and professional principles of the department. The Division of Human Services is tasked with recruiting a diverse professional workforce, maintaining that qualified workforce, improving the work environment of employees and communication between management and staff. Strategic planning and fiscal management are essential to support the operation of the department. Additionally, the division has oversight of the institutional food operations, major new construction and maintenance projects, the management of the vehicle fleet and central office business office and warehouse functions.

Fiscal Management Unit

The Fiscal Management Unit oversees the implementation and maintenance of a variety of complex accounting systems that provides essential fiscal oversight, support and assistance to correctional institutions, probation and parole district offices, Missouri Vocational Enterprises and the offender population through the management of the offender canteens and offender banking system. The unit's primary responsibility is to ensure the accountability and transparency of the state resources entrusted to the department. This is accomplished through the efforts of skilled and experienced staff in the areas of Purchasing, Accounting, Internal Auditing and Offender Financial Services. The unit also serves as the department liaison with the Office of Administration, the State Auditor's Office, the State Treasurer's Office and the Department of Revenue.

The Planning Section provides organizational development assistance in the preparation of the department's strategic plan and oversees the monitoring of strategies and performance measures associated with the strategic plan to ensure success. The Planning Section also facilitates departmental teams that work on process improvement, problem-solving and customer satisfaction projects. In addition, this section provides support to the Corrections Officer Certification Commission.

Training Academy

The Training Academy develops, coordinates and delivers pre-service, in-service and management/supervisory training to staff in each of the department's divisions. The academy consists of 53 full-time staff and a cadre of part-time volunteer trainers who perform their duties in one of the department's three regions: Central, Eastern and Western. The academy promotes personal growth, professional development and imparts the departmental vision to all staff members to help them achieve the short- and long-term goals of the agency. To this end, the regions conduct pre-service basic training courses for all new corrections officers, non-custody staff, and probation and parole officers. In addition, more than 1,000 in-service and management courses are presented annually. The academy is also responsible for probation and parole safety training and a variety of other certification programs. The academy designs and develops all departmental curricula.

Employee Health and Safety

This section addresses job-related health and safety concerns with focus on control of infectious diseases. It also oversees and implements occupational safety concerns, coordinates the department's "Early Return to Work Program" and promotes employee wellness activities. The department's Employee Drug Testing Program is coordinated through this unit.

Human Resources Section

The Human Resources Section provides technical assistance on all human resource functions. This section is responsible for the timely and accurate processing of payroll, maintenance and updating of official personnel records for all departmental staff, testing and hiring of corrections officers, reviewing and coordinating classification actions, ensuring the department recruits a qualified and diverse workforce and ensuring that all merit guidelines are followed. The Human Resources Section assists employees in their career development and employee conflict resolution.

Religious/Spiritual Programming

Religious programming opportunities and pastoral care services are provided for inmates in correctional centers. Department chaplains assigned to every institution work with volunteers from various faith groups to ensure that constitutional rights of inmates to practice the religion of their choice are facilitated within the limitations of a secure setting. Religious and spiritual services are used as a restorative and transforming tool for inmate change, growth and social reintegration. Chaplains partner with the outside faith community to provide effective service delivery for the offenders, both in the institution and relative to community reentry. Raising public awareness of offender spiritual needs and volunteer recruitment are essential tasks in which chaplains regularly engage.

The impact of religious and spiritual services for inmates has been shown to decrease conduct violations and promote inmate institutional adjustment. Inmates attending religious and spiritual programming are more likely to engage in activities that promote positive attitudes and behaviors needed to take advantage of other inmate programs.

Volunteers/Interns

Volunteers serve throughout the department and are recognized as non-salaried staff. They receive an orientation to the department, training and supervision by department staff. Volunteers provide a variety of services and programs in areas such as substance abuse, recovery support, literacy, tutoring, parenting, anger management, employability skills and religion. Volunteers provide incarcerated offenders the opportunity to participate in community organizations including: NAACP, Vietnam Veterans, Kiwanis, Toastmasters, American Legion and other such organizations.

This section also coordinates student internships from various educational institutions and colleges around the state. The Volunteer Section coordinates the involvement of representatives from other state agencies, community organizations and individuals in providing reentry services and programs to incarcerated offenders.

General Services

General Services is responsible for the purchasing, storage and distribution of commodity food items to the department's institutions statewide from two regional warehouses. This section also oversees the operations of institutional food service including regional cook-chill facilities, major new construction and maintenance projects within the department and management of the statewide departmental vehicle fleet. The General Services Unit also oversees the central business office and warehouse functions.

TONY SPILLERS
Assistant Director Education Services,
Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services

Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services

The Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services is responsible for developing and delivering interventions and services necessary for offenders to correct their criminal behavior at each point in the department's supervision continuum and prepare for successful reintegration into the community upon release. These services and interventions include: academic and vocational education, medical services, mental health services, Missouri Sexual Offender Program, Missouri Vocational Enterprises, toxicology and substance abuse services. These program services allow corrections professionals throughout the department to fully utilize the supervision continuum to better resolve offender issues such as literacy, sobriety and employability. Without remediation, these factors would impede their return to the community as law-abiding and productive citizens. The public's safety is best served by creating increased offender accountability.

Adult Basic Education

In order to prepare inmates for successful reintegration into society and to reduce recidivism, offenders without a high school diploma or equivalent General Educational Development (GED) are required by statute to participate in Adult Basic Education classes. The educational program provides offenders an opportunity to obtain the GED certificate and make measurable progress in academic education. Classes range from basic literacy through post-secondary education, offering the following programs:

Assessment: Intake centers screen and diagnose offenders prior to school assignments.

Adult Education: Classes assist the offender in working toward the GED certificate.

Literacy: providing specific instruction for those with limited English proficiency and reading skills.

Title I: supplemental instructional services for educationally disadvantaged students under age 21.

Special Education: education for offenders with disabilities through the age of 21.

Incarcerated Individuals Program: Qualified offenders can participate in college coursework.

Library: provides library services focusing on educational, legal and informational needs. Each library is composed of a general collection and maintains a collection of legal resources to provide offender "access to courts," per the U.S. Supreme Court's Bounds v Smith decision.

The Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education certifies all department teachers and administrators.

The Mandatory Academic Education Statute, Section 207.690.10, RSMo establishes that offenders must earn their GED certificate or exhibit a continuous honest, good-faith effort toward academic success to be eligible for parole. With this added emphasis on education and academic progress, the goal is that 80 percent of students served will show success in one or more areas of reading, math or language during a three-month period.

Academic education can serve over 14,000 eligible offenders daily and during the past two fiscal years just under 3,200 inmates have earned their GED certificates. Eighty percent of the inmates who take the GED test pass. This rate exceeds both the state and national average.

Current programs include a number of career and technical training programs throughout the prison system. These programs include computer repair, automotive repair, business technology, electrical wiring, residential carpentry and plumbing, diesel mechanics and industrial technology, culinary arts, cosmetology, horticulture and certified nurse assistant. Additionally, programs include training for offenders in computer refurbishing and repair and technical literacy. This program is delivered in partnership with local community colleges. To help ensure that offenders are prepared to work, employability skills/life skills (ES/LS) classes are available. This program is designed to provide skills vital to success in the work world such as communication, cultural diversity, conflict resolution, personal finance management and knowing how to find and keep a job.

Community-based connecting activities are designed to establish partnerships with state and community agencies. These activities provide access to services available that may help offenders and their families in the process of social reintegration in a free society. Additionally, these initiatives bring the department in contact with individuals from within the community to discuss offender reintegration strategies.

Missouri Vocational Enterprises

Missouri Vocational Enterprises (MVE) is responsible for 25 different industries in 14 correctional institutions throughout the state. At any one time MVE employs approximately 1,400 offenders who provide a variety of products and services for sale to state agencies, city and county governments, political subdivisions, state employees and not-for-profit organizations. MVE's goal is to increase work and training opportunities for offenders. Profits generated by MVE sales are used to develop new products and create expanded vocational training opportunities. More than 50 MVE jobs now qualify as federally certified apprenticeships by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Work-based programs are delivered via apprenticeships and on-the-job training delivered by MVE and through institutional jobs. MVE also provides skilled training programs such as computer-aided drafting and similar software to assist the offender to secure and retain meaningful employment upon release.

Medical Services

By law the department is responsible for the health care of offenders in its custody. The Medical Services Unit oversees medical care, which has been provided on a contractual basis since December 1, 1992. This managed-care system stresses health care education, primary prevention, immediate identification of health problems and early intervention to prevent more debilitating chronic health problems. Medical units are located in every correctional center. Depending upon institutional size, the level of care provided to offenders ranges from daily, routine medical and dental sick call services to 24-hour care infirmaries. Chronic care clinics ensure those with chronic conditions are regularly assessed and provided continuous medical care by licensed nurses and physicians.

Mental Health

When offenders are sentenced to prison, their mental health needs are assessed at the reception and diagnostic centers. All offenders receive a mental health screening and psychological testing. While in our system, mentally ill offenders receive individualized treatment to stabilize their mental illness and help with institutional adjustment.

The department works closely with the Department of Mental Health. Offenders who experience an acute exacerbation of psychiatric illness can be stabilized at the Biggs Correctional Treatment Center at Fulton State Hospital. A specialized treatment program, the Correctional Treatment Center, offers programming for seriously mentally ill offenders at Farmington Correctional Center. Both departments also work together coordinating treatment for mentally ill offenders being released from incarceration.

The department also has other specialized mental health treatment programs at Farmington Correctional Center (Social Rehabilitation Unit), Jefferson City Correctional Center (Secure Social Rehabilitation Unit) and Women's Eastern Reception, Diagnostic and Correctional Center (Women's Social Rehabilitation Unit).

The department also has the Special Needs Unit for developmentally disabled offenders. This is located at the Potosi Correctional Center.

Mental health services are available at all institutions. Services are provided by teams of psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, professional counselors, psychiatric nurses and activity therapists.

Missouri Sexual Offender Program (MoSOP)

Missouri law (589.040, RSMo) mandates the Director of the Department of Corrections to develop a program of treatment, education and rehabilitation for sexual assault offenders. By department policy, the successful completion of MoSOP is mandatory for a release prior to an offender's sentence completion time. The MoSOP program generally takes 10-14 months to complete and is provided at the Farmington Correctional Center for males and at the Women's Eastern Reception, Diagnostic and Correctional Center in Vandalia for females. Programming for handicapped offenders, and those in protective custody, is offered at the Eastern Reception Diagnostic and Correctional Center in Bonne Terre. During the fiscal year of 2011, 301 offenders completed the MoSOP program.

The Sex Offender Assessment Unit (SOAU), a 120-day pre-sentencing residential program was established in fiscal year 1994. This program assesses risk to the community and sex offender treatment needs. Information is shared with the court for sentencing considerations. For fiscal year 2011, 106 offenders were assessed for the courts.

Regional sex offender specialists employed by the department monitor a panel of private practitioners that provide treatment to offenders while on probation or parole. The courts or Parole Board mandate treatment for these offenders.

The Department of Corrections is responsible for assessing sex offenders, prior to their release from incarceration, who might potentially qualify for civil commitment as sexually violent predators (632.480, RSMo). After careful examination by highly specialized staff, 18 out of 543 offenders reviewed (3.3 percent) from calendar year 2010 were referred for possible civil commitment to the Department of Mental Health.

Institutional Substance Abuse Treatment and Toxicology Services

Substance abuse is a well-documented criminogenic factor with direct impact on offender recidivism. Substance abuse disorders are progressive and the need for treatment and recovery management usually recurs throughout an offender's life span. In fiscal year 2010 approximately 37 percent of new admissions to prison were alcohol- or drug-related offenders.

An array of substance abuse services are provided to offenders incarcerated in Missouri's prisons who have been sentenced by the courts or stipulated by the Board of Probation and Parole for substance abuse treatment. In fiscal year 2010 approximately 2,970 beds were designated for institutional treatment. Approximately 88 percent of offenders who were discharged from institutional treatment successfully completed their programs.

The Department of Corrections provided the following services in correctional institutions in fiscal year 2010:

- Substance abuse assessment services.
- Long Term Institutional Treatment programs of one year or longer.
- Offenders Under Treatment (OUT) programs for 180-day treatment.
- Partial Day Treatment programs for parole violators.
- Short Term Treatment programs for court ordered and board ordered to serve 84- to 120-day treatment.
- Parole Relapse program for 30-day relapse prevention.
- Ambulatory and Mobility Treatment programs for offenders mandated substance abuse treatment and who face health or mobility challenges that prohibit them from attending other facilities.
- Toxicology Services for the department are a critical aspect of the drug interdiction approach of Department of Corrections. The department conducts both random and targeted urinalysis at every correctional institution for offenders and employees.

Division of Adult Institutions

The Division of Adult Institutions is responsible for supervision and management of the state's 20 adult correctional institutions. The division operates safe, secure and humane institutions for the confinement of individuals committed by the courts to serve a prison sentence. By Missouri law, a felon must be 17 years of age or older or certified as an adult by the Circuit Court and have a sentence of not less than one year to be committed to the division.

SCOTT LAWRENCE
Warden
Algoa Correctional Center

BILL HARRIS
Warden, Boonville Correctional Center

Incarcerated inmates are accountable for civil conduct and compliance with institutional rules. Inmates are also required to make payments from their individual inmate accounts for court ordered fines or judgments to the Crime Victims Compensation Fund. In addition, each inmate is required to engage in work, school or treatment on a full-time basis throughout their period of confinement in order to prepare them to be productive, law-abiding citizens upon their release. Inmates are encouraged to make positive contributions to society and to take responsibility for repairing the harm caused by their past criminal actions by participating in community service, restorative justice activities and impact of crime on victims programs. Over 97 percent of all offenders committed to the division to serve a sentence are released at some point. Preparing inmates to transition successfully from prison to the community is an investment in public safety and reduces future victimization.

Citizens Advisory Committee

The department utilizes a Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) comprised of 12 private citizens appointed by the governor to evaluate grievances filed by inmates and referred to the director of the department. The CAC makes recommendations to the director for the resolution of those grievances as specified in the department Inmate Grievance Procedure. The CAC meets on a monthly basis at different correctional institutions and also makes on-site inspections.

Board of Probation and Parole

The Missouri Board of Probation and Parole is composed of seven full-time members appointed by the governor, subject to the advice and consent of the Senate. During their six-year terms, members determine the release of individuals from confinement in the Division of Adult Institutions through parole or conditional release. Parole hearings are held at each correctional center monthly. If a release date is set, the board determines whether placement in release strategies, such as electronic monitoring, residential facilities and community release centers is appropriate. The board stipulates special conditions in order to address specific offender needs and improve the opportunity for success under supervision. They also monitor the supervision of offenders in the community and return those offenders to prison that are a risk to the community. The board also investigates and reports to the governor on all applications for pardons, commutations of sentence, reprieves or restorations of citizenship. The board may include information relating to the applicant along with appropriate recommendations.

The chair of the Board of Probation and Parole is designated by the governor and is the chief administrative officer in charge of operations, expenditures, Interstate Compact Services for supervision of parolees and probationers and chief spokesperson for the board. The members of the board are:

McSwain, Ellis Jr., (D), chair, Jefferson City;
Forrester, Reid K., (R), Poplar Bluff;
Jamison, Brian, (R), Columbia;
Pryor, Chuck, (R), Versailles;
Rucker, Martin, (D), St. Jospeh;
Wells, Jim, (D), Bowling Green;
Vacancies (1).

Division of Probation and Parole

The Division of Probation and Parole supports the operations of the Board of Probation and Parole and is responsible for field and institutional services for probationers, parolees and conditional releases, as well as community corrections programming, two community release centers and seven community supervision centers. The Division of Probation and Parole assesses and supervises criminal offenders assigned to the division by the Circuit Courts of Missouri, the Parole Board or under the terms of the Interstate Compact.

The division is divided statewide into six regions for the effective management of the offenders assigned to it. Regions are made up of a network of local district offices, institutional parole offices and residential facilities, and in some instances are supported by satellite offices. The chief state supervisor reports directly to the chair of the Parole Board and oversees the daily operations of the division. An assistant division director is responsible for managing the division's support staff, including the Command Center. The assistant division director reports directly to the chief state supervisor.

Region I consists of 10 district field offices in St. Louis City, St. Louis County and the St. Louis Community Release Center.

Region II encompasses 10 district field offices in Kansas City (5), Independence, Belton, Warrensburg, Liberty, Nevada and the Kansas City Community Release Center.

Region III consists of two field district offices in Springfield and other district offices in Joplin, Neosho, Branson, Nixa, Aurora, West Plains, Poplar Bluff and Lebanon. Additionally, the institutional parole offices in Jefferson City (2), Fordland and Licking are in Region III.

Region IV has district offices in Columbia, Jefferson City, St. Charles, Troy (satellite in Warrenton), Hannibal, Union, Rolla (satellite in Steelville) and Fulton. Region IV also oversees the institutional parole operations in Fulton, Vandalia, Tipton and Bowling Green.

Region V consists of district field offices in Hillsboro, Cape Girardeau (satellite in Perryville), Farmington, Sikeston, Kennett (satellite in New Madrid), Caruthersville, Potosi, Dexter and Charleston. Additionally, the institutional parole offices in Bonne Terre, Farmington, Charleston and Pacific are in Region V.

Region VI has district field offices in St. Joseph, Maryville, Cameron, Trenton (satellite in Brookfield), Camdenton, Eldon, Sedalia, Moberly (satellites in Macon and Kirksville) and Lexington (satellite in Marshall). Additionally, the institutional parole offices in Chillicothe, Maryville, Cameron (2), Boonville, Moberly and St. Joseph are in Region VI.

Institutional Services

The institutional probation and parole officers are responsible for the assessment of incarcerated offenders and the tracking of their progress for the Parole Board or the court. The institutional parole officers report their findings to the Parole Board, prior to an offender's parole hearing and to the court, when the offender is being considered for release to probation supervision. The institutional parole staff and parole analyst assist the Parole Board as they conduct hearings. The officers work with the offenders to develop supervision plans as they prepare for their release from confinement.

Institutional parole offices are located at the following correctional centers: Algoa, Boonville, Chillicothe, Crossroads, Farmington (satellite at Potosi), Jefferson City, Maryville, Missouri Eastern, Moberly, Northeast, Western, Ozark, South Central, Southeast, Tipton and at Diagnostic and Reception Centers in Bonne Terre, St. Joseph, Vandalia and Fulton (satellite at Cremer Therapeutic Community Center).

Field Services

Field services encompass the supervision of probationers in the community assigned to the division by the courts, offenders released under supervision by the Parole Board and offenders from other states through the Interstate Compact. There were approximately 74,000 offenders under the supervision of the division in the community at the end of calendar year 2010, including parole and conditional release cases received from the Parole Board and probationers assigned by Missouri judges.

In order to reduce recidivism, field probation and parole officers continuously assess and evaluate offenders assigned to them, and supervise the offenders at a level consistent with their risk to reoffend. The probation and parole officer effectively balances treatment and supervision strategies necessary to manage offender risk with the needs and interests of victims and communities. This supervision process consists of a number of critical activities including:

- accurate and ongoing assessment of offender risk and need;
- development of effective supervision and treatment plans;
- restorative justice practices; and
- use of appropriate sanctions and strategies to minimize risk and maximize the potential for successful outcomes.

Offenders may be ordered to perform community service hours by the court as part of their reparation to the community. They may also be required to compensate victims of crime, pay court costs and make restitution to individual victims.

Probation and parole staff is engaged with local communities to assist in the coordination of service delivery and activities to improve public safety. Across the state, Citizen Advisory Boards (CABs) provide valuable assistance to their communities. CABs promote an environment for offenders to gain the skills they need to be productive and law-abiding citizens. To this end, CABs fund special programs, such as financial management and substance abuse education and training, and provide transportation assistance.

In addition to CABs, Probation and Parole staff participate in over 30 local Missouri Reentry Process Teams. The goal of the teams is to improve the transition process of offenders leaving prison and returning to their communities and to enhance options for offenders sentenced to probation within those communities. This creative approach has led to strong partnerships from which new and innovative interventions and supervision approaches have emerged.

Community Supervision Strategies

Probation and parole staff coordinates and manages a continuum of community based programs and employ a variety of supervision services to improve public safety and offender success. These facilities, programs and services assist with the supervision of probationers assigned by the courts and with the reintegration of parolees upon release from prison. The following programs are designed to provide additional treatment, intervention, sanctions and structure for offenders:

- electronic monitoring;
- contract residential facilities;
- outpatient substance abuse treatment;
- mental health treatment;
- employment services;
- cognitive skills development classes;
- community sex offender treatment and registration;
- day report centers; and
- community re-entry contracts.

Community Release and Supervision Centers

Community Release Centers and Community Supervision Centers provide the Parole Board and courts with a structured, residential program to better assist and supervise offenders transitioning from prison to the community or offenders who are at risk of revocation from community supervision. Offenders assigned to these facilities are required to accept personal responsibility in finding and maintaining employment, obtaining substance abuse and medical care and obtaining educational or vocational opportunities. Assessment and treatment sessions are scheduled to coincide with the offenders' off-hours from work.

Kansas City Community Release Center

The Kansas City Community Release Center (KCCRC) opened in May 1978 and is located in the downtown area of Kansas City. KCCRC has a capacity to house 350 offenders.

St. Louis Community Release Center

The St. Louis Community Release Center (SLCRC) is located just north of downtown St. Louis and has been in operation since April 1978. SLCRC has a capacity to house 550 offenders.

Community Supervision Centers

The division has seven community supervision centers. Each center includes an administrative area to accommodate the existing probation and parole district office located in that area, as well as sufficient program/classroom areas and dormitory housing space for 30 offenders in need of structured residential supervision. Each center provides short-term residential services for offenders, who otherwise would have to be housed within the department's correctional centers or local jails. The centers are located in St. Joseph, Farmington, Hannibal, Kennett, Poplar Bluff, Fulton and Kansas City.

Command Center

The department's Command Center is a 24 hours a day, seven days a week communication center whose staff tracks offenders in the community on electronic monitoring and in community release centers and residential centers. This unit was established to ensure that offenders assigned to community corrections programs maintain their curfews and adhere to other restrictions as required around the clock. Command Center staff conduct investigations for every serious rule violation. They issue arrest warrants should offenders fail to return to their assigned residence at the appointed time. Command Center staff also maintains regular contact with state and local law enforcement to develop leads and to ensure absconders are apprehended and returned to department custody without delay.

The Missouri Department of Economic Development's mission is to create solid, high-paying jobs and to boost economic development across the state to help local communities grow and prosper.

The department administers a wide array of services and programs designed to enhance Missouri's economic growth in the 21st century. These essential services focus on workers, businesses and communities. The department is composed of agencies that administer statutory requirements and department policy in the areas of community, economic and workforce development.

Helping the department with its mission are a number of divisions, boards, commissions and councils working together to ensure that the state meets Governor Jay Nixon's vision of making Missouri the best possible location to live, work, raise a family and visit.

The Business and Community Services Division is the largest division in the department and houses the sales, research, marketing, finance and compliance teams.

The Division of Workforce Development remains a pivotal section of the department, helping Missourians access gainful employment and train for the next-generation, high-tech jobs of tomorrow's economy.

The Missouri Division of Tourism, Missouri Development Finance Board, Missouri Housing Development Commission, Missouri Arts Council, Missouri Women's Council and the Missouri Community Service Commission are all housed within the department, as are the Missouri Public Service Commission and the Office of Public Counsel.

Administrative Services

The department is administered by a director appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The director appoints the management staff and division directors. The general counsel's office provides comprehensive legal advice regarding issues affecting divisions within the department and provides staff support for the Small Business Regulatory Fairness Board.

Several support sections assist in department administration. Communications promotes the department's programs and activities throughout the state and nation by means of news releases and other public relations tools.

Financial Systems analyzes monthly financial statements and works with the state treasurer, state auditor and the Office of Administration to perform cash management activities.

Budget and Planning develops and monitors the budget, reviews expenditures, provides strategic planning assistance and researches grants.

Human Resources assists the divisions by advertising for and recruiting new employees, administering the wage and salary program, preparing payrolls and maintaining personnel policies and procedures.

Economic Development Groups

The economic development agencies—Business and Community Services Division, Workforce Development and Tourism—work with local communities to help businesses create jobs, increase sales, find and retain qualified workers, identify sites and obtain financial support to locate or expand in Missouri. The agencies also work with local and regional partners to stimulate greater economic growth by increasing capital investment, promoting tourism and the arts, creating greater access to affordable housing and enhancing self-sufficiency within the state's diverse communities.

The Division of Business and Community Services' mission is to facilitate job creation and private investment in the state through existing business expansion and new business location, as well as to support planned community development and growth. The ivision is comprised of professionals who work directly with local economic and community development professionals, private business, local government, nonprofit organizations and real estate developers. The division is organized into teams that all support the same mission. The teams are sales, research, marketing, finance, and compliance.

Sales Team

The sales team's main objective is existing business retention and expansion. There are three main components of the sales team: regional project managers assigned to work with businesses and communities in every region of the state; international trade specialists, including foreign office representatives, assigned to promote export trade, increase opportunities for foreign investment and provide technical assistance in the area of trade finance; and industry specialists assigned to facilitate growth in eight of Missouri's high-potential industries. The sales team also works closely with the Missouri Partnership, a public-private organization sponsored in part by the state, whose mission and focus is to attract new businesses to Missouri.

Research

The research team, known as the Missouri Economic Research and Information Center (MERIC), provides comprehensive analysis of Missouri's socioeconomic environment at the local, regional and statewide levels. To achieve this, MERIC employs a wide array of tools, which include econometric models, geographic information systems and advanced statistical methods. Coupled with its analysis capability, MERIC maintains a comprehensive labor market database produced in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Labor. Data on employment/unemployment, wages, layoffs, labor availability and a variety of other information designed to help understand the state's labor market conditions are regularly reported.

Marketing

The marketing team blends marketing, creative design and research skills with information technology to construct customized communications and marketing tools that add value to Missouri's business, attraction and expansion efforts. The professional staff is responsible for providing direct support as required by business expansion and site selection projects by delivering social, economic and demographic information on the state and the project's location. The team provides a variety of analytical reports on prospects to enhance decision-making and customer service.

Finance

The state of Missouri has a variety of tools to assist in the financing of a variety of economic development projects. Tax credits, grants and loans are available in the areas of business development, community development, redevelopment and infrastructure development. The finance team houses professionals that oversee the programs including application and program creation, application review, evaluation, coordination with the sales team, recommendation and reporting. The team also provides professional technical assistance and training to businesses, communities, nonprofits and developers.

Compliance

The compliance team monitors the finance and incentive programs administered by the department to ensure efficiency and compliance. The monitoring process includes both internal file reviews and on-site visits. The professional staff strives to ensure that the stated purpose of each program is being achieved, that the funds have been used in a manner consistent with the statute and that there is adequate source documentation indicating compliance. The compliance team provides feedback and suggestions to both the sales and finance teams to ensure that programs are efficient and effective.

The Missouri Community Service Commission (MCSC) is dedicated to creating opportunities to enable all citizens to serve their communities. The MCSC connects Missourians of all ages and backgrounds in an effort to improve unmet community service needs through direct and tangible service. The MCSC serves as the administrator for AmeriCorps*State funding in Missouri by awarding monetary grants and providing technical assistance and support to its grantees. By collaborating with volunteer organizations and state agencies, and by continuing to effectively administer National Service initiatives, the MCSC makes it possible for Missourians to serve their communities.

LINDA THOMPSON
Executive Director
Missouri Community Service Commission

The MCSC was established by an act of the Missouri Legislature in 1994 as a direct response to the National and Community Service Trust Act of 1993. Its 15 to 25 members are appointed by the governor and meet quarterly. The Missouri Legislature passed a measure in 1998 allowing the commission to raise private contributions to assist in its work, thus enabling the commission to broaden its impact on the service and volunteer communities. The MCSC receives federal funding from the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS) to administer the AmeriCorps*State and Education Awards programs in Missouri, making federal funds more responsive to state and local needs and providing greater assistance to educational, nonprofit, secular and faith-based community organizations.

Overseeing the AmeriCorps program is the MCSC's primary responsibility. AmeriCorps is a national service network supported by the (CNCS) of Washington, D.C. AmeriCorps members may serve full-time or part-time. The participants are often referred to as "members." These members, through the MCSC and CNCS, are provided opportunities to serve their communities and build capacity to meet local needs.

AmeriCorps, often referred to as the "domestic Peace Corps," engages citizens of all ages in projects ranging from tutoring, youth mentoring, public safety, housing rehabilitation, health care, environmental issues, disaster relief and other human needs. It provides communities and neighborhoods with valuable human resources for addressing their most pressing civic issues and gives the individual a way to serve their country by reaching out to others. Nationwide since 1994, more than 700,000 Americans have provided more than 860 million hours of service to their communities and country through AmeriCorps. AmeriCorps provides members the opportunity to increase their skills and earn money for college. In many cases, AmeriCorps has provided educational resources to individuals who would have not otherwise been able to obtain them. Locally, more than 5,000 Missourians have served their communities through AmeriCorps since the program's inception in 1994. Among their accomplishments, Missouri members have tutored more than 40,000 elementary and secondary students, with 85 percent improving at least one grade level. In 2009–2010, 382 AmeriCorps Members served 360,580 hours. They recruited 53,361 non-AmeriCorps volunteers who served an average of five hours each.

Most not-for-profit organizations, local or state governments, school districts or institutions of higher education may sponsor an AmeriCorps program. An AmeriCorps member's term of service for one year on a full-time basis is a minimum of 1,700 hours. Part-time can consist of 900, 675, 450, or 300 hours. At the successful completion of their service commitment, they may be eligible to receive up to a $5,350 education award (less for part-time service) that may be redeemed at a Title IV university, college or trade school. Most AmeriCorps members receive a living allowance while serving, though it varies with the type of program. In 2009–2010, a full-time minimum living allowance equaled $11,400. The living allowance is optional for part-time members.

The Missouri Housing Development Commission (MHDC), created by the 75th General Assembly, has invested/loaned in excess of $4 billion to construct, renovate and preserve affordable housing. MHDC functions as a bank, providing financing directly to developers of affordable rental properties.

The commission also provides funding for home loans to qualified, first-time buyers through a network of certified, private mortgage lenders.

The funds for mortgage financing are provided through the sale of tax-exempt notes and bonds that the commission is authorized to issue.

The commission administers the federal and Missouri Low Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) programs, federal HOME funds, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Project-Based Section 8 rental assistance contracts, Affordable Housing Assistance tax credit and several housing assistance programs funded directly by MHDC. Additionally, the commission administers the Missouri Housing Trust Fund, a program designed to prevent homelessness and provide emergency housing assistance for very low-income Missourians.

The commission participates with the Department of Economic Development in preparing the state's Consolidated Plan for HUD.

The commission includes the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, treasurer and six persons appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The Missouri Arts Council (MAC)—as public leader, partner and catalyst—is dedicated to broadening the appreciation and availability of the arts in the state and fostering the diversity, vitality and excellence of Missouri's communities, economy and cultural heritage.

Created by an act of the 73rd General Assembly, the MAC acts as the state's arts grant-making division, providing financial assistance to nonprofit organizations across the state to encourage and stimulate economic and community growth and development through the arts. A division of the Missouri Department of Economic Development, MAC is the second oldest state-funded arts agency in the country, providing vital support and leadership to bring the arts to all the people of Missouri. The Missouri Arts Council board consists of 15 volunteer citizens from across the state who are appointed by the Department of Economic Development. The governor designates a chair and a vice chair. The board meets regularly to provide direction in policy making and programmatic oversight.

Through funds from the Missouri General Assembly and the National Endowment for the Arts, MAC provides funding for quality arts programming in both large and small communities. Funding areas includes: discipline program assistance (music, dance, theater, literature, electronic media, visual arts, multidiscipline, festivals), community arts, established institutions and mid-sized organizations, folk arts, arts education, minority arts, touring, monthly strategic grants and capacity building.

MAC allocates every program dollar based on the recommendations of Missouri citizens who review grant applications from organizations throughout the state. The panel's recommendations are based on established criteria, including artis-

The Missouri Cultural Trust Fund is an invested endowment fund created by the state legislature in 1993. Income from the trust is dedicated to supporting the arts in Missouri. A portion of the revenue generated by Missouri's nonresident professional athletes is the funding source for the Cultural Trust Fund. The trust is administered by a board of trustees, consisting of the state treasurer, two members of the Senate appointed by the president pro tem of the Senate, two members of the House of Representatives appointed by the speaker of the House, and the members of the Missouri Arts Council.

As the job development and training arm of the Department of Economic Development, the Division of Workforce Development (DWD) provides a robust menu of vital re-employment services, including access to skill-building training, career connections for job seekers and human resources assistance for businesses. These services are provided through a statewide network of Missouri Career Centers and the job web portal MissouriCareerSource.com. Missouri's workforce system is a collaborative partnership that includes the Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations/Division of Employment Security, 14 local Workforce Investment Boards and 12 community college districts and other local educational agencies across the state.

With the assistance of trained, professional staff, Missouri's Next Generation Career Centers streamline customer flow to provide an expanded product box of valuable career assistance services, like specialized workshops, skills assessments, résumé writing assistance and more. These services equip the state's workforce with the training and skills needed by employers to compete in this 21st century economy. Career centers also offer supportive equipment, like computers, telephones, fax machines and copiers. Businesses may use career centers to seek or interview potential employees, test applicants' occupational skills or gain access to labor market information.

DWD also provides several innovative targeted skill-building programs, such as the WorkReadyMissouri program for unemployment insurance claimants; the Show-Me Heroes program for veterans; a nationally-recognized On-the-Job Training (OJT) Program; the National Career Readiness Certificate; and widely acclaimed youth programs.

Since Missouri's businesses are critical to the success of a long-term healthy economy, DWD provides industry training programs, cost-saving financial incentives, hiring assistance and other business services through a network of business representatives and local business service teams. The division's state-funded industry training programs provide funding to assist eligible companies in training their workers for the purpose of creating or retaining jobs in Missouri. These programs are operated locally by educational agencies, such as the community colleges.

The division also provides staff to the governor-appointed Missouri Workforce Investment Board (MoWIB). This board sets workforce policy for Missouri's local workforce areas and strengthens ties among state workforce, education and economic development agencies. MoWIB is currently a 37-member board, a majority of which represents high-level management representatives from Missouri's most progressive and successful companies. The board meets quarterly and engages the directors and commissioners of six state agencies to meet the objective of strengthening Missouri's workforce system.

By fostering a skilled workforce, DWD helps our businesses to be more competitive—both regionally and globally—and helps Missouri citizens become more competitive and successful as they seek jobs and advance up the career ladder.

Missouri Women's Council

The Missouri Women's Council was established in 1985 by the state's 83rd General Assembly. For over 20 years, the council has been meeting its mandate to identify and address the issues affecting the economic and employment status of Missouri women. The council serves as a resource and referral center connecting women to information on all aspects of women, work and family life.

The Women's Council promotes women's economic and employment opportunities through education and training programs, conferences and referral consultations and by providing free resources for Missouri citizens including: a website that provides timely information on women's economic issues with links to various resources; the Women's Resource Guide; the Missouri Family Affirming Wage Guide; current statistics and fact sheets on economic issues affecting women; and the Outstanding Women of Missouri Traveling History Exhibit featuring Missouri women recognized in their disciplines throughout our state's history.

The council consists of 15 members. The governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoints 11 members for staggered terms. The remaining four members of the council consist of two senators and two representatives, who are appointed by their respective bodies in the same manner as members of the standing committees. An executive director serves at the pleasure of the council.

The Missouri Development Finance Board (MDFB) administers several financing programs for public infrastructure and private economic development capital projects of all sizes throughout Missouri. Additionally, the board provides technical consulting services that support Missouri business export activities in partnership with Ex-Im Bank, the Small Business Administration and small cities' downtown development efforts. The board manages many of these programs in partnership with the Missouri DED.

The board was originally created in 1982 as a separate body corporate and politic of the state within DED as the Missouri Industrial Development Board. Its primary mission was to finance small- to medium- sized new and expanding manufacturing businesses. The board's name and mission have evolved at various times since its inception based upon subsequent legislation that expanded its business financing authority and added authority to fund local and state public infrastructure improvements and nonprofit facilities.

The board funds its loans and investments through the issuance of project-specific conduit revenue bond debt, limited authorization to approve tax credits, and fee income earned. Borrowers participating in the board's programs are responsible for debt repayment. The state of Missouri does not incur any costs, nor does it bear any obligation for repaying conduit loans, bonds or notes issued by the board for private or local government borrowers. The board sustains its staffing and operational costs from fee income paid by applicants to its programs and other general operating revenues.

Membership on the board is composed of eight private Missouri residents who are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate to four-year terms. These volunteer members must have been residents of the state for not less than five years prior to their appointment. Remaining membership consists of the lieutenant governor and directors of the departments of Economic Development, Agriculture and Natural Resources. Seven members constitute a quorum. Not more than five appointed members may be of the same political party. Appointed members serve staggered terms to provide continuity and enhance program development.

Missouri Division of Tourism

Tourism continues to rank as one of the most important revenue and job producing industries in Missouri, creating more than 281,000 jobs in fiscal year 2010. With an economic impact of approximately $7.2 billion and $638 million in state tax revenue, tourism is a dynamic component of economic development. There were 35.8 million domestic visitors to the Show-Me State in the last fiscal year and more than 250,000 international visitors in calendar year 2008 (the last year reported).

The 74th General Assembly recognized the importance of tourism 45 years ago with the creation of the Missouri Tourism Commission. In cooperation with the Missouri Department of Transportation, the Division of Tourism operates seven welcome centers located in rest areas along the interstate highway system at key entry points around the state: Eagleville, Hannibal, Joplin, Kansas City, Hayti, Rock Port and St. Louis. The division's award-winning marketing program includes print, television and online advertising that focuses on the experiences that Missouri offers and tourists' perceptions of Missouri as a scenic destination with cultural, historical and family activities. Also a major component of the division is its website—www.VisitMO.com.

In 1993, HB 188 was signed into law as section 620.467, RSMo. This legislation included a performance-based funding formula for the Missouri Division of Tourism.

persons appointed by the governor, which may include but are not limited to persons engaged in tourism-oriented operations. No more than three of the governor's appointees shall be of the same political party.

Commission members appointed by the governor serve staggered four-year terms and may be reappointed at the end of their terms. All serve without compensation but are reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties.

The commission elects a chairman and meets at least four times in a calendar year at the call of the chairman to determine all matters relating to the tourism policies of the state of Missouri and the administration of the Division of Tourism.

The commission reports to each regular session of the General Assembly the results of its marketing program and any recommendations for legislation in the field of tourism promotion.

The budget of the Division of Tourism is contained within the annual submittal of the Department of Economic Development to the Missouri General Assembly for approval.

The Tourism Commission employs a director of the Division of Tourism, qualified by education and experience in public administration with a background in the use of the various news media. The director employs a staff of professional, technical and clerical personnel.

Activities and Plans

Division activities focus on five research-based, strategically planned areas:

- Communications efforts include public and media relations, www.VisitMO.com and new media, photographic and video services and publications;
- Cooperative marketing matches state funds with private-sector tourism dollars for destination promotion;
- Domestic marketing includes advertising, trade shows, meetings/convention marketing, special promotions and events;
- International efforts are targeted in Canada and the United Kingdom in the areas of trade relations, public relations, product development and advertising; and
- Special market efforts focus on reaching niche audiences, such as African-American tourists; agritourism; cultural tourists; and tour and travel, which includes group tours and group leader familiarization tours, advertising and marketplaces.

The primary activities are in the area of advertising and promotion. Among the promotional tools is the annual Missouri Travel Guide. This publication is distributed free to the public by ordering from the division's website or by picking it up at one of the division's welcome centers. News releases and a monthly newsletter, The Tourism Monitor, also are prepared for the news media and others interested in Missouri tourism. The division has an Internet presence through its website, VisitMO.com, which includes destination and attraction information, as well as news and other promotional programs.

Through a paid advertising program, the division promotes Missouri's vacation opportunities. The advertising has the goal of creating a positive image of Missouri and generating travel to the state. Mailing of state information in response to requests is another major part of the division's responsibilities.

Research plays a necessary role in measuring the effectiveness of the division's efforts to increase tourism spending and stimulate economic and market-share growth at the state and local level. It not only measures past efforts, but also can give important insight to how, where, when and to whom the state should direct promotional efforts to increase the number of visitors, the length of stay and their expenditures. Research projects are conducted on a continual basis to determine the size, growth and impact of these marketing efforts.

Annually, the division also works with independent research firms to assess the effect of travel spending on the state's economy, tax revenue derived from travel spending and employment generated through tourism.

In 1993, the Missouri Division of Tourism initiated the Cooperative Marketing Program, a 50/50 matching funds reimbursement program, designed to leverage division marketing resources through participation in strategic marketing partnerships. The Cooperative Marketing Program affords the division the opportunity to support local performance-driven projects designed to increase tourism and provide incentive and opportunity for marketing growth and improvement at the destination level. Qualified professional, nonprofit, destination-marketing organizations throughout Missouri participate regularly in this program. The first year, fiscal year 1995, the program received a budget of $1 million and funded more than 50 marketing organizations. Each year, the division consistently dedicates a significant portion of its marketing budget to the Cooperative Marketing Program. The fiscal year 2010 expended $3.9 million in matching funds for the implementation of 47 projects that resulted in total marketing project expenditures of more than $7.8 million. The funded projects generated more than $1.8 billion gross advertising impressions and more than 916,000 inquiries.

Much of the division's work is designed to meet the changing trends in the travel/tourism industry. Missouri's tourism message appeals to all audiences. The division, through its marketing partners, has expanded its marketing campaign to help our tourism industry grow into new areas. The initiative also includes encouraging close-to-home travel for the estimated 80 million Americans who live within a day's drive of Missouri. The division cooperates with tour packagers and group travel promoters to develop efficient, cost-saving travel opportunities for those who prefer pre-planned vacations.

For travelers entering Missouri, the division operates seven Official State Welcome Centers. The seven welcome centers are located at key entry points to the state at the following locations:

- Joplin Welcome Center—Interstate 44 west of Joplin;
- St. Louis Welcome Center—Interstate 270 and Riverview Drive in St. Louis;
- Hayti Welcome Center—Interstate 55 at Hayti;
- The Hardin C. Cox Welcome Center at Rock Port—Interstate 29 near Rock Port;
- Hannibal Welcome Center—Highway 61 in Hannibal;
- Kansas City Welcome Center—Interstate 70 entering Kansas City;
- Eagleville Welcome Center – Interstate 35 at Eagleville

Close relationships with others in the travel-promotion field are vital. The division maintains these relationships through memberships, including the U.S. Travel Association, National Tour Association, American Bus Association and other travel associations.

The division has won in its campaign to reach international markets, in Canada and the United Kingdom. The division has marketing representatives to oversee the growth of these important markets. Further promotional efforts are coordinated with the Department of Economic Development's international offices.

Regulatory Groups

Through its regulatory agencies, the Department of Economic Development works to safeguard the public interest by ensuring safe and sound financial institutions, just and reasonable utility rates and ethical services by licensed professionals. These agencies include the Office of the Public Counsel and the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The Office of the Public Counsel is Missouri's consumer advocate in the area of utility regulation. The public counsel must be an attorney licensed to practice in Missouri and is appointed by the director of the Department of Economic Development.

The Office of the Public Counsel was established in 1974 as an independent agency to represent the interests of utility customers in proceedings before and appeals from the Missouri Public Service Commission (PSC) and the courts. The PSC regulates the rates and services of investor-owned electric, natural gas, telephone, water, sewer and steam heat utilities and also regulates manufactured housing. The public counsel's participation in PSC cases and its power to appeal PSC decisions has resulted in important victories for utility consumers.

While keeping abreast of the rapid changes that are currently occurring in the utility sector, the Office of the Public Counsel advocates for high quality utility services at affordable rates. When large industrial and commercial utility customers retain counsel to represent their particular interests before the PSC, the Office of the Public Counsel focuses its representation on residential and small business customers who otherwise would not have their point of view presented or their interests protected. The public counsel's representation gives these consumers an essential voice in the regulation of life sustaining public utility services.

Dramatic changes in federal and state policy have introduced some competition into the local telephone market, and may significantly impact Missouri's electric industry. The Office of the Public Counsel advocates for such changes only when it appears that consumers would benefit. If such changes occur, the Office of the Public Counsel will continue its traditional role in the remaining monopoly utility markets, but will also focus its efforts on the emerging competitive areas to advocate regulatory structures that would facilitate a transition to truly effective competition. The public counsel educates and communicates with consumers about their rights and responsibilities. These efforts are especially important to guard against consumer fraud.

The office consists of attorneys, technical experts and administrative staff. The attorneys represent the public interest in proceedings before the PSC and the state and federal courts, as well as before the Federal Communications Commission and Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. Accountants, economists, financial analysts and engineers are the backbone of the technical staff. These experts offer the public counsel's testimony on the reasonableness, feasibility and affordability of utility proposals and practices.

The public counsel attempts to focus on the most significant cases for utility consumers and cases that have broad public policy effects. The office also consults and works with other public utility consumer advocates in the other states to keep

The Missouri Public Service Commission is charged with the statutory responsibility of ensuring that public utility consumers receive safe and adequate services at just and reasonable rates that will provide the utility companies' shareholders the opportunity to earn a reasonable return on their investment.

The commission consists of five commissioners who are appointed by the governor to six-year terms with the advice and consent of the Missouri Senate. The terms are staggered so that no more than two terms expire in any one year. The governor designates one member as chair who serves in that capacity at the pleasure of the governor.

The commission regulates utility rates, service and safety for investor-owned electric, natural gas, sewer and water companies. The commission also monitors the construction and set-up of manufactured homes to ensure compliance with state and federal law. While the rates charged by rural electric cooperatives and municipally owned utilities are determined by their respective governing bodies, the commission has jurisdiction regarding matters of safety over the electric cooperatives and municipal electric and natural gas systems. The commission has limited authority over telecommunications services. The commission also oversees service territory issues involving investor-owned electric utilities, rural electric cooperatives and municipally owned electric utilities as well as those involving privately owned water and sewer utilities and public water supply districts.

The commission has a staff of professional accountants, engineers, economists, attorneys, financial analysts and management specialists that evaluate utility requests for commission approval. These requests deal with matters such as tariff changes regarding rates and business operations, financing proposals, business reorganizations, asset transfers and mergers. The staff will provide the results of its evaluation and recommend actions that satisfy the agency's statutory requirements.

The staff conducts routine and special investigations to ensure compliance with commission statutes, rules and orders, including standards for safety and quality of service. Staff will initiate or implement actions to enforce these laws when necessary. Enforcement actions for injunctive relief or monetary penalties are prosecuted in state court by the commission's general counsel.

The traditional rate case is the process through which the commission ultimately determines what customers will pay for their utility services. The process is commenced in one of two ways: a utility company files a tariff for authority to change its rates; or a complaint is filed by the commission, the PSC staff, the Office of the Public Counsel or others challenging the reasonableness of the utility's rates.

The general public is formally represented before the commission by the Office of the Public Counsel, which is a separate state agency under the Department of Economic Development.

Under both the tariff method and the complaint case method, the commission normally will conduct hearings for the purpose of addressing the reasonableness of the proposed tariff or the reasonableness of the rates being challenged. In many tariff filing cases, by law, the commission has up to 11 months from the time a tariff is filed to reach its decision, or the rates will go into effect as filed. Many of these cases are resolved in accord with a settlement between the parties and processed in a shorter time frame.

Special rules apply for water and sewer companies with less than 8,000 customers in Missouri. They can pursue changes in rates without the necessity of filing a formal rate case (called an informal rate case). Water and sewer companies with over 8,000 customers are subject to filing a traditional rate case.

The commission staff conducts an independent, on-site investigation of the company's books and records to provide the commission with a recommendation as to what increase or decrease, if any, should be ordered. This investigation can take from two weeks to several months and results in the pre-filing of written testimony. Other parties such as the Office of the Public Counsel, consumer groups, commercial and industrial interests and municipalities are given an opportunity to provide written testimony.

In addition to holding formal evidentiary hearings, the commission may hold local public hearings, which allow customers to express their views on the proposed increase or the utility's service.

Once the formal hearings are completed, the commission reviews the evidence submitted, deliberates and then issues a decision. That decision is subject to court appeal.

The commission is also engaged in a variety of activities reflecting changes in state and federal law regarding the telecommunications and energy sectors of the utility industry. As federal regulators make decisions that directly affect Missouri utility consumers, the commission participates in proceedings before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). Commissioners and staff members have submitted comments or testified on numerous occasions before these agencies and the commission has taken appeals from decisions adverse to Missouri ratepayers to the federal courts.

Regular meetings of the commission are each week. As with other state agencies, commission meetings are subject to the state's open meetings law.

The Data Center keeps a record of all filings and proceedings of the commission. These records are available for public inspection from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, except legal holidays. Many of these records are also available via the commission's website (www.psc.mo.gov).

A consumer who has questions about specific matters relating to utility service should first call the utility company. If the consumer is not satisfied with the company response, he or she may call the commission's consumer services department. Consumers may also file formal written complaints. The commission's main consumer services office is located in Jefferson City. The commission's toll free hotline number for complaints is 1-800-392-4211.

Under the commission's procedure, each informal complaint is assigned a specialist who acts as an intermediary between the consumer and the utility in an attempt to resolve the complaint. Through investigations of consumer complaints, the consumer services department works to ensure that utilities comply with their approved tariffs and commission regulations.

The Missouri Public Service Commission was established in 1913 by the 47th General Assembly. The 1974 State Reorganization Act placed the commission within the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing, which in 1984 was renamed the Department of Economic Development.

State Board of Education

Under the Missouri Constitution (Article IX), the State Board of Education has general authority for "supervision of instruction in the public schools." Today, this responsibility includes the oversight of educational programs and services that serve Missourians from preschool through the adult levels.

The State Board of Education is composed of eight lay citizens, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate to serve eight-year terms. The terms are staggered so that one term expires each year. No more than four members may belong to the same political party. No more than one member of the board may live in the same county or congressional district.

The board appoints the commissioner of education to serve as its chief executive officer and as director of the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

The primary role of the board is to provide leadership and advocacy for the improvement of Missouri's public education system. The board also establishes policies and regulations needed to carry out state and federal laws related to public education. The board's major duties include:

- Setting performance indicators which determine accreditation for local school districts through the Missouri School Improvement Program (MSIP). The indicators define basic requirements regarding performance on state assessments, both in aggregate as well as subgroups; high school graduation and/or dropout; advanced coursework; postsecondary and career preparedness; and other areas of student achievement;
- Establishing academic performance standards for the public schools and designing an assessment system to measure students' learning, as required by the Outstanding Schools Act of 1993;
- Setting education and certification requirements for all professional personnel (teachers, administrators, librarians, counselors, etc.) in public schools;
- Approving educator-preparation programs in the state's community colleges and four-year institutions, both public and private;
- Establishing regulations and administrative requirements for the distribution of state and federal funds to school districts and other agencies;
- Monitoring school districts' compliance with state and federal laws and regulations. This includes the administration of federally supported programs in the areas of special education, career-technical education and child nutrition (the school lunch and breakfast programs);

To help carry out this mandate the legislature first established a state office of education, with an elected state superintendent, in 1839. The office went through several transformations until the current constitution, adopted in 1945, established the State Board of Education in its present form and created a department of education, headed by an appointed commissioner of education.

The Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) was reorganized and established in its present form by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

The department is primarily a service agency that works with educators, legislators, government agencies, community leaders and citizens to maintain a strong public education system. Through its statewide school-improvement initiatives and its regulatory functions, the department strives to assure that all citizens have access to high-quality public education.

The Department of Elementary and Secondary Education is the administrative arm of the State Board of Education. In addition to the Commissioner of Education, the Department organization reflects functions under two divisions—Financial and Administrative Services and Learning Services.

Office of the Commissioner of Education

The commissioner of education directs the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education and fulfills other duties as prescribed by law (section 161.122, RSMo). These duties include: supervising schools and directing the process by which school districts are accredited; suggesting ways to upgrade curriculum and instruction in public schools; working with state and local officials to assure efficient management of public schools; advising local school officials, teachers and patrons about education-related issues and laws; and seeking "in every way to elevate the standards and efficiency of the instruction given in the public schools of the state." The commissioner is appointed by, and serves at the pleasure of, the State Board of Education.

Division of Financial and Administrative Services

This division is responsible for distributing all federal and state funds to local school districts and other agencies that provide education-related services. The division assists local school officials with budgeting, audits, and the reporting of financial statistics, both state and federal. The division also provides assistance with school administrative and governance issues. Other personnel in this division administer the federally funded school lunch and breakfast programs. This division also manages the department's internal business operations, such as accounting and procurement, budget and human resources.

Division of Learning Services

This division is comprised of offices that manage adult learning and rehabilitative services, college and career readiness, data system management, early and extended learning, educator quality, quality schools and special education.

The Office of Adult Learning and Rehabilitation Services administers statewide adult education services, including adult education and literacy, the high school equivalency testing program (GED), veterans education and workforce development (job training).

Rehabilitation Services provide specialized services to adult citizens with disabilities to help them achieve employment and independence. Offices are maintained across the state to provide convenient services to clients. Rehabilitation Services personnel provide individualized counseling, training and other services to help clients achieve gainful employment or independent living. Rehabilitation Services is supported primarily with federal funds.

This office currently administers Independent Living Center programs across the state. These centers provide counseling, advocacy, personal care and training in independent living skills for adults with disabilities.

The Disability Determinations program is part of this office and operates under regulations of the Social Security Administration. Located in offices across the state, Disability Determinations personnel adjudicate claims from Missouri residents seeking federal disability benefits.

The Office of College and Career Readiness provides technical assistance to local school personnel in the adoption and adaptation of the state's performance standards and curriculum development/adoption of all content areas — math, science, social studies, English/communication arts, health/physical education fine arts; and the career/technical content areas of agriculture, food and natural resources; business, marketing and information technology; family consumer sciences and human services; and technology, health and skilled technical sciences. This office also assists schools and career centers with the monitoring and approving of Perkins programming.

The development and oversight of the Missouri Assessment Program, consisting of the annual, grade-level assessments for grades 3–8 and the end-of-course high school assessments, as well as the administration of the National Assessment on Educational Progress (NAEP) are also responsibilities of this office.

The Office of Data System Management is responsible for the development and implementation of the Missouri Comprehensive Data System (MCDS) which includes the student-level record system, Missouri Student Information System (MOSIS); Core Data, a web-based data collection system of education-related statistics; and the Electronic Plan and Electronic Grants System (ePeGS), an instrument provided to schools to assist with federal grant applications and program planning. The MCDS also maintains the longitudinal data system utilized for tracking and research of student progress and achievement, postsecondary and workforce preparation, adult learning and GED completers, etc.

The Office of Data System Management coordinates school district data team training and certification regarding the use of data to improve classroom instruction. The office also collects and generates data to meet federal reporting requirements and compliance, as well as provide data utilized in research and analysis that impacts policy decision-making.

The Office of Early and Extended Learning is responsible for the oversight of the department's efforts to expand and improve early learning opportunities for children and providing support for teachers, programs, parents and families of young children. Staff administers the Missouri Preschool Program and the Child Care Development Fund Grant. The office is also responsible for the development of early learning standards.

Extended learning (after school) programs provide a safe, caring and nurturing place for extended learning, social, recreational and personal life skills development for students during non-school hours (before and/or after school). Grant programs administered by this office include the 21st Century Community Learning Centers grants and School Age Community grants. The programs foster partnerships among the schools, parents/families and communities.

The Office of Educator Quality is responsible for evaluating educator preparation programs offered by Missouri's higher education institutions. The Office of Educator Quality also issues certificates (licenses) to all professional personnel who work in the state's public school systems, as well as assisting with the review of certificate-holders who are charged with misconduct.

This office is responsible for development of innovative professional development programs for educators (teachers and administrators) at the state level and development of teacher, principal and administrator standards, as well as development of evaluation models for school personnel.

A primary function of the Office of Quality Schools is to manage the Missouri School Improvement Program (MSIP), the state's accreditation system for public school districts. This office also administers a wide range of state- and federally funded programs that assist local schools (Title I, Title III and other federal programs), charter and other innovative schools, as well as developing a statewide system of support for schools, communities and families. Schools are also provided assistance on federally and state-developed improvement initiatives which are coordinated with other state and regional services. This office administers the Missouri turnaround program and other intervention initiatives to assist chronically low-performing schools. Dropout prevention is another responsibility of this office.

The Office of Special Education administers state and federal funds to support services for students and adults with disabilities. This office works with other state and local agencies to coordinate the Missouri First Steps program, which provides early intervention services for infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families. The office works with local school districts in developing and improving special education services for students (ages 3–21) with disabilities. It also provides financial and technical support for all approved sheltered workshops in the state. Sheltered workshops provide employment for adults with disabilities.

This office also oversees the operation of three school systems administered by the State Board of Education. These are the Missouri School for the Blind, the Missouri School for the Deaf and the Missouri Schools for Severely Disabled. In addition to providing direct services to eligible students with disabilities, these school systems, through their outreach programs and consulting services, assist local school personnel and families throughout the state in meeting the needs of children with disabilities.

Missouri Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing

The Missouri Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing was created in 1988 to improve the quality of life for all deaf Missourians. It advocates for public policies, regulations and programs to improve the quality and coordination of existing services for people with hearing loss and promotes new services whenever necessary.

The commission promotes deaf awareness in the general public and serves as a consultant to any public agency needing information concerning deafness; administers the Missouri Interpreter Certification System; conducts and maintains a census of the deaf population in Missouri; and advocates for improved physical and mental health services for Missourians with hearing loss. Information and referral is provided for both hearing and deaf populations, making information available about deafness, legal rights, assistive devices, service providers and Relay Missouri, as well as referrals to appropriate sources for additional services and information. The commission also provides services directed at both hearing and deaf populations in providing training and workshops awareness, advocacy, empowerment, accessibility and assistive devices.

Missouri Assistive Technology Advisory Council

The Missouri Assistive Technology Advisory Council (MoAT) was established to increase access to assistive technology for all Missourians with disabilities. MoAT provides a variety of programs and services that enable individuals with disabilities to obtain and use assistive technology. The council members are appointed by the governor and include 12 consumer representatives, two state legislators, two non-designated agency or organization representatives and seven designated representatives from agencies that are a primary funding source for assistive technology. MoAT serves as the state grantee for the federal Assistive Technology Act and is responsible for administration of the state telecommunications equipment distribution program and the state assistive technology loan program.

The Department of Health and Senior Services was created by the passage of House Bill 603 in May 2001. The bill transferred the roles and responsibilities of the Division of Aging in the Department of Social Services to the Department of Health, creating the Department of Health and Senior Services (DHSS). This change has resulted in better integration, coordination and communication regarding health, public health, regulation and senior services for all Missourians.

State Board of Health

The State Board of Health serves as an advisory body for activities of the Department of Health and Senior Services. It consists of seven members appointed by the governor with advice and consent of the Senate. Members serve four-year terms and may serve a maximum of two terms. Missouri law (Section 191.400, RSMo) specifies that three members shall be licensed physicians; one member shall be a licensed dentist; one member shall be a licensed chiropractic physician; and the other two members shall be persons other than those licensed by the State Board of Registration for the Healing Arts, the Missouri Dental Board or the Missouri State Board of Chiropractic Examiners and shall be representative of those persons, professions and businesses that are regulated and supervised by the Department of Health and Senior Services and the State Board of Health. The State Board of Health advises the director in planning for and operating the department, and acts in an advisory capacity regarding rules promulgated by the department.

State Board of Senior Services

The State Board of Senior Services serves as an advisory body for activities of the Department of Health and Senior Services. It consists of seven members appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Members serve four-year terms and may serve a maximum of two terms. Missouri law (section 660.062, RSMo) specifies that board members shall currently be working in the fields of gerontology, geriatrics, mental health issues, nutrition and rehabilitation services of persons with disabilities. Four of the seven members appointed must belong to the Governor's Advisory Council on Aging.

The State Board of Senior Services advises the director in planning for and operating the department and acts in an advisory capacity regarding rules promulgated by the department.

Office of the Director

The department director is responsible for the management of the department and the administration of its programs and services. The department deputy director assists the director and acts in his or her absence. The Division of Administration, and the offices of General Counsel, Governmental Policy and Legislation, Human Resources and Public Information, report to the director. In addition, the director's office oversees the Center for Health Equity, which promotes collaboration between all DHSS programs and the Office of Minority Health, Office on Women's Health and the Office of Primary Care and Rural Health with the goal of improving access, services and health outcomes in those populations.

Office of General Counsel (OGC)

The office provides legal support and opinions to all departmental divisions, centers and offices. OGC litigates regulatory actions before departmental hearing officers and the Administrative Hearing commission, and pursues guardianship actions for eligible adults. The Employee Disqualification List Unit is also maintained within the Office of General Counsel.

Office of Governmental Policy and Legislation

This office coordinates the development, review and tracking of legislation related to matters involving the department. Staff serve as the departmental liaison between elected officials, other state agencies and constituent groups.

Office of Human Resources (OHR)

The Office of Human Resources assures the department's compliance with the state personnel law and serves as a liaison with the state Office of Administration's Division of Personnel. Staff administer personnel functions of employment, promotion, compensation (including payroll preparation), performance appraisal, discipline, termination, personnel records maintenance and related personnel activities and provides assistance to managers and supervisors in those areas. OHR investigates and monitors complaints and grievances, maintains DHSS' administrative policies and coordinates and conducts professional development opportunities for DHSS staff.

Office of Public Information (OPI)

The Office of Public Information coordinates all public information released by the department, including media contacts and information in response to inquiries from other agencies and the public. OPI staff design department publications, including newsletters, brochures and pamphlets for programs and divisions within the department. This office also oversees the department's website, maintains the department's social media, and produces video and multimedia marketing materials.

Community and Constituent Relations

This position is responsible for ensuring the department is responsive to consumer needs and provides services to individuals in a timely, effective manner. The Community and Constituent Relations liaison works to strengthen relationships with community partners who assist the department in providing services and fulfilling our mission.

Office of Performance Management (OPM)

The Office of Performance Management is responsible for carrying out the National Public Health Improvement Initiative in Missouri. The goal of the national initiative is to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of the public health system through performance management.

Center for Health Equity

Office of Minority Health

The Office of Minority Health seeks to eliminate minority health disparities through monitoring departmental policies and programs, providing technical assistance and developing culturally sensitive health education initiatives. The office also works collaboratively with community-based organizations and leaders to identify and implement specialized strategies that address the health needs of minority populations in Missouri.

Office on Women's Health

The Office on Women's Health collaborates with partners in the Center for Health Equity to provide recommendations to the director on issues affecting the health of women and assists the department in developing priority initiatives and policies to address health inequities. The Sexual Violence Primary Prevention and Education program provides focused community-based sexual violence primary prevention education to the citizens of Missouri. The Public Health and Health Services Sexual Assault Victims Services grant provides funding for direct services for victims of sexual assault along with awareness funding to supplement the Sexual Violence Primary Prevention Program.

Office of Primary Care and Rural Health

Office of Primary Care and Rural Health

The Office of Primary Care and Rural Health works to ensure access to and availability of primary health care services for all of Missouri's populations, especially its rural citizens. Part of this effort is to reduce the shortage of medical, dental, behavioral and nursing health professionals. The office also administers Missouri's oral health program, which provides a broad range of core public health activities for oral health. The office oversees the following:

Primary Care Initiatives

- Through public/private partnerships, the Primary Care Office works to ensure access to and availability of primary health care services for all of Missouri's populations. Efforts to increase access to care include: evaluating availability and accessibility of medical, behavioral and oral health professionals; developing resources to enhance and expand community-based health care delivery systems; working with state and federal partners in the recruitment and retention of health care professionals; and assessing the impact individuals' lack of insurance has on health care and communities in Missouri. The office identifies and requests designations for Health Professional Shortage Areas, serves as the state contact for the National Health Service Corps and oversees development of the federally funded community health centers and a population-based workforce model for primary medical, dental and mental health services.
- J-1 Visa/State 30 Waiver Program and the National Interest Waiver Program allow foreign medical graduates to remain in Missouri after completion of their advanced medical training in exchange for service in underserved communities. Practitioners are recruited and sponsored by Missouri health care facilities or organizations to serve the specific needs of a community.
- Primary Care Systems Program: a public/private partnership to ensure access to and availability of primary health care services for all of Missouri's residents. The initiatives under this program include the Primary Care Resource Initiative for Missouri (PRIMO), which provides funds to communities in underserved areas to develop community-based health care delivery systems, clinical training sites in rural and underserved area clinics and recruitment programs for primary care physicians, dentists, behavioral providers, dietitians/nutritionists and nurse practitioners. Health Professional Placement Services provide delivery and an Internet-based program to assist health care professionals in finding employment opportunities in areas of need throughout Missouri. Services provided include maintaining a database of current healthcare opportunities and working with a professional recruitment and retention manager to match individuals to communities.
- Health Care Workforce Development Program: works to reduce the shortage of health care professionals and to increase access to health care for Missourians. The state issues health professional student loans to medical, dental, behavioral, dental hygiene, dietetic/nutritional and nursing students. Student loans are forgiven when the recipient graduates and works in a health professional shortage area in Missouri. The initiatives include:

- Health Professional Loan Repayment Program: provides financial incentives for licensed primary care physicians, general practice dentists, behavioral providers, dietitians/nutritionists, and registered and advanced practice nurses. Participants agree to accept Medicare and Medicaid patients, as well as provide a discounted fee schedule based on family size and income, for all uninsured individuals.
- Primary Care Resource Initiative for Missouri (PRIMO) Student Loan Program: promotes development and implementation of early recruitment programs for health professional students, emphasizing recruitment of individuals from rural, inner city and underserved communities in Missouri. In addition, educational loans are provided to health professional students in exchange for an obligation to provide primary health care services in underserved areas upon completion of training. Disciplines include primary care, medical, dental and dental hygiene.
- Professional and Practical Nursing Student Loan and Loan Repayment Programs: provide support for nursing students and nursing professionals in exchange for service in Missouri's underserved communities. Student loans are provided for licensed practical nurses, diploma nurses, registered nurses, and doctoral nurses in return for an obligation to provide service in public and nonprofit health care agencies in underserved Missouri communities.

Rural Health Initiatives

The Office of Rural Health serves rural communities by collecting and disseminating information; providing technical assistance; coordinating rural health interests and activities statewide; and supporting efforts to improve recruitment and retention of health professionals in rural areas.

- Medicare Rural Hospital Flexibility Program: provides support to critical access hospitals to implement or expand quality improvement programs and develop rural health networks with their community/health system partners. Other program activities are under development to expand training opportunities in order to integrate local Emergency Medical Service systems into the health care network.
- Small Rural Hospital Improvement Program: provides financial and technical assistance to small rural hospitals to implement the Prospective Payment System, becomes compliant with provisions of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act, reduce medical errors and supports quality improvement and health information technology implementation.

Oral Health Programs

The Oral Health Program provides a broad range of core public health activities for oral health. It also serves as a resource on oral health issues for other states and federal agencies, the dental profession and the public. The initiatives under this program include:

- Oral Health Preventive Services Program: provides oral health surveillance, education and preventive services to children under the age of 18 through a community-based system of care that includes representation of all aspects of the community and the health care delivery system. This program provides supplies and technical assistance to public schools in Missouri. The Oral Health Screening and Surveillance Program establishes a state-based oral health surveillance system that evaluates the oral health of Missouri populations. In addition, it evaluates access to dental services for children and provides technical assistance to schools conducting dental screens. The Water Fluoridation Program provides technical assistance on best practices, health outcomes and state and national resources to assist communities in public water supply fluoridation.
- Portable Dental Equipment: helps communities and organizations promote public oral health activities. The loan of portable dental equipment is offered to hygienists and/or dentists who wish to provide outreach in their communities. This equipment is available at seven sites statewide.
- Missouri Donated Dental Services Program: assists the elderly with physical, medical or mental disabilities by linking them with volunteer dentists and dental laboratories. The Missouri Coalition for Oral Health conducts annual summits, bringing together oral health care professionals, Head Start agencies, community clinics, oral health associations and departmental oral health policymakers in order to facilitate a comprehensive statewide oral health prevention and education system and ensure access to dental care for all Missourians.

BRET FISCHER

Division of Administration

The Division of Administration provides a wide array of support services for the department, including budgeting, accounting, grant and contract administration, procurement, fiscal note coordination, internal audit and general services. The responsibilities of division units are as follows:

Division Director's Office

- Oversees division operations.
- Works collaboratively with other divisions concerning budgetary, fiscal and general support service matters.
- Develops and submits the department's indirect cost plan.
- Evaluates administrative, management and fiscal controls of departmental operations.
- Reviews and approves all contractual agreements, memorandums of understanding and grant applications.
- Provides technical assistance to programs concerning contract monitoring and granting requirements.
- Reviews and evaluates contractors' financial management systems and audit reports for financial and administrative compliance.
- Serves as liaison to the State Auditor's Office and the Small Business Regulatory Fairness Board.

Budget Services Bureau

- Prepares and tracks the department's operating and leasing budget requests.
- Serves as department liaison to executive and legislative budget staff.
- Administers the budget after passage by the Legislature.
- Monitors department expenditures to ensure financial accountability.
- Coordinates the department's fiscal note process.

Financial Services Bureau

- Coordinates department-wide financial activities.
- Oversees the receipt of all funds and ensures timely deposit of funds.
- Reviews department expenditures to ensure the appropriate disbursement of funds, including vendor payments and employee expense accounts.

- Develops, reviews and approves all department contracts to ensure that services and commodities are economically obtained.
- Oversees procurement of all supplies, materials, equipment and services.
- Provides technical assistance and support in the development of grant applications.
- Maintains and prepares financial reports on all federal grants.
- Administers the fixed assets accounting system.

General Services Bureau

- Manages leased property.
- Manages department-owned vehicles.
- Provides warehouse services.
- Supports telecommunications equipment and service needs.
- Controls building security access.
- Provides forms management.
- Provides mail service.
- Oversees office moves and space reconfigurations.
- Handles surplus equipment.

Division of Community and Public Health

The Division of Community and Public Health coordinates public health resources to protect and promote the public's health and to prevent diseases. The programs in this division serve all Missourians. In addition, the division provides support to the programs through centers that focus on specific issues including epidemiology, local public health systems and public health emergency response.

Missouri State Public Health Laboratory

The Missouri State Public Health Laboratory is dedicated to the promotion, protection and assurance of the health of Missouri's citizens by providing a wide range of diagnostic and analytical services. These services include quality-assurance measures for laboratory functions and laboratory testing for infectious diseases, genetic disorders and environmental health concerns, both in support of public health programs and as a reference laboratory performing unique or specialized procedures. The laboratory provides scientific expertise and managerial leadership in meeting the rapidly changing challenges in the clinical and environmental laboratory disciplines and in the development of public health policy.

About 5 million tests (many required by law) are performed in the State Public Health Laboratory and one branch laboratory located in Poplar Bluff. Approximately 400,000 mailing kits are assembled and distributed each year for the return of specimens from hospitals and private laboratories as well as city, county and district health offices. The State Public Health Laboratory also functions as a reference lab for medical laboratories in the state and confirms results or completes organism identification.

Center for Emergency Response and Terrorism

The Center for Emergency Response and Terrorism is responsible for coordinating regional and state planning for public health emergencies, including biological, chemical and nuclear terrorism, along with natural disasters. Through partnerships with hospitals and health care organizations and with local entities including government, law enforcement agencies and other partners, the center assures effective systems are in place to protect the health of Missourians during a public health emergency.

The Department Situation Room serves as the coordination point for all department responses to emergencies. It operates at a non-threat level and can quickly be activated as a command and control center in an emergency. It monitors the public health and allied systems' day-to-day emergency preparedness and also serves as part of the Health Alert Network to rapidly receive and disperse communications among public health and healthcare partners at the local, regional, state and federal levels and to assign and track follow-up activities. The hotline (1-800-392-0272) is the primary contact point for the general public and emergency response partners. Missouri is taking steps to increase local and state response readiness for bioterrorism, outbreaks of infectious disease, and other public health threats and emergencies. These efforts focus on assessment and planning, education and training, disease reporting, hospital and laboratory surveillance, laboratory capacity, communications technology, public information and media relations and geographic information systems. Local public health agencies and regional response planners are developing integrated regional emergency response and terrorism plans that will coordinate with the state's plan. The center is working closely with hospitals to assess their needs and to complete preparedness planning on the local and regional level.

HAROLD KIRBEY

The center also has the departmental lead for continuity of operations planning, for the Strategic National Stockpile and ChemPack (both for distribution of emergency medications), for a variety of preparedness exercises and for pandemic influenza planning. In addition, the center has a key role in National Incident Management System and Incident Command System training.

Center for Local Public Health Services

The Center for Local Public Health Services (CLPHS) works to strengthen Missouri's public health system compromised of the state department and 115 local public health agencies and is responsible for 336 contracts. The CLPH manages the contracts that support local public health efforts including Core Public Health Functions, Maternal Child Health improvement services, Child Care Consultation. Technical assistance is provided by the CLPHS to the Council for Public Health Nursing, Heartland Learning Management System, School Health contracts and numerous agencies applying for public health grants. The CLPHS staff provides leadership, training and technical assistance to local public health agencies, communities, not-for-profit organizations and other health-related key stakeholders regarding the development of processes that improve community-based public health systems.

Section for Healthy Families and Youth

The Section for Healthy Families and Youth promotes optimal health by providing leadership to both the public and private sectors in assessing health care needs of families and communities and assuring that the health system responds appropriately. The primary units include:

- Bureau of Genetics and Healthy Childhood: utilizing multiple programs that promotes and protects the health and safety of individuals and families based on their unique conditions, needs and situations, utilizing multiple programs within the bureau. This is achieved by implementing prevention and intervention strategies to optimize an individual's health and environment from pre-pregnancy through adulthood. Related activities of the bureau encompass public and professional education, screening and follow-up services, surveillance, needs assessment and resource identification and/or development. The bureau accomplishes its mission in collaboration with families, health care providers and other community, state and national partners.

- Genetics Services Program: expands existing programs and develops new ones, where needed, to reduce the morbidity and mortality associated with genetic disorders. Information is provided to the public and medical professionals regarding genetic disorders and the availability of genetic services in Missouri. A referral network is maintained for individuals in need of diagnostic services, treatment, counseling and other genetic-related services.
- Adult Genetics Program: provides limited assistance with health care costs for Missouri adults (21 years of age and older) with cystic fibrosis, hemophilia and sickle cell disease. The program provides applicants meeting financial and medical guidelines with limited financial assistance for inpatient and outpatient services, medication and blood factor products, emergency care and home equipment. Service coordination is provided for those meeting the medical eligibility requirements.
- Metabolic Formula Distribution Program: provides prescribed dietary formula to individuals with covered metabolic disorders such as phenylketonuria or maple syrup urine disease. Use of the dietary formula combined with a medically supervised diet eliminates or reduces the adverse consequences of the disorders.
- Sickle Cell Anemia Program provides information to the public and health professionals about sickle cell disease and sickle cell traits, and promotes and provides screening, testing, referral, education, counseling and follow-up services for Missouri citizens at risk for sickle cell disease.
- Newborn Health Program: promotes healthy birth outcomes and healthy infants by increasing awareness of recommended best practices through educational activities and materials. Messages and activities promote the importance of preconception care; early entry into prenatal care; use of folic acid to prevent birth defects; avoidance of smoking, alcohol and other drugs; breastfeeding; placing babies on their backs to sleep; and other healthy behaviors.
- Newborn Blood Spot Screening Program: provides early identification and follow-up of phenylketonuria, galactosemia, congenital hypothyroidism, congenital adrenal hyperplasia, hemoglobinopathies, organic acid disorders, fatty acid oxidation disorders, amino acid disorders and cystic fibrosis that suggest the presence of disease in affected but asymptomatic infants. Infants found to be positive are referred to a system of health care.
- Newborn Hearing Screening Program: seeks to screen all babies before three months of age, and, for those with hearing loss, refer them to the First Steps Program for appropriate services by six months of age. State law requires all babies born in Missouri to have their hearing tested before discharge from the hospital.
- Folic Acid Program: endeavors to increase the number of Missourians who are aware of the importance of folic acid intake in helping to prevent certain birth defects, diseases and health conditions.
- Injury Prevention Program: collaborates with other agencies addressing injury causes and supports the collection and analysis of injury data. It also contracts with local Safe Kids Coalitions to conduct primary injury prevention interventions in communities.
- Fetal and Infant Mortality Review: analyzes infant and fetal death records to develop recommendations for community change, if appropriate, to reduce fetal and infant mortality. The communities then determine and implement interventions based upon recommendations received that may improve outcomes for future families.
- Building Blocks Program: is an evidence-based prenatal and early childhood nurse home visiting program based on the David Olds Model. Participants in the program are low-income, first–time mothers who enter the program prior to the 28th week of pregnancy. Nurse home visitors work with the women and their families during pregnancy and the first two years of the child's life to improve pregnancy outcomes, child health and development and family economic self-sufficiency.
- Missouri Community-Based Home Visiting Program: utilizes the Families at Risk model developed by the University of Missouri's Sinclair School of Nursing in collaboration with the Department of Health and Senior Services. The model utilizes nurses and paraprofessionals and provides intensive sustained visits and community services over a long period with a small number of families. The goals of this program are to increase healthy pregnancies and positive birth outcomes and decrease child abuse and neglect through home-based services.
- TEL-LINK: is the department's toll-free telephone line for maternal, child and family health services. The purpose of TEL-LINK is to provide information and referrals to Missourians concerning a wide range of health services. TEL-LINK can connect callers to services for: WIC (women, infants and children), Medicaid (now called MO HealthNet), immunizations, children with special health care needs, child care, child support, prenatal care, prenatal drug abuse treatment, non-emergency medical transportation (MO HealthNet recipients only), alcohol and drug abuse treatment, sexual assault or rape and family violence services, mental health and social services, etc. Telephone: toll free 800-835-5465.

- Bureau of Immunization Assessment and Assurance: provides education and guidance to Missourians promoting immunization against vaccine preventable diseases. The program receives federal grant funding to administer the federal entitlement Vaccines for Children (VFC) Program, a program which, through enrolled health care providers, ensures vaccines are available to eligible children. The program also provides education and immunization record assessments for health care providers to increase coverage rates; develops and maintains a central immunization registry; tracks immunizations mandatory for school and day care; forecasts vaccine need; and gives technical assistance to providers and the general public regarding recommendations, vaccine safety, schedules, and other general vaccine information.

  The Immunization Program also focuses on the provision of services to prevent and control influenza outbreaks in vulnerable populations through immunization of VFC-eligible children and some adult populations. The program is an integral participant in pandemic influenza planning, vaccine distribution provider education, communication, data management and reporting.

Section for Special Health Services

The Section for Special Health Services is responsible for developing policy, planning systems of care and designing, implementing and evaluating programs to meet the special health care needs of families in the state. The primary units include:

Bureau of Special Health Care Needs (SHCN): provides statewide health care support services, including service coordination, for children and adults with disabilities, chronic illness and birth defects. State and federal funding supports SHCN services. To be eligible for SHCN services, individuals must be a Missouri resident, have a special health care need and meet medical and financial eligibility when required. There is no fee for applying for these services. Service coordination, an essential service for people with complex conditions and needs, is provided to all bureau program participants, regardless of financial status.

- Children with Special Health Care Needs Program: focuses on early identification of children with special needs, funding for preventive, diagnostic and treatment services and provision of service coordination activities for families. The program provides assistance for children under the age of 21 and has two components: service coordination and paid medical services. Service coordination is provided statewide, through regional contracts, and is available free of charge regardless of financial status. Service coordination is a collaborative process that assists individuals to assess their needs and resources and develop plans to address those needs. Paid medical services are available to those who meet medical guidelines, whose income is 185 percent of Federal Poverty Guidelines or lower, and when there are no other payers for these services.
- Healthy Children and Youth-Administrative Case Management: provides home and community based services to children under the age of 21 who are enrolled in MO HealthNet (Medicaid). Public health nurses provide service coordination and authorization for medically necessary in-home services. Service coordination includes assessment through home visits and links to services and resources that enable participants to remain safely in their homes with their families. Approved services may include in-home personal care, in-home nursing care, case management and skilled nursing visits.
- Medically Fragile Adults: provides home and community based services to individuals with serious and complex medical needs who have reached the age of 21 and are no longer eligible for home care services available through the Healthy Children and Youth Program in Missouri. This waiver is designed to provide a cost effective alternative to placement in an intermediate care facility for the mentally handicapped/developmentally delayed. Public health nurses provide service coordination and authorization for medically necessary services. Service coordination includes assessment through home visits and links to services and resources that enable participants to remain safely in their homes with their families. Approved services may include in-home personal care, in-home nursing care and medical supplies.

- Adult Head Injury Unit: provides assistance in locating, coordinating and purchasing rehabilitation services for individuals 21 years of age and older who have survived a traumatic brain injury. Service coordination is available free of charge, regardless of financial status of the individual. Service coordination is a collaborative process that assists individual's to assess their needs and resources, and develop a plan to address those needs. Rehabilitation services are available statewide to survivors whose income is 185 percent of poverty or lower and when there are no other payers for these services.

Section for Health Promotion and Chronic Disease Prevention

The Section for Health Promotion and Chronic Disease Prevention is engaged in activities to prevent and control chronic diseases. The section is composed of the following bureaus:

- Bureau of Health Promotion: focuses on promotion and delivery of primary prevention strategies to address optimum health across a lifespan and prevention of tobacco use and obesity through interventions that prevent the onset of chronic conditions.
    - Chronic Disease Primary Prevention Program: works to reduce the primary risk factors for chronic diseases—tobacco use and exposure to secondhand smoke, as well as physical inactivity and unhealthy eating—that lead to obesity. Contracts are established with 11 local public health departments in a multi-county collaborative serving a total of 21 counties and one city, Joplin. Emphasis is placed on making environmental, policy and system changes to support healthy behaviors for schools, worksites and communities.
    - Comprehensive Tobacco Use Prevention Program: works to prevent youths from tobacco-use initiation, promote quitting among youth and adults, eliminate exposure to secondhand smoke and reduce the impact on populations disproportionately affected by tobacco. The program collaborates with youth advocacy groups, community-based coalitions, voluntary organizations and partners to educate the public about the health effects of tobacco use and exposure to secondhand smoke. The program advocates for policies prohibiting tobacco use on school property and eliminating exposure to secondhand smoke in public places. To increase quitting among tobacco users, the Missouri Tobacco Quitline (1-800-QUIT-NOW) provides free cessation counseling services and referrals for local assistance.
    - Team Nutrition Program: Activities are designed to reduce rates of overweight children and create healthier school and child care nutrition and physical activity environments.
    - Adolescent Health Program: addresses various adolescent, teen and young adult issues of Missourians age 10 to 24 years old. The program provides consultation, education, technical assistance and resources for health professionals, school personnel, parents, adolescents and state and community organizations. The Council for Adolescent and School Health assists the department in promoting a multi-level approach to achieve healthy adolescent development.
    - School Health Program: provides technical support to public school districts and local public health agencies to establish or expand a population-based health services educational program, for school-age children. The program focus is on increasing preventive health services and programs in school settings. Technical assistance and consultation are available. The program is a collaborative effort of Missouri's departments of Health and Senior Services, Elementary and Secondary Education and Social Services.
- Bureau of Cancer and Chronic Disease Prevention: administers services and programs to assist individuals who have already developed a non-communicable chronic disease or disability, including Chronic Disease Self-Management programs, and promotes recognition of signs and symptoms, screenings and other early intervention strategies to lessen the impact of disease and disability.

- Comprehensive Cancer Control Program: partners with individuals, professionals, and cancer survivors who share expertise, resources and ideas to develop a statewide cancer plan. The program and its partners support healthy lifestyles, recommend cancer screenings, educate people about cancer symptoms, increase access to quality cancer care and enhance cancer survivors' quality of life.
- Show Me Healthy Women (SMHW): provides free breast and cervical cancer screening and diagnostic services to eligible women 35 years of age and older. The program's goal is to reduce the mortality rate of breast and cervical cancer for Missouri women. The program is funded by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and provides direct health services to low-income Missouri women who are uninsured or underinsured. SMHW also receives general revenue funding and donations to provide services to eligible clients. Most women diagnosed with breast or cervical cancer through the program are eligible for free treatment under the Breast and Cervical Cancer Treatment Act.
- Arthritis and Osteoporosis Control Program: promotes optimal health and quality of life for all Missourians affected by arthritis, osteoporosis, lupus, rheumatic diseases and related musculoskeletal conditions.
- Asthma Prevention and Control Program: works to improve the capacity of Missouri's public health system to define and reduce the burden of asthma. Program services include linking existing resources and partners, maintaining comprehensive surveillance and evaluation, and providing technical assistance for local control efforts.
- Diabetes Prevention and Control Program: addresses diabetes prevention and diabetes complications by influencing change at the policy, environmental, health systems and community levels.
- Heart Disease and Stroke Prevention Program: promotes the prevention of heart disease and stroke, especially in those who have already had an event or who have the risk factors for heart disease and stroke, and the reduction of health-related disparities. The focus areas are: controlling high blood pressure and high cholesterol; knowing the signs and symptoms of heart attack and stroke; calling 9-1-1; improving emergency response; improving quality of care and eliminating disparities in health care; and worksite and community settings utilizing evidenced-based public health practices.
- Organ and Tissue Donor Program: maintains a statewide, confidential registry of potential organ and tissue donors that is available to procurement agencies 24/7. The program works with partners to develop and implement statewide public education initiatives to increase public awareness about donation, the registry and how to enroll in the registry.
- WISEWOMAN Program: provides services for low-income, under insured women age 35 and older who are clients of the Show Me Healthy Women Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program. Services include health screenings for heart disease risk factors, including high cholesterol, high blood pressure, obesity and diabetes. In addition, WISEWOMAN risk counseling and lifestyle education helps women eat healthier, be more physically active and quit smoking in order to reduce their risk for heart disease.

Section for Women, Infants and Children and Community Nutrition Services

The Section for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) and Community Nutrition Services administers several programs that provide nutritional support to vulnerable populations in Missouri. The section is composed of the following bureaus:

- Bureau of WIC and Nutritional Services: provides supplemental nutrition assistance to vulnerable women, infants, and children up to age five, to improve health status and contribute to optimum growth and development.
- Bureau of Community Food and Nutrition Assistance Programs: provides meal subsidies to eligible organizations that feed infants, children and youth, and food packages for low-income elderly persons, women, infants and children.
    - Child and Adult Care Food Program: federal entitlement program to improve the nutrient intake of participants in licensed childcare centers, licensed family child care homes, licensed adult day care centers, emergency homeless shelters and after-school programs.
    - Summer Food Service Program: serves to improve the nutrient intake of low-income children when school is not in session, thereby reducing their risk for health problems, enhances children's learning capabilities, helping them succeed in school; improves the quality of the summer programs offered in low-income areas and provides summer employment opportunities in local communities.
    - Commodity Supplemental Food Program: works to improve the nutrient intake of low-income pregnant and postpartum women, breastfeeding women, infants, children and elderly adults by providing commodity food packages specially formulated to provide additional sources of iron, calcium, protein and vitamins A and C.

Section of Epidemiology for Public Health Practice

The Section of Epidemiology for Public Health Practice serves as the highest scientific authority on issues related to the control and prevention of diseases and health risk behaviors in the state of Missouri. It houses the resources necessary to operate and maintain major public health information systems, the state's vital records and statistics, community health information, and medical and public health epidemiology resources necessary to prevent, intervene and control diseases and conditions impacting the health of Missourians.

The section is involved in health data collection (e.g., birth and death records) to health-care related experiences of Missourians (e.g., health data abstracting, health-care infections reporting), to collection, analysis and interpretation of data (e.g., Behavior Risk Factor Surveillance System, Pregnancy Risk Assessment Monitoring System, Missouri Cancer Registry), the dissemination of health statistics (e.g., Missouri Information for Community Assessment), and the distribution of downloadable public service announcements, brochures and other information.

- Office of Epidemiology: uses science to guide and develop public health practices; monitors health status and health risk behaviors through effective use of public health surveillance systems; promotes evidence-based public health interventions; provides epidemiologic consultation for maternal and child health, communicable disease/environmental health, and chronic disease and nutritional health initiatives; and prevents and controls disease outbreaks.

- Informational Support Unit: responsible for promoting health information for the division. The staff serves as an integral part of preventive health care programs, such as the smoking cessation campaign, cancer detection programs, treatment and management of obesity programs, genetics and healthy childhood and child nutrition assistance and education services. Avenues of health communication include news releases, website development, marketing campaigns, brochures/publications, conference exhibits and broadcast programs.
- Bureau of Vital Records: maintains the central registry of births, deaths, fetal deaths (after 20 weeks gestation but before birth), reports of marriages and dissolutions of marriages for the state of Missouri. The registry of births and deaths extends back to 1910, while the registry of marriages and dissolution of marriages extends back to 1948. The bureau also corrects vital records as authorized by law; files and issues certified copies of births, deaths and fetal reports; issues statements relating to marriages and dissolution of marriages; and prepares new certificates for adoptions and legitimations. Other activities include providing confidential verifications to government agencies; conducting workshops for hospital personnel to ensure the complete, accurate and timely filing of birth certificates and fetal reports; providing technical assistance, guidance and workshops for funeral directors, medical examiners/coroners and physicians to ensure that death records are promptly, legibly and completely filed; providing vital records for use in the preparation and publication of vital statistics data; and participating in research projects which involve vital records.
- Bureau of Health Informatics: collects, analyzes and distributes health-related information that promotes the understanding of health problems and needs in Missouri, and spotlights improvements and progress in the general health status of Missourians. Data generated by the bureau aid and guide the planning, development and evaluation of programs and services of the department, as well as the health-related activities of other agencies, institutions and organizations. General services of the bureau include: maintaining the needed Vital Statistics infrastructure; providing data analysis and statistical support to health programs and local public health agencies; preparing, editing and publishing other statistical reports for the department; disseminating health data via the Internet and other media; and providing health data and statistics as requested by researchers, public health professionals, legislators, media, educators and the public. Sub-units within the Bureau of Health Informatics include the following:
    - Health Data Dissemination Unit: coordinates the preparation and publication of health data and statistics on the department's website; develops and disseminates population estimates for different geographies in the state; and updates and maintains the internet-based data and statistical resources found in the Community Data Profiles and the data query application, Missouri Information for Community Assessment.
    - Health Care Data Analysis Unit: collects and analyzes Patient Abstract System data from hospitals, emergency rooms and ambulatory surgical centers; collects, analyzes and reports data related to health care-associated infections and injuries in Missouri; links motor vehicle crash data to hospital inpatient and emergency room data, and to death certificate data, to study the medical and cost outcomes of motor vehicle crashes; supports the Injury Prevention Initiatives Program by studying the incidence of deaths, hospitalizations and emergency room visits due to injury, and determines groups at high risk for injuries; prepares various categories of patient abstract injury data for the Web-based Community Data Profiles and the Missouri Information for Community Assessment data query system; and publishes statistics on data reported by commercial, Medicare and MC+ managed care plans on access to care, quality of care and member satisfaction.
    - Vital Statistics Analysis Unit: conducts quality control of the statistical information on vital events (i.e., births, deaths, fetal deaths, marriages, dissolution of marriages and induced abortions); ensures compliance with the National Center for Health Statistics, Vital Statistics Cooperative Agreement; analyzes data on vital events and other health status measures; publishes monthly, annual and periodic special statistics; develops and updates various linked data systems that are used for surveillance of health problems and the evaluation of public health programs; and prepares vital statistics data and maternal and child health indicator data for the Web-based Community Data Profiles and the Missouri Information for Community Assessment data query system.

Section for Environmental Public Health

This is the principal unit involved in the investigation of the cause, origin and method of transmission of diseases and other health conditions caused by environmental hazards. The section provides services and activities about community sanitation, exposure to hazardous substances and other environmentally related health hazards. The section contributes to the Department of Health and Senior Services' emergency response to public health emergencies and natural disasters, including chemical and radiological terrorism.

- Bureau of Environmental Health Services: protects the health of all Missourians and visitors to the state by ensuring healthy environments. There are five unique environmental sanitation programs-in the bureau—the Food Safety Program, the Environmental Child Care Program, the Lodging Program, the Lead Licensing Program and the On-site Wastewater Treatment System Program.
    - Retail Food Safety and Food Processing Program: responsible for oversight for all retail foods establishments (including restaurants, school food service, temporary food events and grocery and convenience stores), frozen desserts, and food processing/storage facilities throughout the state. There are approximately 28,000 retail food establishments, 2,162 frozen dessert facilities and 1,654 food processing/storage facilities statewide. The program minimized the potential risk of foodborne illness and injury and provides food safety training to both industry and regulatory personnel. The program responds to complaints and emergencies involving regulated products.
    - Lodging Program: licenses approximately 1,600 lodging establishments (hotel, motel, bed and breakfasts, and resorts) statewide. The program issues licenses after determining compliance with applicable rules and regulations, provides training to local public health agencies and responds to complaints and emergencies involving lodging establishments.
    - Environmental Child Care Program: serves approximately 180,000 children statewide. The program oversees annual sanitation inspections of more than 4,200 regulated child care providers to ensure that sanitary and safe practices are utilized when caring for children and provides training to the local public health agencies. In addition the program responds to complaints and emergencies regarding environmental child-care issues.
    - Lead Licensing and Abatement Program: regulates the professionals who remove lead hazards from buildings, conducts environmental investigations and assessments, provides accreditation audits for training providers, and licenses workers, supervisors, inspectors, risk assessors and contractors. The program regulates and licenses a total of 1,800 industry professionals.

- On-site Wastewater Treatment System Program: establishes sanitation standards and ensures that the applicable onsite systems are in compliance with these standards. In addition, the program trains and provides licensure for approximately 1,837 professionals who install, inspect and repair on-site systems in accordance with sanitation standards set forth by law. The program assists the public and local public health agencies with questions, concerns and responds to emergency situations.

- Bureau of Environmental Epidemiology: involved in the investigation and prevention of diseases related to the environment. The bureau's efforts focus on diseases associated with exposure to chemical and physical agents in our environment. Services include:
    - conducting epidemiological studies of environmentally-related outbreaks of disease.
    - performing health assessments and quantitative risk assessments of hazardous waste sites.
    - providing public health consultation and toxicological consultation for emergencies involving chemicals.
    - providing technical advice related to pesticides and other hazardous substances.
    - implementing the state Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program and administering a grant from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Environmental Protection Agency.
    - responding to emergencies affecting private water supplies.
    - providing professional and public information on radon.
    - providing technical advice related to indoor air quality issues.
    - providing technical assistance to local public health agencies on environmental public health issues.
    - providing consultation, technical assistance and inspection services related to hazardous substances affecting private water supplies.

Section for Communicable Disease Prevention and Control

This principal unit investigates the cause, origin and method of transmission of communicable diseases.

The interrelated services of this section focus on disease surveillance, prevention and control. This section focuses on communicable diseases, tuberculosis, zoonoses, sexually transmitted diseases and HIV/AIDS. The section is integral to the Department of Health and Senior Services' response to public health emergencies, natural and biological disasters and terrorism. The section assures rapid detection and response through a comprehensive surveillance system operated by public health staff prepared through expertise and training to detect diseases/conditions that may indicate an emergency/bioterrorism event.

- Bureau of Communicable Disease Control and Prevention: provides comprehensive prevention, intervention and surveillance programs related to 91 reportable communicable (or infectious) diseases and conditions of public health significance in Missouri. Many of these diseases are emerging infections (such as Multi-drug Resistant Tuberculosis, Cryptosporidiosis, Paragonimiasis and Novel Influenza). The program also maintains a statewide surveillance system (WebSurv) and performs analysis of morbidity to identify trends and risk factors. In addition to WebSurv and Electronic Surveillance System for Early Notification of Community-Based Epidemics (ESSENCE) is a statewide syndromic surveillance system that looks at chief complaints from hospitals, emergency rooms and over-the-counter drug sales and receives data from the poison control centers.
- Bureau of HIV, STD and Hepatitis: provides comprehensive prevention, intervention, care and surveillance programs targeting HIV/AIDS, syphilis, gonorrhea, chlamydia, hepatitis B (including perinatal HBV) and hepatitis C. Services include:
    - consulting with local health officers, practicing physicians and others regarding diagnosis, treatment and control measures for HIV, certain STDs, and hepatitis B and C.
    - providing guidelines, recommendations, training and technical assistance or consultation to local public health agencies and community-based providers on HIV disease, certain STDs and hepatitis B and C, coordination of disease outbreak investigations, disease investigation control activities and analysis of data.
    - providing HIV counseling, testing and referral.
    - providing HIV/STD/hepatitis outreach, health education and risk reduction programs statewide.
    - collaborating with community members, community-based organizations and other stakeholders throughout the state who serve on the HIV/STD Prevention Community Planning Group and various other advisory bodies.
    - collaborating with local, state and federal agencies as well as community-based organizations to ensure comprehensive health care and supportive services to individuals living with HIV/AIDS through a statewide case management system.
    - administering the AIDS Drug Assistance Program, Ryan White Title II, Housing Opportunities for People With AIDS, and Medicaid AIDS Waiver services to eligible low-income Missourians living with HIV who have no other access to health care and supportive services.
    - conducting epidemiological studies, identifying communicable disease surveillance data needs, designing data collection processes/systems, developing and maintaining data systems and datasets, analyzing and interpreting data at regular intervals to track trends and providing regular reports on these analyses.
    - coordinating the perinatal hepatitis B program, in which pregnant women with the virus are followed through delivery to prevent transmission of the disease to their newborns.
- Office Of Veterinary Public Health: conducts activities related to the prevention and control of zoonotic diseases that may be transmitted from animals native to Missouri, or accidentally through normal trade, commerce or an act of bioterrorism.
    - Acts as a liaison with other agencies such as the Missouri departments of Agriculture and Conservation to maintain current knowledge of diseases occurring in animal populations that may affect humans.
    - Conducts specific disease prevention programs, including the Rabies Program, which focus on consultations with medical providers to assess patient risk factors, education of the public, vaccination of animals and other preventive measures.

- Coordinates seasonal mosquito surveys to examine the prevalence of mosquito-borne pathogens like West Nile virus (WNV) by contracting with local health agencies and publishes the results on the DHSS Internet and a national database.
- Monitors the worldwide occurrence of vector-borne disease agents that could be used in a bioterrorism attack, or introduced accidentally into North America and assists the department in developing response plans to address these situations.
- Facilitates local public health agencies' capacity to conduct tick- and mosquito-borne disease prevention activities by providing educational materials and developing locally based outreach strategies.

Division of Regulation and Licensure

The Division of Regulation and Licensure oversees licensure and regulation activities for child care facilities, long-term care facilities and health care facilities. In addition, the division oversees the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, the Certificate of Need Program, the Board of Nursing Home Administrators and the Family Care Safety Registry. The division enforces statutory and regulatory requirements to insure the safety, health, welfare and rights of children and residents of long-term care and other health care facilities.

- Family Care Safety Registry: serves as a resource for background screening information maintained by various state agencies. Those wishing to hire a child-care, elder-care or personal-care worker may contact the registry using a toll-free line and obtain background information about a caregiver. The registry became operational January 1, 2001, and utilizes a computer interface to streamline the process to obtain background information.

  Information accessed by the registry includes: criminal history, sex offender registry, substantiated claims of child abuse/neglect, the department's employee disqualification list, the Department of Mental Health employee disqualification registry, child care license revocations and foster parent license denials, revocations and suspensions. In addition to the needs of families selecting an individual for a private employment arrangement, many employers of child-care, elder-care and personal-care workers are required to obtain background screening information for staff in order to obtain or maintain licensure or to be in compliance with state regulations. Employers, such as child-care centers and nursing homes, use the registry to obtain background screening information.

  The registry maintains a toll-free line (866-422-6872) to respond to requested information and allows the requestor to receive an immediate response as often as they like at no cost. The access line is staffed from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, and a web site (http://health.mo.gov/safety/fcsr/) is also maintained for easy access.
- Missouri Board of Nursing Home Administrators: responsible for adopting, amending and repealing rules necessary to carry out the provisions of Chapter 344, RSMo; establishes minimum standards for licensing nursing home administrators and residential care and assisted living administrators; provides testing opportunities for qualified applicants; approves and monitors continuing education programs designed for licensed administrators; audits license renewal applications and renews the licenses of qualified licensees; and conducts hearings affording due process of law, upon charges calling for discipline of a licensee.

  The board, appointed by the Governor, consists of ten members who serve three-year staggered terms. Membership of the board consists of one licensed physician, two licensed health professionals, one person from the field of health care education, four people who have been in general administrative charge of a licensed nursing home for at least five years immediately preceding their appointment and two public members.

TERESA GENEROUS

- Certificate of Need Program (CONP): through planning, review and support activities, assists in the development of a statewide health care services strategy through the application of the CONP statutes. The Missouri Health Facilities Review Committee, with the assistance of the CONP staff, carries out its responsibilities as set out in the CON statutes. The board reviews and approves substantial health capital expenditures and expenditures for major medical equipment. The board is made up of members from the legislature and the public sector appointed by the governor.
- Section for Health Standards and Licensure: responsible for licensing and regulating a wide variety of health care entities, investigating complaints levied against these entities, performing inspection activities for numerous Medicare-certification programs and also ensuring the safe and legal handling and distribution of controlled substances in Missouri. The section consists of four bureaus: Health Services Regulation; Emergency Medical Services; Home Care and Rehabilitative Standards; and the Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.
- Bureau of Health Services Regulation: The Bureau of Health Services Regulation's main functions include:
  - administering the state licensing program under which all Missouri hospitals (except state and federal facilities), freestanding ambulatory surgical centers, birthing centers and abortion facilities are required to renew their licenses annually based on compliance with state regulations in the areas of fire safety, sanitation, nursing service, dietary service, organization and administration.
  - registering and inspecting medical facilities that use ionizing radiation for diagnosis or treatment for compliance with state radiation safety regulations. These include diagnostic x-ray departments in hospitals, clinics, mobile diagnostic units, private medical offices, veterinarian offices, chiropractic offices, dental offices, podiatric offices, mammography providers and nuclear medicine sites. Industrial radiation facilities fall under the jurisdiction of the same radiation protection regulations and are also registered and inspected. These industrial applications include such uses as lead paint analyzers, airport baggage inspection machines, electron microscopes, cyclotrons, mechanical integrity testing units and many others.
  - providing technical, structural and educational consultation services to hospitals, ambulatory surgical centers, long-term care units in hospitals, abortion facilities, birthing centers and independent laboratories.
  - conducting survey activities through Department of Health and Senior Services contracts with the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, related to certification of providers of services participating in the Title XVIII (Medicare) and Title XIX (Medicaid) programs. These providers include hospitals, laboratories, end-stage renal disease facilities, mobile X-ray services, rural health clinics and long-term care units in Skilled Nursing Facilities (SNFs) and Immediate Care Facilities (ICFs) in hospitals.

- conducting surveys through Department of Health and Senior Services contracts with the Food and Drug Administration to determine compliance with federal certification standards of all mammography providers in Missouri, as well as acceptance testing of new installations of diagnostic radiographic equipment.

- Bureau of Emergency Medical Services (EMS): responsible for the following services:
  - implementing the Comprehensive EMS Act of 1998.
  - licensing Emergency Medical Technicians (Basic, Intermediate and Paramedic) and assuring all applicants meet requirements regarding background checks and continuing education.
  - licensing and inspecting ground and air ambulance services.
  - inspecting and accrediting emergency medical technician training entities.
  - licensing and inspecting Advanced Life Support and Emergency Medical Response Agencies.
  - inspecting and designating trauma centers.
  - investigating complaints involving all licensed or accredited activities.
  - overseeing the Emergency Medical Technician-Paramedic practical tests as a National Registry Representative.
  - maintaining the Head and Spinal Cord Injury/Trauma Registry, along with providing training and acting as a resource for the Web-based program.
  - maintaining the Missouri Ambulance Reporting System Registry along with providing training and acting as a resource for the Web-based program.
- Bureau of Home Care and Rehabilitative Standards: The Bureau of Home Care and Rehabilitative Standards main functions include:
  - conducting on-site surveys for Medicare (Title XVIII) certification at home health agencies, hospices, comprehensive outpatient rehabilitation facilities and outpatient physical therapy providers through contracts with the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services.
  - providing technical consultation regarding Missouri licensing requirements for home health agencies and hospices and Medicare standards for home health agencies, hospices, outpatient physical therapy providers and comprehensive outpatient rehabilitation facilities.
  - conducting on-site surveys at home-health agencies and hospices for compliance with state regulations.
  - investigating allegations of inappropriate care and other patient concerns.
- Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs: conducts activities and programs to ensure safe and legal handling and distribution of controlled substances in Missouri. The bureau registers and regulates all individuals and entities that conduct activities with controlled substances and also works with law enforcement and state health care licensing boards and associations to minimize the abuse of controlled substances in the state. Services of the bureau include:
  - maintaining a registry, as required by state law, of the individuals and firms who prescribe, dispense or otherwise conduct activities which involve controlled substances.
  - encouraging proper management of controlled substances through routine inspections and audits of the records that must be kept by firms and individuals who lawfully manufacture, distribute, or dispense controlled substances.
  - investigating suspected irregularities or mismanagement involving controlled substances. Such investigations originate with complaints from the general public, other government agencies or may develop from routine inspections and audits conducted by bureau representatives.
  - acting as the state's primary agency in regulation of controlled substance activity to correct or prevent unlawful practices, when detected, through education or, if necessary, administrative action against the registration of the firms or individuals involved.
  - updating the Missouri Controlled Substances list each year and filing changes in the list with the Missouri Secretary of State for publication in the Missouri Register and the Code of State Regulations.
- Section for Child Care Regulation: responsible for regulation and licensing of child care facilities. The section is also responsible for the annual safety, health and sanitation inspections of child care facilities operated by religious organizations. Child care staff conduct on-site inspections of child care facilities as well as provide technical and consultative assistance. The section's mission is to ensure that all facilities provide a healthy, safe and developmentally appropriate environment for Missouri's children. The goal for the section is to have a positive impact on the overall health, safety and well–being of children in child care programs. The section works to meet this goal through health promotion and education, facilitating immunizations, improved meals and nutrition education, communicable disease prevention, improved cleanliness and sanitation, injury reduction, prevention of child abuse and neglect, and serving children with special needs.
- Section for Long-Term Care Regulation: responsible for assuring the safety, health, welfare and rights of persons residing in long-term care facilities. The section has the legal authority to intervene in cases of abuse, neglect or exploitation for persons who reside in those facilities. The section:
  - inspects and licenses adult day care centers, adult residential care, assisted living, intermediate care and skilled nursing facilities.
  - investigates complaints of abuse or neglect at long-term care facilities.
  - reviews and approves plans for proposed long-term care facilities.
  - investigates complaints for any allegation of failure to comply with all rules and regulations.
  - investigates complaints of misuse of resident funds in long–term care facilities.
  - reviews applications for licenses to operate a long–term care facility.
  - inspects and conducts utilization reviews, and determines client eligibility for intermediate care facilities for persons with mental retardation.
  - implements appropriate rules and regulations in accordance with the Omnibus Nursing Home Act, and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and determines Medicaid/

Medicare certification of intermediate care and skilled nursing facilities.

Division of Senior and Disability Services

The Division of Senior and Disability Services serves as the state agency charged with protecting seniors and adults with disabilities from abuse, neglect and financial exploitation. Additionally, the division serves as the State Unit on Aging, carrying out the mandates for the state of Missouri regarding programs and services for seniors. The division is responsible for oversight and implementation of programs designed to maximize independence and health/safety for adults who choose to remain independent in the community by administering state and federally funded home and community based programs.

- Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program: works to advocate for the rights of residents in long-term care facilities. An ombudsman is someone who "speaks on behalf of another." Through the work of regional ombudsman coordinators (who are employees or contractors of the Area Agencies on Aging) and many volunteers, residents and their families receive assistance with questions and are empowered to resolve complaints. The program also provides educational forums and information to the public regarding issues dealing with long-term care facilities.
- Central Registry Unit/Elder Abuse and Neglect Hotline: responds to reports of alleged abuse, neglect or financial exploitation of persons 60 years of age or older and other eligible adults between the ages of 18 and 59. Calls are received and registered at the central registry and the report is sent to the appropriate investigative authority. Trained staff respond based on the severity of the circumstances and the degree of risk to the adult. All information obtained during investigations is confidential. The hotline, 800-392-0210, operates from 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m., 7 days a week, 365 days a year.
- Bureau of Senior Programs: responsible for statewide implementation of the federal Older Americans Act. For the Older Americans Act, states must designate planning and service areas to develop and implement programs and services for older persons at the local level. Missouri has ten Area Agencies on Aging (AAAs), each responsible for providing services and overseeing programs within specifically defined geographic boundaries. Within the mandates of the act, priority is given to serving older adults in the greatest social and economic need with a focus on serving low-income and minority elderly. Under the direction of the bureau chief, staff:
    - conducts periodic monitoring reviews of the local programs to verify compliance with state and federal guidelines and to validate program and service effectiveness; and,
    - provides training and technical assistance to AAA staff members and their boards as requested, keeping them apprised of new developments in the aging field and federal and state policies and procedures.

  Each AAA is allowed flexibility in providing the services most needed within its planning and service area. Each AAA:
    - is required to submit an area plan for review and approval in order to receive funding to carry out various provisions of the Older Americans Act at the local level;
    - administers the nutrition program—both congregate and home-delivered meals—and nutrition education activities;
    - provides evidence-based disease prevention and health promotion activities, and services to encourage the employment of older workers; provides services to support family caregivers, ombudsman services, information about the prevention of abuse, neglect and exploitation of seniors and issues relating to elder justice; and,
    - provides funding for access services, legal services and in-home services. Access services include transportation and Information and Assistance (I&A) and general outreach and advocacy activities. (In-home services include homemaker chore, personal care and respite.)
    - AAAs may also provide one or more of the following services: minor home modification, counseling, adult day care, telephone reassurance, friendly visiting, case management and volunteer recruitment.

CELESTA HARTGRAVES
Division of Senior and Disability Services

- Section for Adult Protective and Community Services: includes the following bureaus and units, all comprising field operations for the division:
    - Special Investigations Unit: investigates cases of elder abuse/neglect and financial exploitation that may result in referrals to local prosecutors for prosecution. The unit provides assistance to the divisions in the department by conducting training on investigation techniques, consulting for ongoing investigations and assisting to carry out the department's mission. The unit also provides educational outreach programs, informational training seminars and other related program activities to senior citizen groups, law enforcement agencies, prosecuting attorney personnel and other governmental entities and community groups in an effort to increase awareness of the threat of exploitation and abuse of elder citizens.
    - Automation and Analysis Unit: supports the section by gathering and analyzing data elements to ensure accurate, secure and consistent data. The unit is the central point of contact for coordination with internal and external partners regarding computer data systems. The unit also provides education and training for the in-home services providers/vendors at provider certification training and provider/vendor update meetings.
    - Bureau of Program Integrity: responsible for the interpretation, development, implementation and maintenance of Missouri adult-protective services and case-management policies. Policy interpretation and technical assistance is provided to field staff, management, supervisors, aging network partners and other interested individuals. Policies are developed in compliance with the Medicaid and Division of Senior and Disability Services' Code of State Regulations, state and federal statutes, guidelines and rules.
- Bureau of Home and Community Services: staff is responsible for services and programs directly administered by the division involving eligible persons 60 years of age or older and adults with disabilities between the ages of 18 and 59. Through a comprehensive investigative or assessment process, the division determines the intervention and/or services necessary to meet the needs of each eligible adult. Under the direction of the home and community services bureau chief, field staff:

- investigates all reports of elder abuse, neglect and exploitation of non-institutionalized elderly.
- intervenes on behalf of eligible adults believed to be at risk of injury or harm, including preparing cases for litigation based on investigative findings.
- informs individuals considering long-term care about options to ensure individuals have the ability to make a decision about care and care settings.
- authorizes temporary or short-term home and community-based services funded through Social Service Block Grant/General Revenue for persons who need them.

DR. DAVID R. RUSSELL
Commissioner, Coordinating Board for Higher Education

The Coordinating Board for Higher Education (CBHE) was authorized by an amendment to the Missouri Constitution in 1972 and established by statute in the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974. The nine board members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The term of appointment is six years. No more than five of the nine members may be affiliated with the same political party, and all members serve without compensation. The CBHE has statutory responsibilities relating to higher education programs and policies and oversees the activities of the Missouri Department of Higher Education (MDHE), which serves as the administrative arm of the CBHE.

The CBHE appoints the commissioner of higher education to head the MDHE and carry out administrative responsibilities to achieve the CBHE's desired goals for the state system of higher education, which serves more than 621,500 students through 13 public four-year universities, 20 public two-year colleges, one public two-year technical college, 25 independent colleges and universities, 163 proprietary and private career schools, 30 public area vocational/technical schools and 16 specialized nonprofit colleges.

The MDHE's primary responsibilities include identification of statewide planning for higher education, evaluation of institutional performance, review of institutional missions, development of specialization among institutions, submission of a unified budget request for public higher education to the governor and the General Assembly, establishment of guidelines to promote student transfer among institutions, approval of new degree programs offered by public colleges and universities, administration of the Proprietary School Certification Program and policy setting for and administration of student financial assistance programs.

The MDHE administers the following state student financial assistance programs: Access Missouri Financial Assistance Program; Missouri Higher Education Academic "Bright Flight" Scholarship Program; A+ Scholarship Program; Advantage Missouri Program; Marguerite Ross Barnett Memorial Scholarship Program; Vietnam Veteran's Survivor Grant Program; Public Service Officer or Employee's Child Survivor Grant Program; Wartime Veteran's Survivors Grant Program; Minority Teaching Scholarship; and the Minority and Underrepresented Environmental Literacy Program.

The MDHE also administers the Missouri Student Loan Program, the state-designated guaranty agency for the Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP). The Healthcare and Education Affordability Reconciliation Act went into effect July 1, 2010, eliminating FFELP and mandating that new federal student loans would be disbursed through the Federal Direct Loan Program. As a result, the MDHE maintains its existing loan guarantee portfolio but will not guarantee new loans issued from the federal government.

During the state fiscal year 2010, the MDHE administered approximately $96 million in state-based student financial assistance to more than 42,000 students and guaranteed approximately $656 million in student loans for over 89,000 borrowers.

In addition, the MDHE works to increase awareness among Missourians regarding postsecondary education and student financial assistance opportunities. Through its student loan default prevention initiatives, the MDHE strives to help students avoid loan default and credit card debt.

The MDHE also has administrative responsibility for several grants as well as organizational responsibility for the Missouri State Anatomical Board.

Established in 1887, the Missouri State Anatomical Board functions to receive "unclaimed" human bodies requiring burial at public expense and to distribute them for scientific study to certain qualified schools. The board, which operates under state law (sections 194.120-180, RSMo), was transferred to the Department of Higher Education by the Ominibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

In 1969, the board was designated a recipient for bodies donated under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act (section 194.230, RSMo).

The day-to-day business of the anatomical board is handled through local anatomical boards or secretaries in Columbia, Kansas City, Kirksville and St. Louis. The annual meeting of the entire board is in May in Columbia. Officers are elected for two-year terms.

University of Missouri System

www.umsystem.edu

The University of Missouri has provided teaching, research and service to Missouri since 1839 and added economic development as its fourth mission in 2004. With campuses in Columbia, Kansas City, St. Louis and Rolla, plus a statewide Extension program and a comprehensive health care system, the university serves about 72,000 students.

The mission of the University of Missouri, as a land-grant university and Missouri's only public research and doctoral-level institution, is to discover, disseminate, preserve and apply knowledge.

The University of Missouri awards more than 14,000 degrees annually. The university offers doctoral degree programs as well as professional degrees in law, medicine, optometry, pharmacy, dentistry and veterinary medicine.

The university receives approximately $350 million annually in grants and contracts for research in a wide range of disciplines, including medicine, agriculture, engineering, and life sciences. The university's seed funding programs help develop and move university technologies to the marketplace, and its network of research parks and incubators encourage economic growth across the state.

The University of Missouri is governed by a nine-member Board of Curators appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate.

The board also has a non-voting position for a student representative.

The university's chief administrative officer is the president. Each campus is directed by a chancellor.

The University of Missouri (MU)is the oldest state university west of the Mississippi River and the oldest in the Louisiana Purchase Territory. The university was designed according to Thomas Jefferson's pattern for the University of Virginia.

The signing into law of the land-grant college act, commonly known as the Morrill Act of 1862, gave the university 330,000 acres of land with proceeds used for the development of instruction and instructional facilities in agriculture and the mechanic arts. Through this assistance, both the College of Agriculture in Columbia and the School of Mines and Metallurgy in Rolla were established.

The Morrill Act brought great encouragement to the university because until 1867, no state funds had been appropriated for its operation. In 1892, fire destroyed Academic Hall, leaving only its six stately columns, the best-known symbol of the university today. The present administration building, Jesse Hall, was completed in 1895.

Today, with over 33,000 students, MU is the state's largest public research university and Missouri's only public member of the Association of American Universities (AAU), which includes the nation's most prestigious public and private research institutions. MU spends about $250 million a year on scientific research, accounting for 72 percent of the research dollars flowing to Missouri's public universities. In addition, the university provides extensive end-market support of critical industries. For example, MU is the largest supplier to the nation's pharmaceutical firms of radioisotopes for diagnosing and treating cancer. Mizzou also supports more than 400 drug-development trials and conducts 200,000 diagnostic tests annually to help determine the cause of death and disease in animals.

College of Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources (CAFNR)

The College of Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources is at the center of ensuring sustainability for future generations by infusing research, collaboration and science-based technology with confidence, creativity, conscience and commitment.

CAFNR, established in 1870 under the Morrill Act, offers bachelor and graduate degrees in agriculture; agribusiness management; agricultural economics; agricultural education; agricultural journalism; agricultural systems management; animal sciences; biochemistry; fisheries and wildlife; food science and nutrition; forestry; hospitality management; parks, recreation and tourism; plant science; and soil, environmental and atmospheric sciences.

Research strengths include agricultural policy, biotechnology, plant and animal genomics, animal reproductive biology, nutrition, production and pest management, agroforestry and environmental sciences. Research is conducted in 20 Outstate Research Centers located throughout the state to address unique regional needs. This is geared to making the most effective use possible of the state's natural resource base, including people resources.

Through extension, CAFNR conducts educational activities through agriculture and natural resources and community development programs in agribusiness management, integrated crop management, livestock production systems, horticulture and forestry, environmental quality, rural policy and community economic and entrepreneurial development.

College of Arts and Science

Established in 1841, the College of Arts and Science is the oldest and largest division of the university. The college provides its more than 10,000 undergraduate and graduate students with liberal education programs in fine and performing arts, humanities and social and natural sciences.

The College of Arts and Science offers undergraduate and graduate programs ranging from art to religious studies, biology to political science, geology to theatre. Graduates of the college include a Golden Globe Award-winning actor, an Academy Award-winning actor, three current governors, the former deputy director of the CIA, a physicist/astronaut, Missouri's first poet laureate and a legendary cartoonist.

The Undergraduate Research Mentorship Program encourages students to collaborate on research with faculty members. The Freshman Interest Group program helps incoming freshmen find their bearings at MU both academically and socially. Other programs include the Summer Repertory Theatre program and a summer field camp in Wyoming for geology students.

Our renowned faculty supplement their achievements in the classroom with significant research, scholarly interpretation, writing and creative production. Faculty include a member of the National Academy of Sciences; internationally recognized mathematicians; top experts in psychology; the 2009 winner of the American Chemical Society's highest honor—the Priestley Award; winners of the American Book Award and the American Academy of Arts and Letters' Academy Award in Literature; a former astronaut; and physics researchers working to reduce the nation's dependence on foreign oil.

The college boasts two museums: The Museum of Art and Archaeology, which possesses the third-most extensive art collection in Missouri, and the Museum of Anthropology, which is the only one of its kind in the state. The Brain Imaging Center accommodates researchers from across the campus and is accessible to other academic institutions as well as technological, scientific and pharmaceutical industries that need imaging of the body and brain.

Trulaske College of Business

Founded in 1914, the business school at the University of Missouri now enrolls more than 4,000 undergraduate students and 354 graduate students. The college has 59 full-time faculty members in four academic units—accountancy, finance, management and marketing. The Trulaske College of Business aspires to be one of the nation's top 20 public business schools.

The college offers an undergraduate degree in business administration, a Master of Business Administration degree, a 150-hour program that confers both undergraduate and master's degrees in accountancy, and Doctor of Philosophy degrees in both accountancy and business administration. These programs are nationally ranked and recognized and are fully accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) International.

For 96 years, the Trulaske College of Business has maintained a proud tradition of outstanding instruction and meaningful research. The college has internationally known scholars in every academic unit. In addition, several faculty members hold editorial positions with academic journals, and others serve as officers in professional associations.

Three outreach programs affiliated with the college—the Financial Research Institute, the Missouri Training Institute, and the Jeffrey E. Smith Institute for Real Estate—serve companies, other organizations, students and faculty and staff members. The Business Career Services Office provides placement assistance to graduating students and prospective employers.

With approval by the Board of Curators, the University of Missouri's business school was named the Robert J. Trulaske, Sr. College of Business in October 2007. The naming recognizes the business and personal achievements of alumnus Bob Trulaske and the unprecedented support of the college by the late Mr. and Mrs. Trulaske. More than 31,000 alumni of the college are contributing their expertise to the private and public sectors in every state and in a host of foreign countries.

College of Education

In 1848, MU became the first public university in the nation to open a college for teacher preparation. Today, the College of Education ranks among the best teacher preparation programs in the nation and collaborates with more than 20 countries worldwide on research and shared degree programs.

Nearly 1,700 undergraduate students enroll annually in the Teacher Development Program which offers two baccalaureate degrees: the bachelor of science in education that prepares students to be recommended for Missouri teacher certification and the bachelor of educational studies that serves those interested in education-related career fields.

Nearly 2,300 graduate students enroll annually in programs such as educational leadership, educational, school and counseling psychology; educational technology; higher education; library science; policy studies; special education; and teaching and curriculum. Advanced degrees include master of arts, master of education, educational specialist, doctor of education and doctor of philosophy degrees.

College of Engineering

MU Engineering was the first college of engineering west of the Mississippi. The college offers bachelor of science, master of science and PhD degrees. Its departments and programs include: Biological Engineering, Chemical Engineering, Civil and Environmental Engineering, Computer Science, Electrical and Computer Engineering, Industrial and Manufacturing Systems Engineering, Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering and an Information Technology Program.

Engineering supports its educational programs with extracurricular and research opportunities for undergraduates. The college has approximately 2,800 undergraduates with the average freshman ranked at the 93rd percentile. There are over 40 engineering student organizations that encourage the development of leadership, business and social skills as well as an undergraduate honors research program. Faculty are entrepreneurial and interdisciplinary.

MU Engineering currently boasts 13 National Science Foundation CAREER Grant recipients among its faculty members. Faculty have established eight college centers of expertise and success and eight signature programs.

Research at the centers is focused on helping reduce American dependence on imported fuels, technology that will help the elderly, processing images vital to national security and more. Signature programs include environmental engineering, supply chain management, production and manufacturing and engineering design, among others.

Graduate School

http://gradschool.missouri.edu

The Graduate School serves as an administrative and academic unit of the University. Its Vice Provost for Advanced Studies and Dean of the Graduate School is the top administrative official. His staff members provide essential services to 100+ post-baccalaureate programs of study across campus, including all master's, education specialist, and doctoral degrees; graduate certificates; and graduate minors. Additionally, the dean provides administrative oversight for the Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs; the Masters of Public Health program; and interdisciplinary graduate programs in genetics, neuroscience and nuclear science. As an academic unit, the Graduate School also confers a Minor in College Teaching.

Mizzou graduate students are mentored by distinguished faculty and have access to some of the finest collegiate research facilities in the U.S. Total graduate enrollment exceeds 6,300 students. More than 22,604 graduate alumni are living in Missouri.

The Graduate School, located in Jesse Hall, houses the MU Office of Postdoctoral Education, the McNair Scholars Program, Peace Corps Fellowships and the Preparing Future Faculty program. It works closely with directors of graduate study and the Graduate Faculty Senate. The Graduate School is a member of the Association of Graduate Schools and the Council of Graduate Schools.

Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs

The mission of the Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs is to advance the knowledge and practice of governance in Missouri, the nation and beyond by informing public policy, educating for ethical leadership in public service and fostering democratic discourse among citizens, policymakers and scholars.

The Truman School grew out of MU's well-regarded Department of Public Administration and builds on its 40-year history of professional education for public service careers.

The school offers Ph.D. and MPA degrees, a joint MPA/JD with the MU Law School and a joint MPA/MPH with MU's Public Health Program. Through affiliated centers and institutes, faculty conduct cutting-edge research, provide consulting services to public and nonprofit organizations, deliver leadership training to public officials and bring academic expertise directly to policy makers.

Policy forums, roundtables with policy makers, lectures by distinguished visiting scholars and research symposia make for an exciting and highly relevant learning environment.

College of Human Environmental Sciences

The college's mission touches the heart of humanity: to improve the quality of life for individuals and families where they live and work. Beginning with the basics—food, clothing, shelter, finances, family and community—Human Environmental Sciences (HES) concentrates on providing scientific solutions for contemporary challenges in human lives.

Rooted in the university since 1900 and established as a separate division in 1973, the college offers bachelor's and master's degrees in five departments: human development and family studies, focusing on child development and education, family studies, child life and human development; textile and apparel management, focusing on apparel marketing and merchandising, international studies, product development and management; personal financial planning, with options in personal financial management services and personal financial planning; architectural studies, including interior design; and nutrition and exercise physiology, with emphases in dietetics, nutrition and fitness and nutritional sciences.

The MU School of Social Work educates leaders who meet challenges facing individuals and society in the areas of child welfare, community organization, criminal justice, domestic violence, employee assistance, family and children, services, gerontology, homeless, hospice, juvenile justice, mental health, physical health, public welfare, schools, substance abuse and victim assistance.

The School of Social Work joined the College of Human Environmental Sciences in 1988. Bachelor of Social Work, Master of Social Work and a Doctorate of Philosophy in social work degrees are offered in the School of Social Work. MU's School of Social Work provides the only doctoral program for social work at a public institution in Missouri.

Through University of Missouri Extension, educational activities are transmitted to citizens of the state. Human Environmental Sciences' programs prepare students for professional positions in business, industry, government, education, human services and research. Accreditation has been earned within specializations.

Recognized as a leading human sciences program in the United States, Human Environmental Sciences is unique among professional peers in its comprehensive use of advisory boards comprised of industry experts to provide guidance and support for each department and the School of Social Work.

Missouri School of Journalism

The Missouri School of Journalism begins its second century with a renewed commitment to improve democracy through journalism. The first school of its type in the world, the Missouri School of Journalism educates students for careers in journalism, advertising, public relations and related news and strategic communication fields by combining a strong liberal arts education with unique hands-on training in professional media.

The school offers the Bachelor of Journalism degree in six areas of emphasis. Advanced graduate studies lead to the Master of Arts degree and the Doctor of Philosophy degree in journalism. The Donald W. Reynolds Journalism Institute (RJI), a 50,000 square-foot facility on historic Francis Quadrangle dedicated in 2008, is committed to developing solutions for 21st-century journalism. RJI engages students, journalists, researchers and other citizens in programs to test new technologies, experiment with convergence news production and delivery and conduct seminars and conferences.

School of Law

The School of Law, established in 1872, has a distinguished and diverse faculty. The juris doctor degree is conferred upon students who complete three years of study. All graduates are prepared for licensing exams as attorneys in all of the United States. In 1999, the school developed the first LL.M. in Dispute Resolution degree program in the nation and remains a national leader in alternative dispute resolution.

The school provides both a traditional legal curriculum and practical education in such areas as trial practice and advocacy, clinical education involving representation of clients in a variety of settings, negotiation and client interviewing and counseling. MU law students publish the highly regarded Missouri Law Review, Journal of Dispute Resolution, and Missouri Environmental Law and Policy Review.

School of Medicine

The origin of health care education at MU can be traced to 1841 when the university affiliated with Kemper College in St. Louis. After offering a two-year preclinical sciences degree for many years, the School of Medicine expanded to a comprehensive four-year medical program in 1955. Today, the School of Medicine and its family and community medicine department are consistently ranked highly for their leadership in primary-care education.

Through the Rural Scholars Program and other admission initiatives, more than half of new medical students come from Missouri communities. The medical school's problem-based curriculum offers case-based learning in small-group settings and provides a number of opportunities for students to gain practical experience at rural clinics and hospitals.

MU biomedical scientists have gained national attention for their research in cancer, cardiovascular medicine, diabetes, musculoskeletal disorders and health problems associated with children and the elderly.

As part of the School of Medicine, a program in Health Management and Informatics is offered to educate both traditional students and experienced health care administrators through its master's degree programs.

Sinclair School of Nursing

The MU Sinclair School of Nursing (SSON) offers a full range of programs at the baccalaureate, master's and doctoral levels. The school is nationally accredited by the Commission of Collegiate Nursing Education and approved by the Missouri State Board of Nursing.

The undergraduate program prepares graduates to practice in a variety of health care settings. Undergraduate program options include a four-year Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN), a distance mediated RN-BSN degree and an accelerated BSN for individuals with a baccalaureate degree in another area.

Students are prepared at the master's level in nursing education, nursing leadership, public health and school health nursing. The Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) prepares advanced practice nurses as adult and pediatric clinical nurse specialists as well as family, pediatric and mental health nurse practitioners. The DNP prepares clinical scholars to perform direct clinical practice, translate, disseminate and integrate evidence-based research into clinical practice and improve quality of health outcomes.

The Ph.D. program prepares nurse scholars to assume leadership positions in research and educational settings. The Ph.D. prepared nurse advances the discipline, conducts research and contributes to the development of social and health policy.

The program's graduates are prepared for a variety of leadership and scientific roles in order to meet the knowledge and technology requirements of the future.

Aging, women and children, best practices, physiologic studies, self-management and cancer survivorship comprise the school's major research interest areas. The MU SSON is committed to multi-disciplinary and interdisciplinary collaborations as a means of solving some of our most important health care dilemmas.

School of Health Professions

The School of Health Professions educates highly qualified health care professionals committed to improving society through education, service and discovery in health, diagnostic and rehabilitation sciences. The school is credited with establishing the nation's first baccalaureate degree in respiratory therapy and has the nation's only master's-level program in diagnostic medical ultrasound. It is the nation's only health professions school to sponsor an adult day-health-care facility.

The school's six departments and nine accredited academic programs have a distinguished history, producing many well-respected internationally and nationally recognized professionals. The departments of Cardiopulmonary and Diagnostic Sciences, Communication Science and Disorders, Health Psychology, Health Science, Occupational Therapy and Physical Therapy fulfill critical health care roles.

The school offers undergraduate degrees in communication science and disorders, diagnostic medical ultrasound, health science, medical technology, occupational therapy, nuclear medicine, radiography and respiratory therapy. Graduate degrees are offered in communication science and disorders, diagnostic medical ultrasound, occupational therapy and physical therapy and post-doctoral training in health psychology.

Students gain valuable experience in the school's service and outreach centers, including The Adult Care Connection (Eldercare), The Health Connection, MU Speech and Hearing Clinic, Robert G. Combs Language Preschool, neuropsychology clinics, and more than 800 fieldwork sites. Eighty-six percent of the school's graduates remain in Missouri to practice.

College of Veterinary Medicine

The MU College of Veterinary Medicine has graduated more than 3,000 doctors of veterinary medicine (DVMs) in its history. The College of Veterinary Medicine's three-fold mission is teaching, service and research. It is the only Missouri institution that awards the Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree, graduating approximately 100 to 110 new veterinarians each year.

Most graduates enter private clinical practice, but others choose careers in government, industry and academia. The college also offers post-graduate specialty training to interns, residents and graduate students.

The college's teaching hospital is a state-of-the-art facility with 140,000 square feet of floor space spread over three clinics for companion animals, horses and farm animals. Clinical faculty provide both primary care and various sophisticated diagnostic procedures and treatment options not available in most private practices. Examples include a magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) unit, hip replacement surgery, a treadmill for evaluation of lameness in horses, and herd-health consultation for farmers.

Each year, the hospital cares for approximately 16,000 hospitalized animals and thousands more on farms. Through its research mission, the college fulfills a solemn obligation to advance our understanding of diseases affecting not just animals but also people. After all, people and animals share the same environment and are exposed to the same infectious organisms and environmental pollutants. It should come as no surprise, therefore, that animals and their owners develop many of the same diseases. This is the One Health One Medicine concept.

To pursue the causes of these conditions, faculty of the College of Veterinary Medicine collaborate extensively with colleagues in human medicine, agriculture and other scientific disciplines.

Libraries

The MU Libraries include Ellis Library, the main library, and eight branch libraries: Columbia Missourian newspaper, engineering, geology, health sciences, journalism, mathematics, University Archives and veterinary medicine. The MU Libraries have a collection of 3.2 million print volumes, including 49,000 journal titles.

Some library materials are housed in two off-campus storage facilities that contain more than one million volumes from all of the University of Missouri campus libraries. The libraries website, http://mulibraries.missouri.edu, provides access to online resources including the MERLIN (MU system) and MOBIUS (state-wide) catalogs and over 195 online databases.

The university collections are frequently reinforced by gifts of friends and alumni. Outstanding gifts include an unpublished manuscript of Charlotte Bronte; the library and manuscripts of John G. Neihardt; the library and manuscripts of Mary Lago; the V.T. Hamlin “Alley Oop” collection; and the libraries of the late Dr. Frank Luther Mott (dean and professor of journalism), Judge Laurance M. Hyde of the Missouri Supreme Court, Methodist Bishop Ivan Lee Holt and former Governor Henry S. Caulfield.

Two other libraries, the Western Historical Manuscripts Collection and the library of the State Historical Society of Missouri, are open to faculty, students and the public for study and research. Most of the papers in the Western Historical Manuscripts Collection relate to the area of the Missouri River and Great Plains and include interesting correspondence, account books and diaries representing early and recent business, professional, political and social life.

The library of the State Historical Society of Missouri has an extensive collection of Missouriana and the early West and a painting collection including the works of George Caleb Bingham.

University of Missouri Extension

University of Missouri Extension has its roots in federal acts, including the Morrill Land Grant Act of 1862 and the Smith-Lever Act of 1914, that enabled the university to deliver the practical benefits of education and scientific research to the people to improve their economic prospects and quality of life.

As early as 1911, MU was reaching out to farmers and families and providing distance education courses for teachers across the state. In 1955, state legislation established county extension councils to advise the university on educational programs. Each year, some 2,000 citizens volunteer on these councils to assess local educational needs and to work with extension faculty in delivering and evaluating programs. A partnership of local, state and federal government forms the basis for supporting these efforts.

Today, MU Extension continues to translate university-generated research and knowledge to meet the practical needs of Missourians. Working with faculty on the four UM System campuses and jointly with Lincoln University Cooperative Extension, specialists serve every county and the city of St. Louis. They reach audiences diverse in age, race and income with educational programs, publications, informative websites and one-on-one consultations.

Programs in community development, agriculture and natural resources, 4-H youth development, human environmental sciences, business development and continuing education build the capacity for success in individuals and communities, and create a foundation for locally and regionally based economic development. Every year, more than 1.3 million Missourians participate in MU Extension programs.

MU Research Reactor

The University of Missouri Research Reactor Center (MURR) is a unique international resource that brings together the most powerful (10 megawatt) university research reactor in the world and the resources of a major teaching hospital, a respected cancer center, a leading college of veterinary medicine, and distinguished university programs in the biosciences, chemistry and engineering. MURR serves researchers, faculty and students from universities, government agencies and private companies. MURR research programs encompass three major areas: biomedical sciences, materials sciences and trace element analysis.

The biomedical science program focuses on the development of radiopharmaceuticals for cancer research and therapeutic applications. The trace element analysis program uses neutron activation analysis and other sophisticated techniques to determine the composition of biological, archaeological and geological samples. The materials sciences program focuses on the use of neutron scattering techniques to define and characterize materials at the molecular or atomic level. Educational opportunities abound at MURR.

As an international resource for multidisciplinary research, the center draws students from across the globe. Undergraduate and graduate students participate in MURR research projects in diverse disciplines such as anthropology and archaeology, chemistry, engineering (chemical, electrical, mechanical and nuclear), geology, materials science, medical and life sciences (including cancer diagnostics, treatment and prevention), nutrition, physics and veterinary medicine. MURR produces isotopes for several commercially produced radiopharmaceuticals used in the fight against cancer.

University of Missouri Health Care

Patients from every county in Missouri are served by approximately 6,000 physicians, nurses and health care professionals at University of Missouri Health Care. As one of the state’s premier academic medical centers, MU Health Care offers highly specialized, multidisciplinary care for patients with the most severe illnesses and injuries.

The comprehensive health care network began when University Hospital opened in Columbia in 1956. Today, MU Health Care consists of Ellis Fischel Cancer Center, the Missouri Orthopaedic Institute, the Missouri Psychiatric Center, University Hospital and Clinics and Women’s and Children’s Hospital—all based in Columbia. MU Health Care also includes a long-term acute-care hospital, the Missouri Rehabilitation Center, in Mount Vernon.

Affiliated organizations include Capital Region Medical Center in Jefferson City, Cooper County Memorial Hospital in Boonville and Rusk Rehabilitation Center in Columbia.

Clinical specialties include comprehensive care for patients with cancer; cardiovascular, neurological and gastrointestinal diseases; orthopaedic surgery; primary care; behavioral health; trauma and acute-care surgery; women’s health; neurosurgery; and pediatric and neonatal intensive care. MU Health Care is a part of the University of Missouri Health System, which also includes the MU School of Health Professions, the School of Medicine, the Sinclair School of Nursing and University Physicians practice plan.

Email: admit@umkc.edu

The history of the University of Missouri–Kansas City (UMKC) has its beginnings in the 1880s. Three of the professional schools now a part of the university were founded in the 19th century: the School of Dentistry, 1881; the School of Pharmacy, 1895; and the School of Law, 1895. At the same time the Conservatory of Music was founded in 1906, community leaders began discussing the need for a university in Kansas City.

By the 1920s, two groups had plans for such a university. One group proposed Lincoln and Lee University, a Methodist-affiliated school. The other group wanted a private university.

The two groups eventually united and, in 1929, the University of Kansas City was chartered. In 1930, William Volker, Kansas City manufacturer and philanthropist, started the campus with a donation of 40 acres from the William Rockhill Nelson estate.

In 1931, Volker donated funds to purchase the Walter S. Dickey mansion and grounds. It was in this remodeled building that the University of Kansas City began its first academic year on October 2, 1933, with 264 students and 17 faculty members. The first commencement at the University of Kansas City was June 9, 1936, with 80 graduates.

In 1963, the University of Kansas City merged with the University of Missouri System, becoming the University of Missouri–Kansas City. In 1963, the enrollment was 4,394; more than 14,000 now enroll at UMKC.

College of Arts and Sciences

The College of Arts and Sciences is the largest division of UMKC. It provides a broad liberal arts education as well as graduate and doctoral preparation, preparing students as specialists in a number of chosen fields.

The major areas of study are architecture, urban planning and design, art and art history, chemistry, communication studies, economics, English language and literature, environmental studies, foreign language and literature, geosciences, history, mathematics and statistics, philosophy, physics, political science, psychology, sociology, social work, theater and urban studies.

Nearly all of the college's departments offer graduate work at the master's level. Doctoral studies are available in psychology. Some departments also participate in the Interdisciplinary Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) program offered through the School of Graduate Studies.

School of Biological Sciences

The School of Biological Sciences seeks to provide quality education, to expand knowledge through scientific research and to apply the latest scientific information for the advancement of human welfare.

Created in 1985, the school serves to advance the missions of the campus and those programs that have a foundation in the life sciences. It is closely tied to and supports academic programs in the schools of Dentistry, Nursing, Pharmacy and the College of Arts and Sciences. It also offers bachelor's, master's and interdisciplinary Ph.D. degrees.

In 1999, the School of Biological Sciences announced its membership in an exclusive national consortium to conduct research at the prestigious Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago.

Today, the School of Biological Sciences is home to approximately 650 students seeking bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in all areas of cellular and molecular biology.

LEO E. MORTON
Chancellor, University of Missouri–Kansas City

Programs at the School of Biological Sciences train students to further their education in health professional programs, graduate and doctoral degree programs or to directly enter the biotechnology workforce of Kansas City and the Midwest region.

Henry W. Bloch School of Management

Programs at the Henry W. Bloch School of Business and Public Administration provide present and future talent of for-profit, public and nonprofit enterprises the opportunity to gain or enhance their knowledge and skills for effective leadership locally, nationally and globally.

Degree programs include Bachelor of Business Administration and Bachelor of Science in accounting, as well as a menu of graduate and executive graduate programs including Master of Business Administration, Master of Science in accounting, Master of Science in finance and Master of Entrepreneurial Real Estate. The Bloch School also offers an interdisciplinary PhD in public administration, a Ph.D. in global entrepreneurship and innovation and non-degree executive education.

The school actively engages in research that applies to the business community, Kansas City's urban core and government agencies.

The Bloch School differentiates itself by integrating business management with public administration, along with a strong emphasis on entrepreneurial and innovative thinking across all disciplines. Bloch programs in Executive MBA and nonprofit management have been ranked among the top in the nation, and the entrepreneurship programs at the Bloch School's Institute for Entrepreneurship and Innovation are ranked among the top 25 in the nation by the Princeton Review.

School of Computing and Engineering

The mission of the School of Computing and Engineering is to provide competitive educational opportunities and focused research in computing and engineering, generating the technical workforce and research needed for economic development. Undergraduate degree offerings include ABET, Inc.-accredited degrees in computer science, information technology, civil engineering, electrical and computer engineering and mechanical engineering. Master of Science degree programs are offered in civil engineering, computer science, electrical engineering and mechanical engineering. Thesis and non-thesis options are available.

The school also participates in UMKC's Interdisciplinary Ph.D. program through four disciplines: computer science, electrical and computer engineering, engineering and telecommunications and computer networking. Computer science and electrical engineering research strengths cover a wide range of specialties, including networking and telecommunications, software engineering and systems, bio-informatics, communications, computer engineering and algorithms.

Civil and mechanical engineering research strengths include transportation, bioengineering, engineering education, materials, structures, refrigeration and river engineering. All programs are designed to prepare graduates for successful careers in computer science and engineering.

School of Dentistry

What began in 1881 as the Kansas City Dental College is today the UMKC School of Dentistry, which annually admits approximately 100 students into its four-year Doctor of Dental Surgery (DDS) degree program, 30 dental graduates into specialty programs and 30 students into dental hygiene. The school serves 15,000 patients of record, providing the students with more than 61,000 patient visits annually.

The school offers continuing education programs and supports or participates in dozens of outreach programs. Faculty and students provide oral health screenings to disadvantaged children and others in underserved, rural areas of Missouri and abroad.

UMKC was the first U.S. dental school to develop and implement a fully electronic patient record-keeping system with digital radiography, and the Department of Oral Biology has been named an area of eminence by the University of Missouri System in recognition of its interdisciplinary research programs in the areas of biomaterials engineering, mineralized tissue biology and translational and clinical research. Private businesses contract with the Clinical Research Center to perform clinical trials and efficacy testing on dental products and procedures; and research funding averages over $5 million annually.

Philanthropic support from the school's 7,500 living alumni has endowed more than 60 scholarships, providing assistance to a significant number of the school's 500 dental, dental hygiene and graduate students.

School of Education

The mission of the School of Education is to recruit, prepare and support outstanding teachers, mental health professionals and administrators who will create lifelong opportunities through education for America's diverse urban communities. The school's vision is to become a leading urban-serving school of education in the nation.

The School of Education is fully accredited, offering degrees through a diverse array of undergraduate, graduate and continuing education classes in the Kansas City metropolitan area. For practicing teachers, course offerings include stand-alone programs and courses delivered in conjunction with partner school districts.

Doctoral degrees are available in counseling psychology from the Division of Counseling and Educational Psychology and PK-12 administration from the Division of Educational Leadership, Policy and Foundations. The School of Education also participates in the interdisciplinary Ph.D. program, offering a combined degree with many other discipline areas.

To address the needs of students in the urban school environment, UMKC's Institute for Urban Education (IUE) was launched in the fall of 2005 through a collaborative effort between the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Education. Using innovative and rigorous preparation approaches, the IUE trains qualified teachers who are prepared to meet the needs of the Kansas City community.

The School of Education offers undergraduate programs that are aligned with the experience of the IUE and lead to the Bachelor of Arts degress in early childhood, elementary, middle school and secondary education. The school recommends students for certification in a variety of content areas. School of Education faculty work closely with local school districts to give future teachers not only a foundation in theory but also classroom practice through field work, practica and internships.

School of Graduate Studies

Programs for advanced degrees in the liberal arts were introduced by the University of Kansas City in 1939. Graduate degree programs are offered in a variety of fields in the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences. Several are of special interest to students preparing for careers in the health sciences, performing arts and urban affairs.

Master's degree programs are offered in accounting, anesthesia, art history, bioinformatics, biology, business administration, cellular and molecular biology, chemistry, civil engineering, computer science, counseling and guidance, criminal justice and criminology, dental hygiene, economics, education, English, engineering, history, law, mathematics, music, oral biology, nursing, pharmaceutical sciences, physics, political science, psychology, public administration, romance languages, psychology, social work, sociology, studio art, theater and urban environmental geology. The education specialist degrees, Master of Fine Arts, Master of Laws and Doctor of Musical Arts are also available.

The interdisciplinary Ph.D. program offers students a range of doctoral options. Support is available to qualified graduate students through scholarships, assistantships and fellowships.

School of Law

The Kansas City School of Law, founded in 1895, merged with the University of Kansas City (UKC) in 1938. When UKC joined the UM system in 1963, the school became known as the UMKC School of Law. The school is one of only six in the nation to have educated both a U.S. President and a Supreme Court Justice.

The law school is housed in a modern facility, which includes courtrooms with up-to-date technology that allow actual court proceedings to be held at the school and observed by students and faculty from a sound-proof viewing theater. The building houses the Leon E. Bloch Law Library, which provides both books and online materials and contains an innovative collaborative teaching classroom for research and writing instruction. A unique feature of the building is the placement of student offices and study carrels in suites shared by faculty.

The law school focuses on the integration of high level theory with practical skills to educate lawyers with strong problem solving ability and the foundation for sound judgment. The school is recognized for its strengths in advocacy, the law of families and children and entrepreneurship as well as for its innovative solo and small firm practice program. Students have opportunities for writing and scholarly activity through the three journals edited at the school.

The location of the School of Law on an urban university campus provides abundant opportunities for student participation in externships and clinics that provide excellent skills training while serving community legal needs. It also provides for interdisciplinary collaboration, especially with the Bloch School of Management and the Institute for Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

School of Medicine

In 1971, the UMKC School of Medicine accepted its first class in the six-year medical program. The year-round program, involving 48 weeks of study each year, offers students the opportunity to earn both their Doctor of Medicine (M.D.) degree and a bachelor's degree from either the College of Arts and Sciences or the School of Biological Sciences. It is designed primarily for highly qualified high school seniors.

The curriculum of the School of Medicine provides early exposure to clinical medicine and basic science education, as well as a liberal arts education that is fully integrated into the six-year program. Admission to this program as a freshman gives the student the opportunity to complete requirements for the Doctor of Medicine degree without a second admission process. A unique feature of the school is the docent system, which assigns a full-time faculty member to 12 students for a four-year period, creating an opportunity for the student to interact with a faculty member who serves as a teacher, role model, counselor and mentor.

Nearby are the medical school's major affiliate hospitals: Truman Medical Center, Children's Mercy Hospital, St. Luke's Hospital, Western Missouri Mental Health Center and the Kansas City Veterans Affairs Medical Center. In addition, the School of Medicine utilizes a number of outstanding private community hospitals in the Kansas City area for education in clinical medicine.

Conservatory of Music and Dance

The Conservatory of Music and Dance has earned national and international recognition through its music and dance performance, composition, teaching and scholarship. One of the most comprehensive music and dance educational centers in the Midwest since 1906, the conservatory has more than 80 faculty who are highly regarded as scholars, artists, teachers and leaders in their fields.

The conservatory offers the degrees of bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Master of Music Education and Doctor of Musical Arts. It offers the community hundreds of music and dance programs annually by visiting artists, including those in its acclaimed Signature Series, faculty and students. The conservatory also offers students the opportunity to participate in a variety of ensembles that perform throughout the year.

More than 20 ensembles are open by audition to all UMKC students who qualify. Ensembles include the Conservatory Orchestra, Chamber Orchestra, Percussion Ensemble, Wind Symphony, Wind Ensemble, Musica Nova (a contemporary music ensemble), 11 O'Clock Jazz Band and numerous vocal and jazz groups.

School of Pharmacy

The origin of pharmacy education in Kansas City began in 1885 and evolved into the "Kansas City College of Pharmacy and Natural Science." This college operated independently until 1943, when it merged with the University of Kansas City. For the last 125 years, the School of Pharmacy has maintained its mission to educate students, health care professionals and scientists, conduct research, and serve the public and the pharmacy profession in order to meet pharmaceutical needs and advance the standard of health care.

The UMKC School of Pharmacy is the only public pharmacy school in Missouri, offering professional, post graduate, and graduate programs in the pharmaceutical sciences, including pharmaceutics, pharmacology, biopharmaceutics, pharmacokinetics and toxicology; pharmacy administration; and pharmacy practice. The primary professional degree offered is the doctor of pharmacy (Pharm.D.).

Pharmacy faculty conduct interdisciplinary research and engage in community service. Students are active in various outreach projects, including community health fairs and education of school children about inappropriate use of medication.

The pharmacy program includes significant patient contact and provides an interprofessional approach to patient care. Experiential components of the curriculum are conducted at several area health facilities throughout Kansas City, Columbia, and Springfield as well as at various pharmacy and health care settings throughout the state in rural and metropolitan areas.

In 2005, the School of Pharmacy expanded the Pharm.D. program to the University of Missouri–Columbia campus using distance education and UMKC pharmacy faculty. This program was created in part to help with the shortage of pharmacists statewide and to meet the need for pharmacists in Missouri's rural communities. Further expansion of the Pharm.D. program to the Missouri State University campus in Springfield is planned for a potential fall 2014 launch date.

Libraries

UMKC Libraries are an essential partner in intellectual discovery, knowledge creation and empowerment while serving as the hub of learning activities for UMKC and its urban neighbors. Located on the Volker Campus, the Miller Nichols Library is the largest of UMKC's libraries and houses the general collection, Music/Media Library, LaBudde Special Collections, and Marr Sound Archives. The Dental Library and Health Sciences Library are located on the Health Sciences Campus and serve users in those disciplines.

UMKC Libraries' collections contain over 2 million books, government publications and audiovisual items as well as over 2 million microforms supporting the programs of the university. In addition to the physical collections, the libraries provide online access to over 65,000 journals, 250,000 books and 300 research databases. Partnerships with the UMKC School of Law's Leon E. Bloch Law Library and the privately funded Linda Hall Library of Science, Engineering and Technology further extend UMKC's physical and virtual library resources. Reciprocal borrowing agreements and the Community Information Program share UMKC's library resources globally while providing local users access to materials from libraries and repositories located throughout Missouri and around the world. These arrangements assist students, researchers, businesses and all levels of government agencies.

Many rare and priceless collections are part of UMKC Libraries' Kenneth L. LaBudde Special Collections. These include papers and manuscripts of music composers, sheet music and Americana and British literature. The Marr Sound Archives hold over 330,000 recordings of music and spoken word, documenting the American experience in sound. The libraries have been the recipient of grants from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation and the National Endowment for the Humanities to catalog and preserve unique library collections.

Through the libraries' website, Missourians and researchers worldwide can access a variety of material, from online exhibits highlighting the musical heritage of the Kansas City region to a comprehensive catalog of library holdings at all four campuses to historic digital audio recordings. Visitors to UMKC can observe the recently installed high-density automated storage and retrieval system—dubbed by student vote "RooBot"—and experience the new collaborative study spaces made possible by the new system.

School of Nursing

The UMKC School of Nursing prepares nursing students to excel in the delivery and improvement of health care, now and in the future. Approval for establishment of a School of Nursing was granted by the University of Missouri's Board of Curators in 1979 at which time the Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) program was offered. The school accepted its first class of registered nurse undergraduates (RN-BSN) into its baccalaureate program in fall 1981.

Today, the UMKC School of Nursing offers a full range of education programs including a four-year bachelor's degree (BSN), an RN-BSN, a Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) degree, a Doctorate in Nursing Practice (DNP) degree—all fully accredited by the Commission on collegiate Nursing Education. Options for MSN study include the nurse educator and adult, family, women, neonatal and pediatric nurse practitioner programs. The Ph.D. in Nursing is an inter-campus Ph.D., offered in cooperation with the University of Missouri–St. Louis and Columbia campuses. Many of the programs are approved by the Higher Learning Commission for distance education using both online and interactive telecommunication technologies.

The school presents students with excellent learning opportunities, such as clinical experiences in settings that provide care to patient populations of diverse backgrounds and state-of-the-art simulation technology. Students benefit from the school's long-standing community partnerships, a commitment to a diverse student body and specialized recruitment and retention strategies. The School of Nursing's program of research is focused on community-based research for underserved and under-represented populations and provides educational, practice, service and research opportunities in the provision of health care and education in this area, emphasizing urban health care and wellness.

Continuing Education

The university's schools and colleges, with responsibility for their respective continuing education programs, extend the university's educational reach beyond the traditional campus degree programs. Through credit courses, noncredit courses, conferences and institutes, residents have an opportunity to continue their education in a manner suited to the adult learner.

Non-credit continuing education activities involve an academic department and a group from business, industry, government or the general public. Citizens throughout the state are served through UMKC's relationship with the University Extension. Offerings include liberal arts lectures and seminars; professional, refresher, remedial and post-graduate courses; and problem-oriented educational programs designed for the analysis and study of major social and urban problems.

Formal education also may be continued through credit courses offered off the campus or by enrollment in correspondence courses for academic credit. Frequently, public forums concerned with vital issues of the day are organized and offered in order to increase both the number and effectiveness of people who work toward solutions of community problems. While responding to the broad and varied needs of the community and state, the university is at the same time placing increased emphasis on the development of specific program areas identified as important to large professional, economic and other special-interest audiences within the community.

Admission

The Office of Admissions serves as the initial contact between the student and UMKC. This office conducts the registration of students in cooperation with the various schools and colleges within UMKC and maintains student academic records.

Missouri University of Science and Technology

Telephone: (573) 341-4111
www.mst.edu
Email: admissions@mst.edu

Missouri University of Science and Technology (Missouri S&T) was founded in 1870 as the University of Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy (MSM). MSM was the first technological institution west of the Mississippi and one of the first in the nation. The campus was renamed the University of Missouri–Rolla (UMR) in 1964. On January 1, 2008, UMR became Missouri University of Science and Technology, or Missouri S&T.

The new name more accurately reflects the university's mission as one of the nation's leading technological research universities. A product of the land-grant movement of the late 19th century, the campus was Missouri's response to the acute need for scientific and practical education in the developing nation. The early academic programs focused on the mining and metallurgical industries, but the campus broadened its engineering mission over time as the need for engineering and scientific education grew.

Graduate education and research began to assume a greater emphasis on the campus in the 1950s, and the School of Mines and Metallurgy became a comprehensive technological university. In 1964, Missouri S&T became one of the four campuses of the reorganized University of Missouri. Today, Missouri S&T continues its focus on educating leaders in engineering and science and ranks among the top 25 in the nation in the number of bachelor's degrees awarded in engineering. The change from "school" to "university" involved three major shifts in emphasis:

- expanded curricula designed to encompass the full range of engineering and scientific subjects, including nuclear engineering, biological sciences and computer science;
- new degree programs in the liberal arts, humanities and social sciences, with an appropriate growth in the number and quality of faculty and courses;
- new graduate programs to strengthen the science and engineering disciplines and a strong commitment to research in all areas.

These changes better enabled the campus to respond to Missouri's needs. Originally a mining school and later an engineering school, Missouri University of Science and Technology has become a technological research university of national distinction.

Missouri University of Science and Technology offers Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees in 29 fields of engineering, science, humanities, business and social sciences. Master of Science degrees are offered in 27 disciplines, Doctor of Philosophy in 20 and Doctor of Engineering in eight.

DR. WARREN K. WRAY
Chancellor, Missouri University of Science and Technology

Academic Programs

Engineering programs comprise the largest enrollment on campus, with about 70 percent of the student body enrolled in one of Missouri S&T's eight engineering departments. These include chemical and biological engineering; civil, architectural and environmental engineering; electrical and computer engineering; engineering management and systems engineering; geological sciences and engineering; materials science and engineering; mechanical and aerospace engineering; and mining and nuclear engineering.

Areas covered by these departments are widely diversified and include the major branches of engineering vital to the industrial progress of the state and nation. An education in one of these fields of engineering prepares a student professionally for positions, both technical and managerial, in a variety of industries and governmental organizations.

Bachelor of Science (B.S.), Master of Science (M.S.) and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) programs are offered in all engineering disciplines. The Doctor of Engineering is offered in chemical, civil, electrical, geological, mechanical, mining, nuclear and petroleum engineering. In addition, Missouri S&T offers a statewide video-based M.S. degree in engineering management and manufacturing engineering, an online Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.) and online M.S. or Master of Engineering (M.E.) degrees in aerospace engineering, business administration, civil engineering, computer engineering, computer science, electrical engineering, engineering management, environmental engineering, geotechnics, information science and technology, manufacturing engineering, mechanical engineering, mining engineering and systems engineering.

The quality of Missouri S&T's graduates and the contributions made through its engineering research have made the university internationally known. Departments within the school are among the largest and most outstanding in the country. Missouri S&T offers undergraduate and graduate programs in seven disciplines related to energy, earth resources and materials fields: ceramic, geological, metallurgical, mining, nuclear and petroleum engineering, and geology and geophysics.

All offer bachelor's, master's and Ph.D. degree programs. A Doctor of Engineering is offered in ceramic, geological, mining, nuclear and petroleum engineering. The university is one of only two institutions of higher education in the country offering professional training in all of the energy and minerals engineering disciplines.

Missouri S&T has built an international reputation in recent years for its expertise in explosives engineering. The campus developed the first minor in explosives engineering in 2005 and that same year first offered a summer explosives camp for high school juniors and seniors that has become one of the university's most popular summer camp offerings. The university now offers a Master of Science degree in explosives engineering.

Missouri S&T has long enjoyed national and international recognition for the quality of its educational and research programs. Through these, it has made significant contributions to both the metallic and non-metallic mineral industries of the state and nation. Close liaison is maintained with state and federal agencies concerned with mineral resources technology and management, as well as with industry and professional organizations.

Arts and Sciences

Missouri S&T also has departments of biological sciences, chemistry, computer science, mathematics and statistics, physics, English and technical communication, history and political science, philosophy, liberal arts and psychology.

B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees are offered by all science departments except biological sciences, which offers the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.), B.S. and M.S. only. The B.A. degree, which has been granted on the Missouri S&T campus since 1967, may be earned in English, history, philosophy, psychology, biological sciences and chemistry. The B.S. may be earned in technical communication, psychology, biological sciences and physics.

These departments not only provide course work for students majoring in those fields (about 21 percent of the student body) but are also responsible for teaching science, mathematics and liberal arts courses to students majoring in engineering. The computer science department is the state's largest. In addition to educating its students, Missouri S&T serves the people and industries of the state through research and science activities.

Business and Information Systems

Missouri S&T also works to meet the growing demand in industry for people with training in both management and information technology. The university offers undergraduate and graduate programs in business administration, economics and finance, information science and technology and management information systems.

These departments offer B.S. degrees. A B.A. degree is also offered in economics and finance. The departments offer an M.B.A. as well as an M.S. degree in information science and technology. Students begin with a broad range of foundational courses in humanities, social sciences, science and mathematics. Interspersed with these general education requirements, they will take classes that reflect the theme of integration of business and technology and represent information technology, management and quantitative and communication skills. As students complete these foundational requirements, they begin to specialize in the differing degree programs.

Graduate Study

Graduate study has been offered at Missouri University of Science and Technology since about 1900, when the first Master of Science degree programs were established. The first Doctor of Philosophy degree for work done on the Rolla campus was granted in 1926. M.S. and Ph.D. degrees are now granted by all engineering and science departments except biological sciences, which offers an M.S. only. Eight departments offer the Doctor of Engineering degree.

Missouri S&T Engineering Education Center

The Missouri S&T Engineering Education Center on the University of Missouri–St. Louis campus was established in 1964 as part of the continuing education program of the Missouri S&T Extension Division. It offers evening courses leading to M.S. degrees in aerospace, chemical, civil, electrical, mechanical, metallurgical, environmental and planning engineering; engineering management; engineering mechanics; and computer science.

Course instruction is by Missouri S&T faculty and selected engineers and scientists from industry. More than 2,000 degrees have been granted for work completed at the center.

Missouri S&T Global Learning

In response to growing national trends, Missouri S&T's Global Learning has expanded its distance and continuing education course offerings to better meet the needs of many of today's students, as well as professionals who want to continue their education but are not able to attend on-campus classes.

Students enrolled in distance courses at Missouri S&T may attend class online from their office or home or while away on business. Courses are broadcast live on the Internet and archived for students unavailable at the scheduled class time. The distance courses are identical to their on-campus versions. In fact, most classes consist of both on- and off-campus students. Students can also learn through mailed CD-ROMs and DVDs and face-to-face communication.

Missouri S&T's distance education offerings have expanded from a few courses at Fort Leonard Wood and the Engineering Education Center in St. Louis to offering 14 online graduate degree programs. The department offers an online M.B.A. degree as well as M.S. degrees in aerospace engineering, civil engineering, computer engineering, computer science, electrical engineering, engineering management, environmental engineering, geotechnics, information science and technology, manufacturing engineering, mechanical engineering, mining engineering and systems engineering as well as 42 certificate programs.

In 2001, Missouri S&T partnered with Boeing to offer its employees a degree in systems engineering. The program began with 30 students in its first year and has grown to more than 260 students.

Research

As one of a select national group of technological research universities, Missouri S&T has directed its research chiefly toward supporting education and service in engineering and science. Research is important on the Rolla campus not only because of its results, but also as an educational tool for both faculty and students.

Research projects are conducted in every academic department in nearly every phase of engineering and science and in some areas of liberal arts. Much of it is directly related to the needs of the people and industries of Missouri and to national problems such as energy, mineral resources and the environment.

Missouri S&T's research is focused on four areas: energy, the environment, materials and infrastructure. Among the notable research occurring at Missouri S&T is a multidisciplinary effort to develop bioactive glasses for bone and tissue repair and regeneration; testing and development of new lightweight composite materials for use in bridges, buildings and other infrastructure; investigations into the effects of aircraft, space shuttle and rocket exhaust on the ozone layer; the development of more environmentally friendly methods for removing paint from aircraft; and the creation of oil from algae grown in underground mines.

Other projects are as diverse as basic investigations in cloud physics, the study of the gases in meteorites and moon rocks, research on lightweight structural steel and earthquake structures, plus robotics, flexible manufacturing, smart materials and glass beads used in the treatment of cancer and arthritis and preparing soldiers for the sounds of combat.

Missouri S&T's research centers carry out interdisciplinary investigations that involve different fields of engineering and science. Missouri S&T's research centers include the Biochemical Processing Institute, Center for Aerospace Manufacturing Technology, Center for Bone and Tissue Repair and Regeneration, Center for Cold-Formed Steel Structures, Center for Environmental Science and Technology, Center for Infrastructure Engineering Studies, Cloud and Aerosol Sciences Laboratory, Design Engineering Center, Electronics Materials Processing and Characterization Institute, Energy Research and Development Center, Environmental Research Center for Emerging Contaminants, Experimental Mine, Experimental Combustion Laboratory, Center for Pyrometallurgy, High Pressure Waterjet Laboratory, Institute for Applied Mathematics, Institute of Applied Chemistry, Institute for Artificial Intelligence, Institute for Chemical and Extractive Metallurgy, Institute of River Studies, Institute of Thin Film Processing, Intelligent Systems Center, International Institute of River and Lake Systems, Laboratory for Atomic and Molecular Research, Materials Research Center, Missouri Mining and Mineral Resources Research Institute, Missouri Transportation Institute, Electromagnetic Compatibility Laboratory, Applied Microwave Nondestructive Testing Laboratory, Nuclear Reactor and the Rock Mechanics and Explosives Research Center.

Admission

Interested students may obtain information on admission and enrollment upon request, in person, online or by mail, from the office of admissions at Missouri S&T. Prospective students and their parents are encouraged to visit the campus or call the toll-free number (800-522-0938) dedicated to inquiries about admissions, financial aid and enrollment procedures. Students also may contact the admissions office by email at admissions@mst.edu or visit the Missouri S&T web ite www.mst.edu.

University of Missouri–St. Louis

www.umsl.edu

The University of Missouri–St. Louis (UMSL) provides excellent learning experiences and leadership opportunities for a diverse student body through its outstanding faculty, ranked programs, innovative research and regional, national and international partnerships.

Founded in 1963 on the grounds of a former country club, UMSL today is spread across 350 acres of rolling hills in suburban St. Louis County adjacent to two Interstate highways and five minutes from Lambert–St. Louis International Airport. The campus has 70 academic and general-purpose buildings as well as a variety of student residence halls, condominiums and apartments. UMSL has developed a business park that houses the world headquarters of Express Scripts Inc. and operates two business incubators concentrating on life sciences and information technology.

UMSL employs more than 1,200 full-time and part-time teaching and research faculty members. More than 96 percent of tenure and tenure-track faculty hold doctoral or terminal degrees in their respective fields and edit or have articles routinely published in a variety of nationally renowned academic journals. Several of the university's 94 degrees and programs have attained national recognition for quality, including biology, criminology, education, information systems, international business, nursing, optometry, psychology, public policy and tropical ecology. The UMSL faculty as a whole was ranked 7th nationally among universities with fewer than 15 doctoral programs in the Academic Analytic's Faculty Scholarly Productivity Index—behind Boston College and Georgetown University.

The largest university in the region, UMSL enrolls nearly 17,000 students from 46 states and more than 100 countries, with 40,000 additional students participating in non-credit continuing education programs. Despite its international flavor, the UMSL student body comes primarily from, and reflects the diversity of, the region. More than 1,000 students live on campus and 175 students participate in one of 11 NCAA Division II sports programs.

While UMSL graduates have taken leadership roles nationally and internationally, their influence remains centered in the St. Louis region. No university has more alumni in the St. Louis region. More than 75 percent of UMSL's 80,000 graduates still live and work in the region, supporting the unofficial campus tagline "We Educate St. Louis."

College of Arts and Sciences

The largest of the colleges at UMSL, the College of Arts and Sciences, through its 14 departments and School of Social Work, offers a curriculum linking the liberal arts with the metropolitan area.

Students may pursue academic majors in anthropology, biology, biotechnology, chemistry and biochemistry, criminology and criminal justice, economics, English, foreign languages and literatures, history, mathematics and computer science, philosophy, physics and astronomy, political science, psychology, social work and sociology.

DR. THOMAS F. GEORGE
Chancellor, University of Missouri–St. Louis

The college offers master's degrees in biology, computer science, creative writing, criminology and criminal justice, chemistry, economics, English, gerontology, history, mathematics, physics, physiological optics, political science, psychology, public policy administration, social work and sociology. It also offers graduate certificates in biotechnology, forensic economics, international studies, museum studies, psychology clinical respecialization, trauma studies, tropical biology and conservation, women's and gender studies and writing.

It offers doctorates in applied mathematics, biology, chemistry, criminology and criminal justice, physics, physiological optics, political science and psychology.

College of Fine Arts and Communication

Founded in September 2001, the College of Fine Arts and Communication is the newest of the schools and colleges at UMSL. It includes the departments of art and art history, communication, music and theater, dance and media studies.

Undergraduates may pursue degrees in art history, communication, music and studio art. The college offers master's degree programs in communication and music.

The college is distinguished by its collaboration with the community. Four endowed professorships through the Des Lee Vision Collaborative link UMSL to the Saint Louis Symphony, St. Louis Art Museum, Opera Theatre of Saint Louis, Laumeier Sculpture Park and other cultural institutions.

University students and faculty, as well as visiting artists, have access to the new Blanche M. Touhill Performing Arts Center. Artwork exhibitions are housed in Gallery 210, Gallery FAB and Gallery Visio.

Pierre Laclede Honors College

The Pierre Laclede Honors College was established in 1989 and has grown to include its own campus, complete with instructional, residential and recreational facilities.

Students may pursue degrees in any undergraduate division of UMSL. In addition, students must undertake a personal writing program and pursue independent study through research, internships, public service projects and guided reading.

The college features a student-faculty ratio of 14:1, a scholar development program, a writing program and 11 honors classes. It offers academic excellence comparable to expensive private colleges, but at public institution rates.

The four-year program has a highly selective student body of about 450. The college's teachers are among the university's leading research and teaching faculty.

College of Business Administration

At the undergraduate level, the College of Business Administration offers the Bachelor of Science degree in business administration with emphases in finance, international business, logistics and operations management, management and organizational behavior and marketing.

Bachelor of Science degrees in accounting and management information systems also are offered to undergraduate students. These programs provide students with a high quality business education that prepares them to become productive contributors in both private and public sector organizations.

The college offers three master's degree programs. The Master of Business Administration program is designed to fully prepare students for administrative positions. The Master of Science in Management Information Systems program includes a specialized program in computer-based management information systems. The Master of Accounting program is intended for students preparing to enter the accounting profession or furthering existing accountant careers.

The college also offers a doctoral degree in business administration with a focus on information systems. All of the college's programs are accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), the authorized professional accrediting body in collegiate business education.

The Center for Transportation Studies (CTS), initiated in 2000, has been supported through endowments created by the St. Louis Mercantile Library and the John W. Barriger III Railroad Library. Research opportunities are offered through the center to qualified University of Missouri–St. Louis graduate students. Through the center and the logistics and supply chain certificate program, graduate students have performed several research and network analyses for companies throughout the United States.

College of Education

The College of Education provides undergraduate, graduate and doctoral degree programs to prepare and sustain educational leaders for a variety of school and non-school settings.

The college is consistently one of the top three institutions in the state in the production of educators. Consistent with the college's theme of "Creating the 21st Century School of Education," programs emphasize state-of-the-art technological applications to enhance teaching and learning as well as collaboration among university, school, agency and corporate partners to prepare and revitalize educators.

The faculty, including a number of nationally recognized endowed professors, are committed to a continuous exchange between research and practice that improves the learning environment of diverse learners.

The college is divided into five divisions: teaching and learning, educational psychology, research and evaluation, educational leadership and policy studies, and counseling and family therapy.

In addition to numerous undergraduate degree programs, the college offers master's degrees in counseling, educational administration, elementary education, secondary education and special education. Within these programs, a number of emphasis areas are available, including community education, elementary and secondary school administration, elementary and secondary reading, general and school counseling and secondary curriculum and instruction. The college also offers both Doctor of Education and Doctor of Philosophy in education degree programs.

College of Optometry

After more than ten years of study and planning, the College of Optometry came into existence on June 1, 1980. The first class of 36 students graduated in May 1984. This college offers the only opportunity to study optometry in Missouri.

Doctors of optometry are primary health care professionals who examine, diagnose, treat and manage diseases and disorders of the visual system, the eye and associated structures, as well as diagnose related systemic conditions. They prescribe glasses, contact lenses, low vision rehabilitation and medications as well as perform certain surgical procedures as regulated by state law.

Optometric education is a four-year professional degree program accredited by the Accreditation Council on Optometric Education through the authority granted by the U.S. Department of Education. Upon graduation and following successful completion of the three-part examination given by the National Board of Examiners in Optometry, graduates are eligible for licensure in all 50 states plus the District of Columbia.

Entering students must have completed at least 90 credit hours of undergraduate work including core courses in the sciences (biology, chemistry and physics), mathematics (including calculus), English and the liberal arts. Applicants also must complete the Optometry Admission Test, which is designed to measure general academic ability and comprehension of scientific information. Ninety-eight percent of those admitted hold a bachelor's degree, most from a scientific discipline.

The curriculum leading to the doctor of optometry degree is a four-year, year-round program. The program prepares graduates to deliver compassionate patient care while instilling a sound background in the biomedical, optical, behavioral and clinical sciences including an understanding of the health care delivery system.

College of Nursing

The College of Nursing offers nursing studies at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Knowledge and skills needed to complete the professional licensure examination to become a professional registered nurse are available through a baccalaureate option. Nurses who have obtained their basic nursing education through associate degree or diploma nursing programs may complete their bachelor's degree at UMSL.

The college also offers a master's degree in nursing in cooperation with the School of Nursing at UMKC and the doctoral degree in nursing in cooperation with the MU and UMKC nursing schools.

The college was established as a School of Nursing in 1980 and graduated its first class in May 1983. College status was achieved in 1994.

Graduate School

The graduate school has responsibility for all graduate degree programs in the various schools and colleges of the university.

Graduate programs have been designed to serve students with either of two career goals—to obtain an advanced degree or to obtain advanced training for personal or professional growth.

Academic programs include 27 offering master's degrees and 11 offering doctoral degrees. Two interdisciplinary graduate programs, in gerontology and public policy administration, report directly to the graduate school.

UMSL/Washington University Joint Undergraduate Engineering Program

The UMSL/Washington University Joint Undergraduate Engineering Program was established in 1992 and offers bachelor's degrees in civil, mechanical and electrical engineering as well as a minor in environmental engineering science. The three bachelor's degrees are accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology.

Students who enter the program take half of their course work on the UMSL campus. The remaining half of the program, consisting of upper-level engineering courses and laboratories, is completed on the campus of Washington University in St. Louis.

Students register for all their courses at UMSL, pay UMSL tuition rates and receive their degrees from UMSL. The joint program allows Missouri to make the most efficient use of public funds while meeting the needs of both traditional and non-traditional students.

Continuing Education and Outreach

Continuing Education and Outreach, charged with extending the resources of UMSL to the public, uses the facilities of government agencies, hospitals, schools and businesses to make college credit and non-credit courses conveniently available to the public. The J.C. Penney Conference Center provides a modern adult education setting on campus for short courses, conferences, institutes, workshops and seminars.

Continuing Education and Outreach also provides credit and non-credit courses at sites throughout the region and state, as well as through the Internet and an elaborate interactive video system.

Libraries

UMSL libraries support the educational objectives of the university and meet the informational needs of the campus community. The UMSL library system includes the St. Louis Mercantile Library, Thomas Jefferson Library and Ward E. Barnes Library.

Founded in 1846, the St. Louis Mercantile Library is the oldest cultural institution west of the Mississippi River. The library moved to the UMSL campus in 1998. It includes two widely renowned specialized transportation collections: the John W. Barriger III National Railroad Library and Herman T. Pott National Inland Waterways Library. The Barriger library focuses on American railroad history and is one of the largest of its kind in the United States. Its holdings include 40,000 books plus primary manuscript documents and photographs. The Pott library focuses on U.S. river and inland waterways history and contains 2,500 books and a large pictorial/photographic collection.

The UMSL libraries house 1 million volumes, 300,000 photographs, 1 million government documents and more than 1 million microforms. They provide access to more than 15,000 full-text online periodicals. The libraries are open more than 80 hours per week during regular academic sessions.

Admissions

Interested students may obtain information on admission and enrollment in person, by mail or online. Prospective students and their parents are encouraged to visit the campus. The website is www.umsl.edu. Admissions personnel may be emailed at admissionsu@umsl.edu.

State Historical Society of Missouri

Organized in 1898 by the Missouri Press Association and a trustee of the state since 1899, the State Historical Society is directed by statute to collect, preserve, make available and publish the history of Missouri and the Middle West. For over 100 years, the State Historical Society has been the center for research into every aspect of the society and government of Missouri and the lives of its residents.

Society Research Centers

The society comprises four research centers, with the administrative offices, art galleries, and one center located on the ground floor of the University of Missouri–Columbia Ellis Library. The other research centers are located in Newcomb Hall, University of Missouri–Kansas City; Curtis Laws Wilson Library, Missouri University of Science and Technology; and Thomas Jefferson Library, University of Missouri–St. Louis.

Residents, officials, scholars and students interested in Missouri history, biography and genealogy find in the society's research centers unsurpassed collections of books and pamphlets, official state records, newspapers, maps, photographs and manuscripts. Over the years, the society has acquired a number of rare or specialized book collections that have given it added recognition as a research center. These collections include the Mahan Memorial Mark Twain Collection, the Eugene Field Collection, the J. Christian Bay Collection of Middle Western Americana, the Francis A. Sampson Collection and the Paul D. Higday Civil War Collection.

DR. GARY R. KREMER
Executive Director
State Historical Soceity of Missouri

STEPHEN N. LIMBAUGH JR.
President, State Historical Society of Missouri

The society's Missouri newspaper collection, which includes over 3,500 titles and extends from 1808 to the present, is one of the largest state newspaper collections in the nation. Two hundred fifty-seven current newspapers from every Missouri county arrive weekly and are microfilmed to ensure their preservation. The history of any famous Missourian, Missouri community, or noted Missouri event can be traced and documented in the collection.

The map collection consists of over 4,400 rare and old maps of the state as well as modern ones. In addition, the collection contains county atlases, gazetteers, statistical maps, official topographical maps and early state guidebooks. For genealogical research, the society's microfilm file of United States census reports is one of the largest in the Midwest. A pictorial collection contains thousands of photographs and images of individuals and subjects dating from the 19th century to the present. Views of buildings, cityscapes and rural areas throughout the state are also found in the collection.

The society's manuscript collection contains letters, diaries, journals, business and organizational records, architectural drawings and official state papers. Research materials of this type furnish most of the intimate day-to-day accounts of Missouri history and lend vitality to historical writing.

Art Collection

The society's art collection features major works by George Caleb Bingham and Thomas Hart Benton as well as paintings, drawings and prints by other Missouri and Missouri-related artists. An extensive editorial cartoon collection is national in scope. Exhibitions in the art galleries showcase the society's diverse holdings.

Missouri History Online

The society's website reflects a commitment to making research sources and the history of Missouri and its residents widely available to learners of all ages. The Famous Missourians pages feature biographies and images of numerous men and women who have become well known for their contributions in such fields as literature, politics, sports, education and journalism. Historical resources on the website include 19th- and 20th-century newspapers, photographs, Civil War documents, editorial cartoons and artworks, as well as the Missouri Historical Review, catalogs and finding aids to society collections and other materials.

Publications

The Missouri Historical Review has served as the cornerstone of the society's publication program since 1906. A benefit of membership, the journal features scholarly articles on diverse topics in Missouri history, book reviews and notes. In addition to the journal, the society has published over 50 volumes of edited documents, narrative and pictorial history, catalogs, directories and indexes. Missouri Times, a quarterly newsletter, informs members about society activities.

Public Programming and Richard S. Brownlee Fund Grants

To bring the state's history to its residents, the society sponsors educational outreach programs, including genealogy workshops, tours for elementary and secondary school students and adults and presentations on Missouri history and art.

The society sponsors History Day in Missouri, the statewide component of National History Day, a competition for middle school and junior and senior high school students. More than 2,200 students participate annually in regional contests held throughout the state.

Through its annual Richard S. Brownlee Fund grants, the society provides individuals and organizations with monies to assist with publications or other projects furthering knowledge of Missouri history and its citizens.

Officers of the Society

Officers of the State Historical Society, 2010–2013: Stephen N. Limbaugh Jr., Cape Girardeau, president; Virginia J. Laas, Joplin, first vice president; James R. Reinhard, Hannibal, second vice president; Roy Blunt, Springfield, third vice president; Brent Schondelmeyer, Independence, fourth vice president; Henry J. Waters III, Columbia, fifth vice president; Albert M. Price, Columbia, sixth vice president; Sabrina McDonnell, Columbia, treasurer; Gary R. Kremer, Jefferson City, executive director, secretary and librarian.

Trustees of the Society

Permanent trustees, former presidents of the society, are: Bruce H. Beckett, Columbia; H. Riley Bock, New Madrid; Lawrence O. Christensen, Rolla; Doug Crews, Columbia; Richard Franklin, Independence; Robert C. Smith, Columbia. Trustees elected for three-year terms: Bryan Cook, Clayton; Steve Ehlmann, St. Charles; Laura White Erdel, Columbia; Michael R. Gibbons, Kirkwood; Edward C. Matthews III, Sikeston; W. Grant McMurray, Independence; Larry L. McMullen, Kansas City; Thomas L. Miller Sr., Washington; Robert J. Mueller, Ste. Genevieve; Todd Parnell, Springfield; Bob Priddy, Jefferson City; William W. Sellers, Lexington; Jeffrey E. Smith, Columbia; Brian K. Snyder, Independence; Arvarh E. Strickland, Columbia; Blanche M. Touhill, St. Louis; Robert W. Wilson, Milan; Roger Wilson, Columbia.

In addition to the elected trustees and officers of the society, the governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, president of the University of Missouri, and chancellor of the University of Missouri–Columbia serve as ex officio members of the board of trustees.

Executive committee (composed of the president, the treasurer and eight members of the board of trustees): Stephen N. Limbaugh Jr., Cape Girardeau; H. Riley Bock, New Madrid; Lawrence O. Christensen, Rolla; Doug Crews, Columbia; Steve Ehlmann, St. Charles; Richard Franklin, Independence; Virginia J. Laas, Joplin; Sabrina McDonnell, Columbia; Robert J. Mueller, Ste. Genevieve; Bob Priddy, Jefferson City.

Lincoln Institute was founded in 1866 by the enlisted men of the 62nd and 65th U.S. Colored Infantry Regiments. The men, who learned to read and write on the battlefields of the Civil War in Texas, dreamed of a school to educate African Americans in their home state of Missouri. In 1890, Lincoln Institute became a land-grant institution. The school was renamed Lincoln University in 1921. In the fall of 1954, Lincoln University expanded its historical mission to serve a broader population from varied social, economic, educational and cultural backgrounds.

Today, Lincoln University is a public, comprehensive institution that provides excellent educational opportunities including theoretical and applied learning experiences to a diverse population within a nurturing, student-centered environment. The majority of the university's 3,000-plus students are residents of Missouri or one of nine nearby states. The international student population comes from 35 countries.

Lincoln University offers six undergraduate degrees in more than 50 programs of study. Lincoln University also offers non-credit and continuing education courses for those seeking professional or personal development.

The main Lincoln University campus is comprised of nearly 158 acres, centrally located in Jefferson City. In addition, the university properties include two agricultural research facilities and extension offices in St. Louis, Kansas City and southeast Missouri. In addition, a satellite nursing program is housed at Fort Leonard Wood.

Harris–Stowe State University, (HSSU) traces its origin back to 1857 when its first predecessor institution was founded by the St. Louis Board of Education as a normal school for the preparation of white elementary school teachers. It thus became the first public teacher education institution west of the Mississippi River and the 12th such institution in the United States. Its second predecessor institution—Stowe Teachers College—was also a normal school founded by the same public schools in 1890 to prepare African-American elementary school teachers. Both normal schools later became four-year teachers colleges—Harris Teachers College and Stowe Teachers College. The former was named after William Torrey Harris, U.S. Commissioner of Education and former Superintendent of the St. Louis Public Schools. The latter was named after Harriet Beecher Stowe, the famed slavery abolitionist and author of Uncle Tom's Cabin. These two colleges merged in 1954, forming Harris–Stowe College. Later, in 1979, the college became a Missouri public college, with the name Harris–Stowe State College.

In the early 1990s, the university elected to become a "moderately selective" institution in its admission requirements and soon afterward won state approval to expand its institutional mission. Later, in 2004, the college returned to its earlier open-enrollment admissions. Currently, the university offers baccalaureate degree programs in 12 applied professional disciplines in the fields of accounting, business administration, criminal justice, early childhood education, elementary education, health care management, hospitality/tourism management, information sciences and computer technology, middle school education, professional interdisciplinary studies, secondary education and urban specializations at all pre-higher education levels.

In 2005, the state of Missouri granted the institution university status. Over the past decade, the university has greatly expanded its degree programs, tripled its enrollment and increased its facilities from one building to eight. These changes include the new state-of-the-art William L. Clay Sr. Early Childhood Development/Parenting Education Center and the Rev. Dr. William G. Gillespie Residence Hall and Student Center, the institution's first on-campus housing in its long history of more than 150 years. An eighth building, a second residence hall, is currently under construction and is scheduled to open in 2011. In addition, the Anheuser-Busch School of Business, one of HSSU's fastest-growing divisions, resides on a satellite campus in South St. Louis.

Linn State Technical College (LSTC), founded in 1961, is Missouri's only two-year public technical college with a statewide mission. Originating as Linn Technical Junior College, the college became a part of the public higher education system in Missouri in 1996 as a result of legislation by the 88th General Assembly.

The original educational institution was established with funding from the National Defense Education Act as a public postsecondary residential technical institution. The philosophy of the original institution was "to provide two-year vocational/technical programs to all students who wish to prepare themselves for employment."

The college has a longstanding reputation for producing graduates with the valued technical and interpersonal skills needed for advancement in the workplace. With a state mandate and college mission to "prepare students for profitable employment and a life of learning," the college has been responsive to workplace needs.

Linn State Technical College offers more than 35 technical programs at the Associate of Applied Science degree and certificate level. In addition, customized and contract training is offered to Missouri business and industry. In each program, the curriculum includes an integration of theory with hands-on application and experience. Such integration ensures the development of functional troubleshooting skills with traditional and innovative techniques, approaches and equipment. Also emphasized are teamwork, interpersonal skills and work ethic. The general education core contributes to the high level of critical thinking and problem solving ability of graduates. As part of their education, many students participate in on-the-job experience through internships.

Linn State Technical College monitors the economic, industrial and technological needs of the state as new programs are proposed for development. In response to industry demand, over the last decade Linn State Technical College has started 19 degree and certificate programs. Programs recently developed include the welding technology program; high performance and electric/hybrid vehicle options in the automotive technology program; and expansion of the Physical Therapy Assistant program through the Missouri Health Professions Consortium, which includes five Missouri community colleges and the School of Health Professions at the University of Missouri–Columbia.

The faculty has a combination of higher education credentials and real-world experiences in their professional areas of expertise. In addition, they are continually updating their skills through college coursework, industrial training and workshops.

In keeping with real-world experience, students are evaluated through a one-of-a-kind system that provides potential employers with a student's track record of success in academic achievement, job readiness and attendance (AJA@™LSTC).

Linn State Technical College is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and is a member of the North Central Association. Thirteen programs are accredited by the Association of Technology, Management and Applied Engineering (ATMAE). In addition, 15 other program-level professional accreditations and certifications have been obtained by programs at the college. Many instructors hold individual certifications related to their respective teaching fields.

The primary campus is located along Highway 50 on 250 acres one mile east of Linn and includes a public airport. The Physical Therapist Assistant program is offered from a satellite facility in Jefferson City. The Nuclear Technology program and Automation and Robotics Technology program are offered in Mexico, Missouri, at the Advanced Technology Center, a cooperative higher education technology center.

Truman State University, founded in 1867, is a vibrant community of teacher and student scholars with the distinction of being Missouri's only statewide public liberal arts and sciences university and the only public university in the state with highly selective admission standards as defined by the Coordinating Board for Higher Education (CBHE). Truman is a residential university focused on providing its 6,000 students with broad liberal arts experiences and depth of study in 48 undergraduate majors and nine graduate programs.

For the 14th consecutive year, U.S. News and World Report has recognized Truman as the No. 1 public university in the Midwest Region Master's Category and 8th overall in the Midwest region among both private and public institutions. Truman was ranked No. 1 by Consumers Digest on its list of "Top 50 Values for Public Colleges and Universities" in the magazine's June 2011 edition. Other accolades include Washington Monthly, which listed the University in the top 10 for its "2010 College Rankings," rating Truman as the No. 6 master's university nationwide. Truman was the only Missouri school ranked in the top 50 and was the No. 1 public school on the list. The Princeton Review has named Truman one of the nation's 50 "Best Values" in public education and Kiplinger's Personal Finance magazine listed Truman among its 100 Best Values in Public Colleges.

Truman has a long history of being recognized nationally by higher education experts for its assessment program and its commitment to providing a high-quality liberal arts and sciences education at an affordable price. Truman's program of assessment allows the University to measure the results of the teaching-learning process and to gather critical information on student growth and development to ensure that graduates are prepared for future success. Truman's curriculum provides each student with a foundation of knowledge appropriate to a traditional liberal arts and sciences education. It also requires specialization in a major, providing each student with in-depth knowledge and mastery of a discipline. This exemplary undergraduate education provides graduates with the knowledge and skills necessary to be successful upon graduation. Truman has the highest public college graduation rate in Missouri as calculated by the CBHE. More than 50 percent of Truman's graduates enter graduate and professional schools within six months of their graduation while the remainder directly enter the workforce or engage in full-time service, such as the Peace Corps.

Truman's students are among the brightest and the best in their high school graduating classes. Seventy-six percent of Truman's 2010 entering freshman class scored 25 or higher on the ACT examination with 35 percent scoring above the 95th percentile. In addition, 70 percent ranked in the top 20 percent of their high school graduating class, while more than 98 percent of the class demonstrated leadership through high school and community activities.

Truman emphasizes high-quality teaching as its top priority. Truman students benefit from a low student/faculty ratio, which allows for greater student-teacher interaction. Truman strongly supports undergraduate research with approximately 1,200 students annually doing structured research with faculty both in and outside the classroom.

The Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association has accredited Truman since 1914. Truman is also accredited the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB International), American Chemical Society, American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, Commission on Accreditation of Athletic Training, National Association of Schools of Music, National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education and the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

Truman also has one of the top National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division II athletic programs in the country. Truman fields 20 varsity sports, which is the largest number in the state. Information on all of Truman's intercollegiate athletics programs may be found online at http://gobulldogs.truman.edu.

Truman is committed to the advancement of knowledge; freedom of thought and inquiry; and the personal, social and intellectual growth of each of its students. Truman strives to maintain a recognized standard of excellence in all of its educational endeavors and to be a responsible steward of the resources provided by the people of Missouri. All decision-

Northwest Missouri State University is a coeducational, primarily residential four-year university offering a broad range of undergraduate and selected graduate programs. Founded as a state normal school in 1905, the university has evolved into a vibrant and diverse learning community with an enrollment of more than 7,100 students hailing from more than 25 states and 45 countries. About 750 faculty and staff are employed by the university, which offers classes on its Maryville campus, at centers in Liberty and St. Joseph, online and through instructional television.

Northwest offers 140 majors retaining leadership offerings in education, business, science, computer science and pre-professional undergraduate degrees for entry into medical sciences, engineering and law, in addition to 40 master's programs, certificate programs and a cooperative doctorate in educational leadership.

With its emphasis on student success—every student, every day—the university is focused on providing an exceptional student experience that places high value on scholarship and lifelong learning, intercultural competence, collaboration, respect and integrity, strategic thinking and excellence.

Hands-on learning experiences are widely available to Northwest students in a variety of fields. The 500-plus acre University Farm is a living, hands-on laboratory for agriculture students, while the Horace Mann Laboratory School, an elementary school located in the center of the campus, provides hands-on practical classroom experience for education students. Northwest's internationally benchmarked student employment program also allows some 900 students to gain professional development and specialized training in administrative, communications, environmental and other areas throughout the university.

The emphasis on Northwest's values and hands-on experiences is reflected in the university's high success and graduation rates. Northwest boasts a freshman success rate of 74 percent and a graduation rate of 58 percent, which is 13 percent higher than the national average. Additionally, 95 percent of Northwest graduates report finding employment or continuing their education within six months of graduation. Furthermore, Northwest student-athletes have a success rate of 83 percent, compared to a rate of 70 percent nationally.

Northwest has earned a reputation as a university of champions both on and off the field. In addition to boasting competitive athletics teams, including its three-time NCAA Division II national championship football team, Northwest students compete nationally and excel in areas such as soils judging, forensics and debate, students publications and in Students In Free Enterprise.

The first public university in the nation to implement an electronic campus, in 1987, Northwest provides fully loaded notebook computers for all full-time students. The university also offers an innovative textbook rental program that dates back to the early days of the institution and saves students hundreds of dollars each year.

Recognizing the importance of needs-based financial support for students, Northwest created the American Dream Grant, the first program of its kind at a public university in the United States. Renewable for one year, the program provides not only tuition, but room and board for qualifying freshmen. Students accepted in the grant program must meet the university's entrance requirements.

The Missouri Academy of Science, Mathematics and Computing was founded at Northwest in 2000. The rigorous program is an accelerated, two-year residential program for high school juniors and seniors academically talented in science, mathematics or technology. Students are challenged by college coursework tailored to individual abilities and taught by Northwest faculty. Students who complete the program earn both a high school diploma and associate of science degree.

Northwest serves with its community and region in economic development. The state-of-the-art 46,679-square-foot Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship (CIE), which opened on the campus in 2009, is a mixed-use business incubator and an academic facility that fuels high-tech enterprise and creates jobs while providing academic opportunities and career paths for students. Additionally, the facility houses the university's new undergraduate program in nanotechnology.

In addition to being a four-time winner of the Missouri Quality Award, Northwest is the only university in Missouri to receive the prestigious Christa McAuliffe Award for Excellence in Teacher Education from the American Association of State Colleges and Universities. Northwest also was honored with the Southern Growth Policies Board Innovator Award in 2010 for the CIE and in 2009 for its innovative Alternative Energy program, which burns wood chips, pelletized paper and pelletized livestock waste to produce most of the thermal energy needed to heat and cool campus buildings.

Southeast Missouri State University provides professional education grounded in the liberal arts and sciences and in practical experience. The university, through teaching and scholarship, challenges students to extend their intellectual capacities, interests, and creative abilities; develop their talents; and acquire a lifelong enthusiasm for learning. Students benefit from a relevant, extensive, and thorough general education with a global perspective; professional and liberal arts and sciences curricula; co-curricular opportunities; and real-world experiences. By emphasizing student-centered and experiential learning, the university, in collaboration with other entities as appropriate, prepares individuals to participate responsibly in a diverse and technologically advanced world. This contributes to the development of the social, cultural, and economic life of the region, state and nation.

With an enrollment of more than 11,000 students, Southeast is an ideal size to take advantage of critical learning and extracurricular opportunities. Average freshman class size is 30-35 with a student/faculty ratio of 20:1. More than 40 percent of the freshman enrollment of 1,800 students ranked in the upper 20 percent of their high school class, making Southeast the most academically competitive public regional university in Missouri. More than 82 percent of the students are from Missouri. Out-of-state students represent more than 40 states, with the largest out-of-state representation from Illinois.

Southeast offers 200 areas of study and more than 1,600 courses in business, education, the health professions, liberal arts, science, technology, and the visual and performing arts. A variety of affordable short-term, spring break and full-semester study-abroad programs enhance the academic experience.

Southeast is a leader when it comes to preparing students for careers. At Southeast, all students have two advisors, academic and career. Internships and experiential learning are strongly emphasized with all majors having an internship or clinical experience built into the curriculum.

Southeast offers academic programs on six campuses, as well as at other locations and online. Two of the campuses are in Cape Girardeau—the original site founded in 1873 and the new River Campus, which opened in 2007. Regional campuses are located in Malden, Sikeston and Kennett, and a higher education center in cooperation with Mineral Area College is located in Perryville. In addition, bachelor's degree completion opportunities in selected fields are available in Poplar Bluff, St. Louis and other locations throughout the region in cooperation with community colleges and the University of Missouri.

Southeast also offers graduate programs leading to degrees at three levels: master's, specialist in education, and doctor of education.

Donald L. Harrison College of Business

The Donald L. Harrison College of Business is accredited by AACSB International—the gold standard of business school accreditation—an honor held by only five percent of institutions offering business degrees worldwide. Graduates of the college enjoy a job placement rate of nearly 100 percent within the first year after graduation. The Princeton Review has included Southeast's Harrison College of Business on its list of "Best Business Schools" for the paste six years.

The Harrison College of Business entrepreneurial studies program is Missouri's most comprehensive, offering options for both Bachelor of Science (B.S.) and Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.) degrees. Combined with a series of annual co-curricular events and the Southeast Innovation Center Business Incubator, students have the tools to become successful entrepreneurs.

St. Louis employers rate the Harrison College of Business' "St. Louis Interview Days" as the best recruiting event in which they participate in the Midwest. Approximately 100 Southeast senior business students are involved each year.

College of Education

Southeast's education program is accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) in addition to state of Missouri accreditation. Southeast teacher education students get first-hand experience in the classroom beginning in the freshman year and concluding with a semester-long student teaching experience.

Pre-service teachers at Southeast can earn the eLearning certificate that documents their effective use of technology. Those who earn the certificate receive training to help them become competent in Missouri's eMINTS (enhancing Missouri's Instructional Networked Teaching Strategies) classrooms.

College of Health and Human Services

Academic programs in the College of Health and Human Services include aerospace studies; communications disorders; criminal justice and sociology; health, human performance, and recreation; human environmental studies; nursing; and social work.

Accreditations of academic programs within the college include the following: The American Dietetic Association, the American Speech-Language Hearing Association, the Commission on Accreditation of Athletic Training Education, the Commission on Accreditation for Dietetics Education, Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education; the Council on Social Work Education, the National Association for the Education of the Young Child, the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education and the National Recreation Association.

College of Liberal Arts

Academic programs in the College of Liberal Arts include English; global cultures and languages; history; mass media; political science, philosophy and religion; psychology; and art, music, theater and dance.

The College of Liberal Arts public relations program is one of only 20 institutions that hold certification by the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA). The Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications (ACEJMC) accredits the mass communication program. Only one other institution in Missouri has this elite accreditation. Only nine other institutions in the world have recognition from both ACEJMC and PRSA for this mass communication program.

The college's historic preservation program is one of a few such programs offering a four-year degree.

College of Science and Mathematics

The College of Science and Mathematics' computer science program is newly accredited by the Accrediting Board of Engineering and Technology (ABET). ABET is the sole accrediting body of engineering and computer science programs, and Southeast is one of only three accredited computer science programs in the state. Additionally, the engineering physics program also is ABET-accredited.

Southeast's biomedical scholars program assists student seeking careers in the medical profession. Qualifying students interested in medicine, dentistry, optometry or chiropractic medicine receive not only the rigorous academic regiment necessary for medical school, but also advising and resources to improve their chances for admittance. Every biomedical student has a pre-professional advisor, as well as an academic advisor in their major. A key element of the program is the Biomedical Advisors Committee, which includes, among others, members of the biology and chemistry faculty and representatives from local hospitals.

School of Polytechnic Studie

The School of Polytechnic Studies is comprised of the Department of Industrial and Engineering Studies and the Department of Agriculture.

Southeast is a designated Center of Excellence in Advanced Manufacturing Technology and is one of fewer than 50 universities in the country to offer a degree program in cybersecurity. Students utilize the latest in beef production technology and row crop research at the 252-acre David M. Barton Agriculture Research Center. In addition, Southeast has a 110-acre rice research station, an irrigated turf plot facility, a modern soil fertility laboratory, and the 11,000-square-foot climate-controlled Charles L. Hutson Horticulture Greenhouse.

River Campus

Southeast Missouri State University's River Campus is home of the Earl and Margie Holland School of Visual and Performing Arts, which is composed of the departments of art, music, theater and dance. A blend of classic beauty and modern technology, the campus is comprised of the beautifully restored 19th century St. Vincent's Seminary building and the newly constructed facilities including a 950-seat performance hall, black box theatre, dance studio, regional museum and convocation center. The restored seminary buildings are on the National Register of Historic Places. An intimate recital hall seating 200 has been created in the seminary chapel, and the historic buildings also house classrooms, faculty offices, rehearsal rooms, art studios, computer laboratories and other academic and student service rooms. Southeast is the only university in Missouri to have a separate campus dedicated to art, dance, music and theater.

Kent Library

Kent Library is designated as an official government document depository and is home to the William Faulkner Collection of Louis Daniel Brodsky. Recently renovated, Kent Library includes a modern information commons and multimedia rooms for small group presentation preparation.

Athletics

Southeast participates in the NCAA Division I athletics as a member of the Ohio Valley Conference. Men's sports include baseball, basketball, cross country, football and indoor and outdoor track. Women's sports include basketball, cross country, gymnastics, soccer, softball, tennis, indoor and outdoor track and volleyball.

Missouri State University is a public, comprehensive university system with a mission in public affairs, whose purpose is to develop educated persons while guided by three overarching and enduring commitments to student learning, inclusive excellence and institutional impact. The university's identity is distinguished by its statewide mission in public affairs, requiring a campus-wide commitment to foster competence and responsibility in the common vocation of citizenship. The academic experience is grounded in a general education curriculum that draws heavily from the liberal arts and sciences. This foundation provides the basis for mastery of disciplinary and professional studies. It also provides essential forums in which students develop the capacity to make well-informed, independent critical judgments about the cultures, values and institutions in society.

The task of developing educated persons obligates the university to expand the store of human understanding through research, scholarship and creative endeavor, and, drawing from that store of understanding, to provide service to the communities that support it. In all of its programs, the niversity uses the most effective methods of discovering and imparting knowledge and the appropriate use of technology in support of these activities.

The Missouri State University campuses are structured to address the special needs of the urban and rural populations they serve. Missouri State University–Springfield is a selective admissions, graduate-level teaching and research institution. Missouri State University–West Plains is an open admissions campus serving seven counties in south central Missouri. Missouri State University–Mountain Grove serves Missouri's fruit industry through operation of the State Fruit Experiment Station. The Extended Campus provides anytime, anyplace learning opportunities through telecourses, Internet-based instruction and its interactive video network (BearNet). The university also operates various other special facilities, such as the Darr Agricultural Center in southwest Springfield, the Jordan Valley Innovation Center in downtown Springfield, the Bull Shoals Field Station near Forsyth, Baker's Acres and Observatory near Marshfield, the Missouri State University Graduate Center in Joplin and a branch campus at Liaoning Normal University in Dalian, China. In addition, Missouri State has the operations and program offerings of one entire academic department, its Department of Defense and Strategic Studies, located near Washington, D.C., in Fairfax, Virginia.

Public Affairs: Approved in 1995, Missouri State University's statewide mission in public affairs is maturing. With an emphasis on three specific components in the undergraduate curriculum that reflects the public affairs mission—ethical leadership, cultural competence, and community engagement—the university will provide enhanced educational experiences to 21st century students.

Missouri State is the host campus for the Missouri Campus Compact, a statewide coalition of university and college presidents dedicated "to helping students develop the values and skills of civic participation through involvement in public service." Missouri State also hosts a Public Affairs Conference, which brings a variety of noteworthy speakers from around the country to the Springfield campus. During the conference, panels and keynote speakers present discussions that offer perspectives from business, entertainment, education, politics, religion, health and other subject areas.

History: Missouri State University was founded as the Missouri State Normal School, Fourth District, by legislative action on March 17, 1905. Missouri State first opened its doors in June 1906. After 106 years and four name changes, Missouri State is a comprehensive state university system offering a wide variety of programs and services to its students and the citizens of the state.

During the 1995 session of the Missouri General Assembly, Missouri State received a statewide mission in public affairs, making it the only Missouri university emphasizing the development of aware, committed, and active participants in tomorrow's society.

In a campus ceremony on March 17, 2005, the 100th anniversary of Founders' Day, Governor Matt Blunt signed Senate Bill 98, which included changing Southwest Missouri State University's name to Missouri State University. This is the fifth and final name for the university. The institution was founded as the Normal School in 1905, then changed to Southwest Missouri State Teachers College in 1919, Southwest Missouri State College in 1946, and Southwest Missouri State University in 1972. Each new name has reflected the changed nature of the institution.

Facilities: Missouri State University's main campus is located on 225 acres in the heart of Springfield. The 90-acre William H. Darr Agricultural Center exists in the southwest area of the city. Missouri State's main campus has 18 classroom buildings, an administrative building, a library, 11 residence halls, a multipurpose recreational facility, a sports complex, a health center and a campus-wide transit facility. The Juanita K. Hammons Hall for the Performing Arts hosts a variety of musical, dance and theatrical presentations.

Springfield-based hotelier and philanthropist John Q. Hammons gifted $30 million to Missouri State toward the construction of the JQH Arena—a world-class sports facility that features more than 11,000 seats, a grand entrance, 24 private suites, more than 100 loge seats, 55 "Jack Nicholson courtside seats," a Hall of Fame, team souvenir store, ticket office and a 4,500-square-foot club. The new arena is home to the Bears and Lady Bears basketball teams.

Enrollment: In the fall of 2010, Missouri State University's official head count enrollment total was 23,082, with 20,949 students on the Springfield campus and 2,229 on the West Plains campus. Some 86 students are enrolled on both campuses; these students were only counted once in the system total.

Academic programs: Missouri State offers more than 150 undergraduate majors and 48 graduate degree programs, including a Doctorate in Audiology and a cooperative doctorate (Ed.D.) through the University of Missouri–Columbia, as well as a cooperative Doctor of Pharmacy program with the University of Missouri–Kansas City, with the professional portion of program expected to begin in the fall of 2014. Many of these programs are the state's strongest and largest of their kind. The university is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as well as by 23 professional associations, including the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE), National Association of Schools of Music, National Association of Schools for Public Affairs and Administration, the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the American Chemical Society, the Council on Social Work Education and the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. The university's academic programs are organized within seven colleges: Arts and Letters, Business Administration, Education, Health and Human Services, Humanities and Public Affairs, Natural and Applied Sciences and the Graduate College.

International programs: Missouri State has established a branch campus at Liaoning Normal University (LNU) in Dalian, China. The LNU-MSU College of International Business has over 775 students, including over 100 international students from numerous countries including Africa, Korea, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Mongolia, U.S. and more. LNU and Missouri State University also have agreed to collaborate on the basis of their plant science programs and establish an Articulation Agreement for Dual Master's Degrees in Plant Science. The articulation terms will accommodate LNU students in obtaining Master's Degrees in Plant Science from both Missouri State University and LNU.

The university has a wide variety of international education programs available to students including programs in London, Costa Rica, Chile, Brazil, India and China. Missouri State also is a member of the International Student Exchange Consortium, which provides for reciprocal exchanges to programs in more than 30 countries. In addition, Missouri State's Continuing Education and the Extended Campus offers a wide variety of programs, both credit and non-credit, for adult students who are returning to college. Numerous courses tailored to meet the needs of area employers are offered as well. Missouri State has the largest cooperative program in the state, with more than 1,200 students participating in internships in the public and private sectors.

Academic excellence: The average ACT score for Missouri State's incoming freshmen in the fall of 2010 was 24.1, significantly higher than the average for Missouri high school graduates. Further evidence of academic excellence at Missouri State has been the recognition that student teams have received in regional and national student competitions in a number of areas, including debate, advertising, construction, industrial management and media, journalism and film. The Honors College at Missouri State offers extraordinary opportunities for outstanding students.

Faculty and staff: On the Springfield campus, Missouri State employs 3,817 full-time and part-time faculty and staff, making it the fifth largest employer in Springfield. The student to faculty ratio is approximately 19:1.

Research: Missouri State University accounts for millions of dollars of grant-funded research each year. Faculty and student research conducted throughout the university system ranges in scope from the studies of grape genomics and meteor impacts to early childhood development and juvenile crime and has the potential to positively affect local communities, Missouri, the nation and ultimately the world. In all, Missouri State University received $20.1 million from a total of 184 grants and contracts awarded to faculty and staff during 2009–2010. The principal focus of the university is applied research geared to serving the needs of diverse constituencies in the public and private sectors. Faculty members are encouraged to pursue their individual and scholarly activities.

The Roy Blunt Jordan Valley Innovation Center (JVIC) is made up of five separate buildings, covering around 75,000 square feet. What was once a dilapidated MFA mill in downtown Springfield is now the home of leading-edge research and state-of-the-art technology. The capabilities of the center include applied research in nanotechnology, bio-materials, advanced technologies, genomics/proteomics, bio-systems, software engineering and medical material device and instrument technologies. JVIC breaks from a traditional approach to provide a more interdisciplinary experience aimed at serving the technical, commercial and educational needs of industry. JVIC emphasizes the application of theory to practice, including hands-on instruction with advanced technology industrial instruments.

Libraries: The Missouri State University library system is composed of the Duane G. Meyer Library, the Music Library, the Horace and "Pete" Haseltine Library in the Greenwood Laboratory School, and the Paul G. Evans Library of Fruit Science on the Mountain Grove campus. These four libraries have collections of more than 3 million items including more than 866,000 accessioned volumes; current subscriptions to over 3,300 periodicals, newspapers and other serials; and extensive back files of journals and newspapers, many on microfilm, microcard and microfiche. More than 20,000 journals are available online with full-text. Total microform holdings amount to more than 1 million items. More than 930,000 state, federal and United Nations (UN)documents are held as a result of Meyer Library being a designated depository library for each of those areas. Meyer Library is the only UN depository library in the state of Missouri. A large collection of audio CDs is fully cataloged and available in the Music Library. Special Collections and Archives house a number of special groups of materials: the William J. Jones collections of Rimbaud and Butor French Literature are internationally recognized and the Rimbaud portion comprises the largest collection of this type in the United States; the Ozarks Labor Union Archives document regional labor history; and the University Archives is a growing collection and will be further developed as a $130,000 grant for organizing and processing these materials is utilized. Another department in Meyer Library, the Curriculum Resource Center, features a children's literature collection, a textbook collection, curriculum guides and special learning materials.

Innovation and the use of new technologies are evident in the Missouri State University libraries. Most of the bibliographic data for SWAN, the libraries' online catalog, is created as materials are cataloged using the Online Computer Library Center, Inc. (OCLC), a database with more than 73 million bibliographic records. OCLC is also utilized for interlibrary loan and reference, with links to over 41,555 libraries in 112 countries. Electronic document delivery is commonly used to acquire interlibrary loan materials in a timely fashion. The statewide MOBIUS consortium, with a membership of 60 academic libraries, is simplifying access to regional holdings. The MOBIUS database of over 19 million items utilizing the same interface can be used by faculty, students and staff to borrow items with a two-day delivery time from anywhere in the state.

A central feature of the library and of the campus is the Jane A. Meyer Carillon with its complement of 48 bronze bells.

Campus Technology: Missouri State University offers faculty, staff and students free use of its computing services and facilities for class assignments and research. The campus networks provide high-speed, reliable services to client computers and file server systems in academic, administrative, and housing facilities at all Missouri State locations, including Springfield, West Plains, Mountain Grove, Lebanon and Branson. Network access in the residence halls allows students to utilize the online resources of Meyer Library, various campus computing services and the Internet from their rooms. High-speed Internet, wireless, and virtual private network services are all supported, while dial-up access to campus computing resources is provided for those needing free local access. Three centrally managed computer labs located in Glass Hall, Cheek Hall and Strong Hall, plus dozens of discipline-specific computer classrooms and labs, offer substantial access and support for campus computing resources.

Missouri State University–Mountain Grove Campus

The Mountain Grove campus is primarily known for research in agriculture and fruit science and sits on 192 acres in south-central Missouri. The 12-acre campus is located just north and east of the intersection of Highway 60 and State Highway 95 and is home to the State Fruit Experiment Station, the Center for Grapevine Biotechnology and Mountain Grove Cellars. The 180-acre field and research area is located on the west side of State Highway 95. Journagan Ranch is located just 10 miles from campus. The station, center, cellars and ranch are units of the William H. Darr School of Agriculture. The Missouri State Mountain Grove Extended Campus is located at Shannon Hall just south of the 60-95 intersection and is administered though Missouri State–West Plains.

Facilities: The State Fruit Experiment Station is located on the 192-acre campus just north of Mountain Grove, 65 miles east of Springfield. On the 12 acres east of State Highway 95 are Shepard Hall, housing laboratories, offices and a sales area for fruit and wine; Faurot Hall, home to the Paul Evans Library of Fruit Science, classrooms, a plant science laboratory and offices; a fruit processing laboratory housing the Mountain Grove Cellars; a community building; and three greenhouses. The 180-acre area west of State Highway 95 includes a United States Weather Bureau substation, equipment storage buildings, a shop, several miscellaneous buildings, fruit and horticultural crop research and demonstration plants and hay fields and horse pastures.

The State Fruit Experiment Station is the oldest identifiable segment of Missouri State University. The State Fruit Experiment Station was established by a legislative act in 1899. The station was operated as a state agency under a board of trustees appointed by the governor until 1974 when the Omnibus State Reorganization Act transferred administrative responsibility for the State Fruit Experiment Station to the Board of Governors of Missouri State.

Research is conducted in pomology, enology, viticulture, plant pathology, entomology, molecular genetics and plant physiology. Fruit crops under investigation include apples, grapes, blueberries, peaches, strawberries, blackberries, raspberries, elderberries and other fruit species. Research results are disseminated to the scientific community via presentations at professional conferences and peer-reviewed publications and to fruit growers, processors and the public through outreach programs via a variety of events and media.

A U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) quarantine facility for the introduction and virus testing of grapes from outside the United States is located at the station. The station's research and advisory programs have been instrumental in the revival of the Missouri grape and wine industry after Prohibition. Today, special emphasis is given to research on the American and hybrid grape varieties and their wines.

The Center for Grapevine Biotechnology explores the genetic resources of diverse grapevine species to secure the ecological and economic sustainability of the grape and wine industry and to improve human health. This work includes developing new improved grape varieties by genome-enabled breeding, conducting molecular analysis of grapevine genes and viruses for the management of major diseases, providing clean and virus-tested grapevines to the industry, exploring and identifying health-promoting compounds in native grapevine species and creating a challenging academic environment to train students in plant biotechnology.

Mountain Grove Cellars is licensed for wine sales and includes a commercially licensed distillery. This facility supports research conducted on specific winemaking problems and offers educational opportunities for Missouri State agriculture students who are interested in enology. Public educational events for artisan distillers, home winemakers and consumers are offered annually. Mountain Grove Cellars produces wine and fruit brandy exclusively from fruit grown in the State Fruit Experiment Station research and demonstration vineyards and orchards.

Journagan Ranch is a working ranch complete with buildings, equipment and cattle. The ranch, given by Leo Journagan and his family, is located about 10 miles from the Mountain Grove Campus proper and is the second-largest single gift in the university's history. The 3,300-plus acres stretch over about seven miles with barns, buildings, vehicles and machinery. Journagan Ranch has some crossbred cattle, but the main focus of the operation is purebred Polled Herefords, a variation of Hereford cattle without horns. Journagan Ranch has the 15th largest herd of Polled Herefords in the United States. Herefords are known for being docile and for their ability to thrive in any environment.

The ranch offers a potential site for research and teaching in beef genetics and management, agroforestry, soils, water quality and wildlife conservation. The ranch also offers opportunities for hiking and horseback riding. Students working at Journagan Ranch may be housed on the Mountain Grove campus while enrolled in Springfield classes through distance-education technology.

Extended Campus at Mountain Grove offers classes to area students earning an Associate Degree at Shannon Hall through Missouri State–West Plains. Shannon Hall includes several classrooms, a computer classroom, distance learning classroom and science lab.

Missouri State University–West Plains is one of three campuses within the Missouri State University System. The West Plains campus is a teaching and learning institution of higher education offering two-year Associate of Arts, Associate of Science and Associate of Applied Science degrees, certificates and other courses as needed by employers and citizens of the area served. The college provides a liberal arts transfer curriculum at the freshman and sophomore levels, selected occupational programs and a variety of continuing education courses.

A full college experience with quality instruction in a relaxed, personal atmosphere is the hallmark of Missouri State–West Plains. The campus promotes academic and personal success for students through small classes, personalized attention, educational support services and numerous opportunities to participate in extracurricular activities.

History and setting: Missouri State–West Plains was founded in 1963 as the West Plains Residence Center. In 1977, the Southwest Missouri State University Board of Regents and the General Assembly designated the name West Plains Campus of Southwest Missouri State University to replace Residence Center. The legislature enacted a permanent status bill for the campus in 1981 then passed House Bill 51 in 1991, giving the campus the authority to offer "one-year certificates, two-year associate degrees and credit and non-credit courses." The passage of Senate Bill 98 in 2005 changed the university system's name to Missouri State University.

Facilities: The campus consists of four classroom and administrative buildings—Kellett Hall, Looney Hall, Melton Hall and the Lybyer Technology Center. In addition, the campus includes the Garnett Library, the 60-person Grizzly House residence hall, the Putnam Student Center, the V.H. Drago College Store and Cass Hall, a one-stop shop for student services. Maintenance and custodial operations are located in the Broadway Building, and the Richards House serves as the residence for the Missouri State–West Plains chancellor.

Enrollment: The fall 2010 enrollment was 2,229 students, with the majority of students coming from a seven-county area of the south-central Missouri Ozarks region and from adjacent areas in north Arkansas.

Academic Programs: The campus offers associate degrees designed for transfer into bachelor's degree programs and for immediate employment after two years of study. They include Associate of Arts degrees in general studies and teaching; the Associate of Science degree in nursing; and Associate of Applied Science degrees in business, child and family development, computer graphics and programming, enology, entrepreneurship, general agriculture, general technology, law enforcement and viticulture. Some bachelor's and master's degree programs also are available at the West Plains campus through Missouri State University's Academic Outreach program.

Missouri State–West Plains also offers the Associate of Arts degree in general studies at its extended campus in Mountain Grove.

The college is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and is a member of the North Central Association. The nursing program has full accreditation from the National League for Nursing Accrediting Commission.

Founded in 1937 as Joplin Junior College, Missouri Southern State University (MSSU) was established by the General Assembly in 1965 as a two-year, upper-division state college to be operated in conjunction with the Junior College District of Jasper County. Missouri Southern operated under this arrangement through June 30, 1977, when the state assumed the responsibility of funding and operating the four-year program. Missouri Southern State College (MSSC) became Missouri Southern State University after Governor Bob Holden signed Senate Bill 55 on July 12, 2003. The legislation also allowed MSSU to enter into cooperative agreements with other state universities to provide graduate programs.

MSSU is committed to the success of its students through a First-Year Experience program, an emphasis on strong academic advising, and a campus committed to service learning, engaging student organizations, and intramural activities. MSSU also offers highly competitive NCAA Division II athletic programs in the Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association (MIAA). In June 1990, MSSU's board approved a change in the university mission to include an international emphasis in undergraduate education. This change is intended to help students compete in the global environment.

The following degrees are offered: Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, Bachelor of Science in education, bachelor of general studies, and Associate of Science. The university offers bachelor's degrees in nearly 150 major areas in liberal arts, teacher education, business and technology. In addition to the four-year programs, the curriculum offers pre-medicine, pre-engineering and other preprofessional programs and two-year associate degrees in dental hygiene, computer information science, law enforcement, radiological technology, drafting and design engineering technology, manufacturing engineering technology and respiratory therapy.

MSSU also uses its outstanding faculty and distance learning technology to offer cooperative graduate degree programs with other Missouri universities in criminal justice, dental hygiene, early childhood education, history, instructional technology, nursing and teaching.

The university is organized into four schools: Arts and Sciences, Education, The Robert W. Plaster School of Business Administration and Technology. The university mission statement stresses a liberal arts-based core curriculum designed to provide every graduate with knowledge in the basic areas of learning. Under a revised and moderately selective admission policy, the university encourages high school students to be better prepared for college study by following the core curriculum requirements outlined by the Missouri Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

The administration of the university is vested in an eight-member board of governors appointed by the governor with Senate consent. The 373-acre university campus is located in Joplin, a southwest Missouri city with a population of nearly 50,000 and a regional retail hub serving about 400,000. The MSSU campus presently consists of 30 major buildings, including the 65,000-square-foot Beimdiek Recreation Center and an 85,000-square-foot Health Sciences building, as well as a performing arts center, an artificial turf football field, a 3,200-seat athletic center with a 200-meter indoor track, and a modern library with access to the latest online and electronic databases. The university also features wireless access throughout the campus and a cyber café.

The university is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and is a member of the North Central Association, the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education, Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, Association of American Colleges & Universities, Accreditation Board of Engineering and Technology, Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs, Commission on Dental Accreditation, American Dental Association, Committee on Accreditation for Respiratory Care, Joint Review Committee on Education in Radiologic Technology, Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services Bureau, Missouri State Board of Nursing, National Accrediting Agency for Clinical Laboratory Science, National League of Nursing Accrediting Commission, National Environmental Health Science and Protection Accreditation Council and Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST).

Missouri Western State University offers students at all stages of life the opportunity to achieve excellence in the classroom and beyond as they prepare to be leaders in their communities. Providing a blend of traditional liberal arts and career-oriented degree programs, Western is strongly committed to the educational, economic, cultural and social development of the people it serves, setting the standard for excellence in student development and community leadership.

Founded as St. Joseph Junior College in 1915, Western transformed into a four-year institution in 1969, became a full member of the state of Missouri system in 1977, and earned university designation in 2005. The university designation legislation also made Western a statewide institution of applied learning. The university encourages students to engage in learning that occurs outside the classroom, applying the theory of the classroom to practical situations. Nearly 90 percent of Western graduates participate in an internship, undergraduate research, service-learning, study away or other applied learning experience. The legislation also authorized Western to offer graduate degrees, and the university has developed several professional master's degree programs emphasizing applied research and practical experiences.

Western offers more than 100 undergraduate majors, 14 master's degrees and four graduate certificates. The student to faculty ratio is approximately 19:1, and 83 percent of faculty hold the highest degree in their field. The institution is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission, a Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. Program accreditations include AACSB International—the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, Technology Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, American Bar Association, American Chemical Society, Commission on Accreditation for Health Informatics and Information Management Education, Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education, Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education, Council on Social Work Education, National Accrediting Agency for Clinical Laboratory Science, National Association of Schools of Music and National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Western's 723-acre campus features a large nature study area, walking trails and nine ponds. In 2010, Western became the summer training camp home of the Kansas City Chiefs. The university also operates a site in Kansas City's Northland.

Founded in 1871, the University of Central Missouri (UCM) has a long history of meeting the higher education needs of Missourians. A new chapter in the institution's development took place September 20, 2006, with a name change to reflect a new vision.

The Missouri Coordinating Board for Higher Education approved the university's statewide mission in professional applied sciences and technology October 10, 1996. This enhanced mission reflects an overall commitment to academic excellence and career preparation that includes the integration of the latest technologies throughout UCM's comprehensive liberal arts curriculum. This is having far-reaching impact on more than 11,000 students from nearly all 50 states and over 50 foreign countries who attend UCM and engage in 150 areas of study tailored to meet individual needs.

Beyond Missouri, UCM offers onsite and online learning opportunities to students in other parts of the United States and the world. UCM's international programs include exchange opportunities, internships and student teaching programs that are all among the most challenging and affordable anywhere. Degrees conferred by the university include the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Music Education, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in business administration, Bachelor of Science in education and Bachelor of Science in social work. At the graduate level, UCM offers excellent programs leading to Master of Arts, Master of Science, Master of Science in education, Master of Business Administration and education specialist degrees. In addition, a cooperative doctoral program in educational leadership exists in conjunction with the University of Missouri (MU), and a cooperative Ph.D. program in technology management is available in conjunction with Indiana State University (ISU). MU and ISU serve as the degree-granting institutions.

Administratively, the university's academic affairs division is divided into four core academic colleges, the Honors College and the Graduate School. The academic colleges are:

- The Adrian and Margaret Harmon College of Business and Professional Studies, offering a school of business administration with programs in accounting, marketing and legal studies, economics, finance, computer information systems and management and the School of Professional Studies with programs in aviation, criminal justice, communication disorders and social work and military science and leadership.
- The College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences, providing a comprehensive liberal arts foundation in support of the entire university curriculum, while also preparing graduates in areas such as art and design; communication and sociology history and anthropology; government, international studies and languages; music, theater and dance; and many other fields.
- The College of Education, which prepares teachers for all grade levels, as well as professionals in career and technology education, counselor education, educational leadership and human development and educational foundations and literacy.
- The College of Health, Science and Technology with a School of Health and Human Performance Department of Environmental, Physical and Applied Sciences; School of Technology; Department of Mathematics and Computer Science; and Department of Psychological Science.

All UCM course work is fully accredited by the North Central Association's Higher Learning Commission. UCM also is a state leader in program-specific accreditations, which have been granted by national organizations. This includes business administration degrees, which are accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business–International (AACSB).

The main campus—with its instructional buildings, Elliott Union, 18 conveniently located residence halls, and modern family housing—is the center of university life. However, the complete physical plant comprises more than 1,300 acres, including the Prussing Farm, the 300-acre Pertle Springs recreational and biological research area and Max B. Swisher Skyhaven Airport. Completed in 1999, the James C. Kirkpatrick Library is a leader in developing two-way interactive television, information technologies and Internet training facilities and providing access to electronic information resources to the state's citizens. New initiatives include the renovation of the Morrow-Garrison buildings, construction of a new Student Recreation and Wellness Center and a $36 million campus-wide energy efficiency project to be completed in 2011.

Department of Insurance, Financial Institutions & Professional Registration

PO Box 690
Jefferson City 65102

www.difp.mo.gov / www.insurance.mo.gov

The Department of Insurance, Financial Institutions and Professional Registration regulates the consumer service industries in Missouri by encouraging a fair and open market, establishing coherent and evolving policies that balance the interest of consumers, professionals and industry, and enforcing state laws and regulations governing business to protect consumers from unfair and inequitable treatment. The department is funded through fees and assessments from the industries and professionals regulated by the department rather than state general revenue.

Office of the Director

The director's office includes the department director, deputy director, general counsel, enforcement counsel, public information staff, legislative coordinator and support staff. The director's office also includes receivership activities. When a judge orders an insurance company into receivership, the director is responsible for either rehabilitating the company or liquidating it.

Insurance Consumer Affairs Division

The Consumer Affairs Division assists the general public in resolving complaints against insurance companies and agents and provides information to consumers regarding policies. Consumers can file complaints using the Insurance Consumer Hotline, (800) 726-7390, or through the department's website, www.insurance.mo.gov, which has a broad array of consumer and industry information available. In 2010, the division responded to more than 7,706 complaints and opened 1,014 investigations, recovering $9.5 million for consumers. The division accepts complaints for all types of insurance, as well as motor vehicle service contracts and health care discount plans.

The division also investigates unlicensed insurance activities and reviews license applications that are referred from the Insurance Licensing Section. Department investigations may result in license denials, revocations or suspensions, cease and desist orders, injunctions and referrals for criminal prosecution.

Division of Insurance Company Regulation

The Insurance Company Regulation Division monitors the financial condition of insurance companies operating in Missouri.

The division works to identify financially troubled companies so that action may be taken to prevent insolvencies. The division conducts financial examinations of 203 domestic insurance companies at least every four years. The department director can call for an examination of a licensed insurer at any time. The division also audits and determines premium taxes owed by insurance companies. Most insurers pay a two percent premium tax in lieu of income taxes. The division determines the tax due from each company. In 2010, the division collected over $235 million in taxes, which is distributed to general revenue, state schools and other funds.

The division verifies that insurers pay their assessments into the state's insurance guaranty funds, which back up insurance policies much the same way the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) backs up bank deposits in case a company fails.

Division of Insurance Market Regulation

The Insurance Market Regulation Division protects Missouri consumers by examining insurance company practices for compliance with state law. Most insurance policies and rates must be filed with the division so that they can be reviewed for compliance with state law.

Policies and rates are filed with two sections of the division: Life and Healthcare Section and Property and Casualty Section (which includes auto, homeowners, workers' compensation and various types of malpractice insurance).

The division's Market Conduct Section examines insurance companies' past treatment of policyholders through their marketing, rates and claims handling. If law violations are detected, the director can order an insurer to pay restitution to consumers, either through re-processing of claims or re-evaluation of the premium charged for the policy, as well as penalties. In 2010, consumer recoveries totaled over $1 million and fines totaled over $900,000.

The division also has a Statistics Section, which analyzes and publishes industry and market data as well as industry trends.

Administration Division

The Administration Division is responsible for the general operation and support within the department. The division also includes the Licensing Section, which handles licensing and renewals of nearly 120,000 insurance producers (agents), bail bond agents and public adjusters in Missouri. Other services provided by the division include financial, budget, human resources and information technology.

The Division of Finance regulates state-chartered banks, trust companies and savings and loan associations. The division is headed by the commissioner of finance, who is appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The division has 24 administrative and clerical employees in the Jefferson City office and a total of 81 field examiners in Kansas City, St. Louis, Jefferson City, Springfield and Sikeston.

The division is funded through assessments and fees paid by banks and licensees.

Banking in Missouri

Missouri ranks fifth in the nation in the number of state-chartered banks. As of December 31, 2010, the Division of Finance supervised 281 banks and trust companies with combined assets of $71.5 billion. The deposits in all Missouri state-chartered banks and trust companies are insured by the FDIC; savings and loan associations are also federally insured.

Savings and Loan Supervision

The Division of Savings and Loan Supervision, created in 1895, was merged into the Division of Finance in 1994, giving the division supervision of state-chartered savings and loan associations.

As of December 31, 2010, there were six savings and loan associations with total assets of $418 million.

Mortgage Licensing

The division has 351 licensed mortgage broker companies and 2,754 mortgage originators. The section investigates license applicants for character including criminal history, general fitness, experience and financial responsibility. A five-member Residential Mortgage Board approves regulations and hears appeals from the commissioner's licensing decisions.

Consumer Credit

The Consumer Credit Section supervises more than 2,780 institutions licensed for consumer lending, payday lending, automobile title lending, retail credit financing of motor vehicles and other goods and the financing of insurance premiums. The section also enforces the Sale of Checks Law, which provides for the licensing of companies that issue money orders or electronically transmitted funds. The section also licenses financial service organizations engaged in credit repair and coordinates enforcement of the Missouri residential real estate anti-discrimination (redlining) laws.

The Division of Credit Unions regulates and examines state-chartered credit unions for solvency to protect depositors. The division also responds to consumer inquiries and complaints about credit unions.

The division director is appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

A director, chief counsel, chief examiner, 10 examiners and three administrative personnel staff the division. Examiners are located in Kansas City, St. Louis and Jefferson City. The agency is funded through fees and assessments paid by state-chartered credit unions.

The National Credit Union Administration, an agency of the federal government, insures all member deposits.

As of December 31, 2010, Missouri ranked eighth in the nation in the number of state-chartered credit unions. The Division of Credit Unions currently regulates 123 credit unions with assets exceeding $10 billion. There are approximately 1.2 million members of Missouri credit unions.

The Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations was created by Article IX Section 49 of the Missouri Constitution. The department is composed of the Labor and Industrial Relations Commission and five divisions: the Division of Employment Security adjudicates unemployment claims benefits to employees who become unemployed through no fault of their own; the Division of Workers' Compensation ensures that workers injured on the job receive the benefits they deserve and investigates allegations of workers' compensation fraud and noncompliance; the State Board of Mediation determines the appropriate bargaining unit for public employees and regulates utility labor relations; the Division of Labor Standards regulates wages and wage rates and promotes safe working environments; and the Missouri Human Rights Commission enforces and adjudicates Missouri's anti-discriminatory, fair housing, employment, and public accommodation statutes.

The Labor and Industrial Relations Commission is composed of three commissioners. Each commissioner is appointed to a staggered six-year term by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. One member of the commission, a licensed Missouri attorney, represents the public. The other two members represent employers and employees, respectively. The governor designates one member as chair. The commission hears appeals from administrative decisions in workers' compensation, unemployment compensation, and tort victims' compensation cases. The commission also hears and decides prevailing wage disputes. In addition, the commission is charged with the statutory authority to approve or disapprove all rules or regulations declared by the divisions within the department. The Labor and Industrial Relations Commission nominates, and the governor appoints, a director to be chief executive officer of the department with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Office of the General Counsel

The Office of General Counsel provides legal advice regarding the operations of the department and labor-related matters to the director and to the executive staff of the department and its divisions. The general counsel prepares and reviews contracts, leases and other legal documents for the department; reviews and responds to subpoenas; and assists in responding to comments and inquiries from private citizens and public officials. The legal unit in the Division of Workers' Compensation also oversees various programs of that division, such as the medical fee dispute program.

Additionally, the General Counsel's Office represents the department and its agencies in a variety of litigation in trial courts, appellate courts and administrative tribunals. The Division of Employment Security is represented by the General Counsel's Office attorneys in cases concerning the payment of unemployment benefits and the assessment and collection of unemployment taxes. The Missouri State Free Employment Service was established in 1899 to receive and process applications of those looking for work. Over the first three decades, the focus of Missouri's Department of Labor was on matching people with employment opportunities.

The Great Depression provided the impetus for numerous joint federal and state employment programs such as the Wagner-Peyser Act of 1933, the Social Security Act of 1935 and the Federal Unemployment Insurance Tax Act of 1939. On July 17, 1937, the Missouri General Assembly created the Unemployment Compensation Commission. The unemployment programs of the Great Depression were based in part on the realization that employers decide whether to employ or lay off workers, and as such, unemployment should be a cost of doing business. Unemployment insurance is now completely funded through taxes on employers' payrolls.

On July 1, 1946, The Division of Employment Security was established to administer the Missouri Unemployment Compensation Law. The Division consists of five sections: Benefits, Contributions Field, Employer Contributions, Unemployment Insurance Programs and Appeals. The Division of Employment Security collects tax contributions from employers and pays unemployment benefits to individuals who are determined eligible under the law. State unemployment contributions paid by Missouri employers into the Missouri Trust Fund are set aside for the sole purpose of providing for the payment of weekly unemployment benefits to qualified claimants.

In 2009, Missourians experienced the highest unemployment levels since 1982. The current level of unemployment is compounded by the fact that during the economic boom of the 1980s and 1990s, the State of Missouri's Unemployment Trust Fund became increasingly under-funded, because the rate of taxation failed to keep pace with the growth of Missouri industry. On February 23, 2009, the Division of Employment Security once again began borrowing from the federal government to meet its obligation under the Social Security Act to provide unemployment compensation. Failure to provide unemployment compensation would cost Missouri employers $1 billion annually in Federal Unemployment Tax Act credits. Given the high rate of unemployment, Missouri will continue to face major solvency issues for years to come. The division's financial projections show a mounting deficit to the federal government of more than $1 billion, even assuming a decline in the unemployment level. Employers in the state will be responsible for paying off this debt.

Unemployment Insurance

The unemployment benefits paid to insured workers help to maintain the economy of the state during periods of economic downturn by helping preserve the level of consumer purchasing power. Payments of benefits under the regular program are made from a trust fund, financed by the aforementioned employer tax contributions. No part of the contribution is deducted from worker wages. Eligible claimants can qualify for up to 26 weeks of unemployment compensation under the Regular Benefit Program. The average weekly wage for first quarter 2009 was $748.46. The average weekly benefit for first quarter 2009 was $255.26, and the maximum benefit amount of $320 was received by 44.9 percent of claimants.

Employer Contributions

The division's Contributions Section ensures that employers are properly classifying their workers, reporting their workers' wages and paying the correct tax contributions on wages. Correct reporting helps to ensure the prompt payment of unemployment benefits to insured workers during periods of unemployment. Employment security law includes an experience rating provision as an incentive for employers to maintain stable employment, review claims and reduce unemployment. The law allows employers that are eligible for rate calculations to submit voluntary payments for the purpose of reducing their contribution rates. Employers file quarterly contribution and wage reports with the division to report their workers' earnings. Reports may be filed via the Internet at www.ustar.labor.mo.gov.

Payment of Benefits

One of the main objectives of the division is the prompt payment of unemployment benefits to eligible claimants. Through four claims centers located in Jefferson City, St. Louis, Kansas City and Springfield, unemployed Missouri workers file initial and weekly claims for unemployment compensation by telephone. The division also offers filing of unemployment claims via the Internet at www.moclaim.mo.gov. A person must have worked in employment covered under the Missouri Employment Security Law and earned enough qualifying wages in order to establish a claim for unemployment benefits. Detailed wage records are kept on every worker reported by employers on the quarterly contribution and wage report in order to calculate benefits.

The Missouri Division of Workers' Compensation administers the programs which provide for Missouri workers who are injured on the job or develop occupational diseases. The division focuses on making sure that those who can return to work do so as soon as possible, having received adequate treatment and benefits. For those who cannot return to work because of their injury or injuries, the division ensures that they receive the permanent benefits allowed by Missouri law.

The division has eight offices throughout Missouri with the main office being in Jefferson City. Missouri employers are required to report workplace injuries within 30 days of occurrence. The division processes approximately 120,000 reports of injury each year.

Missouri employers are required to either obtain workers' compensation insurance or obtain approval from the division to self-insure their workers' compensation liability, paying claims out-of-pocket as they arise. Such employers must provide a bond or letter of credit to the division to secure their promise to compensate for employees' work-related injuries. In 2009, 39 percent of Missouri workers were employed by self-insured employers.

Benefits available through the workers' compensation system include medical treatment, temporary disability benefits while in treatment and permanent disability benefits when treatment is complete. Injured workers can also qualify for benefits from the Second Injury Fund, which was created by the General Assembly during World War II to ease the workers' compensation burden on employers by compensating for employees' preexisting injuries. The fund, which receives money from a surcharge on workers' compensation premiums, began facing financial difficulty in 2005 when the surcharge on premiums was capped by the General Assembly at three percent.

Most workers' compensation cases are resolved without lengthy proceedings, as was the intent of the workers' compensation system approved by Missouri voters in 1926. For those cases that do not resolve by compromise, the division's administrative law judges conduct hearings and make determinations on what, if any, benefits are owed the injured worker. If a worker or employer disagrees with the administrative law judge's ruling, an appeal may be made with the Labor and Industrial Relations Commission.

The division is in the process of modernizing its systems so that it can better serve Missouri workers and employers. This multi-year project will eliminate most paper and postage costs by allowing employers, workers and others to interact electronically with the division.

The division's Fraud and Noncompliance Unit was established in 1993 to conduct investigations of all allegations of fraud and noncompliance. Employers who do not properly insure their workers' compensation liability commit noncompliance, an offense that can lead to fines, penalties and prison time. Fraud occurs when employers, insurance carriers, physicians, attorneys or employees are involved in attempting to claim or deny benefits in a fraudulent manner, an offense that also carries criminal consequences.

The State Board of Mediation is a quasi-judicial board created by the General Assembly in 1947. This five-member board is appointed by the governor. Two members are employers or selected from an association representing employers. The other two members hold membership in a bona fide trade or labor union. The fifth member is a neutral party who serves as full-time chairman and administrator of the agency.

Article I Section 29 of the Missouri Constitution states that all employees shall have the right to organize and to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing. In 2007, the Missouri Supreme Court overruled prior cases and held that the phrase "all employees" applies to public employees as well as private-sector employees.

The Board of Mediation is charged with regulating the labor relations of public utilities and determining appropriate bargaining units of public employees, based on their community of interests. The board also conducts elections to determine the representation status of petitioning bargaining units.

In 1965, the General Assembly enacted Chapter 105, RSMo, the Public Sector Labor Law. Currently, the law covers all public employees in Missouri except police, deputy sheriffs, Missouri highway patrol officers, Missouri National Guard members and all teachers at Missouri schools, colleges and universities.

In fiscal year 2008–2009, the State Board of Mediation processed 63 petitions and conducted 28 representation elections affecting over 2,300 employees.

The Division of Labor Standards currently consists of four sections: Wage and Hour, On-Site Safety and Health Consultation Service, Mine and Cave Safety and Health and the Workers' Safety Program.

Wage and Hour

The Wage and Hour Section determines and enforces the prevailing wage. Prevailing wage survey information for construction projects is solicited for all applicable construction projects on an ongoing basis. The survey information is used to determine the prevailing wage rates for workers employed on public works construction projects. Communication with contractors, labor unions, public bodies, employees and other interested parties occurs daily to assist in achieving voluntary compliance. Site inspections are performed to assure compliance with prevailing wage rates and to investigate complaints. The prevailing wage not only ensures that in tough economic times wages do not decline but also supports worker health and pension benefits, increases sales tax revenue and corporate sales taxes, supports apprenticeship training, lowers occupation injuries, discourages hiring out-of-state contractors and increases the productivity of the construction workforce.

The Wage and Hour Section administers and enforces Missouri's child labor laws. The law ensures that no child younger than 16 years of age is employed in an occupation that is detrimental to the child's safety, health, morals, educational processes or general well being. No child under the age of 14 may work in any occupation, unless specifically allowed. The exception is entertainment industry employment. The law restricts work hours for youth under 16. A child 14 or 15 years old may not be employed during the regular school term unless the public school superintendent or designee of the district where the youth lives has issued a work certificate. Youth under 16 may work in the entertainment industry if the division issues the youth a work permit.

The Wage and Hour Section is also responsible for the administration and enforcement of Missouri's minimum wage law. Effective January 1, 2007, the minimum wage law applies to all businesses except retail or service business whose annual gross volume sales or business done is less than $500,000. The minimum wage rate on July 24, 2009 increased from $7.05 to $7.25 per hour.

The Wage and Hour Section provides information for Missouri's labor laws, including allowable breaks, lunches, vacations, hiring, wage levels, dismissals and discipline, among other topics.

On-Site Safety and Health

The On-Site Safety and Health Section offers a free confidential consultation service to employers to ensure they comply with federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) regulations. This program reduces workplace injuries and illnesses. At the employer's request, a consultant visits the workplace and informs the employer of problems found and recommends solutions to eliminate hazards and provides safety and health training.

The Safety and Health Achievement Recognition Program (SHARP) is for small businesses that operate effective safety and health management programs. Participants in SHARP can receive up to a three-year exemption from certain OSHA inspections.

Mine and Cave Safety and Health

The Mine and Cave Inspection Program is mandated by Chapter 293, RSMo. Inspectors travel to the mine or cave site on a regular basis to inspect the property for safety and health hazards, including unsafe processes or work procedures that could or would cause accidents, injuries or fatalities. All safety and health conditions of the site are inspected, and if any hazards are found, the company is required to abate the problem in a prescribed period of time. Cost-effective recommendations on how to abate any safety or health problem are offered and consultations on any condition are available to the operator to bring them into compliance with state and federal laws.

Show caves must be equipped with necessary safety features, such as guard rails, bridges, ladders, entrances, platforms, walkways, safety barriers, rails, paths and electrical guards. The program also assists with coordinating cave rescue efforts. A listing of the caves inspected by the program is published on the department's website at www.labor.mo.gov/DLS/WorkplaceSafety/minecave/cave_inspection.asp.

The Mine and Cave Safety and Health Training Section trains and retrains miners in the practice of implementing safe and healthy working habits in the mining workplace. This training is partially funded by a grant through the U.S. Department of Labor, Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA). Each miner must receive an initial safety and health training and annual retraining. Instructors conduct safety and health audits, prepare site-specific lesson plans corresponding to the training plan of the company, then present innovative training topics to the miners.

Workers' Safety Program

All insurance carriers writing workers' compensation insurance in Missouri must provide comprehensive safety engineering and management services to employers. The Workers' Safety program certifies and audits safety consultants and engineers and is used by employers. The Workers' Safety Program also investigates complaints of inadequate loss control services against insurance carriers and monitors the impact of safety services being provided by insurance carriers. The Workers' Safety Program will also oversee the enforcement of the 10-Hour Construction Safety Training Program beginning August 28, 2009, which requires all employees on a public works project to have 10 hours of safety training prior to working on the project.

The Missouri Commission on Human Rights administers programs to prevent and eliminate discrimination and to provide equitable and timely resolutions of discrimination claims.

The Missouri Commission on Human Rights was created by the 69th General Assembly in 1957 and became a permanent agency in 1959. In 1961 the Fair Employment Practices Act was passed, in 1965 the Public Accommodations Act was passed and in 1972 the Fair Housing Act was passed. In 1986 these three laws were consolidated under Chapter 213, RSMo, as the Missouri Human Rights Act.

In 2009, the commission celebrated its 50th anniversary. In 1959, the Missouri Manual reported that the commission investigated 16 complaints and began the study of human rights in Missouri. Today, the commission staff handles approximately 21,000 cases annually. In 2008, the commission conducted 2,065 hearings on such cases.

The Missouri Human Rights Act requires the commission to receive, investigate, settle or conciliate complaints of alleged discrimination and conduct public hearings. The statute also enables the commission to certify local commissions, establish relationships with federal and local civil and human rights agencies, implement educational or research programs and develop ways to prevent discrimination. The commission responds to complaints of alleged discrimination in employment, housing and public accommodations based on race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, sex, physical/mental disability handicap, age (40–70 employment only) and familial status (housing only).

Commission members are nominated by the director of the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations and appointed by the governor with advice and consent of the Senate. The governor appoints at least one member from each of Missouri's nine congressional districts, one member-at-large and one member as chairperson. The commissioners serve for six years without compensation. The commission meets quarterly, and commission meetings are open to the public.

The Department of Mental Health (DMH) was officially established on July 1, 1974 as a cabinet-level state agency by the Omnibus State Government Reorganization Act; however, its functions date back to 1847. The department serves as the state's mental health authority, establishing philosophy, policy and standards of care.

State law provides three principal missions for the department: 1) the prevention of mental disorders, developmental disabilities, substance abuse and compulsive gambling; 2) the treatment, habilitation and rehabilitation of Missourians who have those conditions; and 3) the improvement of public understanding and attitudes about mental disorders, developmental disabilities, substance abuse and compulsive gambling.

The vision for the Missouri Department of Mental Health is that "Missourians receiving mental health services will have the opportunity to pursue their dreams and live their lives as valued members of their communities."

Missourians must know that mental illness is treatable, that persons with substance abuse problems can triumph over their addictions and that persons with developmental disabilities can be productive citizens and good neighbors in their communities.

Mental Health Commission

The commission, composed of seven members, appoints the director of the Department of Mental Health with confirmation of the Senate. Commissioners are appointed to four-year terms by the governor, again with the confirmation of the Senate. The commissioners serve as policy advisors to the department director. The commission, by law, must include an advocate of community mental health centers, a physician who is an expert in the treatment of mental illness, a physician concerned with developmental disabilities, a member with business expertise, an advocate of substance abuse treatment, a citizen who represents the interests of consumers of psychiatric services and a citizen who represents the interests of consumers of developmental disabilities services.

Department of Mental Health (DMH) is composed of three program divisions: the Division of Comprehensive Psychiatric Services, the Division of Developmental Disabilities and the Division of Alcohol and Drug Abuse, as well as ten support offices.

DMH serves approximately 170,000 Missourians annually through state-operated facilities and contracts with private organizations and individuals. The state-operated psychiatric facilities include inpatient psychiatric care for adults and children, as well as sex offender rehabilitation and treatment services. In addition, six habilitation centers and 11 regional centers serve individuals with developmental disabilities. Other services are purchased from a variety of privately operated programs statewide through approximately 2,500 contracts managed annually by DMH.

Deputy Director

The Office of the Deputy Director provides the leadership and direction for a variety of department-wide and statewide functions that support program operations and services to DMH consumers. These include supervisory responsibility for administrative services, human resources, deaf services, Office of General Counsel, and the investigations unit, which responds to consumer safety complaints as well as other special projects at the director's discretion.

General Counsel

The Office of the General Counsel is responsible for providing legal advice and assistance for the department and its facilities and division offices in a variety of areas including: personnel and forensic litigation; rules and policy development; compliance with privacy, administration and coordination under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act; and ensuring the provision of administrative due process hearings before the department hearings administrator.

Administration

The Office of Administration, headed by the department's deputy director for administration, provides administrative and financial services to help the department achieve effective results. The Office of Administration includes the following units: 1) Budget and Finance, which develops and monitors the annual budget, oversees the legislative fiscal note process, provides expenditure oversight, and analyzes and compiles financial and other related reports; 2) Accounting, which oversees and monitors all funds, manages expenditures, administers grant funds, and produces fiscal summaries, analyses and reports; 3) Purchasing and General Services, which establishes and administers contracts with private agencies or individuals to provide services in the community and is also responsible for various general services functions in the central office; 4) Reimbursements, which collects payments from private insurance, Medicaid and Medicare, and private pay for department services and coordinates revenue maximization activities; and 5) the Medicaid office, which serves as the primary liaison with MO HealthNet on mental health issues and provides Medicaid guidance and support to all three program divisions.

Division of Alcohol and Drug Abuse

The Division of Alcohol and Drug Abuse was created in 1975 and established in statute in 1980 (631.010, RSMo) as part of the Department of Mental Health, with responsibility for ensuring that quality alcohol and drug abuse prevention, evaluation, treatment and rehabilitation services are accessible to all Missourians.

The division provides services in four program areas: substance abuse prevention, substance abuse treatment, compulsive gambling counseling and the Substance Abuse Traffic Offenders Program. Services are delivered through a network of contracted providers. The division promotes access, quality treatment, accountability and consumer safety through its administrative standards and policies; ensures that its service providers are implementing evidence-based practices; monitors, evaluates and provides technical assistance to its network of providers; and collaborates with other state and federal agencies to stay abreast of the latest developments in the field and coordinate the delivery of services across multiple entities.

The impact of substance abuse is substantial—societal costs for Missouri are estimated at $7 billion annually. The average cost to treat a substance-addicted individual is $1,392 vs. a $16,000 cost to society if untreated. The impact is felt by individuals and families in every ethnic group and income level. Addiction to alcohol or other drugs is a chronic condition that has no cure but can be treated through a range of services including intensive day treatment, outpatient services, medications and community support services. Recovery is a long-term process that is unique to each individual. Treatment is effective and far less costly to the state than the burden of substance abuse and addiction.

Missouri Advisory Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse

The Missouri Advisory Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse was established in state statute in 1980. The council serves as an advisory body to the Division of Alcohol and Drug Abuse on policy, prevention and treatment activities in the state of Missouri. The council is composed of up to 25 members appointed by the division director. Members have professional, research and/or personal interest in the delivery of substance abuse prevention and treatment services.

Division of Comprehensive Psychiatric Services

The Division of Comprehensive Psychiatric Services provides inpatient and residential services for children and adults at nine state-operated facilities. These include one children's psychiatric hospital, one children's residential treatment center and seven psychiatric hospitals serving adults who are suffering from severe and persistent mental illnesses, some of whom have been adjudicated by a criminal court as incompetent to stand trial or not guilty by reason of insanity. Two of the hospitals also serve individuals who have been civilly committed as sexual predators, as well as individuals from the Department of Corrections who are in need of psychiatric hospitalization. The majority of the inpatients served in these facilities are in need of long-term treatment in a hospital environment. Historically, such patients demonstrate substantial psychiatric symptoms, or patterns of high-risk behavior that triggers psychiatric instability associated with a significant potential for harm to self or others. Substance abuse and/or personality disorders are common complications, as is impairment in social role functioning and daily living skills. Many of the patients, particularly those with criminal involvement, are likely to have required multiple inpatient admissions with a demonstrable inability to be successful in community placement, even with enhanced community-based services and residential supports. All patients admitted require intensive treatment and psychosocial rehabilitation services to develop an adequate relapse prevention plan and to achieve the psychiatric stability necessary for discharge from hospital-based care and for safe and successful reintegration into the community.

The majority of the division's services, however, are provided on an outpatient basis as part of its ongoing commitment to ensure community-based care. In pursuit of that goal, the division contracts with not-for-profit community mental health centers to provide services to persons with mental illness in each of its 25 geographic service areas. The agency responsible for service provision in each area is designated as an administrative agent of the division. Within their service area, the administrative agents are responsible for screening, assessment, treatment planning and service delivery to eligible individuals, including adults, children, youth and their families. This includes responsibility for follow-up services to persons who have been discharged from state-operated inpatient services. The community mental health centers provide medication, individual and group therapy, case management and community psychiatric rehabilitation services, all designed to help the persons served better manage their psychiatric illness and to develop the skills and resources needed to recover valued roles, to fulfill their aspirations for work and social connectedness and to function successfully in the community. Many of the persons served are in need of residential services and supports in an integrated community environment, which are provided either directly by the administrative agents or through departmental contract with other residential providers. Living arrangements range from independent and clustered apartments to residential care facilities and individualized supported living environments.

Both the inpatient facilities and the community mental health centers are divided into five regions across the state: the Central, Eastern, Southeast, Southwest and Western regions. Each region is directed by a regional executive officer who oversees the chief operating officer at each facility and who coordinates outpatient care with the executive directors of the administrative agents within the region. During fiscal year 2010, the division provided inpatient services to 3,824 adults and 302 children; outpatient and community support (includes residential) to 59,066 adults; and 16,052 supported community living services to 4,942 adults and 331 children.

State Advisory Council for Comprehensive Psychiatric Services

The State Advisory Council for Comprehensive Psychiatric Services was first established in 1977 by the governor's executive order. Members are appointed by the director of the Division of Comprehensive Psychiatric Services. The council is composed of 25 members who advise and make recommendations on the development and coordination of a statewide interagency/interdepartmental system of care for children/youth with serious emotional disorders and persons with mental illness and their families. Council members are primary consumers, family members, service providers and state agency representatives. The council bylaws state the council will: 1) advise the division in the development of models of services, long-range planning and budgeting priorities; 2) Identify statewide needs, gaps in services and movement toward filling gaps; 3) provide education and information about mental health issues; and 4) monitor, evaluate and review the allocation and adequacy of mental health services within the state.

The Center for Behavioral Medicine (CBM), formerly known as Western Missouri Mental Health Center, opened in 1966 after legislation authorized state operation of community mental health centers in St. Louis, Columbia and Kansas City.

The center's 65-bed inpatient care and 68 residential beds serve greater Kansas City, including the counties of Jackson, Johnson, Cass, Lafayette, Clay, Platte and Ray. The facility, accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Heathcare Organizations (JCAHO), is certified by the Centers for Medicaid and Medicare Services.

Through affiliation with several academic institutions, including the University of Missouri–Kansas City, CBM provides training for students in psychiatry, clinical psychology, psychiatric social work, psychiatric nursing and activity therapy.

CBM moved into a new facility in January 2004.

Cottonwood is a 32-bed residential treatment center designed to meet the emotional and mental health needs of seriously emotionally disturbed children and adolescents, ages six to 17. Children served include those with diagnoses of mild mental retardation in addition to severe emotional disturbance.

The trauma informed treatment center, which opened in 1987, provides intensive residential programming for children who are unable to be successfully maintained in the community and have behavioral and emotional problems. The program focuses on developing the skills necessary to successfully return the child to family and community.

Fulton State Hospital, authorized in 1847 and opened in 1851, is the oldest public mental health facility west of the Mississippi River. The hospital is certified by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) and has been accredited by JCAHO since 1984.

The 341-bed hospital provides inpatient adult psychiatric services, including treatment and psychosocial rehabilitation for forensic patients and other patients requiring long-term inpatient care. The term "forensic" is used to describe individuals who are charged with a crime and have been committed to the Department of Mental Health by a circuit court for either a pretrial or presentence evaluation, for restoration of competence to stand trial or as a result of an adjudication of Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI). Specifically, the hospital serves: 1) patients from the entire state of Missouri who require hospitalization in maximum and intermediate security settings; 2) individuals who have been committed to the Department of Mental Health as sexually violent predators; and 3) forensic patients with developmental disabilities who are able to reside in a minimum-security setting.

Fulton has Missouri's only maximum and intermediate security units. The 201-bed Biggs Forensic Center provides treatment for individuals who have committed major offenses or those whose behavior in other settings demonstrates a need for a maximum-security setting. Included is a program run in cooperation with the Department of Corrections (DOC) to provide acute mental health services for inmates from DOC and for jail detainees across the state whose charges or behavior require maximum security.

The 91-bed Guhleman Forensic Center offers an intermediate security environment for former Biggs patients to progress toward increased liberty and responsibility. In addition, it provides a security setting for individuals whose charges or behavior do not require maximum security, but are nonetheless in need of a higher level of security than is available in other inpatient settings.

A 24-bed Sexual Offender Rehabilitation and Treatment Services program serves individuals committed to the Department of Mental Health as sexually violent predators. Another 24-bed program serves developmentally disabled patients on forensic commitments who can be safely treated within a minimum-security setting.

The hospital has a training affiliation with the University of Missouri's Department of Psychiatry. In addition, it provides training experience to students from various clinical disciplines, including nursing, social work and occupational therapy, and an internship and fellowship program in psychology.

Hawthorn Children's Psychiatric Hospital provides inpatient and residential psychiatric treatment services for severely emotionally disturbed children and adolescents, ages six to 17. The hospital serves residents of Missouri.

Hawthorn has been a freestanding child psychiatric facility in St. Louis County since 1989. The hospital is accredited by JCAHO and certified for federal Medicaid reimbursement. The 26-acre campus consists of a main building and five cottages that can house 60 psychiatric treatment beds. Hawthorn currently maintains 28 inpatient and 24 residential treatment beds.

Youth admitted to Hawthorn are provided comprehensive mental health treatment services designed to address their psychiatric, psychological, social, educational, vocational and recreational needs. The treatment programs rely on evidence-based practices and deliver services in a trauma-informed milieu. As a service to the community, Hawthorn also provides mental health information and consultation regarding the treatment of children and adolescents. The hospital serves as a training facility for a wide range of mental health professionals. Hawthorn also participates fully with other community agencies in the planning and development of mental health services for the children in the community.

Metropolitan St. Louis Psychiatric Center (MPC) is a 50-bed Medicare-certified Forensic Psychiatric Hospital operated by the Department of Mental Health of the state of Missouri. The facility provides forensic evaluations and inpatient competency restoration services to residents of the 61 counties of the eastern half of Missouri. The Forensic Pretrial Program at MPC is composed of two units: The inpatient Competency Restoration Service and the Forensic Evaluation Service.

The purpose of the inpatient Competency Restoration Service is to restore competency for those individuals who have been committed by the courts to the Department of Mental Health as incompetent to stand trial. Criminal defendants are found incompetent to stand trial when a major mental illness, cognitive disorder or mental retardation causes the defendant to lack the capacity to understand the legal proceedings against him/her or to be unable to assist the attorney in his/her defense. The Competency Restoration Service provides state-of-the-art psychiatric treatment and psychosocial interventions to restore defendants to competency to proceed to trial. Interventions include: 1) stabilization of Axis I disorders that result in the defendant being found incompetent to stand trial; 2) in-depth education regarding court-related terminology and procedures; 3) modification of faulty beliefs about the legal system and the individual's mental illness; and 4) individualized interventions to assist the defendant in applying what is learned to that person's case. For those defendants who return to the community, thorough discharge planning takes into account the client's treatment needs and the public safety.

The Forensic Evaluation Service serves the courts of Missouri by providing comprehensive, court-ordered evaluations regarding various legal issues. The most common court-ordered evaluation addresses competency to stand trial. Questions of the mental state of a defendant at the time of an alleged crime are evaluated, including criminal responsibility (insanity), diminished capacity and battered spouse syndrome. Risk assessments and other evaluations are conducted on defendants whose probation has been revoked to assist the courts in determining the best sentencing options. Finally, persons detained under the sexual predator act are evaluated to determine if they meet the definition of a sexually violent predator. Most evaluations are done on an outpatient basis either at MPC or at a jail, while some are conducted on an inpatient basis to gather additional data when challenging diagnostic questions or malingering of mental illness are raised. The Forensic Evaluation Service conducts between 180 and 200 evaluations per year, though the redesign of the service areas means that this number will grow.

Northwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center (NMPRC)provides inpatient psychiatric treatment and rehabilitation to adults (18 years and older) who are considered persistently mentally ill and who are in need of hospital-based treatment and rehabilitation.

The facility covers eight service areas in coordination with the regional mental health centers, private service providers and other Department of Mental Health (DMH) facilities. NMPRC operates under the authority of the Missouri DMH and provides inpatient psychiatric treatment, habilitation, rehabilitation and forensic services.

The hospital opened as State Lunatic Asylum No. 2 in November 1874 on land east of St. Joseph. The capacity ranged from 250 beds to nearly 3,000 in the 1950s, and the name was changed to St. Joseph State Hospital. Over the years, downsizing occurred with the advent of better treatment options and emphasis on returning patients to the community.

In 1997, St. Joseph State Hospital was replaced with the current facility and renamed Northwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center (NMPRC). NMPRC currently provides 108 beds for adult psychiatric patients age 18 and older. Three wings—Carver, Lincoln and Twain—have 20 beds each and are designated as minimum security. Six cottages with eight beds each are designated as open campus security.

Within NMPRC there are three 20-bed coed wings (Lincoln, Carver and Twain) and six eight-bed cottages (1, 3, 5, 7, 9 and 11), for a combined total of 108 beds. All three wings serve as the entry point for patients transferring from the jail setting, acute care hospitals and other DMH psychiatric hospitals for psychiatric treatment and rehabilitation. Included are individuals who are committed under Chapter 552, RSMo, for pretrial evaluation and restoration to competency to stand trial as Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI), for individuals whose conditional release has been revoked; transfers from other psychiatric facilities and forensic patients returning from conditional release, either voluntarily or by revocation. Six eight-bed coed cottages are designed to prepare patients for a community-living-type environment in which individuals learn and practice those critical skills necessary to be successful in their community. Patients are expected to take responsibility for their own actions and recovery as they make more choices in their lives while living in a structured, secure and supportive setting. Two cottages are aligned with each wing to form treatment teams.

NMPRC is fully accredited by JCAHO and one unit (Twain) is CMS certified as a distinct part unit.

Crisis access to the mental health system is through the appropriate geographic Community Mental Health Center, which assesses the patient for services and, if appropriate, refers for possible admission to a local hospital's acute mental health unit. After a stay of usually seven to 28 days (with exceptions for civil and criminal court commitment), in an acute mental health unit, patients can be referred to Northwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center for ongoing hospital treatment.

St. Louis Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center (formerly known as St. Louis State Hospital), originally founded in 1869, is a 196-bed facility providing care, treatment and rehabilitation for adults with mental illness. SLPRC is a minimum-security facility serving the eastern region of Missouri.

The facility currently accepts those persons in need of forensic psychiatric services and psychiatric services for severe and persistent mental illness. The staff of the center provides a variety of intensive psychosocial rehabilitation programs that facilitate a return to independent living within the community while preserving public safety.

The St. Louis Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center continues to maintain its accreditation from the JCAHO, receiving its most recent accreditation in 2009.

Southeast Missouri Mental Health Center began in 1903 as Farmington State Hospital. In 1984, the Missouri General Assembly approved the conversion of the hospital grounds into a medium-security prison, operated by the Department of Corrections. Subsequently in 1987, the state hospital was converted into a mental health center and moved into buildings adjacent to the prison. Southeast Missouri Mental Health Center consists of Adult Psychiatric Services and Sexual Offender Rehabilitation and Treatment Services. The facility is accredited by JCAHO.

The Adult Psychiatric Services division (APS) operates 170 longer-stay inpatient beds for persons demonstrating persistently dangerous behaviors and ongoing impairment in social functioning in daily living skills due to mental illness. Many of these persons are admitted under the criminal court statute as Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI).

Treatment services offered at APS include New Outlook, Social Learning, Responsibility Therapy, and Illness Management and Recovery programs.

By cooperative agreement between the Departments of Corrections and Mental Health, the Corrections Treatment Center (CTC) operates on the grounds of Farmington Correctional Center. Within the CTC unit, the mental health center staffs a small, medium-security ward for inmates with psychiatric needs.

The Sexual Offender Rehabilitation and Treatment Service, formerly known as Missouri Sexual Offender Treatment Center, provides treatment, care, security and custody for those persons adjudicated as sexually violent predators. With the passage of the Sexually Violent Predator law, which was effective January 1, 1999, the Missouri General Assembly mandated that those individuals adjudicated by the court as "sexually violent predators" be committed indefinitely to the custody of the director of the Department of Mental Health for "control, care and treatment until such time that the person is safe to be at large." In order for such commitments to pass constitutional scrutiny, the department provides care and treatment that is consistent with existing professional standards and practice. The law also requires that individuals committed for treatment as sexually violent predators be kept in a secure facility and housed separately from Department of Corrections' inmates and from persons served by the Department of Mental Health who have not been found to be sexually violent predators.

In addition to the treatment and custody of sexually violent predators, the department is required to provide staff to participate in the multidisciplinary team to assist the prosecutor's review committee in determining whether an individual may meet the definition of a sexually violent predator. Further, the department is required to evaluate each individual for whom the court finds probable cause to believe the person is a sexually violent predator. Finally, the department must annually provide the committing court an annual report regarding the committed person's mental condition.

Southwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center opened clinical operations at the new location in 1997. The facility also maintains a location at 2201 N. Elm in Nevada, for business, regional supported community living and forensic case monitoring operations. The clinical facility provides inpatient psychosocial rehabilitation services for individuals at least 18 years of age and older. Southwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center is a 16-bed facility that is a regional backup program. The Distinct Part Hospital is a Medicare certified program. The facility provides services to areas 8, 9 and 10 in the 21 counties that makeup the Southwest region.

Administrative agents are the entry and exit points for all DMH-funded psychiatric services in the Southwest region. Each administrative agent manages admissions and discharges through bed assignments at Southwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center. The facility maintains partnering relationships with the Community Mental Health Centers in order to offer a continuous treatment model designed to facilitate person-directed recovery and full community membership for individuals who receive the services of the Southwest regional system. This requires that administrative agents be given control of the use of their bed assignments at the facility.

Division of Developmental Disabilities

The Division of Developmental Disabilities (DD), established in 1974, serves persons with developmental disabilities such as mental retardation, cerebral palsy, head injuries, autism, epilepsy and certain learning disabilities. Such conditions must have occurred before age 22 with the expectation that they will continue. To be eligible for services from the division, persons with these disabilities must have substantial functional limitations in two or more of the following six areas of major life activities: self-care, receptive and expressive language development and use, learning, self-direction, capacity for independent living or economic self-sufficiency and mobility.

The division's focus is on improving the lives of persons with developmental disabilities and their families through programs, supports and services to enable persons with developmental disabilities to live independently and productively. In 1988, the division began participation in the Medicaid home- and community-based waiver program designed to help expand needed services throughout the state.

Specialized services are either provided directly or purchased through contracts by 17 entities operated by the division. The division's 11 regional offices are the primary points of entry into and exit from the system. The regional offices determine eligibility, provide service coordination and work with individuals and families, and contract with SB40 boards (local county boards for mentally retarded and developmentally disabled adults founded by Mentally Retarded Citizens of Missouri in 1968), Affiliated Community Service Providers (ACSP) and private providers for the provision of a comprehensive array of services in the following areas: Albany, Central Missouri, Hannibal, Joplin, Kansas City, Kirksville, Poplar Bluff, Rolla, Sikeston, Springfield and St. Louis. There are also six state operated habilitation centers: Bellefontaine Habilitation Center, Higginsville Habilitation Center, Marshall Habilitation Center, Nevada Habilitation Center, Southeast Missouri Residential Services, and St. Louis Develop-

State and Regional Planning and Advisory Councils

The Missouri Planning Council for Developmental Disabilities was created in 1971 under federal legislation. The council's federal mandate is to plan, advocate for and give advice concerning programs and services for persons with developmental disabilities that will increase their opportunities for independence, productivity and integration into communities. The council also serves, under Missouri statute, as the Missouri Advisory Council on Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities, providing advice to the division and the division director. The council consists of up to 25 members, which are appointed by the governor.

Additionally, Missouri statute allows the director of the division of DD to establish Regional Developmental Disabilities Advisory Councils in any of the regions of the state to advise and participate in the development of regional plans of programs and support and services for persons with developmental disabilities. The regional councils may have up to 20 members who reside in the region and serve staggered three-year terms. The division director appoints the regional council members.

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) preserves, protects and enhances Missouri's natural, cultural and energy resources. The department was created under state reorganization on July 1, 1974. Staff works to ensure Missouri's citizens enjoy clean air to breathe, clean water for drinking and recreation and land that sustains a diversity of life. The department continues to learn how to improve environmental protection by using new technologies and through better understanding.

The department deals with the critical area of energy, helps develop mineral resources in an environmentally safe manner, protects Missouri's land, air and water resources and works to preserve the state's historic and natural heritage through state parks and state historic sites.

Several offices enable the department to carry out its responsibilities: the divisions of Energy, Environmental Quality, Geology and Land Survey, State Parks and Administrative Support. In addition, the State Environmental Improvement and Energy Resources Authority and the Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund are connected administratively to the department through the Office of the Director.

Stakeholder and public involvement plays a critical role in helping the department protect and improve Missouri's natural resources. By working together, Missouri's abundant and glorious natural resources will continue to provide a valuable quality of life for generations to come.

The director of the Department of Natural Resources is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The director and the Office of the Director staff manage the policy and operations of the department through its five divisions, improve efficiencies through strategic planning and ensure public participation through the decision-making process to ensure the department follows federal and state regulations. The office includes general counsel, communication and education, legislative, water resources and soil and water conservation.

The director serves as the State Historic Preservation Officer, chair of the State Interagency Council for Outdoor Recreation and the Energy Policy Council. The director also serves as a member of the Soil and Water Districts Commission, the Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund Board of Trustees and the Unmarked Human Burial Consultation Committee. The department director represents Missouri on three interstate river organizations: the Missouri River Basin Commission, the Arkansas-White-Red Basins Interagency Committee and the Upper Mississippi River Basin Commission.

Soil and Water Conservation Program

The Office of the Director houses the Soil and Water Conservation Program. The program administers the policies and general programs for agricultural lands developed by the Soil and Water Districts Commission for saving Missouri's soil and water.

The primary responsibility of the program is to assist districts as they promote soil and water conservation to their constituents. The districts provide financial incentives and technical assistance to agricultural landowners and educate their communities.

Other program activities include administering statewide cost-share and loan-interest share programs and providing educational programs on soil and water conservation. The program provides direct assistance to the 114 districts through grants and training. The program also provides each district with a website at swcd.mo.gov as well as software and training to further assist constituents.

Water Resources Center

The Office of the Director houses the Water Resources Center, which addresses the development, conservation and utilization of the state's water resources. To assist communities, public entities and state and federal agencies, the center provides technical assistance through drought assessment, planning and water resource monitoring. Areas of expertise within the center include interstate waters, groundwater, surface water, dam and reservoir safety, wetland studies and water resource planning.

The interstate waters staff coordinates issues relating to major river basins that affect Missouri and provide technical support for negotiations and litigation actions to protect the state's rights to these waters. The groundwater section operates and maintains a groundwater level observation well network for monitoring Missouri's aquifers. Collection and analysis of groundwater data provides knowledge of available water quantity, aquifer response to water use, groundwater recharge and aquifer characteristics. The surface water section provides technical support by performing water supply analyses, in-stream flow assessments and flood inundation studies. This section also administers the collection and analysis of statewide water use data in accordance with the Major Water User Law. The Dam and Reservoir Safety staff and the Dam and Reservoir Safety Council are responsible for ensuring all new and existing non-agricultural, non-federal dams 35 feet or more in height meet minimum safety standards as established by the Dam and Reservoir Safety Law. The center also provides technical support to the Missouri Drought Assessment Committee and leadership and coordination of regional water resources planning initiatives and wetland activities.

The EIERA finances projects with tax-exempt bonds and notes, conducts environmental studies and provides technical and financial assistance for market development. The EIERA's mandate is broad, and assistance can be offered to businesses, institutions, municipalities and government agencies for energy conservation and environmental projects.

Division of Administrative Support

The Division of Administrative Support provides the department with administrative and management support. Budget development, internal audit, accounting, human resources, procurement, grants management and general services are functions performed by the division. The division reviews proposed policies, regulations and legislation to determine fiscal or procedural impacts on the department. Procedures are developed to implement the approved policies, regulations and legislation.

The Budget Program is responsible for developing the department's annual operating and capital improvement budgets as well as the preparation of management and legislative reports.

The Internal Audit Program performs audits of departmental activities to evaluate internal controls and compliance with laws, regulations, policies as well as efficiencies and effectiveness of meeting department goals and objectives.

The Accounting Program is responsible for purchasing, fixed assets, accounts payable and maintenance; grant, project and fund accounting, reporting and monitoring; grant and fund fiscal management receipt processing and special projects and analyses.

LORI GORDON

LLONA WEISS
Director
Division of Energy

The Human Resources Program is responsible for administering the human resources function for the department. This program assists all divisions with position classification, implements the provisions of the state personnel law, interprets employee benefits, conducts personnel research, coordinates training, provides career counseling and maintains personnel records for all employees of the department.

The General Services Program is responsible for maintenance and operation of the agency's motor pool, maintenance and operation of a centralized mailroom and supply center, surplus of departmental property and coordination of telecommunications. The program acts as liaison with the Office of Administration, Division of Facilities Management.

The Division of Energy helps Missourians meet their energy needs by focusing primarily on three areas of responsibility: advocating for renewable energy resources and technologies, encouraging the use of energy-efficient practices and technologies, and analyzing energy supplies and prices to benefit Missouri's environment and economy.

The division provides technical and financial assistance for energy efficiency and renewable energy improvements; supports market development and demonstration projects promoting clean energy sources and technologies; provides energy data, information and research on energy issues to all Missourians and promotes policies that support energy efficiency.

Employees work with residential, agricultural, educational, local government, business and industrial clients to develop energy-efficiency programs and measures that pay back the initial investment within a reasonable time frame. Staff consult with the Office of Administration and other agencies to integrate energy efficiency into state buildings and purchases.

The department monitors energy supplies and prices, works with state decision-makers to help ensure adequate energy supplies for Missouri and reviews policy issues relevant to Missouri energy needs.

Staff trains other state agencies to use alternative fuel vehicles in compliance with state laws. It also partners with the federal Clean Cities programs in Missouri's metropolitan areas to strive for cleaner air and water through alternative transportation fuels and technologies. Staff manages the Mid-Missouri Rideshare Program and connects Missouri commuters to the carpooling program nearest them.

The department provides financial assistance for energy efficiency projects and administers the weatherization assistance program, which serves Missouri citizens through 18 local agencies. The program makes more than 2,000 family homes more energy efficient and safe each year by installing features such as wall and attic insulation, cleaning and tuning heating systems and reducing air infiltration. The department's energy revolving loan fund helps schools, colleges, universities and local governments finance energy-efficiency projects so that money saved can be used for other public needs.

Missouri Weatherization Assistance Policy Advisory Council

The council provides policy review and recommendations for delivery of the Weatherization Assistance Program in Missouri. Federal regulations require that a policy advisory council be formed to advise the department on weatherization program issues and distribution of financial assistance. The council reviews and makes recommendations to the department pertaining to the Missouri Weatherization State Plan, federal grant application and programmatic policies.

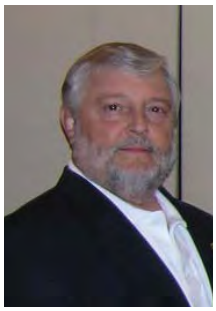
Division of Environmental Quality

Telephone: 573-751-0763 / FAX: 573-751-9277



Protecting and enhancing the quality of Missouri's environment is the responsibility of the department's Division of Environmental Quality. The division assists Missourians with these goals through the traditional roles of permitting and inspections and through proactive efforts to revitalize contaminated sites for redevelopment. Through its regional offices, the department provides compliance assistance, permitting, inspections and other environmental expertise closest to where Missourians live and work. This division also is responsible for protecting and enhancing Missouri's water quality. The division certifies and tracks the required continuing education of all operators of public drinking water systems, wastewater systems and concentrated animal feeding operation waste management systems. The division works to ensure clean air, land and water by cleaning up pollution from the past, addressing pollution problems of today and identifying potential pollution issues of the future. The division administers six technical programs: air pollution control, environmental services, hazardous waste management, land reclamation, solid waste management and water protection.

Air Pollution Control Program

The Air Pollution Control Program works to maintain the purity of Missouri's air to protect the health, general welfare and property of the citizens. The program researches, develops and implements control strategies that help Missouri improve air quality and implement the federal Clean Air Act.

The program evaluates industries wanting to operate in Missouri, predicting their emissions and their impact on the state's air quality and requiring restrictions on emissions where necessary. The program issues construction and operating permits, selects locations for air monitoring equipment and analyzes data collected from these monitors. The program also surveys and inspects sources of air pollution. If a source consistently violates the state's air pollution control regulations, it is subject to enforcement action to return the facility to compliance.

Under the state's federally required plan, the Air Pollution Control Program implements a vehicle emissions testing program in the St. Louis ozone nonattainment area. Ozone is a respiratory irritant that can cause health problems, especially for children, the elderly and people with heart and lung diseases. Through this program, all 1996-and-newer gas-powered vehicles and 1997-and-newer diesel-powered vehicles 8,500 pounds or less registered in the St. Louis ozone nonattainment area are tested to ensure emissions systems are working properly. This program is a key component of the ongoing effort to improve air quality in the St. Louis region.

The Air Pollution Control Program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with local, state and federal air quality regulations. The program carries out the policies established by the Air Conservation Commission.

Air Conservation Commission

The Missouri Air Conservation Commission carries out the Missouri Air Conservation Law. The commission's activities are directed toward achieving and maintaining the National Ambient (outdoor) Air Quality Standards. When air quality in an area meets all standards, the area is considered to be in attainment. If air monitors detect too much of a pollutant, the area is labeled as nonattainment for that pollutant.

The commission adopts, amends and rescinds rules related to air quality and assigns duties to local air pollution control agencies. The commission, through a program involving four delegated local governments and citizens' input, develops strategies for bringing pollutants down to safe levels in nonattainment areas. The commission makes decisions on appeals from enforcement orders and permit conditions. When necessary, the commission also begins legal actions to ensure compliance with Missouri Air Conservation Law and rules.

Small Business Compliance Advisory Committee

The Small Business Compliance Advisory Committee and Small Business Ombudsman are supported by the Air Pollution Control Program. The Clean Air Amendments require states to implement a three-component program to assist small businesses in their efforts to comply with air regulations: the Small Business Ombudsman, technical assistance to small businesses, and the compliance advisory committee.

Environmental Services Program

The Environmental Services Program provides department staff with accurate scientific data to perform their work. The program performs field work, conducts monitoring, collects samples and provides laboratory testing for pollutants.

The program's Emergency Environmental Response section, with staff located throughout the state, responds to hazardous substance spills anywhere in the state, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The department's 24-hour spill notification line logs approximately 1,700 incidents a year. Staff coordinate the department's response to the State Emergency Operations Center during manmade or natural disasters and participate in homeland security efforts. They also oversee the disposal of drug lab chemicals and provide drug-lab-related training to law enforcement.

The Environmental Services Program operates the state's primary laboratory for drinking water chemistry and environmental chemistry, performing approximately 332,000 parameters per year. This includes performing laboratory analysis for nearly 230,000 parameters on drinking water from public supplies.

Staff operate air monitoring instruments at more than 40 locations throughout Missouri, perform air quality studies and upload air quality data to the Internet for public access. The program operates an audit program for air instruments in the state.

The program also conducts water quality monitoring for compliance with wastewater permits. It performs fish tissue sampling, stream surveys, bacterial analyses of surface waters, toxicity analyses, waste load allocations, biological monitoring, landfill groundwater and gas monitoring, and complaint sampling.

Hazardous Waste Program

The department's Hazardous Waste Program protects public health and the environment by keeping Missouri's water, soil and air from being polluted with hazardous wastes and hazardous substances. In addition to enforcing state and federal laws passed to ensure proper management of hazardous wastes being generated today, the program also oversees the cleanup of problem sites resulting from poor waste management in the past.

The Hazardous Waste Program reviews permit applications that, if approved, may allow facilities to treat, store for longer than 90 days or dispose of hazardous waste in accordance with environmental laws and regulations. These permits can also authorize facilities to perform certain types of cleanup activities. The program provides oversight for hazardous waste treatment, storage and disposal facilities in Missouri.

The program maintains a database for more than 15,500 Missouri sites registered as generators of hazardous waste. Many of these sites are no longer generating waste but the information is maintained for future reference.

The program's compliance and enforcement staff help the regional offices inspect generators and treatment, storage and disposal facilities. The program oversees cleanup activities at active and formerly used federal facilities in Missouri. These facilities include those owned or operated by the U.S. Department of Energy, U.S. Department of Defense, other federal agencies and, in some cases, companies that have a contractual tie with one of the federal agencies. The program also currently provides oversight and long-term stewardship at Minuteman II missile sites.

The program's Superfund section evaluates and cleans up federal National Priorities List sites, sites not listed and sites on, or proposed, for the Registry of Abandoned or Uncontrolled Sites in Missouri.

The program promotes voluntary cleanups by allowing landowners to pay voluntarily for state oversight of hazardous substance cleanups. Brownfield cleanups put properties back into productive use, encourage redevelopment and increase economic development in distressed areas.

The department's Hazardous Waste Program has oversight of underground storage tanks and leaking underground storage tanks that contain petroleum, as well as contaminated dry cleaner sites. The program carries out the policies of the Hazardous Waste Management Commission.

Hazardous Waste Management Commission

The Hazardous Waste Management Commission encourages efforts to recycle, incinerate, properly dispose of or otherwise treat hazardous waste. The commission is responsible for categorizing hazardous waste by disposal method and determines fees to be paid by owners or operators of hazardous waste facilities that must obtain a permit. The commission establishes regulations for the generation, transportation, treatment, storage, cleanup and disposal of hazardous waste and hazardous substances. The commission also hears appeals and rules on requests for variances.

All members represent the general interest of the public and have an interest in and knowledge of waste management and the effects of improper waste management on the health of the public and the environment.

Land Reclamation Program

The Land Reclamation Program works with the mining industry and Missouri communities to minimize the environmental and health impacts of mining activities in Missouri.

The program carries out Missouri's Abandoned Mine Land program to reclaim abandoned coal mine sites within Missouri that have safety hazards or environmental problems. The program also regulates mining and reclamation activities and issues permits. Reclamation bonds ensure that sites are properly graded, replanted and maintained after mining ceases. After the mining company completes all required reclamation, the commission releases these financial assurances and relieves the responsible company of any further reclamation liabilities.

The program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with state and federal mining and land reclamation regulations.

Land Reclamation Commission

The Land Reclamation Commission is the ruling body over Missouri's mining requirements set forth in three state statutes. These mining statutes protect public health, safety and the environment from the adverse effect of mining and assure the beneficial restoration of mined lands.

The Land Reclamation Commission is responsible for issuing mining permits and oversees Missouri's Abandoned Mine Land program. The commission establishes rules and regulations for mining activities and oversees investigations and inspections necessary to ensure compliance. The commission conducts hearings and when necessary may revoke a permit, order a forfeiture of bonds or cease operations at a facility for failure to comply.

The seven-member commission includes three statutory and four public members. The statutory members include the state geologist, the director of the Missouri Department of Conservation and the staff director of the Clean Water Commission. The four public members must have an interest in and knowledge of conservation and land reclamation, and one must have training and experience in surface mining. Only one member of the commission may have a direct link with the mining industry. With Senate approval, the governor appoints four public members. All members serve a four-year term and continue until their successors are appointed.

Regional and Satellite Offices

The regional offices and satellite offices assist with local environmental matters. Regional offices in St. Louis, Kansas City, Springfield, Poplar Bluff and Macon provide the department closer contact with the public through field inspections of regulated facilities, complaint investigation, front-line troubleshooting and technical assistance, as well as local environmental emergency response.

Solid Waste Management Program

The department's Solid Waste Management Program works to help Missourians and Missouri businesses properly manage their solid waste to protect public health and the environment.

The Solid Waste Management Program issues permits and permit modifications for solid waste disposal and processing facilities. Staff review proposed permits for facility design, construction, operations and proper monitoring controls. Program staff inspect permitted facilities quarterly and oversee the operations of these facilities. In addition, staff investigate reports of illegal dumping across Missouri and teach state regulations to landfill operators. Enforcement activities are conducted when necessary to ensure proper solid waste management. Other focuses of the program include planning, financial and technical assistance and educational activities that inform the public of the relationship between individual consumption and solid waste management.

The Solid Waste Management Program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with state and federal solid waste regulations.

Solid Waste Advisory Board

The Solid Waste Advisory Board advises the department about the effectiveness of its technical assistance and challenges experienced by the solid waste management districts in developing and implementing solid waste management plans. The board advises the department and develops improved methods of solid waste minimization, recycling and resource recovery.

The membership of this board consists of the chair of the executive board of each of Missouri's 20 recognized solid waste management districts; three public members; two representatives from the solid waste industry; and one representative from the recycling or composting industry appointed by the director of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources.

Water Protection Program

The department's Water Protection Program regulates pollutants entering the state's waters by issuing permits for the construction and operation of wastewater and stormwater discharges. Permits set wastewater treatment levels necessary to protect water quality. These treatment levels are included in permits issued to municipal, industrial and other dischargers. The program evaluates discharge-monitoring and other data and permits to determine whether facilities comply with applicable laws. When a source violates the Missouri Clean Water Law, the program works with the facility to correct the problem and may assess penalties if necessary to obtain compliance with the requirement.

Water quality standards protect beneficial uses of water such as swimming, maintaining fish and other aquatic life and providing drinking water for people, livestock and wildlife. The program also develops water quality standards that provide clear expectations for Missouri water quality and conducts monitoring to determine if the standards are met. Waters that do not meet these standards are placed on the 303(d) list, which provides a focus for special attention to restore water quality in the lakes, streams and rivers. Once a waterway is added to the 303(d) list, the department develops and implements a study to correct the water impairments. Generally, this study takes the form of a total maximum daily load document. The document describes the maximum amount of a pollutant that may enter a water body without violating water quality standards.

In addition, the program reviews plans and issues permits for the construction and operation of public drinking water systems and requires these systems to monitor for contaminants and take corrective action if any health-based standards are exceeded. The program performs monitoring of drinking water and conducts periodic inspections and provides compliance assistance on water supply problems to cities, water districts, subdivisions, mobile home parks and other facilities.

Financial assistance is provided through grants and low-interest loans to local governments to assist in the construction of wastewater, drinking water and storm water facilities. The program also provides financial and technical assistance for the control of nonpoint source pollution caused by agriculture, mining, transportation and other activities.

The Water Protection Program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with state and federal water regulations.

Clean Water Commission

The Clean Water Commission brings together and coordinates all aspects of water pollution control in an effort to assure the state maintains progress toward protecting, preserving and improving water quality in Missouri. The commission enforces the federal Clean Water Law, adopts rules and policies, is responsible for permits for the construction and operation of wastewater treatment facilities or other point sources and hears appeals based on those permit decisions. The commission is responsible for the inspection and monitoring of water contaminant sources and investigates complaints from the public. When necessary, the commission will take enforcement action against those who violate the Missouri Clean Water Law and related regulations. The commission also establishes funding priorities and oversees financial assistance to protect and preserve water quality.

All commission members represent the general interest of the public and shall have an interest in and knowledge of conservation and the effects and control of water contaminants.

Safe Drinking Water Commission

The purpose of the Safe Drinking Water Commission is to ensure all 2,800 public water systems in Missouri provide safe drinking water. The commission adopts rules to carry out the requirements of the Missouri Safe Drinking Water Law and Federal Safe Drinking Water Act. The commission establishes criteria and procedures for administering the Drinking Water State Revolving Fund, which makes federal and state loan funds available to communities to upgrade and improve their drinking water systems.

All members of the commission represent the general interest of the public or public water systems.

Division of Geology and Land Survey

Telephone: 573-368-2100 / FAX: 573-368-2111

The Geology and Land Survey Division provides technical assistance, education and guidance in the use and protection of Missouri's natural resources, interprets the state's geological setting, helps determine the availability of its energy and mineral resources, evaluates and interprets geological hazards, regulates well drillers and maintains the Public Land Survey System to support accurate land boundaries in the state. The division restores land survey monuments, provides survey data and defines hazardous areas, such as those subject to earthquake or catastrophic collapse.

The division cooperates with the U.S. Geological Survey on numerous projects, including the National Cooperative Geologic Mapping Program. The division also performs work under contract for other state agencies through grants and agreements.

Division Director and State Geologist

The division director serves as the state geologist and is responsible for ensuring that statutory obligations are met. The state geologist is the administrator of the Missouri State Oil and Gas Council; serves on the Well Installation Board, Land Reclamation Commission and Industrial Minerals Advisory Council; and is a Missouri representative to the Central United States Earthquake Consortium.

Geological Survey Program

The Geological Survey Program uses geologic information and knowledge to assist Missouri citizens in the management of natural resources for a higher standard of living and healthy natural environment. The program gathers data that describes and interprets Missouri's vast geological resources, which is important in making land-use decisions. This information is necessary for locating mineral deposits, managing groundwater resources, selecting waste disposal facilities and evaluating geologic hazards. The program receives thousands of requests for geological assistance each year.

Staff in this program also conduct geologic field investigations that provide technical assistance to the public and government agencies. These services include determining the environmental hazards posed by waste disposal sites and spills of hazardous materials. Geological principles also are applied to minimize the impact of chemical releases or spills.

The Geological Survey Program works to protect groundwater from contamination through regulation of the construction of wells, plugging of abandoned wells and licenses all Missouri well drillers and pump installers. In addition to assistance provided in siting waste disposal facilities, the program also implements the Oil and Gas Act and the Underground Injection Control Program of the Safe Drinking Water Act.

State Oil and Gas Council

The State Oil and Gas Council promotes the economic development and production of Missouri's oil and gas resources, works to ensure that wastes generated by oil and gas wells are managed properly and protects groundwater aquifers that may be affected by oil and gas well drilling.

Land Survey Program

The division's Land Survey Program provides information and resources for the accurate location of all private and public boundaries in Missouri. The program is responsible for the restoration and preservation of the original corner monuments established by the General Land Office for the U.S. Public Land Survey System. The division also maintains a records storage and retrieval system for all land survey records and geodetic data.

Land Survey Advisory Committee

The Land Survey Advisory Committee is appointed by the director of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources. The five members advise the department director on program planning, prioritization and regulations pertinent to land surveying in Missouri.

Dopuch, Paul, P.L.S., chair, Gasconade County Surveyor;
Detring, Cara L., J.D., land title industry member;
Emerick, Stan L., P.L.S., land survey industry member;
King, Darrell L., public member, Moniteau County Assessor;
Riggs, Ray, P.L.S., land survey industry member.

Industrial Minerals Advisory Council

The Industrial Minerals Advisory Council is composed of eight representatives of the industrial minerals industry who are appointed by the director of the department. The representatives include three from limestone producers and one each from industries involved in mining clay, sandstone, sand and gravel, barite and granite. Other members include the director (or designee) of the Department of Transportation and the director (or designee) of the Department of Natural Resources, who acts as chairperson of the council.

The primary duty of the council is to advise the department on the collection, processing, management and distribution of geologic and hydrologic information to assist the industrial mineral industry. Expenditures from the geologic resources fund, which was created to complete these activities, are reviewed by the council, and the council advises the department on appropriate fees to support the fund.

Gillman, Joe, chair, director and state geologist, Division of Geology and Land Survey.

Well Installation Board

The Well Installation Board adopts and amends rules governing well construction and the well drilling industry to protect Missouri's groundwater resources. The board also oversees the examination and licensing of all well drillers and pump installers and takes actions against those who violate the Water Well Driller's Act and Well Construction Rules. The board acts as an appeal board by sustaining, reversing or modifying enforcement orders issued by the Division of Environmental Quality after an appeal has been made by an affected person.

All members of the board are conversant in well drilling, completion and plugging methods and techniques.

Division of State Parks

Telephone: 800-334-6946 or 573-751-2479 / FAX: 573-751-8656
Mostateparks.com

This division develops and manages state parks and historic sites and coordinates statewide programs in the areas of outdoor recreation and trails. The division is funded primarily through the parks and soils sales tax, which was approved by voters in 1984, 1988, 1996 and 2006.

In addition to providing Missourians with recreational opportunities, this division preserves natural and historically significant resources and houses the State Historic Preservation Office. The division also coordinates federal grants in the areas of outdoor recreation and trails.

State Historic Preservation Office

The Department of Natural Resources receives federal Historic Preservation Fund monies from the U.S. Department of the Interior's National Park Service. These funds are used to help identify, evaluate and protect Missouri's cultural resources.

The department coordinates surveys statewide to identify historic, architectural and archaeological resources. Significant properties identified in the surveys may be nominated to the National Register of Historic Places. Missouri has approximately 2,053 listings on the National Register, representing more than 37,000 historic buildings, sites, structures and objects. The Missouri Cultural Resource Inventory is being built from information gathered from the survey and nomination process.

As part of its federally mandated responsibilities, the department reviews all federally funded or licensed projects in Missouri to ensure compliance with related federal legislation. The department also administers federal Historic Preservation Fund matching grants. Through Missouri's Certified Local Government program, the department trains municipalities in local preservation techniques and awards federal matching grants to help accomplish local preservation goals.

Since 1976, federal tax incentives and related legislation have promoted interest in rehabilitating historic buildings. In 1998, that interest was augmented with the authorization of state tax credits, administered by the Missouri Department of Economic Development. The federal tax credits are available to private investors who rehabilitate historic buildings for uses that produce income, such as office buildings and apartments. The Department of Natural Resources reviews both federal and state tax credit applications for historic eligibility and conformity with preservation guidelines.

The State Historic Preservation Office also administers the Missouri Heritage Properties Program using funds from the Missouri's Historic Preservation Revolving Fund. The program provides assistance to help preserve endangered publicly owned historic buildings.

Missouri Advisory Council on Historic Preservation

This council reviews all Missouri nominations to the National Register of Historic Places and advises the state's historic preservation officer.

Unmarked Human Burial Consultation Committee

This committee was established under provisions of Missouri's Unmarked Human Burial Act, which governs the disposition of unmarked human burial remains uncovered during ground-disturbing activities.

Appointed by the governor, the seven-member committee, which includes an archaeologist, an anthropologist and representatives of minority and American Indian groups, makes final decisions as to the respectful treatment and appropriate reburial of all recovered unmarked human remains.

State Parks and Historic Sites

Protecting, developing and interpreting a well-balanced system featuring areas of outstanding natural and historic importance are the functions of the Division of State Parks. The park system includes more than 80 state parks and historic sites totaling more than 145,000 acres, plus 60,000 acres in the Roger Pryor Pioneer Backcountry. More than 16 million people visit the system annually.

State parks protect outstanding natural features and interpret their significance for the general public. Recreational opportunities include camping, picnicking, swimming, boating, fishing and hiking. State historic sites commemorate events or structures of statewide historical importance and honor people of state and national importance.

Missouri State Park Advisory Board

The governor-appointed board was created in 1986 to advise the department on matters relating to state parks and historic sites.

Grant Management

The Division of State Parks is responsible for administering federal grant programs that provide financial assistance to individuals, groups and public entities for a variety of purposes.

The division administers funds from the Recreational Trails Program, which provides federal money for the development of trails. The Missouri Trails Advisory Board makes recommendations on grant awards and policy issues for the grant program.

The division also administers and monitors projects funded through the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund program, which provides federal funds for local outdoor recreation projects. The grants are awarded through the State Inter Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation (SIACOR), which also provides advice and a forum for outdoor recreation problems.

SIACOR members include the commissioner of the Office of Administration, a representative from the University of Missouri and directors of the departments of Natural Resources, Agriculture, Conservation, Economic Development, Transportation and Social Services. The director of the Department of Natural Resources serves as council chair.

Mission

Established in 1974, the Department of Public Safety (DPS) coordinates statewide law enforcement, criminal justice and public safety efforts to ensure a safe environment for Missourians. The department "will provide a safe and secure environment for all individuals through efficient and effective law enforcement, national defense, disaster preparedness, service to veterans and education." The department is organized into nine separate agencies: Office of the Director, Missouri Capitol Police, Division of Fire Safety, Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control, Missouri State Highway Patrol, Missouri National Guard (Office of the Adjutant General), State Emergency Management Agency, Missouri Veterans Commission and Missouri Gaming Commission.

Office of the Director

The director of public safety is appointed to this cabinet-level position by the governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate. The director is responsible for developing public safety programs, peace officer training and certification and providing legislative guidance on criminal justice issues. Additionally, the director is responsible for overseeing distribution of state and federal resources and funds in contracts for narcotics control, victims' assistance, substance abuse treatment, crime prevention and juvenile justice. As the department's central management unit, the director's office coordinates departmental budget, personnel, legislative matters and related financial and administrative activities. The director's office is also responsible for the administration of specific programs conferred upon it by the legislature or governor. These programs are:

Administration of the federal Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act Formula Grant Program (Title II), Community Prevention Grant Program (Title V), Juvenile Accountability Block Grant Program (JABG), and Enforcing Underage Drinking Laws Grant Program from the U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention for projects to improve juvenile justice in Missouri and provide staff support for the state Juvenile Justice Advisory Group (JJAG).

The Criminal Justice/Law Enforcement Unit administers the following federal grant programs: Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant (JAG); Local Law Enforcement Block Grant (LLEBG); Multi-Jurisdictional Cyber Crime Grant (MJCCG); Residential Substance Abuse Treatment (RSAT); John R. Justice (JRJ); and Paul Coverdell National Forensic Sciences (PCNFS) and the following state grant program: Missouri Crime Lab Upgrade Program (MCLUP), and coordinates the Department of Defense (DOD) Logistical Support Program and Missouri Crime Prevention Information Center. The JAG program makes funds available for law enforcement, drug enforcement, Drug Abuse Resistance Program (DARE) and school resources officers, drug treatment, information sharing/technology, and other prevention initiatives that strengthen the criminal justice system. The LLEBG program awards funds to law enforcement agencies to purchase equipment directly related to basic law enforcement functions and officer safety. The MJCCG program makes funds available to reduce and prevent Internet crimes against children. The RSAT program assists state and local governments in developing and implementing substance abuse treatment programs in correctional and detention facilities. The JRJ program provides loan repayment assistance for state and federal public defenders and state prosecutors. The PCNFS program makes funds available to help improve the quality and timeliness of forensic sciences within crime laboratories. The MCLUP program provides financial assistance to defray expenses of crime laboratories. The DOD program provides excess military equipment to civilian law enforcement agencies for use in counternarcotics, counterterrorism operations and officer safety. The Missouri Crime Prevention Information Center provides a means for individuals and agencies to acquire the resource materials, technical assistance, knowledge and skills necessary to develop, implement and educate crime prevention and intervention programs.

The Missouri Crime Victim Services Unit administers the federal Victims of Crime Act (VOCA); federal STOP Violence Against Women Act (VAWA); Sexual Assault Services Program (SASP); and the State Services to Victims Fund (SSVF) and oversees the Missouri Office for Victims of Crime, which maintains the statewide automated crime victim notification system (MoVANS), and provides guidance to not-for-profit agencies and local and state governments on practices and policies that impact crime victims. VOCA, VAWA, SASP and SSVF provide grants that fund local victim service providers, law enforcement agencies, prosecutors and other public and private nonprofit agencies to assist crime victims in Missouri. The unit strives to ensure that people affected by crime are treated with fairness, dignity and respect and to open up lines of communication between victim organizations and the government.

Crime Victims' Compensation Program

The Crime Victims' Compensation Program (CVC) financially assists victims of violent crime in paying for reasonable medical expenses, counseling expenses, funeral expenses, lost wages and loss of support. In the case of death, the program can help the victim's dependents with loss of support if the victim was gainfully employed. As a payor of last resort, the program considers out-of-pocket expenses only after all collateral sources have been exhausted. A maximum benefit of $25,000 may be awarded on eligible claims.

Sexual Assault Forensic Examination Program

The Sexual Assault Forensic Examination (SAFE) Program provides payment to cover the cost of gathering evidence during the forensic examination for victims of sexual crimes in Missouri. The medical provider is required to bill the SAFE Program for reasonable charges incurred during the forensic examination. The patient may not be billed for any forensic examination charges.

Peace Officer Standards and Training Program (POST)

Office of Homeland Security

The overall responsibility for Missouri's homeland security program falls under the Department of Public Safety. The director of public safety, which is a cabinet-level position, is the governor's designated "Homeland Security Advisor." The core DPS agencies, including the National Guard, Highway Patrol, Fire Marshal, State Emergency Management Agency (SEMA) and Capitol Police, all support and are considered key to keeping Missouri safe and secure.

The overall day-to-day responsibilities in the state's homeland security program lie with the homeland security coordinator, who is the director of the Missouri Office of Homeland Security (OHS). OHS is the designated "State Administrative Agency" (SAA) and responsible for applying for and administering all homeland security grants for the state. Responsibilities for homeland security related training and exercises also reside in OHS. OHS works closely with other stakeholders to ensure a "one state-one strategy" program. The governor's Homeland Security Advisory Council (HSAC) and the Regional Homeland Security Oversight Committees (RHSOC) work with the Office of Homeland Security to ensure seamless engagement and a feeling of ownership of Missouri's homeland security program down to the community and rural areas of the state.

Advisory Committee for 9-1-1 Service Oversight

The Missouri State Legislature, through state statute (section 650.330, RSMo), established a committee on 9-1-1 service oversight, with the director of public safety designated to be the chair of the committee. In the late 1990s, 9-1-1 issues at the state level were coordinated through the Office of Administration by executive order. These duties were transferred to the Department of Public Safety, Office of Homeland Security in 2009, and currently fall under the responsibility of the homeland security coordinator. The Office of Homeland Security serves as the state contact point for 9-1-1 issues and is the state administrative agent for related grant administration purposes.

The Advisory Committee for 9-1-1 Service Oversight assists the governor and General Assembly, aids in collecting and disseminating information relating to use of a universal emergency telephone number, reviews existing and proposed legislation, provides recommendations for model systems considered in preparing a model 9-1-1 service plan and provides requested mediation services to political subdivisions involved in 9-1-1 jurisdictional disputes.

Sub-Committees

1. Legislative—provide recommendations regarding proposed legislation as it relates to 9-1-1;
2. Professional Standards—provide training standards/certification, basic certification, continuing education, course/provider approval, promotes model training practices, and provide administrative support;

3. Operating/Technical Standards—identify and promote model operating policies, practices, procedures and technical standards;
4. Grant/Funding Peer Review;
5. Technical—inventory of 9-1-1 status in Missouri, identify technology best practices, identify and evaluate emerging technologies and explore shared solutions;
6. Education/Outreach—education and outreach to elected officials, public safety leadership, other stakeholders and the public.

Since 1983, Missouri Capitol Police have been the primary law enforcement agency for the 72 acre state office building campus known as the Capitol Complex. Located within that area are: the State Capitol Building, Jefferson Building, Transportation Building, Supreme Court, James C. Kirkpatrick State Information Center, Broadway Building, Truman Building, Governor's Mansion, Jefferson Landing historic site and associated parking facilities and grounds. In recent years, Capitol Police have expanded their services to include state agencies and facilities that have moved from the Capitol Complex to other areas in Jefferson City. Capitol Police have statutory authority on all state owned/leased property in Cole County. Capitol Police oversee a computerized, centrally monitored, fire/life safety/after-hours entry control system in the Capitol Complex buildings. Closed-circuit television monitoring in strategic locations and automatic ring-down emergency telephones have been among several security improvements added since 1983.

Field Operations

Missouri Capitol Police officers patrol the buildings and grounds in their jurisdiction, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Patrols are made on foot, by vehicle and on bicycle. Criminal investigations, medical emergencies, traffic accidents, security and fire alarms and security escorts are only a few of the many incidents and calls for service that officers provide to over 15,000 state employees and over 200,000 annual visitors to the seat of government.

Executive Protection

Since 1978, officers have staffed the Missouri Governor's Mansion. A team of specially trained and certified police officers are assigned on a full-time basis to the Missouri Governor's Mansion. Officers on this team provide residential security for the state's first family 24 hours a day. Training has been provided for these officers by the U.S. Secret Service, Pennsylvania State Police and other executive protection agencies.

Communications Operations

Capitol Police Communications and Command Center is a point of contact for those who need police services in the Capitol Complex 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Communications operators utilize computer terminals that interface with the Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System (MULES), the National Crime Information Center (NCIC), the Missouri Department of Revenue Motor Vehicle and Operator files and other information systems. In addition to radio and telephone communications with the public and other agencies, communications operators are responsible for management of a fire/life safety monitoring system, which includes fire, intrusion and duress alarms; after-hours building access for most complex facilities; and collection of weather-related information for implementation and dissemination of the State Employee's Hazardous Travel Policy.

The Missouri state fire marshal's office was established by the 76th Missouri General Assembly in 1973. Effective September 1985, the office was renamed the Division of Fire Safety and was housed within the Missouri Department of Public Safety.

The division is charged with the oversight and enforcement of programs that maintain the safety and well-being of the general public. Responsibilities include: providing fire safety standards and inspections for all state-licensed facilities; investigating fires and explosions in the state upon request; regulating the use and sale of fireworks and licensing fireworks operators; training and certification of fire fighters and emergency response personnel; inspecting and licensing noexempt boilers and pressure vessels; inspecting and issuing operating permits for elevator-related equipment; inspecting and issuing operating permits for amusement rides; monitoring of fire emergencies and assisting local, area and regional fire authorities through the State Fire Mutual Aid System; overseeing the rules and regulations relating to the licensing of explosive blasters and the registration of explosive users; and overseeing the fire standard compliant cigarette program.

Fire Service Training/Certification

The Division of Fire Safety's Training and Certification Unit is responsible for the training and certification of over 25,000 firefighters in the state of Missouri. In addition, the unit's customers include representatives from fire service, law enforcement, private industry and other state agencies. The division offers 14 different courses and 15 levels of state certification. The Missouri Division of Fire Safety is accredited through the International Fire Service Accreditation Congress, National Board of Fire Service Professional Qualifications and the Peace Officer Standards and Training Commission.

State Fire Mutual Aid

The Division of Fire Safety coordinates activation and deployment of local resources when interregional mutual aid assistance is requested. When an incident occurs within any one of the nine mutual aid regions and all local resources become exhausted, the regional coordinator contacts the Division of Fire Safety's State Mutual Aid Coordinator to request mutual aid assistance of specific resources. The state coordinator in turn contacts mutual aid coordinators within unaffected regions to locate and deploy the needed resources to the impacted region. With information gathered from the annual Fire Department Registration program and continued input and support from all fire service agencies, the system stands ready to mitigate the effects of small or large scale emergencies. The State Mutual Aid Coordinator also administers the National Fire Incident Reporting System.

Fire Safety Education/Advisory Commission

The Division of Fire Safety addresses the fire service training needs of our state through contracts in cooperation with community colleges, colleges, regional training facilities, fire and emergency services training entities and universities as appropriated. The Missouri Fire Safety Education/Advisory Commission reviews and determines appropriate programs and activities for which funds may be expended and advises the division accordingly.

Fire Safety Inspection

Fire safety inspectors conduct inspections of facilities and locations licensed or certified by state agencies including the Department of Health and Senior Services, the Department of Mental Health, the Division of Family Services, and Senior Citizens Nutrition Centers. These inspections, based upon nationally recognized codes and standards, are designed to eliminate fire safety hazards for occupants of childcare homes and centers, facilities and homes providing care for the mentally challenged, foster care providers and facilities housing at-risk youth.

State statute requires the Division of Fire Safety to oversee fire protection sprinkler systems, fire alarm systems, and smoke sections in residential care facilities and assisted living facilities. Approximately 600 existing facilities require an annual inspection by the Division of Fire Safety in coordination with the Department of Health and Senior Services.

Fire Investigation

The Fire Investigation Unit provides fire and explosive-related investigative services to Missouri's fire service and law enforcement agencies. Under section 320.230, RSMo, the state fire marshal and the appointed investigators are responsible for investigating incidents involving the possibility of arson, explosion, or related offenses as requested by the fire service, law enforcement or prosecuting attorneys within the state. Investigators are trained in several fields of expertise to include insurance fraud, explosive recognition, weapons of mass destruction and post-blast investigations.

Fire Investigators are Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) certified law enforcement officers with the power of arrest for criminal offenses when investigating the cause, origin or circumstances of fires, explosions, or similar occurrences involving the possibility of arson or related offenses. Investigators also have arrest powers when aiding and assisting the sheriff of any county or the chief of police or designated representative upon request.

The unit has an explosive-detection canine team for assistance with bomb threat searches and security details.

Fireworks Enforcement

The Division of Fire Safety is charged with enforcing section 320.106, RSMo, involving the investigation, permission, and inspection of the fireworks industry in Missouri. This statute requires prospective manufacturers, distributors, jobbers, wholesalers, seasonal retailers and persons requesting special fireworks displays to apply to the Division of Fire Safety for a permit to do business in Missouri. Applicants must meet certain requirements, follow safety procedures, and acquire a fireworks license.

The scope of this program was broadened by the 2004 legislature with the addition of testing and licensing of individuals who shoot fireworks for public displays. This includes the previously exempt proximate (indoor) fireworks shows.

The division's inspection and investigation staff conduct inspections of facilities selling, manufacturing, or distributing fireworks.

Blasting Safety Act

The Blasting Safety Act was created in 2007 when the General Assembly enacted House Bill 298. This act established the Blasting Safety Board to develop and adopt a code of rules and regulations relating to the licensing of blasters and the registration of explosive users. The act also requires the division to investigate complaints involving blasting operations throughout the state.

The Blasting Safety Board continues to advise the division on rules and regulations governing the program.

Boiler and Pressure Vessel Rules

The Missouri Boiler and Pressure Vessel Act, per sections 650.200–650.295, RSMo, was passed in 1984 and became mandatory on November 12, 1986. The purpose of the law is to ensure the safety of the general public and those who work in the vicinity of boilers and pressure vessels and to protect property.

The act requires periodic inspections of boilers and pressure vessels and the issuance of a state operating certificate. These inspections are performed by certified inspectors in accordance with nationally recognized standards. Vessels found to have violations in relation to these standards are required to be repaired prior to the issuance of the state operating certificate. Accidents involving boilers or pressure vessels are investigated by the Boiler and Pressure Vessel Safety Unit.

The Board of Boiler and Pressure Vessel Rules advises the division on rules and regulations governing the program.

Elevator Safety Act

In 1994, the 86th General Assembly enacted House Bill 1035 creating the Elevator Safety Act. This act established an Elevator Safety Board to develop and adopt a code of rules and regulations relating to the construction, maintenance, testing and inspection of all elevators and similar devices, as well as the evaluation of variance requests.

The legislation requires annual safety inspections of every elevator and similar devices as specified in the statute. Upon an approved inspection, a state operating certificate is issued.

Amusement Ride Safety Act

In 1997, House Bill 276 was enacted relating to amusement ride safety. It requires annual safety inspections of all amusement rides and mandates each ride have a state operating permit before operating in the state. Additionally, the division staff has the authority to conduct spot inspections on any ride operating in the state.

This legislation places certain requirements upon amusement ride owners/operators when a death or serious physical injury occurs as a result of the operation of an amusement ride. If an injury or death occurs under the purview of the statute, the Division of Fire Safety initiates an investigation into the cause of the accident. The legislation also places certain restrictions on the riders of amusement rides. A violation of any restriction may result in criminal prosecution.

Staff of the elevator safety program perform the duties required to support the Amusement Ride Safety Act. This program is overseen by a nine-member Amusement Ride Safety Board, which advises the division on rules and regulations governing the program.

Fire Standard Compliant Cigarette Act

This act, passed in 2009, requires the Division of Fire Safety to oversee a program regulating the the sale of reduced ignition propensity cigarettes. Cigarettes sold in Missouri after December 31, 2010, must be fire safe compliant.

Division responsibilities include verification of individual cigarette brand styles based upon nationally recognized testing standards to assure compliance with state law. The division maintains a listing of cigarettes meeting the established performance standard, and this list is also provided to the state attorney general's office and Missouri Department of Revenue.

The Division recertifies the cigarettes every three years, approves cigarette pack FSC labeling and manages the Cigarette Fire Safety and Fire Fighter Protection Act Fund used to support fire prevention and safety programs.

The Department of Liquor Control was established by the Liquor Control Act in 1934 and was restructured as a division within the Department of Public Safety in 1974. The Division of Liquor Control's name was changed to the Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control (ATC) in 2003. The division's responsibilities are to enforce the liquor control laws under Chapter 311, RSMo, the youth access to tobacco law under Chapter 407, RSMo, and the rules and regulations of the state supervisor of Alcohol and Tobacco Control. The agency's responsibilities are primarily threefold: revenue collection, liquor licensing and liquor and tobacco regulatory compliance. The liquor control laws and the state's system of alcoholic beverage regulations are designed to ensure the public health and safety as affected by intoxicating beverages. Alcohol and Tobacco Control supervises the state's revenue derived from the collection of excise taxes on alcoholic beverages and license fees. Additionally, state statute mandates the division protect the consumer from tainted alcoholic products and the liquor industry from infiltration and exploitation by the criminal element.

The Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control is headed by the state supervisor, who is authorized to appoint and employ all agents and assistants as is necessary for the proper enforcement and administration of the Liquor Control Law and Youth Access to Tobacco Law.

The state supervisor has the authority under Chapter 311, RSMo, to promulgate regulations, issue liquor licenses an suspend, revoke or fine liquor licenses for liquor control law violations. The supervisor also has the authority under Chapter 407, RSMo, to issue citations prohibiting outlets from selling tobacco products for violations of youth access to tobacco law.

Licensing and Revenue Collection Section

The main function of the licensing and revenue collection section is to assure general compliance with liquor control laws requiring the collection of excise taxes on all alcoholic beverages brought into the state of Missouri. Approximately $32 million is collected annually from liquor, wine and beer taxes for deposit into the general revenue fund. This is achieved by regularly conducting audits of licensed manufacturers, wineries, breweries and wholesalers.

This section is responsible for overseeing compliance regarding primary American source of supply, product testing and brand registration, which provides assurances to Missouri citizens that products are safe for consumption, and all excise taxes due have been paid. The licensing section annually collects and processes over $4 million in license fees and processes over 29,000 license applications. This section is also responsible for retention of the division's records.

Regulatory Compliance Section

Alcohol and Tobacco Control's regulatory compliance section consists of five districts. The regulatory compliance section is supervised by the chief of enforcement and staffed with POST-certified special agents. Special agents are assigned to a district. Each district is responsible for licensing, conducting undercover investigations, responding to citizen complaints, working with local law enforcement and educating licensees on liquor control laws, tobacco laws and regulations.

Educational Programs

In recent years, ATC has taken a more proactive stance by providing industry education, server training and law enforcement education programs. Seminars for thousands of retail servers across the state have been conducted to reduce underage drinking, over-serving alcohol to customers and the sale of tobacco products to minors. Informational pamphlets are also provided to assist liquor licensees and tobacco outlets in complying with liquor control laws and tobacco laws. Alcohol and Tobacco Control also has an educational program to train law enforcement on the liquor control laws.

Summary

Recently, ATC has streamlined the liquor renewal process, utilized grants to provide more services and modernized revenue collections. The division has provided enhanced employee training to increase the professionalism of personnel. Greater information is provided to the public, liquor industry and tobacco merchants and local law enforcement to achieve an unprecedented level of efficiency and cost-effectiveness for Missourians.

Since its inception in 1931, the Missouri State Highway Patrol has evolved from a highway-patrolling force to a full service law enforcement agency with its primary emphasis remaining on traffic safety. The patrol's original force, established by the enactment of Chapter 43, RSMo, was 55 officers and a handful of civilians. Today, there are 1,184 uniformed members, 114 of whom are assigned to the Gaming Division, and 1,145 civilians in the Missouri State Highway Patrol. During its first 43 years, the patrol answered directly to the governor; however, during the government reorganization of 1974, it was placed under the Department of Public Safety. On January 1, 2011, the Missouri State Water Patrol was placed within the Missouri State Highway Patrol as the Water Patrol Division. The patrol is responsible not only for law enforcement on our state's highways and waterways, but also motor vehicle and commercial vehicle inspection programs, driver's license examinations, criminal investigations, crime laboratory analysis and research, public education on safety issues and more.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol is nationally known for the success of its drug interdiction program. Because of its central location in the United States and its major interstates, Missouri has become a crossroad for the distribution of drugs. Operation Cash Crop, the methamphetamine hotline, and the drug-trained canine unit make the patrol's drug interdiction program a success. In 2010, the patrol's drug interdiction program resulted in the seizure of over 12,907 pounds of marijuana, 427 pounds of cocaine, 11 pounds of methamphetamine and two pounds of crack cocaine, in addition to quantities of other illegal drugs. In connection with the drug interdiction program, 186 criminal arrests were made, and $3,516,596 in cash and 12 weapons were seized. In 2010, methamphetamine laboratory incidents totaled 1,960.

Since October 1997, the patrol's major crash investigation teams have provided a higher level of expertise and reporting in the field of traffic crash investigation. The office locations of Higginsville, Jackson, Wentzville and Springfield were chosen as the best sites in which to serve the main population of the state. In 2010, approximately 121 Level IV reconstructions (fatalities involving commercial vehicles, school buses, with felony charges against a driver, etc.) were completed. Additionally, these teams answered 191 calls for service to assist patrol members and other agencies with mapping of homicide scenes, crash data retrieval system downloads, photography of crash scenes, mapping and crash scene expertise.

The patrol's four fully equipped Special Weapons and Tactics Teams (SWAT) are located in Troop A, Troop C, Troop D, and Troop F. The teams are comprised of officers assigned to regular road duty. In 2010, the SWAT teams responded to a total of 31 incidents. The activations included barricaded subjects, high-risk search and arrest warrants, presidential security details and manhunts.

Missouri's Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS) is maintained and operated at the patrol's Criminal Justice Information Services Division. AFIS houses over 2.5 million tenprint cards. The system allows for the comparison of a set of fingerprints to the more than 2.5 million prints on file in a matter of minutes. AFIS has proven to be an exceptional identification tool for law enforcement agencies throughout the state in identifying and tracking criminals, identifying persons assuming another's identity, identifying persons who were at a crime scene, and identifying deceased persons found without identification. Law enforcement agencies are able to submit tenprints electronically via livescan devices.

In accordance with Missouri statutes, DNA collection includes all felons. The laboratory generated 790 "hits" against Combined DNA Index System entries in 2010.

The superintendent commands the Patrol, with the help of an assistant superintendent who is second-in-command, six majors, and a chief of staff, all of whom are uniformed members. A captain commands each of the nine troops and answers to the major assigned to the Field Operations Bureau. Twenty-one divisions organized under the remaining four bureaus lend administrative support to the troops and fulfill additional duties of the patrol. The Missouri Information Analysis Center reports directly to a bureau. The chief of staff serves as a legislative and governmental affairs liaison. This member serves at the pleasure of the superintendent and is considered a member of the patrol's command staff.

and with its employees. It also establishes consistency and uniformity within the troops/divisions.

Field Operations Bureau

The state of Missouri is divided into nine troops with headquarters in Lee's Summit, Macon, Weldon Spring, Springfield, Poplar Bluff, Jefferson City, Willow Springs, St. Joseph and Rolla. The Field Operations Bureau supervises all field activities.

The Aircraft Division assists in all phases of traffic law enforcement, in manhunts and searches for lost or missing persons and during major disasters, such as floods, tornadoes or major fires with an aerial observation platform and provides rescue assistance. The division also plays a primary role in marijuana eradication activities.

The Water Patrol Division is responsible for enforcement, registration and inspection as it pertains to boating and other water-related activities and water safety education.

The patrol consolidated Homeland Security duties in 2006. Those duties were assigned to a uniformed member, who acts as a liaison to local, state and federal agencies.

Criminal Investigation Bureau

The Crime Laboratory Division analyzes evidence found at the scene of crimes throughout the state. The division is comprised of eight laboratories: two full-service laboratories located in Jefferson City and Springfield and satellite laboratories located in St. Joseph, Macon, Park Hills, Cape Girardeau, Willow Springs and Carthage. Services are provided to local law enforcement agencies at no cost. Initially, the American Society of crime laboratory Directors Laboratory Accreditation Board accredited the Crime Laboratory in 1985. It has been re-accredited every five years since. The patrol crime laboratory is responsible for managing Missouri's Combined DNA Index System (CODIS) database.

The Division of Drug and Crime Control provides criminal investigators specializing in the investigation of narcotics, criminal intelligence, explosives disposal, field investigations, lottery enforcement, missing persons and motor vehicle theft to assist various criminal justice agencies—federal, state and local—throughout the state.

Gaming Division members perform background investigations on gaming boat operators and upper-level management, and enforce Gaming Commission rules/regulations and state laws on Missouri riverboats. Each operating riverboat must have at least one Gaming Division officer on board during all operating hours. The division also regulates bingo in Missouri.

The Governor's Security Division provides protection for the governor and the governor's family. The division also provides security to the lieutenant governor, at his request when acting as governor, as well as to visiting governors and other dignitaries.

The Missouri Information Analysis Center was formed to collect, evaluate, analyze and disseminate information and intelligence to local, state and federal agencies tasked with homeland security responsibilities.

Technical Services Bureau

The Communications Division operates a statewide voice and data communications network from the nine troop headquarters on a 365-day/24-hour basis. Division personnel communicate critical and often time-sensitive information to troopers on patrol on the state's roadways and waterways. Personnel also communicate and coordinate traffic safety and criminal apprehension activities with other law enforcement jurisdictions on a statewide basis. The division is responsible for the patrol's state highway emergency hotline ((800)-525-5555 and wireless *55), Missouri America's Missing Broadcast Emergency Response (AMBER) Alert system broadcasts and communications for emergency state area command operations. All patrol communications assets and special emergency response equipment are maintained and supported by division personnel at the installation and repair facilities. Highly trained field and technical engineers are located at the main repair facility in Jefferson City and troop locations around the state.

The patrol's Criminal Justice Information Services Division (CJISD) was officially designated by the Legislature in 1987 as the central repository of criminal history records for Missouri. Section 43.500, RSMo, mandated reporting criminal history actions to the central repository for all police officers, prosecutors, court clerks and corrections facilities in Missouri. The CJISD disseminates criminal history record information through the Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System (MULES) for criminal justice agencies and disseminates criminal record information to the public. The central repository is the single point of contact for criminal history information exchanged between Missouri and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). The CJISD also maintains the sex offender registration file for Missouri, which can be accessed via the Internet or by calling the Missouri Sex Offender Registry hotline. This division also manages the Uniform Crime Reporting program.

The Information Systems Division (ISD) manages information technology solutions and computer network services for the patrol and the Department of Public Safety. The division manages data repositories for wanted/missing persons, stolen property, criminal records, traffic accident and arrest records, drug and alcohol offender records and other related criminal justice information. The ISD also supports connections to the National Crime Information Center, the National Law Enforcement Telecommunications System, the National Crime Information Bureau, the Missouri Department of Revenue and other regional justice systems.

The Research and Development Division reviews, evaluates and makes recommendations on patrol programs, policies and operating procedures. The division also conducts staff inspections, coordinates strategic planning, prepares written directives, monitors patrol accreditation, coordinates the evidence control system, designs forms, develops reference materials, conducts general research and responds to requests for information as needed. The patrol has been an accredited law enforcement agency since 1992.

The Traffic Records Division is comprised of accident records, traffic arrest records and the fatality analysis reporting system. The Accident Records Section maintains traffic crash records for the patrol and the statewide traffic accident records system. The Traffic Arrest Records Section maintains a computerized listing of driving-while-intoxicated offenses occurring in Missouri. This section also conducts uniform citation audits. The fatality analysis reporting system performs in-depth research on causes of fatality accidents and forwards this information to a computerized database in Washington, D.C.

Support Services Bureau

The Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division operates 22 weigh stations and 57 portable scale units. These are operated by commercial vehicle enforcement inspectors, commercial vehicle officers, and commercial vehicle enforcement troopers, who provide uniform enforcement of the laws and regulations governing the operations of commercial motor vehicles. Commercial vehicle enforcement troopers assigned to each troop are responsible for enforcing commercial vehicle and special mobile equipment hazardous laws, inspecting radioactive shipments, and have homeland security training.

The Driver Examination Division develops standards, policies and procedures for the driver examination program, including the commercial driver licensing program. It creates the written tests for operators', chauffeurs', and motorcycle operators' licenses and aids in the preparation of the Missouri Driver's Guide.

The Motor Equipment Division directs the maintenance, replacement, and general operation of the patrol's fleet of vehicles and vessels. It is responsible for policies controlling the expenses for fleet operation.

The Motor Vehicle Inspection Division collects fees and monitors the activities of mechanics and stations that have been licensed to inspect vehicles in the state. This division also manages the vehicle identification number (VIN)/salvage title inspection program, coordinates patrol involvement in school bus inspections and administers an emission inspection program in the St. Louis area.

The Public Information and Education Division prepares news releases, arranges press conferences, creates brochures and disseminates information to the news media and the general public. The division coordinates the patrol's statewide traffic safety education program and is a resource for the 14 public information and education officers assigned throughout the state. This division is also responsible for the Safety Education Center (museum) open to the public Monday–Friday (except holidays) from 8 a.m.–5 p.m.

Administrative Services Bureau

The Budget and Procurement Division prepares the budget, maintains records of all federal and state purchases and expenditures for the patrol, maintains a perpetual inventory of all equipment and supplies, prepares the payroll and administers the patrol's insurance program.

The Human Resources Division recruits, tests, selects and maintains records of civilian and uniformed employees; monitors agency personnel policies and actions to ensure compliance with federal and state laws and regulations; and coordinates the patrol's retirement, evaluation and promotional systems.

The Training Division provides in-service and continuing education programs and courses for uniformed and civilian employees, and certified basic and career-enhancement courses for full-time law enforcement officers.

M.G. STEPHEN DANNER
Adjutant General, Office of Adjutant General

The Missouri National Guard is your hometown Guard, working to serve Missourians and the United States. The Missouri National Guard is a leader in emergency management and response for the state, and routinely deploys forces worldwide to perform federal missions as a partner in the Army and Air Force, including combat missions and operations other than war.

The Missouri National Guard claims a military lineage that dates back to units organized in the St. Louis area under French and Spanish colonial rule. Since then, Guard units have performed state emergency duty hundreds of times along with their federal role. In the 20th Century, Missouri National Guard units and members saw active service in World Wars I and II, Korea, the Berlin Crisis, Vietnam, Just Cause in Panama, Desert Shield and Storm, Somalia, Haiti, Joint Endeavor/Joint Guard in the Balkans, Operation Enduring Freedom, Operation Iraqi Freedom, Operation New Dawn, and Operation Odyssey Dawn.

People – Approximately 11,500 men and women serve in Army and Air National Guard units based in approximately 65 communities across the state; they are trained in hundreds of specific skills, most with direct application to civilian work and professions.

Roles and Missions – Unique among all the nation's armed forces, the National Guard has a dual state and federal role under the U.S. Constitution.

The Guard is Missouri's force in times of disaster and emergency. Recent state missions have included a blizzard response in January and February 2011, a flood response in southeast Missouri in April 2011, a tornado response in St. Louis in April 2011, a tornado response in Joplin in May 2011, and flooding along the Missouri River in summer and fall. The Missouri National Guard has had a crucial role in Joplin's recovery, including providing state oversight for the federal recovery effort and playing a key role in the Disaster Recovery Jobs Program.

State duty is performed under the orders of the governor, the Guard's peacetime commander in chief. The governor appoints the adjutant general, who wears the two stars of a major general and oversee the Army and Air National Guard units assigned to the state by the federal government. He is advised by a state military council of senior leaders of the Army and Air National Guard, including commanders of each unit in the state.

The Guard is also a federal strategic force, fully accessible to the president for short-notice duty in times of national emergency. Federal missions have kept Missouri Army and Air National Guard units very busy since the terrorist attacks on our nation on Sept. 11, 2001. The Missouri National Guard deployed the first Agri-Business Development Team to Nangarhar Province in 2007. The program has been so successful that it has been adopted byNational Guards in other states. Missouri is currently preparing to send its sixth Agri-Business Development Team to Afghanistan and continue to build on the successes of the previous teams.

Missouri is fortunate to have a strong arsenal in support of Homeland Security. The 22-member Missouri National Guard 7th Civil Support Team is stationed in Jefferson City. The team is highly trained to assess, advise, and assist incident commanders in situations involving weapons of mass destruction. The team also facilitates military support to local first responders across the state.

The Missouri National Guard recently stood up a Homeland Response Force. The team's mission is to act as the military response to a chemical, biological, radiological, nuclear or high-yield explosive event. In addition to adding a response asset, the team created several full-time jobs for Guard members.

Another homeland security tool available to the Missouri National Guard, adjutant general and governor is the Chemical Biological, Radiological, Nuclear or High-Yield Explosive Enhanced Response Force Package, or CERFP team. The CERFP team is specifically trained to save lives while responding in a homeland defense role or to an incident site involving weapons of mass destruction. The team has a robust capability to decontaminate casualties impacted by a terrorist attack or accident. It was certified by Federal Emergency Management Association in 2009.

The Missouri National Guard works with community groups in drug demand reduction programs while also supporting local, state and federal agencies in drug supply reduction efforts. Other innovative readiness training projects let Guard units train by working on projects benefiting their communities.

35th Engineer Brigade - The 35th Engineer Brigade, based at Fort Leonard Wood, undertakes plans, integrates and directs the execution of engineer missions conducted by the 1140th Engineer Battalion in Cape Girardeau and the 203rd Engineer Battalion in Joplin with their respective subordinate units. When federalized, the brigade mobilizes with 3-5 mission tailored engineer battalions and augments engineer units organic to corps and division. The 35th Engineer Brigade provides technical and tactical guidance and command and control to its teams, companies and battalions.

110th Maneuver Enhancement Brigade - The 110th Maneuver Enhancement Brigade, based In Kansas City, enables, enhances, and protects the operational and tactical freedom of action of the supported force. It receives and integrates mission tailored forces to brigade combat teams and support brigades. It commands and controls forces necessary to conduct security and functional operations in a designated area of operations in order to enable force application, focused logistics, battle space awareness and protection.

70th Troop Command - The mission of the 70th Troop Command, based in Jefferson Barracks, is to provide command and control, training, guidance, assistance and administrative and logistical support to its subordinate commands. The brigade with the largest assigned strength in the Missouri Guard, with a combined authorized and assigned strength of more than 2,200 Soldiers.

35th Combat Aviation Brigade - The 35th Combat Aviation Brigade deploys to an area of responsibility to provide command, control, staff planning and supervision of combat aviation brigade operations. The brigade's units fly a combination of AH-64A Apache attack helicopters, OH-58 Kiowa observation helicopters and UH-60 Black Hawk utility helicopters. It also has a detachment of two C-23 Sherpa cargo airplanes and a C-12 transport airplane. The brigade's units are capable of performing unit and intermediate level aviation maintenance.

1107th Aviation Group - The 1107th Aviation Group, which recently transformed from the 1107th Theater Aviation Sustainment Maintenance Group, supports the Missouri National Guard by way of its mission to provide a fixed-base theater of operations dedicated to sustainment/depot capability maintenance of rotary-wing aircraft. One of the largest Missouri Guard units, the 487-member group supports a headquarters division and subordinate companies A and B, as well as the 135th Army Band, all based in Springfield.

35th Infantry Division (Mo.) - The 35th Infantry Division is assigned in four states, Missouri, Kansas, Illinois and Nebraska. The 35th Infantry Division (MO) specifically provides command and control of all divisional Soldiers from within the Missouri Army National Guard.

131st Bomb Wing - The 131st Bomb Wing continued the total force Integration as a classic associate unit with the active duty Air Force 509th Bomb Wing at Whiteman Air Force Base. The 131st Bomb Wing's primary operational mission is to provide full-spectrum, expeditionary, B-2 global strike and combat support capabilities. Wing manpower is also dedicated to providing for the unit's overall combat readiness, base operating support functions for tenant and attached units, and for performing combat and emergency duty in support of federal and state missions. Detachment 1, Cannon Range, is the state's only aerial bombing and gunnery range, serving all services.

139th Airlift Wing - The 139th Airlift Wing, based in St. Joseph, remains globally engaged in continuing operations by providing the state and nation with immediately deployable, combat-ready C-130 H-model aircraft.

157th Air Operations Group - 157th Air Operations Group based at Jefferson Barracks, Prepares and provides a trained cadre of Airmen skilled in operational level command and control to augment the 613th Air and Space Operations Center and other USAF active duty forces and support the State of Missouri, employing across the full spectrum of crisis and conflict

Mission Support - The Missouri National Guard has several important initiatives in place to help support the needs of our Guard members and their Families.

Maj. Gen. Danner has developed a robust Resiliency Program, focusing effort on the five pillars: physical, spiritual, familial, emotional, and social.

Our Family Readiness Program continues to expand and improve, reaching out to provide support to the Families left in Missouri when the Citizen-Soldiers and Airmen mobilize away from home.

The National Guard's Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program helps Soldiers, Airmen and Families prepare for a deployment and understand the benefits that are available during and after a deployment.

The Military Family Relief Fund is headed up by the lieutenant governor and provides financial assistance to Families who have been affected by a mobilization.

The Missouri Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserves works closely with employers and reserve military members across the state, helping them understand their roles and responsibilities.

The Show Me Heroes Program, a program pioneered by Gov. Jay Nixon and Maj. Gen. Stephen Danner, works to find jobs for Missouri National Guard members and other Veterans.

The Missouri National Guard Military Funeral Honors Program coordinates approximately 26 funerals for veterans across the state every day. The program began in July 1999 and coordinates funeral honors for every Missouri veteran. Anyone interested in funeral honors for their family member should inform their funeral home director.

The Missouri National Guard also honors our living veterans with the Veterans Awards Program. The Missouri Legislature approved this program providing a medal and certificate to veterans of the Vietnam War, World War II, and the Korean War. Veterans or their family members wishing more information can contact the program director at (573) 638-9838.

Federal - The National Guard Bureau, a joint agency of the U.S. Army and Air Force, provides peacetime federal oversight of National Guard units. While the governor commands the Guard on a day-to-day basis, most costs are paid with federal funds. That includes the regular pay for Soldiers and Airmen, except when they are on a state emergency mission. The federal funding and a force of full-time, federally paid employees ensure the readiness of the Guard for federal missions or state duty if called on by the governor. The federal government pays approximately 95 percent of the annual cost of the Guard.

With its ability to perform federal duties or state duties as the need arises, the Guard is the most capable and cost-effective of all the components of the nation's armed forces. While the National Guard units and members can perform federal duty in the same manner as members of the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps Reserves, only National Guard units have the Constitutional responsibility to serve at home during emergencies.

The Guard offers additional benefits. It provides Missouri communities with citizens whose military experiences pay off at home. Its men and women receive training in skills, work ethic, physical fitness and leadership that benefits their communities and civilian employers. They earn GI Bill and other educational benefits, including state-funded educational support and matching scholarships provided by many Missouri colleges and universities, unique to the National Guard.

The State Emergency Management Agency's (SEMA) mission is to protect the lives and property of all Missourians when major disasters threaten citizens in any city, county or region. Disasters include major ice, floods, tornadoes, severe weather, earthquakes, hazardous material, nuclear power plant accidents, radiological, biological and terrorism. SEMA manages a nationally accredited program.

To meet this mission, SEMA coordinates and develops the State Emergency Operations Plan, which directs the actions of Missouri state departments and agencies to aid requesting local jurisdictions. SEMA oversees Missouri's disaster preparedness, floodplain management, hazard mitigation and disaster public assistance programs and coordinates the state's response operations for all types of large-scale emergencies anywhere in the state.

State Emergency Operations Center

SEMA and the State Emergency Operations Center (SEOC) are located at the Missouri Army National Guard Ike Skelton Training Site, east of Jefferson City. The SEOC is the location where leaders direct Missouri's disaster emergency response and recovery operations. The SEOC enables state agencies to gather situational awareness and respond to the disaster.

Coordination of Preparedness Activities

Preparedness is a joint responsibility of local, state and federal governments. SEMA coordinates preparedness activities and administers a number of federally funded programs. These programs include disaster planning, earthquake preparedness, floodplain management, mitigation, radiological protection, public warning, training and education. SEMA offers free classes to local emergency management agencies, local officials, first responders, schools, and volunteers.

Earthquake Preparedness Activities

SEMA's earthquake program provides operational oversight and administrative support to the 1,000-member Structural Assessment Visual Evaluation (SAVE) Coalition authorized by section 44.023, RSMo. This statue establishes a volunteer cadre for post-disaster building inspections to determine if damaged buildings are safe for occupation. The SAVE Coalition members are architects, engineers, building inspectors and construction industry professionals. Coalition members are required to pass the ATC-20 (Applied Technologies Council) structural evaluation course prior to receiving SAVE credentials and performing inspections.

SEMA provides administrative support to the Missouri Seismic Safety Commission (MSSC), which was established by section 44.227, RSMo, to initiate a comprehensive program to help Missouri prepare for and respond to a major earthquake. The commission prepared and updates a strategic plan for reducing earthquake hazards in the state. Members also help organize Earthquake Awareness Month (February) activities.

State and Federal Disaster Assistance

When a disaster overwhelms the ability of local communities to respond and/or recover, the governor may declare a state of emergency for the impacted area. This action allows state resources to augment the needs of local governments.

Based on the impact of the disaster event and the results of joint damage assessments, the governor may request a federal disaster declaration in accordance with Public Law 93-288. If approved by the president, such a declaration can make a wide variety of federal assistance programs available to Missouri, local governments, individuals, families and businesses adversely affected by the disaster. The SEOC coordinates emergency life safety response and recovery actions to the declared areas. SEMA personnel administer federal/state disaster grants to jurisdictions and provides oversight to Federal Assistance for individuals in declared counties. Disaster assistance includes the Individuals and Households Program (IHP), which helps victims with disaster-related needs. The Small Business Administration offers low-interest loans. Federal Disaster Public Assistance helps reimburse local governments to repair disaster damaged roads, bridges and critical infrastructure. Communities may be eligible for cost-effective mitigation projects, which help prevent similar damages in the future.

Federal Disaster Declarations for Missouri since January, 2007

- January 2007 winter/ice storm (public assistance)
- SBA economic declaration for the December 2006 winter/ ice storm
- May 2007 floods (individual and public assistance)
- August 2007 floods (public assistance)
- December 2007 winter/ice storm (emergency and public assistance)
- January 2008 storms and tornadoes (public assistance)
- SBA physical and economic declaration for the January 2008 winter/ice storm.
- February 2008 winter/ice storm (public assistance).
- March 2008 floods (direct federal assistance, individual and public Assistance).
- May 2008 tornadoes (individual assistance).
- June 2008 floods (direct federal assistance, individual and public assistance).
- SBA physical and economic eeclaration for the May 2008 tornadoes.
- September 2008 storms and tornadoes (individual and public assistance).
- January 2009 winter/ice storm (direct federal assistance, public assistance).
- SBA economic declaration for the January 2009 winter/ ice storm.

Volunteer Coordinator

During a disaster, SEMA's volunteer coordinator works with state agencies, faith-based organizations and volunteer organizations to coordinate disaster assistance for victims. As local governments transition to recovery, the coordinator provides technical assistance to local long-term recovery committees for unmet needs. The coordinator is the point-of-contact for the Missouri Disaster Recovery Partnership and the Missouri Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster.

Emergency Management Performance Grant

The Emergency Management Performance Grant (EMPG) Program provides federal assistance to the State Emergency Management Agency and local government emergency management agencies, for the sustainment and enhancement of all-hazard emergency management capabilities. An all-hazards approach to emergency response, including the development of a comprehensive program of planning, training and exercises, means there can be an effective and consistent response to disaster and emergencies, regardless of the cause. It involves building long-term strategic relationships within the emergency management community to ensure that the program meets the needs of Missourians during disasters.

Logistics, Resources, Mitigation & Floodplain Management Activities

The Logistics, Resources, Mitigation and Floodplain Management branch focuses on three areas: getting equipment, services and supplies to disaster sites; mitigating future disasters; and helping communities gain flood insurance for their citizens.

Logistics and Resources are responsible for the timely planning, delivery and demobilization of emergency life-sustaining equipment; services and supplies such as generators, food, water and ice; and contracting with venders for emergency items.

Mitigation works with local communities to reduce or avoid the adverse impact disasters have on our citizens. This section administers five federal mitigation grant programs and has helped over 1,000 Missouri communities write mitigation plans to qualify for these grants. Community mitigation projects include voluntary flood buyouts, building community tornado safe rooms, replacing bridges and low water crossings, bank stabilization, re-channelization projects and burying public electric utilities.

Floodplain Management administers the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). Most homeowner insurance does not cover flood damage, so the purchase of specific flood insurance usually is necessary. For those who live in a mapped high risk special flood hazard area (SFHA), federal law compels federally backed mortgage lenders to require the purchase of flood insurance. This section works with the 612 NFIP participating communities to ensure they comply with the requirements of the program. Staff also manages much of the flood insurance rate map (FIRM) work performed under the federal map modernization program.

Missouri Emergency Response Commission (MERC)

The Missouri Emergency Response Commission implements the federal Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act (EPCRA) and related Missouri laws pertaining to hazardous chemicals storage. The commission supports local emergency planning committees (LEPC), reviews hazardous chemical contingency plans, provides chemical emergency training, collects information on toxic and hazardous storage and makes this information available to the public. The MERC administers the Hazardous Material Emergency Preparedness (HMEP) for hazardous material (HAZMAT) training to local public sector employees and the Chemical Emergency Preparedness Funds (CEPF) for planning and training for LEPCs to carry out their responsibilities designated under EPCRA and sections 292.600-625, RSMo.

The Missouri Veterans Commission is vested with the responsibility of representing all Missouri veterans, ensuring their needs are met and defending the entitlements of those who have served their country with honor and distinction.

This is accomplished through programs and services funded by the state and federal government as well as private and corporate contributions.

Our Mission

In recognition of the sacrifices made by veterans in service to our country, the Missouri Veterans Commission will provide our veterans with timely benefits assistance, skilled nursing care and a final resting place with honor.

Our History

The State Federal Soldier's Home was established in 1896 by the Women's Relief Corps Soldiers' Home Association and was deeded to the state of Missouri in 1897. Its original purpose was to provide care to aging Missourians who had fought for the Union in the Civil War. In 1931, the state legislature, at the request of organized veterans groups, created the Office of State Service Officer for the purpose of counseling and assisting veterans of World War I (WWI) and earlier conflicts whose service-connected disabilities were becoming manifest and for whom numerous benefits were being made available through the newly established Veterans Administration.

In 1974, the Omnibus Reorganization Act placed the Division of Veterans Affairs within the Department of Social Services. The State Federal Soldier's Home and Office of State Service Officer remained separate entities until the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974 combined the two, renaming the home and establishing the Division of Veterans Affairs within the Department of Social Services.

As defined in the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974, the Division of Veterans Affairs, as provided in Chapter 42, RSMo, in 1978, was transferred from the Department of Social Services to the Department of Public Safety, Office of the Adjutant General, by a type I transfer.

Executive order 81-18 (February 1981) passed at the first regular session of the 81st General Assembly and put this law into effect in September of 1981.

On August 28, 1989, the Division of Veterans Affairs was replaced by the establishment of the Missouri Veterans Commission as a type III transfer. Chapter 42, RSMo, governs the commission's operation as a state agency. The commission shall be composed of nine members. In addition, the chair of the Missouri military preparedness and enhancement commission or the chair's designee shall be an ex officio member of the commission.

The commissioners then appoint an executive director, who implements commission policies and is responsible for statewide management of veterans programs. The executive director reports regularly to the commission concerning all aspects of program operations through quarterly commission meetings.

Administrative offices are located in Jefferson City at 205 Jefferson Street, 12th Floor. This location also houses the local Veteran Service Office. Services and benefits provided to veterans by the Missouri Commission are:

Veterans Services Program

Through the Veterans Service Program, the Missouri Veterans Commission provides counseling and assistance to veterans throughout the state in filing claims for benefits from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. Veterans service officers are located in almost every county of the state to make services available to veterans close to their homes.

Information concerning locations and phone numbers of veterans service officers may be found on the commission's web site www.mvc.dps.mo.gov.

Veterans service officers are thoroughly trained and knowledgeable in all areas of veterans benefits, including compensation, pension, education, burial and widow's benefits. Information and counseling regarding medical eligibility, VA Home Loan Guaranty and other benefits, including those offered by the state, may also be obtained from the veterans service officers as well.

Veterans service officers are available to give presentations and instruction regarding the benefits for which veterans are eligible as a result of honorable military service in the U.S. Armed Forces.

Veterans Home Program

The Missouri Veterans Commission currently operates and maintains seven long-term skilled nursing care facilities with a total of 1,350 available beds.

Veterans in need of nursing home care may seek admission to a Missouri veterans home by filling an application with the home of their choice. Prospective residents may obtain application forms from any Missouri veterans home, from a Missouri veterans service officer or by contacting the Missouri Veterans Commission Headquarters at (573) 751-3779. Home applications may also be downloaded from the commission's web site, www.mvc.dps.mo.gov.

Deputy Director, Missouri Veterans Commission

Eligibility

- Applicant must be an honorably discharged veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces;
- Applicant must have resided in the state of Missouri for at least 180 days during his/her lifetime;
- Applicant must have been determined to require nursing home care.

Funding / Costs

- State general revenue;
- Federal funding, through the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs Per Diem Grant Program;
- Charges to the veterans themselves, based on the individual's ability to pay.

The maximum amount that a veteran may be charged currently is $1,800 per month. Ability to pay is based upon the veteran's (and his or her spouse's) total income and assets.

Missouri veterans homes are inspected at least annually by the Department of Veterans Affairs for the continuance of per diem payments. Policies for health care administration are centrally managed by the commission's superintendent of homes, who routinely reviews management practice and clinical outcomes. Therapeutic modalities of physical, psychosocial and rehabilitative origin are provided in each facility.

St. James is the site of the first state veterans home. It was originally opened in 1896 by the Women's Relief Corps Soldiers' Home Association and was deeded to the state of Missouri in 1897. A new 150-bed facility was dedicated and opened on the original campus in 1996, in conjunction with the 100-year anniversary of the home. St. James is proud of its continuous 100-year tradition of providing care for veterans.

As the state's third veterans home, the Mexico facility was opened in 1985 and serves the north central area of the state. The 150-bed home features a large, open mall containing dining rooms, lounges, a library, recreation and therapy areas, a general store and medical and administrative officers. An outdoor walking trail among the trees and flowers on the grounds provides much enjoyment and physical exercise for veterans at the Mexico home.

Serving veterans in southeastern Missouri, the 150-bed veterans home at Cape Girardeau was opened in 1990. It is designed to resemble a small village, with cluster design features consisting of three, 50-bed living units surrounding a central administration building. The home affords residents many amenities, including a lovely chapel adjacent to the lobby, made possible by a fundraising drive led by the American Legion and its auxiliaries.

This 200-bed facility was dedicated July 14, 2000 as the commission's seventh veterans home. The first resident was admitted September 26, 2000. The design for the Cameron and Warrensburg facilities is identical. They are divided into five sections: sections A, B and C are each 50-bed long-term skilled nursing care units; section D is a 50-bed dementia unit that contains its own dining room, activity area and enclosed courtyard; and section E houses the administrative offices and ancillary services such as the recreation area, barbershop and rehabilitation area.

State Veterans Cemetery Program

Signed into law in 1996, this program gives the Missouri Veterans Commission statutory responsibility to establish, operate and maintain cemeteries for veterans in Missouri.

The vision and goal of the State Veterans Cemetery System is to locate cemeteries strategically throughout the state, making it possible for veterans and their families to have access within a 75-mile radius of their homes. The mission is to provide interment for veterans and their eligible dependents in a dignified, efficient and compassionate manner.

The Missouri State Veterans Cemetery at Fort Leonard Wood is the result of a partnership between the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Missouri Veterans Commission. The groundbreaking ceremony was held on November 7, 2008 ,and the cemetery was formally dedicated on September 13, 2010. The cemetery property was donated by the U.S. Army Maneuver Support Center and Fort Leonard Wood and is situated on 229 beautiful acres. Currently the cemetery consists of 25 developed acres in phase 1 with space estimated to last 25 to 30 years.

Eligibility Criteria:

Eligibility criteria for burial in state veterans cemeteries will be the same as that for burial in national cemeteries, as stated in Missouri statute, signed into law in 1998: ". . .solely for the burial of veterans and eligible dependents as defined by the Department of Veterans Affairs. . ." Veterans interested in burial should contact the individual cemetery for a predetermination of eligibility.

Benefits

- burial space;

- grave liner;
- opening and closing of the grave;
- perpetual care;
- placement of cremation remains in either columbarium niche or inground burial;
- upright granite headstone.

Veterans Trust Fund

The Veterans Trust Fund was established in 1989 and is a means by which individuals and corporations may donate money to expand and improve services to veterans in Missouri. Appropriations from the fund are being used to improve training of service officers to expand capabilities in meeting the special needs of residents of state veterans homes and to promote public awareness of the program, benefits and services available to Missouri's veterans.

All contributions to the Veterans Trust Fund are tax deductible. Individuals and corporations can donate any amount over two dollars of their tax refund on their Missouri tax return,or by sending their contributions directly to the commission at any time. Monies from the fund are used to enhance, not replace, existing programs.

Ombudsman

The Missouri Veterans Commission ombudsman assists veterans, service members and their families with extraordinary needs that are not being met by other agencies or organizations. The ombudsman acts as a referral source to local, state and national resources available to address these needs.

Minority Veterans Initiative

The Minority Veterans Initiative was established to encourage minority veterans and dependents to visit local veterans service officers to ascertain benefits they might be legally entitled to through the Federal Department of Veterans Affairs. The program's goals include:

- increase benefit awareness among minority veterans;
- increase benefit awareness among widows of deceased veterans;
- increase Missouri Veterans Commission visibility among community agencies;
- collaboration with other veterans agencies to increase awareness of veterans programs;
- co-brand with businesses to promote veterans benefits awareness.

Women Veterans Initiative

The Missouri Veterans Commission is dedicated to finding all women veterans, past, present and future. They have appointed a women veterans coordinator, and her mission is to ensure that Missouri women veterans have equitable access to federal and state veteran services and to ensure women veterans are aware of their VA benefits, whom to contact and how to apply for these benefits.

The mission of the Women Veterans Initiative is to facilitate proactive leadership and services for women veterans, their dependents and survivors in Missouri.

Incarcerated Veterans Initiative

In February 2007, the Missouri Veterans Commission and the Department of Corrections signed a formalized agreement to provide direct services to Missouri incarcerated veterans. The Incarcerated Veterans Initiative works to facilitate the transition of veteran offenders to a productive life in the community. The program serves veteran offenders and their families as a principal advocate in ensuring that they receive appropriate services and empower the offenders with hope and new direction.

The Missouri Gaming Commission was established in 1993 by the 87th General Assembly as specified by Chapter 313, RSMo. The commission assumed the responsibility for regulating riverboat and charitable gaming on July 1, 1994.

The commission is composed of five members, no more than three of whom may be members of the same political party. Commission members are appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, for a term of three years. Pursuant to statute, the overall membership of the commission reflects experience in law enforcement, civil and criminal investigation and financial principles.

The commission's role is to monitor gaming related activities to ensure that criminal elements do not infiltrate licensed gaming operations. In addition, the commission works to protect the public by ensuring that games are conducted fairly, according to their rules and with full disclosure.

As a state regulatory agency, the commission and its staff hold themselves to the highest ethical and professional standards and strive to conduct all business in a manner that is in the public interest and maintains the public trust. Pursuant to statute, a strict code of ethics has been adopted prohibiting conflicts of interest and certain ex parte communications.

The key regulatory responsibilities of the commission are:

- to conduct thorough background investigations on all key persons involved in gaming operations, including substantial owners, management personnel, key operational employees and suppliers;

- to thoroughly investigate the finances of applicants and their key persons to determine if they have the financial resources and responsibility to meet their proposed obligations;
- to investigate the background of all occupational licensees, including dealers, slot attendants, food and beverage servers, security and surveillance personnel and all other employees who have access to the gaming area to ensure that the personnel operating the casino are of sufficient character to maintain the integrity of Missouri gaming;
- to photograph and fingerprint each employee so as to maintain a complete and accurate database of gaming personnel;
- to assign appropriate staff to each gaming operation to be present at all times when gaming is conducted. Enforcement agents are charged with ensuring that gaming is conducted in accordance with the Missouri gaming statutes, the rules and regulations of the commission and the licensee's own internal controls;
- to ensure that the safety of the passengers is guarded, to conduct investigations of suspected wrongdoing and to receive complaints from customers;
- to review and audit the finances and compliance of the gaming operation through the combined use of commission staff, independent public accounting firms and internal casino audit staff that are retained by the licensee and approved by the commission;
- to monitor the financial integrity of gaming operators to ensure that Missouri's financial interests are protected;
- to ensure charitable, fraternal, religious, service, social and veteran organizations are eligible to hold licenses to conduct charity bingo games in the state. Regular bingo licenses, special bingo licenses, abbreviated pull tab licenses, supplier licenses, manufacturer licenses and bingo hall provider licenses are all issued by the bingo division. Missouri Gaming Commission staff will assess qualifications of organizations applying for a charitable bingo gaming license, conduct required background investigations, audits, collect taxes and maintain all records related to charitable bingo.

Office of the Executive Director

The Office of the Executive Director is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the commission. The director supervises all staff activities, reports to the commission and is responsible for organizing and distributing all public documents and reports. The director oversees the Administration, Corporate Securities and Finance, Enforcement, Legal and Charitable Bingo sections of the Missouri Gaming Commission.

Pursuant to statute, the executive director has entered into a memorandum of understanding with the Missouri State Highway Patrol to perform background investigations and to provide enforcement personnel.

The Department of Revenue is one of the largest and most comprehensive of Missouri's state departments. It was established in 1945 and plays a key role in state government by efficiently collecting billions of dollars in state revenue each year. The Department also collects local sales taxes, and distributes them back to local governments.

The Department also enhances public safety by administering the state's motor vehicle and driver licensing laws, including the titling and registration of motor vehicles and the licensing of Missouri's drivers. The duties involved with the oversight of driver licensing include the suspension or revocation of licenses of drunk drivers and other drivers who have committed other motor vehicle transgressions.

Office of the Director

The Director's Office, which includes the director and other key staff, is responsible for overall guidance and setting policy for the Department. The office includes a legislative liaison, who manages the Department's relationships with the Legislature and other governmental branches, and a director of communications, who works with the news media, coordinates public awareness of Department activities, and acts as the Department's spokesperson.

Taxation Division

The Taxation Division collects Missouri's taxes and administers the state's tax laws, annually processing more than 5 million tax returns, responding to hundreds of thousands of phone calls, and working with Missouri businesses and citizens to ensure they are paying the taxes owed to the state and local entities.

The Business Tax Bureau oversees processing and administration of the state's business taxes. These include the corporate income tax, local and state sales and use taxes, the state motor fuels tax, excise taxes and employee withholding taxes.

The Personal Tax Bureau oversees processing and administration of the state's personal income tax, the Property Tax Credit and fiduciary tax. This bureau also administers business and individual tax non-compliance programs to identify taxes due from those not filing or under-reporting their tax obligations.

The Collections and Taxpayer Assistance Bureau helps citizens who need assistance in filling out tax returns or have other questions. Taxpayers can either directly contact the bureau or go to one of the seven tax assistance offices located throughout Missouri. The bureau also actively pursues collection of unpaid taxes.

The Field Compliance Bureau audits in-state and out-of-state taxpayers to ensure compliance with Missouri's tax laws.

Motor Vehicle and Driver Licensing Division

The Motor Vehicle and Driver Licensing Division provides a variety of services to owners of cars, trucks, motorcycles, trailers and boats. It also helps keep Missouri roads safer by maintaining records of serious violations of Missouri's traffic laws. In Fiscal Year 2010, the Division issued more than 237,000 new driver licenses and renewed about 688,800 licenses. It also issued more than 1.8 million motor vehicle, trailer and boat titles, and oversaw the issuance and renewal of about 4 million vehicle registrations.

The Driver Licensing Bureau helps citizens obtain or renew their driver licenses. It also processes records relating to traffic violation point assessments and uninsured motorists. The bureau also tracks administrative alcohol violations and those who fail to appear in court for a variety of traffic-related offenses.

The License Offices Bureau manages the operations of the 183 contract offices throughout the state. The offices provide many of the most common driver license and motor vehicle services for Missourians. The management of the offices is no longer awarded on a patronage basis, and is now bid out to independent contractors.

The Motor Vehicle Bureau provides services for motor vehicle owners, such as issuing or renewing license plates or obtaining owner titles. The bureau also works with new and used automobile dealers, and also helps salvage dealers and leasing companies acquire registration certificates.

Legal Services Division

The Legal Services Division ensures the Department's compliance with state and federal law and internal policies.

The General Counsel's Office advises the director and Department divisions on all legal matters. It helps keep Missouri drivers safer by defending the state's drunk driving laws in administrative hearings and court proceedings. It also provides training concerning DWI laws to law enforcement officers, judges and other court personnel. The office represents the state in legal cases that involve taxation, bankruptcies and motor vehicle fraud.

The Criminal Tax Investigation Bureau investigates and develops information leading to local prosecution of individuals and businesses suspected of violating state statutes related to sales, withholding and income taxes.

The Compliance and Investigation Bureau investigates illegal motor vehicle titling and registration, odometer fraud, and tax fraud involving motor fuel sales tax and the state cigarette tax. The bureau also ensures the compliance of motor vehicle dealers, salvage businesses and marine dealers with statutes and licensure regulations. In addition to external investigations, the bureau conducts internal audits and investigations within the Department of Revenue and the privately contracted motor vehicle license offices.

Administration Division

The Administration Division provides the support that allows the Department's divisions to carry out their core responsibilities. The Division has saved the Department millions of dollars in recent years by reducing costs associated with postage, leasing of buildings, Department forms, office supplies and telecommunications.

The Financial & General Services Bureau is responsible for all accounting, procurement, banking and general service matters. These duties include the supervision of the Mail Service Center, which processes more than 19 million pieces of incoming and outgoing mail each year.

The Personnel Services Bureau is in charge of personnel, payroll and benefit issues, compliance with state and federal employment laws, and the Department's affirmative action and diversity programs. The Communications and Training section within this bureau updates the Department's Internet and Intranet web sites, provides instructional classes through a variety of delivery methods and updates Department forms and publications.

On Nov. 6, 1984, Missouri voters authorized the Missouri General Assembly to establish a Missouri state lottery.

The State Lottery Commission supervises the lottery by issuing rules and appointing a director. The commission is also guided by laws, approved by the General Assembly, that deal with the lottery. These laws cover topics such as distribution of lottery funds, conflicts of interest, who may play the lottery, criminal penalties and taxation of lottery winnings. The director runs the day-to-day business of the lottery, including hiring employees, issuing licenses and negotiating contracts with vendors. The governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoints the five-member commission. No more than three members may be of the same political party. Commissioners receive no salary and serve three-year terms.

The attorney general provides legal services for the lottery, and the state auditor reviews operations by conducting audits.

The present State Tax Commission was created by an act of the 63rd General Assembly identified in Section 138.190, RSMo.

The Commission is composed of three members who are chosen from the two major political parties. The members are appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The authority and responsibilities of the STC is further defined and articulated in the landmark Supreme Court decision of State ex. rel. Cassilly v. Riney which provided the genesis for the statewide equalization of assessments. The STC was created to perform five (5) basic functions. These functions are:

1. Equalize assessments;
2. Conduct de novo judicial hearings regarding valuation and classification appeals from local boards of equalization in individual assessment cases;
3. Formulate and implement statewide assessment policies and procedures to comport with statutory and constitutional mandates;
4. Supervise local assessing officials and local assessment programs to ensure compliance with statewide policy requirements; and
5. Assess the distributable property of railroads and public utilities.

The Missouri Department of Social Services (DSS) was constitutionally established in 1974 because "the health and general welfare of the people are matters of primary public concern." The department is charged with administering programs to promote, safeguard and protect the general welfare of children; to maintain and strengthen family life; and to aid people in need as they strive to achieve their highest level of independence.

The department is organized into four program divisions: Children's Division, Family Support Division, MO HealthNet Division and the Division of Youth Services. The Divisions of Finance and Administrative Services and Legal Services provide department-wide administrative and support services.

The department cooperates and partners with many private organizations, businesses and individuals to extend the outreach of human services to Missouri citizens.

Office of the Director

The director of the Department of Social Services is responsible for the overall administration of programs within the department except as otherwise provided by law. The director determines priorities for program implementation and has final approval for uses of state and federal funds appropriated to the department.

Missouri's State Technical Assistant Team (STAT) provides comprehensive integrated services to the entire child protection community. From data collection and interpretation to criminal investigations, STAT provides support and expertise to professionals responsible for the protection of children at risk.

The Human Resource Center (HRC) guides the overall human resources management for the department's 7,000+ employees. The center is responsible for ensuring compliance with merit system rules and coordinating activities in the areas of labor relations, recruitment, selection, classification, compensation and training. HRC is responsible for union negotiations and resolution administration as well as administering the employee grievance system.

Administration divisions

The Division of Finance and Administrative Services provides budgeting, financial and support services to all divisions within the department. Responsibilities include: accounts payable, payroll, purchasing, receipts, audits, grants management, budget, mail processing, telecommunications, inventory and warehouse management, homeland security and safety.

The Division of Legal Services (DLS) provides comprehensive legal support to all programs and support divisions in DSS. The division represents the department, its divisions and the state. Responsibilities include: representing DSS before administrative tribunals, circuit court and appellate courts on child abuse and neglect, licensure and revocation of foster homes, guardianships and permanency planning; establishing, enforcing and modifying child support orders; hearings for public assistance applicants/recipients related to denial or termination of benefits; and investigating fraud and abuse by public assistance recipients along with establishing claims and tracking collections.

Child welfare services are provided under federal and state laws to help children and families function at their maximum potential, both personally and socially.

The division has a legal mandate to provide services in three primary areas — child abuse and neglect investigations and family assessments, treatment and placement services to children and families and provision of child care.

Organization

The Children's Division (CD) is administered by a director appointed by the director of the Department of Social Services. The division maintains an office in each county and the city of St. Louis and supports each of 45 judicial circuits in the state.

Child Abuse and Neglect Investigations and Assessments

The division is responsible for receiving reports of alleged child abuse or neglect. Once a report is received, the division responds to protect the child. The goals of child abuse or neglect investigations and assessments are to assess the level of risk to the child, protect the child from harm, determine if abuse or neglect occurred as reported, and provide services to the family.

Under the provisions of the Child Abuse and Neglect Law (sections 210.110 and 210.167, RSMo), a "child" is any person under 18 years of age; "abuse" includes both actual and threatened physical injury, sexual or emotional abuse inflicted on a child other than by accidental means by those responsible for his or her care, custody and control, except that discipline, including spanking, administered in a reasonable manner, shall not be construed to be abuse; "neglect" is failure to provide, by those responsible for the care, custody and control of the child, the proper or necessary support and education, as required by law, or medical, surgical or any other care necessary for the child's well-being; and "persons responsible for the care, custody and control of the child" include, but are not limited to, the parents or guardians of the child, other members of the child's household or those people exercising supervision over a child for any part of a 24-hour day.

All reporting is done to the central office of the division, which is required to provide toll-free statewide telephone service for reporting purposes (1-800-392-3738).

Family-Centered Services

The overriding goal of family-centered services is to prevent child abuse or neglect, and the removal of the child from the home, by stabilizing the family and improving family functioning.

Treatment services, referred to as family-centered services, are provided in preventive and protective capacities. These case management services are provided protectively to families when a finding of child abuse and neglect (CA/N) was determined by a preponderance of evidence in an investigation. Preventive family-centered services are offered when an investigation of abuse or neglect is unsubstantiated or when a family assessment detects family problems that might be mitigated by services and abuse or neglect prevented. Preventive services are contingent on the family's willingness to accept services. Families may also self-refer for services. Services may be provided by CD staff and/or purchased on behalf of the family.

Federal law mandates that the division provide services to children and families of children in alternative care. These services are geared toward permanency for the child, either by reunification with his or her biological parent(s) or permanency through adoption or guardianship. The goals of these services are to: prevent further child abuse or neglect, mitigate family factors that could lead to further child abuse or neglect, reunite children with their families when possible and obtain permanent homes for children who cannot safely return home through adoption or guardianship.

To achieve these goals, the division employs staff to provide services to eligible children and families. These services are provided through direct services and contracted services.

Direct Services

CD staff provides direct services with families in treatment and families whose children are in alternative care settings. The CD staff work with families in assessing service needs and case planning. Actual services may be provided by CD staff, through contractors or both.

Alternative care services (family-centered out-of-home services) are provided to children who are determined by the juvenile court to need care in a setting other than their biological family homes. These children are cared for in substitute family care or non-familial group care. Any one of three types of licensed settings provides alternative care: foster family homes, group facilities and residential treatment facilities. Transitional living services and independent living may also be utilized for older youths who might not return home and for whom adoption or guardianship is not deemed appropriate.

Child safety and permanency for children is the overriding goal of all services and integrates the principles of permanency planning — reuniting the child with the biological family when possible and, when necessary, finding other permanent family relationships for children.

Families who wish to adopt children unable to reunite with their families may, in some instances, receive an adoption subsidy payment. This is a statewide program developed to provide financial benefits, in the form of a subsidy, to encourage potential adoptive parents to adopt and to finance the cost of adopting "special needs" children.

Contracted Services

Contracted services are available to individuals and families who are receiving family-centered services, or in efforts to recruit and maintain resources for permanency. These services are usually provided as a result of a child abuse/neglect report with a "preponderance of evidence" finding, but may also be authorized for children in alternative care, children in adoptive placements and family members receiving preventive treatment services or foster and adoptive services. Services are provided through contracts with both public and private community agencies and play a major role in extending services throughout the state.

Licensing Program

The division inspects and licenses foster care facilities, residential care facilities and child-placing agencies. In addition, the licensing staff monitors licensed facilities to assure that the facilities maintain requisite standards, conducts public education programs and consults with facility personnel in the development and implementation of services to the children being served, as well as residential program development.

Early Childhood and Prevention Services

The Early Childhood and Prevention Services section administers early childhood/child care and child abuse prevention programs and services. These programs provide child care subsidies to low-income families and quality improvement and professional development activities for child care programs and their staff. Staff also administer a portion of the state Early Childhood Development Education and Care Fund, which provides grants to community-based organizations and individuals for early childhood and child abuse/neglect prevention services like Early Head Start, grants to start or expand quality child care programs for infants and toddlers, accreditation services for child care providers and early childhood development and educational supports for parents of infants and toddlers.

The Family Support Division (FSD) is responsible for the administration of these programs and services: temporary assistance (TA), food stamps, community services block grant, low-income home energy assistance, rehabilitation services to the blind and the visually impaired, medical assistance, supplemental nursing care and child support services.

Organization

The Family Support Division (FSD) is administered by a director appointed by the director of the Department of Social Services. The division maintains an office in each county and in the City of St. Louis for the administration of the Income Maintenance Programs. The division maintains 24 offices across the state for the administration of the Child Support Program. Administration of the Rehabilitation Services for the Blind is managed by seven offices throughout Missouri.

Income Maintenance Programs

The determination of an individual's financial need is basic to the granting of temporary assistance (TA), food stamps, child care, blind pension, supplemental aid to the blind, medical assistance and nursing care benefits. The division has a legal requirement to consider all facts and circumstances in determining eligibility for public assistance, including the applicant's earning capacity, income and resources from whatever source received. The amount of benefits, when added to all other income, resources, support and maintenance, shall provide such person with reasonable subsistence. If the applicant is not found to be in need, assistance is denied.

Temporary Assistance

Temporary Assistance (TA) makes cash grants on behalf of needy children who have been deprived of parental support and who are living in homes maintained by parents or close relatives. This program provides temporary financial assistance for a period of time, up to five years, while the adult transitions to self-sufficiency.

Family Health Care (MO HealthNet)

MO HealthNet provides healthcare coverage to children under age 19, parents and pregnant women. Family income is compared to the applicable percentage of the federal poverty guidelines. The applicable income limit is dependent on the age of the children and the individual's insurance status. MO HealthNet is funded by Medicaid and the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP).

The Uninsured Women's Health Services Program provides women's health services to uninsured women from age 18 through 54 with a family income that does not exceed 185% of the federal poverty level.

Supplemental Aid to the Blind and Blind Pension

The division administers two separate programs for the blind: the Supplemental Aid to the Blind (SAB) and the Blind Pension Program. Under the SAB program, the amount of the monthly grant is $609 minus any Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payment received. Under the Blind Pension Program, a flat monthly payment of $609 per person is made. The programs differ slightly in eligibility requirements. Funds are provided from a Missouri constitutionally established blind pension fund with no matching federal funds.

Supplemental Nursing Care

The Supplemental Nursing Care Program in Missouri provides cash assistance and medical services coverage to eligible aged, blind or disabled individuals who reside in non-Medicaid, licensed skilled nursing, intermediate care, assisted living or residential care facilities. Individuals who reside in licensed, skilled nursing facilities or intermediate care facilities may receive monthly cash benefits of up to a maximum of $390. If they live in a licensed assisted living facility, they may be eligible for monthly cash benefits of up to $292, or if in a licensed residential care facility, they may receive monthly cash benefits of up to $156.

Medical Assistance (MO HealthNet)

The Medical Assistance (MO HealthNet) Program provides medical services for aged, blind or disabled individuals whose income and resources fail to meet medical needs. An individual must have limited resources. Income is compared to 85 percent of the federal poverty level. Persons whose income is below this maximum would receive the medical services covered by Missouri. Persons with income above the maximum may gain eligibility for medical services by incurring medical expenses equal to the amount of income that exceeds 85% percent of the federal poverty level.

Additional persons receive medical assistance based on being a Qualified Medicare Beneficiary, treatment of breast or cervical cancer, being a child in the custody of the Division of Youth Services or a juvenile court or receipt of short-term refugee assistance.

Food Stamp and Food Distribution Programs

The Food Stamp Program is designed to help low-income families increase their purchasing power for buying food for their families. Depending upon the adjusted income and the number of persons in the household, a family receives a monthly benefit amount. The division is responsible for determining the eligibility of food stamp applicants according to guidelines established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The division also administers a number of food distribution programs providing USDA-donated commodities to charitable and residential child care institutions, summer food service programs for children, emergency food providers and disaster relief agencies.

Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program

Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) provides assistance to low-income individuals to help pay for heating and cooling. Eligibility for assistance is based on household income and the number of persons residing in the household. Benefit amounts vary based on income, family size and type of fuel utilized. Missouri provides two programs with the LIHEAP grant: Energy Assistance/Regular Heating (EA) and Energy Crisis Intervention Program (ECIP).

Community Services Block Grant Program

The Community Services Block Grant Program (CSBG) makes funds available to impact causes of six poverty conditions: unemployment, inadequate housing, inadequate education, malnutrition, poor use of income and unmet emergency needs. The program provides for a flexible local partnership of elected public officials, business and civic interests and low-income citizens. CSBG programs are usually operated locally by community action agencies and serve individuals whose family income falls within the federal poverty guidelines.

Blind and Visually Impaired Services Program

The Rehabilitation Services for the Blind administers six service programs to blind and visually impaired persons: vocational rehabilitation, prevention of blindness, independent living rehabilitation to adults, Older Blind Services (OBS), children services and the Blind Enterprise Program (BEP).

Vocational rehabilitation services are supported by both federal and state funds. Services include diagnosis and evaluation, counseling and guidance, physical and mental restoration, college and other types of vocational training, job placement and services after employment when needed. Vocational rehabilitation services are to enable a person with visual disabilities to obtain or retain suitable employment.

Prevention of blindness services are funded with state funds. Services are for the purpose of early detection of eye disease that may lead to blindness and, when indicated, providing treatment to eligible persons. Services include diagnostic examinations, surgery, hospitalization, glasses, prostheses and medications that are not available through other sources. These services are conditional upon the financial need of the individual. Free vision screening clinics are conducted in conjunction with schools of ophthalmology in Missouri. Free glaucoma screening clinics are conducted throughout the state.

Independent living rehabilitation services, including services for adults and children and the OBS program for seniors over age 55, are supported by both federal and state funds. Services are for the purposes of enabling that person to function independently in the home and community and/or to succeed in appropriate educational settings. Services, some of which are conditional upon financial need, include diagnosis and evaluation, adjustment to blindness services, alternative techniques in the areas of daily living activities, counseling and families supportive services, physical restoration, homemaking, communication and orientation to and travel within the home and community.

The federal/state Randolph-Sheppard Blind Enterprise Program provides employment opportunities for legally blind persons who have participated in special training and are licensed by the division to manage a vending facility located in federal, state and private industry. Vending facilities range from full food service cafeterias to banks of vending machines.

Child Support Program

Missouri's Child Support Enforcement Program operates pursuant to Title IV-D of the federal Social Security Act and Chapter 454, RSMo.

Child Support Program responsibilities include location of parents, paternity establishment, establishing child and medical support orders, enforcing support orders, reviewing support orders for modification and distributing child support collections.

Family Support Division (FSD) collects child support on behalf of families receiving public assistance. In addition, individuals not receiving public assistance benefits may apply for child support services.

Currently, the federal government funds the program at the rate of 66 percent. In addition to federal funds, the state is entitled to retain approximately 34 percent of the collections it receives for families that receive temporary assistance.

The program partners with county prosecuting attorneys through cooperative agreements to assist with child support activities. Additionally, the program partners with the state attorney general through cooperative agreement to assist with child support enforcement and modification activities.

Pursuant to section 454.530, RSMo, the FSD, together with the Missouri Department of Revenue, operates the state disbursement unit known as the Family Support Payment Center (FSPC), which receives and disburses support on behalf of families. FSD collected $631.7 million in state fiscal year 2008.

The MO HealthNet (Missouri Medicaid) program provides medical services to eligible participants within defined program benefits in somewhat the same way insurance companies provide coverage for their policyholders.

Organization

The MO HealthNet Division (MHD) is administered by a director appointed by the director of the Department of Social Services. The division maintains administrative offices in Jefferson City, Missouri, and contracts with healthcare providers and managed care organizations for the provision of health care.

MO HealthNet Program

The services provided include those required by the federal government such as hospital and physician services. Also included are optional services such as pharmaceutical and personal care services authorized by the Missouri General Assembly and identified in section 208.152, RSMo.

The MO HealthNet Division administers a mandatory Medicaid managed care program for eligible participants in the eastern, central, and western areas of the state. Children, pregnant women, temporary assistance for needy families (TANF) families and children in state custody receive their medical care through managed care organizations, allowing the state to ensure access to health care and control costs at the same time.

The MO HealthNet Pharmacy Program oversees outpatient prescription drug reimbursement. The pharmacy benefit includes reimbursement for all drug products of manufacturers who have entered into a rebate agreement with the Federal Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) and that are dispensed by qualified providers, with few therapeutic category exclusions. In addition, the MO HealthNet Division is responsible for program development, benefit design and clinical policy decision-making with activities oriented towards wellness and continuum of care.

The MO HealthNet program includes specialized services for specific populations within the state by receiving waiver authority from the federal government. Home and community-based waivers for the elderly, certain developmentally disabled participants, as well as patients with AIDS, were obtained and allow the MO HealthNet program to pay for homecare not otherwise covered as an alternative to more expensive institutional care. These services are restricted to those participants who would otherwise require, and whose home care is no more expensive than, institutionalization the MO HealthNet program is jointly funded by state and federal funds.

The Omnibus Reorganization Act of 1974 created the Division of Youth Services (DYS) and placed it within the Department of Social Services.

Youth judged to be delinquent and in need of rehabilitation and education are committed to the division by the state's juvenile (circuit) courts until approved for return to the community under supervision or discharged.

The division provides an array of services including residential care, non-residential and community-based services and aftercare supervision. Chapter 219, RSMo, outlines the division's responsibility to also include prevention of delinquency, incentive subsidy to juvenile courts, consultative and information services to non-DYS agencies upon request and technical assistance to local communities.

Organization

The division is administered by the director who is appointed by the director of the Department of Social Services. The division operates structured residential programs providing youth rehabilitation, treatment, and education services through a continuum of secure and moderate care centers and community-based group homes. Non-residential programs include case management, day treatment, family therapy, and youth employment. Five regional administrators are responsible for the programs in their geographical areas. Central office personnel, together with the regional administrators, aid the director in planning, monitoring and ongoing quality improvement of all agency services.

Goals and Objectives

The mission of the Division of Youth Services (DYS) is to protect communities from juvenile offenders and to provide appropriate services to youth in the division's custody and their families. This balanced approach relies on community partnerships for the development and enhancement of services for the prevention of delinquency.

Methods of Treatment

Each division facility creates a structured environment that is designed to contribute to positive changes in the student's behavior and attitudes through the provision of group and individualized treatment services, recreation, academic and vocational training. The ultimate goal is to return each youth to his or her home community as a productive, responsible member of society. The division operates as a fully accredited school district, providing high school credits and General Educational Development (GED) coursework.

Case Management

A case management system has been developed to provide assessment, treatment planning, coordination of services, monitoring and evaluation of the services for youths and their families. A needs and risk assessment helps the case manager determine the most appropriate services for each youth. The assessment takes into account all pertinent factors involving the youth's delinquent history while identifying the general treatment needs.

Community-Based Services

Focusing on more individualized services and delivering programs at the community level, the division has expanded its program design to include more community-based options. Non-residential services are provided to low-risk youth as a diversion to residential care and as a supplement to after-care.

Intensive Case Monitoring

This service is provided by employees that monitor a youth's behavior and activities. Community mentors also provide support and counseling to the youth when needed. Great effort is made to ensure the matching of similar personalities and interests of youth and the mentor.

Day Treatment

This service provides a structured alternative educational program that includes traditional academic courses, GED classes, career planning, job placement and community service supported by individual, group and family therapy.

Family Therapy

Family therapists provide counseling to DYS youth and their families. In addition, the family therapy unit accepts referrals from juvenile courts, child welfare agencies, mental health agencies, schools and other sources. DYS family therapists also provide training to other state agency staff and court personnel.

Group Home Programs

Group homes provide the least restrictive residential environment. Staff provide 24-hour supervision in a home-like setting with a capacity for 10 youths. Youth follow a daily schedule with time allowed for interaction with the community (school, jobs and community projects) as well as treatment services within the facility (group, individual and family counseling).

Moderate Care Residential Facilities

Residential facilities provide a structured environment for DYS youth. The residential programs target youth who cannot function well in the community and require a more structured setting. Many of these youth have participated in repeat property offenses and require continuous structure to mature.

The program divides youth into groups of 10 with 24-hour staff supervision. A rigorous school program is provided on-site by full-time teachers offering basic education, GED programming and various remedial/special education activities.

Secure Care Residential Facilities

For those youth who have a history of offenses and require a more structured setting, the division offers programs in secured facilities. Seven highly structured, secure care programs provide on-site educational classes, vocational training and recreational activities. These programs target youth with longer offense records that might include crimes against people. The offenders tend to be older and might include youth who have been unsuccessful in community-based programs. Scheduled outings into the community serve the purpose of involving the youth in community support projects.

An individual education plan, including both youth goals and staff strategies, is developed for each youth. Parents are encouraged to attend these planning meetings.

Dual Jurisdiction

The division also operates a secure care program in Montgomery City, which serves youth sentenced under the dual jurisdiction provisions in section 211.073, RSMo. This alternative sentencing provision allows certified youth to receive an adult and juvenile sentence with a suspended execution of the adult sentence. Treatment and educational services are provided to youth whose length of stay is significantly longer than that of other DYS students.

Aftercare

When youth are ready to return to their communities, the division provides services to help them make the smooth transition. Virtually all youth under the DYS care enter the aftercare program upon their return to the community. An assigned case manager ensures support services are provided to help each youth enter and re-adjust to community living including referral, supervision and counseling. The primary goal of aftercare is to support youth in becoming law-abiding and productive citizens.

Division of Youth Services Advisory Board

Established in 1974, the DYS Advisory Board is charged with the responsibility to advise the director, the Legislature and the general public on all matters pertaining to the operation of the division. The 15-member board consists of citizens from across the state who are dedicated to the prevention of delinquency and the rehabilitation of juvenile offenders.

The Missouri Department of Transportation (MoDOT), under the guidance of the Missouri Highways and Transportation Commission, is committed to providing the public with a safe and modern transportation system. MoDOT is responsible for maintaining 33,639 miles of highways and 10,405 bridges throughout the state. In addition to designing, building and maintaining roads and bridges, MoDOT works to improve airports, river ports, railroads, public transit systems and pedestrian and bicycle travel. The agency also administers motor carrier and highway safety programs.

State Highways and Transportation Commission

The Missouri Highways and Transportation Commission is a six-member bipartisan board that guides the Missouri Department of Transportation and is responsible for planning, maintaining and improving the state's transportation systems.

Commission members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Missouri Senate. No more than three commission members may be of the same political party. State law requires six-year terms, with two members replaced every two years.

The commission appoints the Missouri Department of Transportation's director and secretary to the commission.

KENNETH H. SUELTHAUS
Member, Highways and Transportation Commission

Chief Counsel's Office

The chief counsel is appointed by the MoDOT director with the consent of the Highways and Transportation Commission to handle legal responsibilities for the department and the commission.

Audits and Investigations

The Audits and Investigations Division performs audits of department operations, external contracts, grant agreements and motor carrier fuel tax returns and apportioned registrations. The division also investigates fraud, waste and abuse; handles employee grievances and Equal Employment Opportunity complaints; and analyzes competitive bidding practices.

Governmental Relations

The role of Governmental Relations is to work with federal, state and local officials, the public and department staff to advocate the department's objectives by advancing legislative initiatives designed to develop sound public policies relating to all modes of transportation.

Customer Relations

The Customer Relations Division provides information about the commission and the department's projects, programs and services to the public, its partners and MoDOT employees. The division also works to improve MoDOT's efficiency through performance management and to implement processes, plans and programs to streamline the agency's operations.

District Offices

To facilitate providing the state highways and transportation program, the department divides the state into seven geographical districts: northwest, northeast, Kansas City, central, St. Louis, southwest and southeast. A district engineer administers the department's work within each district.

Northwest District — headquarters, St. Joseph. The district consists of Andrew, Atchison, Buchanan, Caldwell, Carroll, Chariton, Clinton, Daviess, DeKalb, Gentry, Grundy, Harrison, Holt, Linn, Livingston, Mercer, Nodaway, Putnam, Sullivan and Worth counties. The counties cover a land area of about photography; public involvement meetings; consideration of social, environmental and economic factors; detailed plan design and the development of specifications; and cost estimates for highway projects prior to advertising for bids.

The division also acquires realty rights for constructing and improving state highways and related facilities. It also disposes of real estate no longer needed for Missouri's transportation system and regulates outdoor advertising and salvage yards.

Construction and Materials

Construction and Materials administers contracts and performs material testing to ensure that projects are of high quality and completed on time and within budget. Pavement selection and geotechnical information are provided for the design of roads and bridges. The division also performs research on products and processes to implement innovations for Missouri's transportation system.

Transportation Planning

Transportation Planning is responsible for long-range planning, data administration, road and bridge systems analysis, and planning and programming. The division also develops and tracks the five-year Statewide Transportation Improvement Program, the department's highway and bridge construction program.

External Civil Rights

The External Civil Rights Division is responsible for directing the department's external affirmative action, equal opportunity and nondiscrimination programs, which includes the Disadvantaged Business Enterprise Program, On-the-Job Training Program, Equal Employment Opportunity, Title VI, ADA and all other nondiscrimination or affirmative action programs related to federal-aid contracting activities. The division facilitates all DBE and OJT Supportive Services programs statewide, which includes business assistance centers and pre-apprenticeship training programs in Kansas City, Columbia and St. Louis.

Traffic and Highway Safety

The Traffic and Highway Safety Division is responsible for working with safety partners to implement education, enforcement, engineering, emergency medical services strategies and public policies that are proven effective in preventing deaths and injuries from motor vehicle crashes. The division also provides statewide coordination of traffic incident management activities, work zone management, traveler information programs and policy to support signing, striping, traffic signal operations, lighting and roadway access programs throughout the state. These programs provide for the safe and efficient movement of people and goods on the state highway system.

Maintenance

Maintaining state highways and bridges is the primary function of the Maintenance Division. Responsibilities include preservation, upkeep, operation and restoration of roadways, bridges, signs, traffic control equipment and all appropriate facilities so they remain safe and usable.

Multimodal Operations

The Multimodal Operations Division is responsible for administering a number of state and federal programs that fund and support aviation, railroads, transit, waterways and freight development.

Aviation

The aviation section administers federal and state grant programs that help local governments in planning, maintaining and developing existing airports and establishing new facilities.

Railroads

The railroad section is responsible for freight rail regulation, passenger rail support, light rail safety regulation, highway/rail crossing safety, rail/highway construction issues, inspection of railroad employee facilities and railroad safety inspection and outreach.

Transit

The transit section assists in the financial and technical support of the state's public transit and specialized paratransit systems. This function is carried out through the administration of state and federal programs relating to general public transportation and specific programs for nonprofit agencies serving the mobility needs of senior citizens and people with disabilities.

Waterways

The waterways section helps port authorities develop commerce and foster local economic development. The section also promotes the use of Missouri's navigable rivers, assists in capital and administrative funding, acts as an information clearinghouse, provides technical assistance and represents port interests within industry and government.

Motor Carrier Services

Motor Carrier Services administers registration, fuel tax, permit and safety programs for Missouri's motor carrier companies. It collects millions of dollars in revenue to fund transportation statewide, while helping carriers remain economically successful.

Financial Services Division

The Financial Services Division is responsible for the department's budgeting, accounting, financial reporting and financial policy development. The division produces the department's annual comprehensive financial report, which includes the audited financial statements required by statutes. The Financial Services Division is also responsible for managing the department's state and federal funding and facilitating the efficient and accountable use of fiscal resources.

Human Resources

The Human Resources Division develops and administers the department's statewide personnel program. The division conducts recruiting for civil engineering positions and manages statewide efforts related to employment, work-life support, classification and pay and employee training, development and assessment. Human Resources also develops personnel policy, maintains personnel records for employees and provides support for all personnel activities within the central office location.

Information Systems

Information Systems provides information technology products, services and support to the department and coordinates its information technology activities. The division develops a comprehensive information technology improvement plan based on department needs and technology research and evaluations.

Equal Opportunity and Diversity

The Equal Opportunity and Diversity Division administers the department's workforce diversity program. This includes outreach, cultural education, cooperative education, mentoring and exit interviews. Additionally, the division coordinates the affirmative action program to comply with federal regulations and state statutes.

General Services

The General Services Division provides support in the management of fleet and facilities and the procurement of goods and services.

Risk and Benefits Management

Risk and Benefits Management oversees MoDOT's medical and life insurance plan and administers the department's insurance operations in the areas of workers' compensation, general liability and fleet vehicle liability. The division also provides collection services for property damage, works to provide a safe and healthful work environment for all MoDOT employees and administers the department's pre-employment/post-offer physical program and the drug and alcohol-testing program.

Missouri Voting and Elections

Who registers to vote in Missouri?

Missouri residents may register to vote if they are: citizens of the U.S., 17 years and 6 months of age or older (may vote after reaching age 18) and not adjudged incapacitated. Residents may be registered to vote but not be eligible to vote, if they are: confined under sentence of imprisonment, on probation or parole after conviction of a felony until finally discharged or convicted of a felony or misdemeanor connected with the right of suffrage (sections 115.133 and 115.135, RSMo).

How do Missourians register?

Qualified citizens may register in person at the office of their local election authority, by mail, at the driver's license fee office, participating state agencies and other public locations. Registration in person is accomplished by filling out registration forms with information on identity, residence and qualifications, which are signed and sworn to, then witnessed by the election authority or a designee. The voter must present appropriate identification such as a birth certificate, a Native American tribal document, other proof of United States citizenship, a valid Missouri driver's license or other form of personal identification (sections 115.151, 115.155, 115.159, 115.160, 115.161 and 115.162, RSMo).

Registration by mail, at the driver's license fee office or at the participating state agencies requires submission of a signed and sworn application with information on identity, residence and qualifications. If mailed, this form must be postmarked by the fourth Wednesday preceding an election for the voter to be eligible to vote in that election. The voter must include a copy of appropriate identification (see above). If the voter does not submit such information, the voter will be required to vote in person, after presenting additional identification, for the first time. The election authority must send a verification of acceptance or rejection of registration within seven working days (sections 115.155, 115.160 and 115.162, RSMo).

When and where do Missourians register?

An unregistered citizen may register to vote in person during local election officials' regular business hours, when renewing a Missouri driver's license, when receiving services from a participating state agency or by mailing the local election authority. Special registration sites may be available prior to major elections (sections 115.145 and 115.151, RSMo).

The deadline for registration is the fourth Wednesday prior to an election (section 115.135, RSMo).

When do Missourians vote?

In general, the statutes require public elections be held on the general Election Day, the primary Election Day, the general municipal Election Day, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in February or November, or on another day expressly provided by city or county charter, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in June and in nonprimary years on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August (section 115.123.1, RSMo).

The general Election Day is the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in even-numbered years. The primary Election Day is the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August in even-numbered years (sections 115.121.1 and 115.121.2, RSMo).

Elections for cities, towns, villages, school boards and special district officers are held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in April each year, known as general municipal Election Day (section 115.121.3, RSMo).

A statewide presidential preference primary is held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in February of each presidential election year (section 115.755, RSMo).

Elections may be held on other Tuesdays for bond elections necessitated by fire, vandalism or natural disaster, where ownership of real property is required by law for voting and for special elections to fill vacancies (sections 115.123.2, RSMo).

Who conducts registration and elections?

Voter registration and the conduct of elections are the responsibilities of Missouri's 116 local election authorities (election boards and county clerks). Boards of election commissioners administer elections in the counties of Clay, Jackson, Platte and St. Louis and in the cities of Kansas City and St. Louis. The county clerk serves as the election authority in all other counties of the state. In 2005, legislation was passed giving Cass County the option of setting up a board of election commissioners (115.015 and 115.017, RSMo).

Special voting provisions

Voters with disabilities and voters who are unable to vote because of absence or illness may vote absentee. Persons with permanent disabilities may apply for permanent absentee ballot status by applying with the local election authority (section 115.284, RSMo). Voters with disabilities may vote their ballots from their vehicles at curbside, or they may be reassigned to a more accessible polling place. Voters should contact local election officials about absentee federal service balloting or "new resident" absentee ballots.

When voting, Missourians must show an approved form of personal identification (section 115.427, RSMo). Approved identification includes:

1. Identification issued by the state of Missouri, an agency of the state, or a local election authority of the state;
2. iIdentification issued by the United States government or agency thereof;
3. identification issued by an institution of higher education, including a university, college, vocational or technical school, located within the state of Missouri;
4. a copy of a current utility bill, bank statement, paycheck, government check or other government document that contains the name and address of the voter;
5. driver's license or state identification card issued by another state.

If you do not possess any of these forms of identification, you may still cast a ballot if two supervising election judges, one from each major political party, attest they know you.

Elections and political parties

Missourians do not register under party affiliation. Hence, at primary elections, voters may choose which "established party" ballot they vote (section 115.397, RSMo). Party nominees and independent candidates are then listed on the general election ballot.

There are presently four "established political parties" statewide—the Democratic, Republican, Libertarian and Constitution parties. Persons may seek the nomination of these parties for any elective office from the county level and above. In order to become "established," a party must have received more than two percent of the votes cast statewide for at least one of its candidates. New parties are formed by petition and may exist on the county, district or state level. They must meet the same standard as any other party to remain established (section 115.317, RSMo).

At the time of primary elections, voters select county committee members of established parties in Missouri. Those committee people have certain duties and responsibilities. They serve, as appropriate, as members of legislative, senatorial, judicial and congressional district committees (sections 115.609, 115.613 and 115.619, RSMo). County, district or state committee members may be called on to fill candidate vacancies on party ballots or to select nominees for special elections as needed. The state committees are selected, indirectly, by local committee persons.

Poll Workers in Missouri

Missouri's local election authorities are charged with staffing their polling places on Election Day. There are certain qualifications one must have in order to work at the polls: You must be a registered voter; you must be able to speak, read and write English; you must not have a close relative that appears on the current ballot; and you must not hold elective office at the time of service. Poll workers are compensated for their service on Election Day and are required to attend at least one training prior to Election Day for which they are compensated as well.

Over 20,000 poll workers are needed across Missouri to conduct a statewide election. As federal legislation implemented new changes to the nation's polling places, the secretary of state's office implemented a first-ever statewide recruitment effort to enlist new volunteers to work at the polls. Through partnerships with businesses, universities and civic organizations across the state, the secretary of state's office has directed more than 5,000 volunteers to local election authorities to work at the polls on Election Day.

Poll workers are truly on the front lines of democracy. Their work is critical to protecting the integrity of our elections and ensuring that the voting process is fair and accurate. Individuals that are interested in signing up to be a poll worker or would like more information are encouraged to visit the secretary of state's website, www.sos.mo.gov/pollworker or contact their local election authority (sections 115.079, 115.085, 115.101 and 115.103, www.sos.mo.gov/pollworker).

Constitutional Amendment NO. 1

OFFICIAL BALLOT TITLE:

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to require the office of county assessor to be an elected position in all counties with a charter form of government, except counties with a population between 600,001–699,999?

It is estimated this proposal will have no costs or savings to state or local governmental entities

Constitutional Amendment NO. 2

[Proposed by the 95th General Assembly (First Regular Session) HJR 15]

OFFICIAL BALLOT TITLE:

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to require that all real property used as a homestead by Missouri citizens who are former prisoners of war and have a total service-connected disability be exempt from property taxes?

The number of qualified former prisoners of war and the amount of each exemption are unknown, however, because the number who meet the qualifications is expected to be small, the cost to local governmental entities should be minimal. Revenue to the state blind pension fund may be reduced by $1,200.

Proposition A

OFFICIAL BALLOT TITLE:

Shall Missouri law be amended to:

- repeal the authority of certain cities to use earnings taxes to fund their budgets;
- require voters in cities that currently have an earnings tax to approve continuation of such tax at the next general municipal election and at an election held every 5 years thereafter;
- require any current earnings tax that is not approved by the voters to be phased out over a period of 10 years; and
- prohibit any city from adding a new earnings tax to fund their budget?

The proposal could eliminate certain city earnings taxes. For 2010, Kansas City and the City of St. Louis budgeted earnings tax revenue of $199.2 million and $141.2 million, respectively. Reduced earnings tax deductions could increase state revenues by $4.8 million. The total cost or savings to state and local governmental entities is unknown.

Proposition B

OFFICIAL BALLOT TITLE:

Shall Missouri law be amended to:

- require large-scale dog breeding operations to provide each dog under their care with sufficient food, clean water, housing and space; necessary veterinary care; regular exercise and adequate rest between breeding cycles;
- prohibit any breeder from having more than 50 breeding dogs for the purpose of selling their puppies as pets; and
- create a misdemeanor crime of "puppy mill cruelty" for any violations?

It is estimated state governmental entities will incur costs of $654,768 (on-going costs of $521,356 and one-time costs of $133,412). Some local governmental entities may experience costs related to enforcement activities and savings related to reduced animal care activities.

Proposition C

Proposed by 95th General Assembly (Second Regular Session) SS SCS HCS HB 1764 Shall the Missouri Statutes be amended to:

- Deny the government authority to penalize citizens for refusing to purchase private health insurance or infringe upon the right to offer or accept direct payment for lawful healthcare services?
- Modify laws regarding the liquidation of certain domestic insurance companies?

It is estimated this proposal will have no immediate costs or savings to state or local governmental entities. However, because of the uncertain interaction of the proposal with implementation of the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, future costs to state governmental entities are unknown.
